R. L. Maddex, MSC agricultural engineer, points out that cribs wider than four feet are unsuitable for soft corn storage. If a wider crib is used, some type of ventilation is necessary. If forced air is used, wide, shallow cribs are preferable to high narrow cribs.

Spoilage will be cut down if an obstruction is placed in the crib to provide channels for the increased movement of air under wind pressure. The "A" frame ventilator admits air to the center of the crib and should be high and wide enough to reduce the air travel distance through the corn to the four feet or less at any location in the cribs.

Natural air movement can be increased by building a double walled partition lengthwise through the center of the crib, Maddex says. The space between the double wall should not be less than twelve inches and the divided cribs should be four feet or less in width.

Partitions may be placed crosswise in wide cribs to reduce the distance of air travel to four feet or less. These walls are usually four inches wide.

Wax From Candles Calls for Caution

With so many candles placed about the home to give a festive air during the holiday season, candle wax drippings on rugs, tablecloths and mantels are almost inevitable.

Wax spots on rugs can usually be removed successfully by first scraping off as much wax as possible with a dull knife and then sponging with carbon tetrachloride.

When you scrape up the wax, be careful not to injure the yarns. If the candle was colored and a stain remains, try sponging it lightly with a liquid made of two parts of water and one part of denatured (rubbing) alcohol.

Wax that has run down from candleholders onto your best linen tablecloth can be removed by the same method of first scraping—being very careful not to injure the fiber or thread—and then sponging with carbon tetrachloride. If the stain is colored, use the solution suggested for a colored spot on a rug, after you've used carbon tetrachloride. Again you are urged to test an inconspicuous spot for possible fading from use of the solution.

Answer To Northsiders Ode To City Dump

It's touching that your heart goes thump
When you view o sunset from the dump
But if you lived on our side of town
That thump would come from farther down
You view and dump then drive away
Tu come again another day
But we must stay behind to view
Both dump-rise and the dump-sets too
The best laid plans of mice and men
Oft go astray — but where and when?
And those ten million flys or more
Make their first stop at our front door
We'll gladly trade our sunset views
With all their fragrant scented hues
For just one Glance upon the tide
You get for free from your northside.

Michigan's pollo rete is sixth in the nation with 1,702 cases . . . 27 per 100,000 population. Iowa leads with a case rate of 47.

The state department of health has made what is considered a smart move by applying for a patent on a new antibiotic . . . a development on the order of penicillin and streptomycin. "Public money financed the research," says Dr. Albert Heustis, commissioner, "why shouldn't financial benefits come back to the people of Michigan?"

The health department may lose 50 employes if $153,000 in federal funds is not supplemented by additional appropriations. The slash results from a federal policy of cutting non-defense expenditures.

One of the gubernetorial campaign issues in Michigan was the increase in Michigan Bell Telephone Company rates, granted last June by the Public Service Commission in a two-to-one vote. Governor Williams pledged appointment of a commissioner in 1951 who would vote against higher telephone rates. Outcome of the Williams-Kelly recount may have an important bearing on another rate increase, soon to be requested by Michigan Bell as a result of new pay boosts for employees.

Farmers in Charlevoix county are urged to mark and return the ballots they have received through the mail for participation in the annual PMA committee elections before the voting deadline, Dec. 21 and before they misplace their ballots.

The committees elected, both community and county, will be charged with the locol odministration of the various federol programs such as commodity loans, price support, the agricultural conservation progrom, various acreage allotment programs, and the sugar and crop insurance programs. "In addition, the present war outlook brings closer the reality defense problems in connection with obtaining fertilizers, seed, construction materials and transportation. It is the responsibility of every Chorlevoix county farmer to help elect the persons who will help to make the local decisions in these matters".

In addition to the chairman named above, the following farmers ore serving on the 1050 Charlevoix county PMA committee, Elmer Lyons, vice-chairman; Louis Jones, member, Norval Korthase, first alternate; Harold Gobel, second alternate.

Poor Roughage

Cows winter-fed on brown roughage are likely to run into double trouble, the Journal of the American Veterinary Medical association bas, warned. Those fed dried-out roughage often become deficient in vitamins A and E, both of which are necessary to their own health end to the nutrition of their unborn calves. On farms where winter roughage is of inferior guality, the Journal recommends supplemental feeding of these essential vitamins, to guard against poor production records and calf losses.

Improper stabling and lack of good bedding are among the most common couses of teot injuries in cows, say Michigan State college dairy specialists.

Insure Quality Of Milk Through Proper Care

What happens to the quality of milk after it is taken from the cow depends upon conditions ond facilities provided by those who do the job of milking and caring for the herd. D. L. Murray, Michigan State College extension dairyman, reminds dairymen thot quality is important from the standpoint of consumers' using dairy products in greater quantities.

A strong point from the standpoint of selling dairy products is that they are purchased ond consumed because people like them, Murray advises. To maintain this valuable aid of flavor in selling dairy products, producers must provide milk that is free from off-flavors ond which possesses good keeping quality.

Several important items must be considered if quality of milk is to be maintained until it reaches morket. Murray cites as the first item the cleanliness of the cows. Clean, well-bedded barns, along with clipping the rear quarters of the cow's body, help to protect quality.

Clean, sterile utensils and equipment used in handling the milk ore next in order, and are of major importance in preventing bacteria from getting into the milk supply.

Prompt cooling to below 60 degrees Fahrenheit is necessary to prevent the growth of those bacteria that moy be present.

Hormones Relieve Migraine Headaches, Research by Wayne U. Doctor Shows

Doctors, armed with a compound derived from cattle, are now fighting with new effectiveness against migraine, the blinding headache that exhausts patients and leaves them dreading the next attack.

Dr. Robert C. Moehlig, associate professor of clinical medicine at Wayne University in Detroit, has announced success with anti-migraine weapons known as testosterones, which are sex hormones.

Of 62 migraine victims, he reports 55 patients (or about 89 per cent) were apparently benefited permanently. The clinical results were obtained largely at Harper Hospital, where Dr. Moehlig is senior attending physician.

Improvement usually comes within four weeks, and when relief is obtained, there is little likelihood of the trouble recurring, he explains.

"If the trouble does reappear, it lasts only a short time. In some cases, however, relief does not come with the original treatment. In such cases, there is no use continuing to administer the hormones longer than six weeks."

Testosterones are not new to medical science, but are only now being brought to general use. They have a number of valuable, almost miraculous, properties besides relieving migraine, but should be used with competent advice, Dr. Moehlig warns.

"Unfavorable side effects sometimes are found, but these rarely occur when the treatment is given only a short time as in the case of migraine," he says.

Men are given "testosterone propionate" by hypodermic injection. Women, and also boys who have not reached puberty, take the hormone "menthyl testosterone" by mouth. Both types of hormone are derived from the spinal cords of cattle. The finished products cost only one tenth as much as they did a decade ago.

Since migraine has for years defied effective treatment, the drug is regarded as a Godsend for the many sufferers who may benefit.

A Wayne University student, Marlene Lokers, of Zeeland, is taking the role of a migraine sufferer to show how the new testosterone treatment may be administered. The product, in pill form, is being handed her by a student nurse, Mary Ann Malkovich.

Predict Good Year for Poultry and Eggs

A profitable year for egg and poultry producers in Charlevoix and Antrim counties is in sight for 1951 say agricultural economists at Michigan State College.

Increases in net returns, however, will be limited by higher feed--particularly protein concentrates.

Egg prices are expected to be higher in 1051, especially the first nine months, thon in comparoble periods of 1050. The usual seasonal decline in late fall ond early winter this year will not be as drastic os last year because fewer pullets were raised to reach full production by December. More government buying for military use is expected.

Producers who plan for January and Februory hatched chicks will have pullets ready for large-egg production to take advantage of seasonally good prices in the late summer ond fall of 1051.

The economists look for o higher annual averoge price for broilers and fryers than in 1950. Michigan broiler raisers generally will find it more profitable to improve labor efficiency by increasing the number of birds raised per man.

* * *

Turkey growers with access to good feed supplies at reosonable prices will also have a good year ahead, the economists believe. This will be especially true in Michigan and other midwestern states. Some growers will probably reduce production because of moderate prices for the large 1050 crop, large storoge stocks and no price support progrom, and relatively high feed costs.

The M. S. C. economists' views on this and other phases of farming in 1951 are contained in the special outlook (October) issue of Michigan Farm Economics. Copies are available from Department of Agricultural Economics, Michigan State College, East Lansing.

From all information available, fertilizer is not going to pe plentiful next spring.

Fertilizer manufacturers are now warning dealers that they must accept deliveries during early winter if they expect sufficient materials for next spring.

Farmers should take heed and accept early deliveries for their next spring needs if they have suitable storage. If farm storage is not available, the next thing to do is to place an order early for delivery next spring.

Explain Tips on Fight Against Mastitis

How do I fight mastitis in my herd? This question is frequently asked of county agricultural agent Ed Rebman.

Information from J. G. Hayes, extension dairyman at Michigan State college, says there are two ways; an everyday alertness against the attack of mastitis germs, and fast treatment with drugs when mastitis is present.

Hays says that many cows in Michigan harbor mastitis bacteria in their udders and nobody suspects it. No swollen quarters. No abnormal milk. But the sly invaders are there just the same—waiting for their chance to attack the host cow or to tackle a neighboring cow.

Being on guard consists of protecting the delicate udder by proper bedding, by preventing drafts, by not letting the milking machine tug away too long or to operate at too high a vacuum.

A good way to discover mastitis is the strip-cup. Routine checking of the first milk from each quarter will spot the presence of mastitis in most cases.

Immersing teat cups in chlorine solution is also important, Hays says. To make best use of this practice, many dairymen use an extra head for their machine units (as three heads for two units), thus assuring several minutes immersion in the killing chlorine solution.

4-H Project in County Show Large Boost

By K. C. Festorling
District 4-H Club Agent

Mrs. James Lilak Jr., of East Jordan has indicated her desire to lead 4-H club members in her community. She has a daughter, Judith, who is also a 4-H club member. Mrs. Lilak regrets that 4-H club work was not available to her when she was in school and now wants other young people to have the opportunity. She plans to lead a group in clothing and knitting. She thinks she may have some time for food preparation. She expects to hold her club meeting at her home.

Mrs. Arthur Kaley who has been leading a club in her community in the Peninsula is now leading 29 girls, meeting with them on Wednesday afternoons in the hot lunch room of the East Jordan school. She only works with a few girls at a time. Mrs. Kaley certainly wishes that she had a sewing machine so that the girls could do some stitching while meeting with her. Donations are in order.

Mrs. Earl Johnson of Charlevoix says her craft group is ready to begin its project work. At present some of the members are working on pillow tops. Mrs. Johnson has extra enrolbnent blanks and any person in the Charlevoix area needing information can call her.

Leaders in Charlevoix county can be justly proud of the size of the 1950 program with a total of 892 projects as compared to 684 for 1949. This year 50 leaders participated in the program. Last year there were 48. With only two additional leaders it can be readily seen that the leaders carried a much heavier project load in 1950 than in the previous year.

Girls projects out-numbered boys with a total of 561 girls enrolled as compared to 331 boys. There were 71 different project clubs in the county. This however does not mean that there were 71 different clubs since with the new type of community club there are as many as 10 project groups in one club.

Two Guernseys In County Top 400-Pound Mark

A. M. Murphy, East Jordan, is the owner of two registered Guernsey that have recently completed herd improvement register production records according to the American Guernsey Cattle club.

Having been milked 686 times while on test, Homestead Anna Maisey, a senior 2-year-old, produced 8,814 pounds of milk and 402 pounds of butterfat.

Having been miked 718 times while on test, Old Homestead Daisy 2d, a senior 2-year-old, produced 7,266 pounds of milk and 458 pounds of butterfat.

Old Homestead Anna Maisey and Old Homestead Daisy 2nd are the daughters of the registered Guernsey sire, Rosemont Blackout, that has seven daughters in the Performance Register of the American Guernsey Cattle club.

The records were supervised by Michigan State College.

Dr. Moore, Author Of 'Night Before', Was Ashamed of It

Everyone knows and loves the poem which begins—

> 'Twas the night before Christmas, whan all through the housa
> Not a creatura was stirring, not evon a mouse;—

but the man who wrote it, Dr. Clement Clarke Moore, was ashamed of it and would not allow it to be published under his name for more than 20 years.

Dr. Moore, an aloof professor of Greek and Oriental literature in the Episcopal Seminary in New York, wrote the poem on Christmas eve 1822 and read it to his seven children.

He had not planned for the poem to go further than his own family, but a relative who was visiting the Moores put a copy in her dairy. The next year the relative's father sent it to a newspaper.

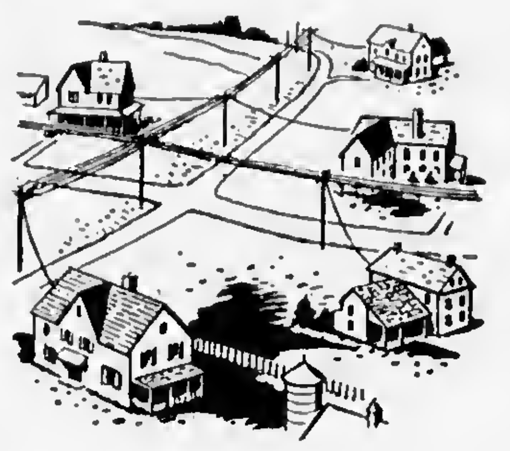
Developed by Bell Telephone Laboratories, the camera is used to study the rapid motions of telephone switching equipment as well as the action of human vocal cords. THE RINGS YOU CAN'T HEAR—It wasn't too many years ago that nearly every rural-line customer served by Michigan Bell could hear the rings of all other parties on the line. Today, thanks to technical improvements, nine out of every ten hear the rings of no more than half the parties on their line. This is but one of many ways Michigan Bell is providing steadily better rural service.



HOW DO THEY SOUND TO YOU? In recent months many Michigan Bell operators have been attending meetings to find ways to give you better service. IT HAPPENED ON ....
BEAVER ISLAND

By Mrs. J. C. Hanley

Beaver Island came in for it's share of stormy weather last week. Friday was the wildest day of all. Wind directly from the south . . . yeah, the sunny south . . . gushed in at a rate of close to 90 miles per hour bringing snow along.

It was blinding for those who attended early mass. With the wind pushing in the lake, the water rose to the point that it was washing over LaFreniere's dock. Fish tugs were overturned along the shore.

One tug was overturned and somehow landed on the platform of a pile driver. The two were really doing a rumba along side James Gallagher's dock. As ferocious as the storm was, no serious damage was done.

• • •

A COATING OF ICE with a thin layer of snow covers the island. A couple of days of rising temperatures and the roads in the village would be cleared. Some of the old timers have predicted we would have a green Christmas, but Hughie Connaghan, one of the reliable predicters, has thrown in the sponge. He's quit predicting about the weather.

Peter Johnson is now a city slicker. He moved into a comfortable cabin on back road last week from his farm on Darkey Town road.

Mr. and Mrs. Tim Leonard, who have lived for the past five years in their home on Indian Point or their Font Lake home, have moved to the village for the winter months.

• • •

MR. AND MRS. Art Miller came to the island last week-end to move their belongings to the mainland. Mr. and Mrs. Miller, who came to the island five years ago to make their home, are now living in Mount Pleasant. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kenny of Detroit are the new owners of the Miller's island home. Mr. and Mrs. Kenny, their two daughters and a nephew arrived last week to stay. Mr. Kenny is a retired policeman from the Detroit force.

It's like the race between the rabbit and the turtle — the rabbit had the speed but the turtle won the race, remember? Well, such is the race between the Post Office Construction and Improvement association and The Extension and Enlargement for Better-Road-to-the-Airport association. Frank Nackerman is boss at the Post Office and Gus Mielke is the drive behind the road work.

• • •

BOTH GUS AND FRANKIE are in a neck and neck race to see which one will have their project finished first. Gus claims he's been handicapped with a crippled tractor . . . that's the reason he's not finished. Frankie, of course, makes up the full crew at the P.O., and at every released moment from behind the iron curtain, he runs out to lay a block. Gus has the edge on Frankie with tractors, trucks and man power.

But at this point, the race is nearing a close and Frankie is in the lead, according to scorekeepers James H. Gallagher and Bub Burke. Last week, the Post Office was closed in with a good looking door. Gus will have to hustle up or else the tin foil loving cup will be decorating the P. O. for Christmas.

Mrs. Willie Schmidt and daughter were on the mainland last week. They flew back to the island Sunday.

Matt Melville is home from off the luxury Inland Steel Co. boat, Wilfred Sykes.

Saturday, the Sundew came to the island to deliver a new county road truck and to take away one of the Coast Guard vehicles. The big, strong boom on the Sundew lifted the truck off the deck with the greatest of ease and onto the dock. With the same ease, the C. G. ambulance was placed aboard.

A party of hunters recently on the island vow and declare they sighted a wolf on the island . . . and with so many "wolves" on the island already!

A correction in last week's column . . . It is Mrs. Russell Palmer and not Mrs. Margaret Palmer who has organized the St. Cecelia Club for the young island lassies.

The North Shore made a special trip to the island Sunday to bring oil, gas and other supplies. The boat remained over night and is at present loading lumber. The half hour whistle will be blowing soon, so this will be all for now.

Line the bottom of your oven with aluminum foil before cooking a juicy dish of any kind. The foil will catch the drippings and save your oven and lots of hard work.

Urge Active Support In TB Seal Campaign

Spotlighting the campaign against tuberculosis, A. F. Litzenburger, M. D., director, district health department, this week urged "active support" of the 44th annual tuberculosis Christmas Seal Sale. "As Michigan's most costly public health problem, tuberculosis should be the concern of every resident of this county," Dr. Litzenburger said.

Killing more Michigan people than all other infectious and parasitic diseases combined, tuberculosis is a "chronic, communicable disease that has no obvious symptoms in early stages," the health officer declared. "Even one case of tuberculosis in the community may be a possible danger to others in the area.

Through year-round programs of education, case-finding, rehabilitation of the tuberculous and research, Dr. Litzenburger said the Michigan Tuberculosis association is a "partner of the health department in efforts to control this deadly disease."

The doctor emphasized the importance of tuberculosis educational program. "Although this disease may strike anywhere, any time, we know that forewarned is fore armed," he declared.

ARTHRITIS

Hundreds Claim Its Grip Broken!

Dear Friend:

Do you have Arthritis? Have you a relative or friend that is suffering from this painful, distressing ailment?

I came upon a simple remedy, that ended my long search and battle to rid myself of Arthritis. I had teeth pulled, tonsils out, serum shots, electric fever treatments, special built shoes, hot baths, pills and salves. The Arthritis withstood them all, and examination in several of the best known clinics could detect nothing. Finally, I discovered Sulgly-Minol. Today after seven months I am more free of pain and soreness than at any time in twenty years. Can work ten hours a day, with nothing more than tired feet. Legs, hips, back, neck and arms are practically free of pain and soreness. This has cost me less than six dollars.

This is all I did, and all you will have to do to try Sulgly-Minol. Just rub it on the soes of both feet before going to bed. A bottle will last about a month and will be enough to tell whether it will help. If it helps, keep it up for a month, and after that, just as you feel. If my feet feel sore from too much activity, I rub some on for a night or two. In my opinion, the benefits of Sulphur are more sure and complete on the soles of the feet. The results obtained have been acclaimed by many as a Godsend.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Here's An "Expert" Example!

When our Main Street parking problem cropped up again, we announced a strict one-hour parking policy, and swore in extra deputies to enforce it.

We also sent over to the State Capitol for a traffic expert, to give us pointers. He turned out to be real helpful—spent a whole afternoon with us talking about zoning and such. And when he left the building he found a ticket on his car for overtime parking!

Could have gotten sore, I guess—or asked us to "fix" the ticket. But instead, he insisted on going over to the Sheriff's Office and paying his fine.

From where I sit, it's good to know people, like that young fellow, who refuse to be treated any different than anyone else. City people and farmers—those of us who prefer cider and those who'd rather have a cool glass of temperate beer—we're all entitled to the same privileges. That is, so long as what we do doesn't conflict with the law of the land.

ORCHARD NOTES

By Claude Fairman

Several people have inquired about planting trees during the month of December. This can be done if the roots do not freeze, if trees are not frozen in transit, or if no frozen dirt touches the roots. Place unfrozen soil next to roots and da not trim until spring.

Dwarf apple trees or Mallin root stock seems adapted to small spaces and come into bearing early and of course aro sharter lived. However, our newer orchards of regular nursery stock are mare steamlined, the branches touching the ground and not growing as large or as tall as our former old orchards. The bloom is very pretty, and so are red apples. If one tree is Red Delicious, the second could be McIntosh and the third Early Red Bird. For smaller trees I would take the Red Delicious and Early Red Bird and no daubt these would pollenize each other for home use. Do not fertilize the first year. Grow the trees fast the first few years and at the desired age and size of tree, cut the growth down to throw them into bearing earlier as well as keeping a smaller tree. To cut the rate of growth, stop fertilization, pull mulch away, etc., and somtimes drive nails in trunk for a partial girdle.

America Provides World with Poinsettia

While it seems rather odd, it certainly is interesting that America has given the world its most beloved Christmas plant — the poinsettia. This plant, like so many others of our best flowers, is native to tropical America. The florist has been able to propagate it and grow it in a small pot, so that, with its flaming red bracts or leaves, it makes a most desirable Christmas plant.

Mistletoe Has Come Long Ways in History

The misletoe has come a long way from the days when it was worshiped by the British druids to its present status as a criminal killer of forests. However, its use as a symbol of love, peacemaking and goodwill survives to this Christmas intact from the pre-Christian days of the ancient Scandinavain light god, Balder, whose palace stood in the Milky Way.

The beloved Balder, so the myth gaes, was slain by a mistletoe arrow but was restored ta life at the intercession of the other gods. Custody af the mistletoe plant was then entrusted to the goddess af love who ordained that henceforth anyone passing beneath its bough shauld receive a kiss in token of love, not vengeance. As lang as the mistletoe was held high it could never be used as a power of evil.

Unto Us A Child Is Born

Pleasant as it is to dream of a "White Christmas" with its carols and gifts, feasting and merrymaking, the sparkling eyes of childen delighting in Santa Claus and the wonderful Christmas trees, these things never can symbolize the tremendous significance of the day.

The birth of the Saviaur was the greatest event in the history of the world. In spite of all the backslidings, Christian peoples have pressed forward steadily.

However, vicious and corrupt, the world today is far better than the world of pagan times; familiarity with the cross and crucifixion has abalished legal tortures and much cruelty—and, if given a chance, might shame us into banishing the curse of international viciousness for the sake of Him who became the Saviour of Mankind.

Church of God Plans Yule Program

At a meeting of the Church of God last Wednesday, plans were made to complete the new recreation building.

The pastor was granted an increase in salary. The name of the organization was changed to the Community Church of God of Charlevoix. Previously it was Church of God.

Instead of Wreath, Hang Ornaments

Instead of the conventional wreath on the outside of the door why not string some bells and tree ornaments on narrow baby ribbon and hang from a hugh red bow?

Make your door and window frames bright and cheerful by framing them with ribbon and sprigs of holly. You can hang the ribbon in festoons across the curtains and tie at the sides in wide sash bows for calorful effect.

"French Newton"

Laplace, 1749-1827, the son of a Normandy cottager but who has been called the French Newton, wrote the first comprehensive treatment of statistics in his "Theorie Analytique des Probabilities." It is recorded that professional gamblers used to consult with the great mathematicians Pascal and Fermat on methods to detect cheating and so, inadvertently perhaps, added impetus to the development of statistical analysis.

The joyous tidings that the Infant Jesus was born in a humble manger will be re-told in song and sermon in area churches as residents seek a deeper understanding of the Christmas Story on the holiest of holidays.

Christmas this year will find many homes in the area observing the holiday with some of their family in far off service camps, and some in the battleground of Korea. For others it will be a time for homecoming and celebration as the family members join together.

Shanahan Gets 20 Head of Western Cattle

Mostly three and four-year-olds, the cows will be used as the nucleus of a large beef herd, Shanahan said. The cows stood the 48-hour trip by trailer truck in good shape. Dr. Chris Jensen, DVW, was consulted to check the general condition of the animals.

The herd represent an investment of more than $5,400.

Large Throng Hears Christmas Vesper Service

Charlevoix residents turned out Sunday afternoon to enjoy the Community Choir's first annual Christmas Vesper Concert. A large crowd enjoyed the first appearance of the 40-voice group under the direction of C. A. Odmark.

A program of Christmas music was climaxed by the Hallilujah Chorus from Handel's Messiah. The beautiful and touching O Holy Night was played as a violin solo by Mr. Odmark accompanied by Mrs. Leonard Burns. Mrs. Burns also accompanied the choir in several selections.

The audience also participated in the program with the singing of familiar Christmas carols

A brass ensemble composed of members of the high school band played a prologue of familiar carols. Nancy Ikens was an additional member of the ensemble.

Beached Yacht Taken To Local Harbor

The yacht, Sidney B., which was grounded by its three man crew Dec. 11, 18 miles south of here on Grand Traverse Bay, was removed from the beach by the Sears Dredge and Salvage Co. and the 83-ft Coast Guard cutter late Thursday.

The craft was taken to Suttons Bay and early Monday was towed to the local harbor.

The crew grounded the boat when they feared it might sink after its bottom was damaged when it went on the rocks at Skillagalee while enroute from Algonac to Memphis, Tenn. The boat is owned by L. V. Butler of Memphis.

Holiday Is Bad Time For Accidents

Give some thought now to your holiday traffic safety, the Michigan Department of Health warned today. Use some care to keep your Christmas cheerful and your new year happy.

Holiday traffic is fraught with danger.

You can save yourself from injury and from the misery that the injury of others might cause you by giving extra attention to the condition of your car and to your own safe driving during the holiday season, the Department said.

Increase Also Effects Other City Workers

Quick acceptance of the city's offer of a 10 percent raise and a 44-hour week was given by the municipal light workers at Monday night's council meeting.

After a few minutes deliberation, the workers decided to accept the offer which included a week's vacation and a week's sick leave. The city has been carrying on negotiations with the workers and their spokesman, John Minch of Traverse City, union representative.

The offer originally was for six percent and a two weeks vacation. The six percent of the increased pay was made retroactive to Oct. 1 with the remainder going into effect this pay week.

* * *

PREVIOUSLY other city employes were given similar increases in pay. All but the police and fire employes will abide by the 44-hour week. Police and fire departments have been set up on an annual salary.

The union spokesman asked the council to see if it would be possible to give the light crews an additional week's vacation. But the council gave no promise except to say it would consider it next summer.

All city employes were also given six paid holidays. If they are called upon to work on these days, they will be given double time for their hours. Another stipulation for the light crew's agreement was that if the workers are called out after they have put in their regular number of hours, they will be given a minimum of two hours pay.

The council decided that it would ask Alderman Claude L. Davy who left here to spend the fall and winter in Florida to resign his position so that a successor could be appointed. The formal letter of resignation is expected within two weeks, the council said.

Aldermen also took under consideration a request from the federal government for 99-year lease on the bureau of fisheries building here.

For the Merriest Christmas

Once again American armed forces are in action to protect and uphold the ideal of freedom. Once again the spirit of Christmas will be mocked by the hate and blood shed of the battlefield.

In many American homes the roar of cannon will make it hard to hear the ringing of the Christmas bells. That is to be deeply regretted, but throughout history the torch of man's dignity and freedom has been held aloft only through the sacrifice of its bearers.

We can do little to prevent such personal tragedies. But we can do a lot to prevent another kind of tragedy at the Christmas season . . and more cruel because it is needless.

We refer to the preventable tragedy of accidents. The National Safety Council has called for intensive accident prevention effort during the holidays . . usually a very dangerous period of the year.

That is an objective which has our wholehearted support, not only because it is better to have a joyous Yuletide, but also because we cannot afford to waste the resources of manpower and material so necessary these days to our national strength.

The waste is enormous . . much more than most persons realize. The American Medical Association has shown that accidents rob the nation of more working years than any disease, becauso accidents strike all age groups, not just those whose productive years are largely behind them.

The traffic accident problem this year is serious, with a death toll of 35,000 in prospect. That would be the largest number of automobile victims since the record year of 1941.

Rigid enforcement of the laws by state, county and municipal police, plus individual determination to play it safe can keep the Christmas spirit . . and all of us . . alive this year.

Heed these simple rules for Christmas safety in traffic and in the home:

1. Use extra care for the extra holiday hazards.
2. Put the Christmas spirit of "good will" into your attitude towards drivers and pedestrians.
3. Don't let Christmas packages obstruct your vision when walking.
4. Don't drive if you drink . . and vice versa:
5. Start in time and take it easy. Allow for winter weather and extra holiday traffic.
6. Check your home for anything that might cause an accident.
7. Keep your Christmas tree in water and away from flames.
8. Use electric tree and window lights . . no lighted candles ever. Don't leave tree lights on when you are out of the room for considerable time.
9. Check your electrical connections for shorts and worn wires.
10. Keep flimsy Christmas decorations and wrappings away from the fireplace.

Voice of Our Readers . . .

Dear Editor:

May I commend you for your good article, regarding "the send-off' given our boys who left all that was near and dear to them to go into a foreign country to fight and for WHAT?

Where were the various women's clubs, the teachers, these boys have had, the pastors of the churches they attended, (even if they did not attend) a local minister should have been on hand to extol God's blessing on them. With so many social groups in Charlevoix it would be a small matter for each club and church to sponsor one or two boys. Each boy should have a New Testament, a small sum of money, not less then $5.00 and plenty of cookies, fudge , etc. That saying, "we find time to do the things we want to do" and it could and should have been possible for the bank to be on hand with the grand old USA flag.

Hope you will keep at this until our boys are given proper recognition.

Mrs. Harris, Oak Park, Ill.

Committee Meets to Study Boat Tax

S. E. Coleman, secretary of the Charlevoix Board of Commerce, was in Manistee last Friday meeting with a committee to study the boat tax. Recommendations were adopted and will be presented to the waterways commission in the near future.

Representatives from Lake ports from western Michigan were present at the meeting.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Marlin

Before we forget it, while your addressing those last minute Christmas cards, how's about sending one to Rasmus Hendrickson at the Marine Hospital in Detroit . . . he's been there for several weeks and expects to have to stay even longer and we're sure he'd enjoy a card from you . . . and there are probably other shut-ins who would enjoy a remembrance equally as much.

• • •

THERE ARE a lot of attractive windows about town but the one we like so much was the one at the Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering and Western Union office . . . the poinsettia make it truely a breath of Christmas . .

We had occasion to go into the Neff brothers atore the other day and if you' want a laugh stop by and talk to them someday . . . you should hear the wild tales they tell of their experiences when they first took over the store . . . one was a former Michigan State policeman and the other a former industrial plant employee and bridge tender . . . both a far cry from the grocery business . . . Guess they really gave the oldsters some bad moments . . .

Didn't you enjoy the Christmas concert at the gym Sunday afternoon . . . of course, we assume you were there and if you weren't you really missed the nicest Christmas concert we have had the pleasure of hearing. Under Mr. Odmark's direction the choir sang a versatile concert of seasonal music which was a joy to hear and really put one in a mood for Christmas . . . An orchid, or should we say, a poinsettia, to Mr. Odmark, the choir and all others who helped make it such a success . . .

WE'VE HEARD of people bringing home the bacon but here's one to top that . . . In a hurried call from Grand Rapids Sunday to his mother, Larry Petersen reported he had won not only a turkey but a ham and sheet and pair of pillowslips at a company party the night before . . . practical food for the whole weekend . . . the lucky guy . . .

While talking to Art Stoel about the article that appears elsewhere in the Courier, he told us a story we got quite a laugh out of so will pass it along to you . . . While walking a fur line in the fall he noticed something in a big oak tree quite a ways ahead . . . he walked along looking for coyote tracks and was right under said tree before he realized it . . . Imagine his surprise when he looked up to see a big bear sitting comfortably in the crotch of two limbs, pulling the branches in to her and eating acorns . . His first reaction, he said, was to say something so in a loud voice he yelled, what do you think you're doing up there . . . the bear pulled the leaves back and peered out, looking just as surprised as Art had a minute before . . . In the excitement which followed the bear jumped from the tree in what could not be called a three-point landing and after picking herself up from the dust and a hasty look over her shoulder took off but fast . . Art said he didn't know who was the most surprised . . . he or the bear . . .

And if you think the boys at the postoffice aren't having a tough time these days take this into consideration . . . Charlevoix received a record load of parcel post Monday . . . packages which came through after the parcel post embargo was lifted . . . 142 sacks of packages of every and all sizes . . . added to that were eight pouches of mail . . . And that's not all . . . 8600 outgoing pieces went through the stamping machine . . . stack it all up and you'd have quite a pile . . . so if your mail's a few minutes late or your package didn't arrive when you thought it should . . . count ten and forget it . . . With all that on hand it couldn't be helped. . . .

We had the nicest time Saturday night and met some of the nicest people . . . Mr. and Mrs. Vic Spaniolo entertained the Courier correspondents at a dinner at their home . . . it was a pleasure meeting the people who send in the news every week and we hope they enjoyed it . . . Of course there was shop talk and we exchanged ideas and had a grand time . . . Everyone was presented with a gift from the boss and everyone declared it a nice party . . . thanks from all of us . . .

Christmas cards are rolling in every day along with Christmas gifts and yet it's hard to believe that the day of days is so near . . Little ones can hardly contain themselves while awaiting the arrival of St. Nick, whose eight reindeer will be led by Rudolph . . . the oldsters are busy with the last minute shopping and gift wrapping . . . cookies are being made and gifts delivered . . . oh, it's a wonderful time of the year . . . and yet a little sad . . . particularly when one stops to think that Christmas is the birthday of the Christ Child . . . And what a mess mere man has put His world in today . . .

So on Christmas Eve when you're on your way to church, whichever yours might be, take a look at that midnight sky and at the stars and try to picture the scene of the Nativity . . . and then say a prayer that we may again know the peace on earth and the good will toward men that was the message the herald angels brought that first Christmas . . .

And may Christmas bring to all of you from all of us at the Courier the best of everything . . . love, friends, happiness and all the other really important things . . .

Urges Send-Off For Area Draftees

By Mrs. Margaret Erber

A soldier is a wonderful man. He is giving, beyond measure, for us. What do we give to him? There is far too little that we can do for him. A "thank you" and some glory is about all we are able to give.

Are the people in Charlevoix even doing that much? We are letting our soldiers leave Charlevoix without even saying "good by" to them. These boys are leaving to fight for us and our freedom, more so than it was fought for in World War I and II.

They are giving so much, that every citizen in Charlevoix should feel shame for not doing what we can to lighten the spirits of these boys as they pull out of town. Think how they must feel, uncertain, frightened and unhappy. If these boys can give years and perhaps lives for freedom, every one of us can spare one half hour (thirty little minutes) for them.

Let's give them a big "Thank You" and a lot of GLORY. Let's get out an overwhelming crowd, no matter how few are leaving. We, the people of Charlevoix, are good people and do honor and appreciate what these boys are giving for us. We have just been thoughtless, and lazy. Let's start thinking and doing. The most is so little.

Every church, club, organization, business and individual can help. The school can do the most. The cheer leaders, with a cheering section, would be able to give each boy a feeling of importance and the glory that he is entitled to receive. This is so much more important and vital than football. Let's get behind our boys.

Come on Charlevoix let's go!

Christmas Greetings

A Blessed Christmas to ALL

May this be a Christmas crowned with humble trusting faith in the angel's promise: "Unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord"!

In the birth of our Lord we find earth's and heaven's highest treasure, the beginning of our redemption — let us drop every distraction that likes to crowd into Christmas and following the example of the Shepherds come with haste to find in the manger our Savior and our God! May true peace in Jesus fill our hearts and homes this blessed Christmas season!

And may we, like the Shepherds, tell others that tho glory of Christmas is this: that the Child in the manger is our Savior, our Christ and our Lord!

Those Personal Stains

Perfume and cologne should not be applied directly to a garment. The alcoholic content causes some dyestuffs to bleed, resulting in a color change, color bleeding, or the formation of e dye ring. Upon ageing and oxidation, the perfume oils become darkened, resinous, and often permanent, defying removal treatments. Apply perfume behind the ears and et edge of the hairline.

Art Stoel, Charlevoix's only professional trapper and his daughter, Cerolyn, look over some of the pelts trapped during the mink and muskrat soeson.

The Makings of A Fur Coat

By Fran Mertin

To most people the well-known lullaby, Bye baby bunting is just enother nursery song but to Art Stoel of Barnard it's a reality. He doesn't go a-nunting as the song says but he goes trapping for the furs which provide the wherewithal for the clothing and the livelihood of his family for he's a professional trapper.

And he's been doing it for all of his adult life. It all started when he trapped his first mink on his father's farm near Atwood at the age of five years.

As he grew up he trapped to put himself through high school at Central Lake. The depression was at its peak following graduation and although the price of furs were down he stayed with the one thing he knew well . . . fur trapping . . . spending the winters in the open and the summers on his father's farm. After a few years, however, he learned to trap the year 'round and became one of the few professionals in the work in this area.

HIS WORK for the year is laid out hy the state laws and the conservation department which set the seasons for trapping and the habits of the animals themselves.

He returned home last weekend following the close of the 30-day mink and muskret season. He does most of his trepping in Montmorency. Alpena and othor northeestern counties elthough he does some in Charlevoix and Antrim counties. The wilds of the northeestern counties furnish better cover for a greater variety of animels then more heavily populated areas nearer home.

For the next couple months he'll be 'prospecting' for coyotes and foxes; that is, looking over the areas where they're usually found, finding their dens and more or less scouting the animals on their natural habitat. Where there are coyotes one finds few foxes.

IN MARCH the beaver season will open. The season, set next month hy the conservation department, is usually for ten days lato in Merch in the upper peninsula and the limit is six pelts. The upper peninsula wes opened to heaver trappers last spring for the first time in many years. The season and catch are different in other sections of the state.

Of course, all this time he'll be trapping other small animels including the weasel whose pelt is snow-white with a black-tipped teil this time of year, reccoon, badgers, fox and e few coyote.

In April and May the fox and coyote seasons are in full swing for at this time they have their young. The litters of both coyote and fox pups are captured for bounty for both are listed among the predatory animals. The fox furs are sold for a small amount but there is little market for the coyote pelts although they are being used some for collars on inexpensive coats.

• • •

STOEL has a cocker spaniel dog, Cindy, who goes on these trips. She will crawl into the dens and bring the fox pups out alive.

In June the fox and coyote pups leave their lairs and start wandering off and during this season he traps for them.

Sometimes a bear cub will get caught in a trap and that always worries him for there's always the danger of the mother bear who might attack. In the last ten years about seven cubs have been caught in his traps and have been released not only because they are protected by law but because he says he'd never have the heart to kill one. They're so cute and when caught will cry like a baby with a hoarse voice.

During the year his estimated take is from 35 to 70 coyotes, 300 or more foxes, about 100 muskrats for northern Michigan is not good muskrat country, 150 minks, usually the limit of beaver allowed by law and countless other small animals. It sounds like a lot but the time it takes in traveling to the hunting grounds, setting the traps and covering the trap lines runs into many hours and days.

TRAPPING, he explains, is an art for all the time you're trying to outwit the animals and they're pretty clever and cunning. All traps are concealed and placed in such a way that they're a part of the terrain. All professional trappers use scent, usually made by the trappers own formula and consisting of the scent glands of the same animal one is trapping plus a base and other ingredients. The scent is placed on a stick, a bush or on the ground near the trap which has been placed by a run-wey or a spot visited regularly by the animal. As in the case of rats, as the muskrat is called, or the mink which go to the water's edge for food, the traps are set under the bank or some auch concealed place.

IN TRAPPING foxes and coyotes, the trapper must be alert at all times for the animals live by their wits and it takes a lot to outsmart them. The traps used for them are sterilized to kill all scents, pleced in a clean pack-basket and handled only with rubber gloves when being set. The trapper stands on a pad which he carries for that purpose to cut down the possibility of any foreign scents remaining near the trep.

When one outwits a coyote, he said, one feels a great satisfaction for the animals are keen and crafty end difficult to catch. He tells of one old coyote in northeastern Michigan who had quite a reputation. He'd heard about the animal and finally found the track which was easily recognized for he'd lost two toes in another hunter's trap.

For a month he saw the tracks in various areas for the animal is quite a traveler. Finally he set a trap for him and after a time succeeded in catching him but with a feeling of regret for one develops a respect for the wise animal that can outwit a human for so long.

• • •

HE TELLS MANY interesting stories of the animals and what he has learned about them. One thing most people know little about is animal home life. He relates that foxes and coyotes are great family animals . . . the father helps find food for the young and when the pups are small will be found near the den with the mother.

The adult mink send their young out to fend for themselves after a few months while the beaver family remain together for about a year. That is, except for the father, who is literally kicked out of the house shortly after the birth of the young ones. He usually can be found upstream from the family house living a solitary life.

Wild animals are gifted in the way of the wild for their very existence depends on their cunning. They must not only outwit the larger animals but owls and other large birds plus the hunters as well.

Milady's whims in fur styles decides the needs of the markets, Stoel answered, to the question abont the demands for various pelts. Right now there is little demand for the long-haired pelts such as raccoon, fox and skunk although good raccoon pelts are now being sheared and sold for imitation beaver. The price of the furs vary quite a lot from year to year and the demands change with the fur fashions.

HE RECENTLY caught a silver fox which would have brought several hundred dollars a few years ago but today brings little in comparison.

He skins and dries all the pelts he traps and then sells them to recognized fur dealers. He does a lot of trapping on private clubs in the eastern section of the state by trapping out the predatory animals which prey on the game birds and animals and on farmer's sheep and other stock. In return he is allowed to trap on the property for fur-bearing animals.

Until one talks with Stoel it's hard to believe all this wildlife he tells about is within driving distance of his own home.

Farm Output

The farm output per man hour is now about twice what it was 40 years ago. Agricultural research has had much to do with this development in improved varieties, machines, techniques and knowledge of what makes plants and animals grow more rapidly. Michigan State College researchers predict even greater advances in the next 40 years.

Santa's Requests

Santa Claus still gets letters from youngsters with the same cherished requests—bicycles and dolls. But last year a child wanted a live cow. He told a department store Santa so.

Nativity Theme Dominates Cards

Modern Christmas cards feature literally hundreds of interpretations of the popular Nativity theme. Many of these are reproductions from the old masters, while many others have been created especially for the Christmas card industry.

The Nativity theme, which naturally lends itself to an almost endless variety of interpretations and a wealth of detail, long has been a favorite subject of Christian artists. Many of the details, based upon certain Bible texts, have fostered various legends—such as those concerning the Magi, which grew until the Wise Men were identified and given kingdoms.

The Annunciation is among the earliest subjects represented in Christian art, antedating the Madonna and Child theme by several centuries, and it is interesting to note that the fathers of the Church determined how the Madonna should be portrayed; her dress and mantle are usually blue and red.

Letters to Santa Worldwide Custom

Postoffice officials in Santa Claus, Ind. are accustomed to overloaded sacks of mail during the pre-Christmas rush. Senders want their cards and gifts stamped with the famous Santa Claus postmark, plus thousands of wistful letters addressed in childish scrawl to "Santa Claus, Santa Claus, Ind."

And then there is the annual crop of "Santa Claus" letters written by youngsters in far-away places who haven't heard about Santa's permanent address in Indiana, U.S.A. At least a dozen versions of the time honored note-in-the-bottle story find their way into metropolitan newspapers every year.

The notes, sealed in small bottles and securely tied to Christmas trees, are discovered by Christmas tree dealers, housewives; and even enlisted men at naval centers and military barracks; they come from places like Renous, a village in New Brunswick, Canada, boasting a total population of 85 inhabitants.

Soap Flake Snow

Trimming the Christmas tree with fluffy snow is easy if you use soap flakes. It won't melt either.

Here's how it's done: Use three or four cups of soap flakes to one cup of warm water. Beat with electric beater or hand beater until smooth and fluffy. Then spread immediately over branches of tree, scattering it on with hands.

For sparkle, spread on some artificial glistening snow.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By Gene Alleman
Lansing Observer for
Michigan Press Association

Politics has come to a grinding halt for the average Michigan voter . . . except for the numerous state appointments still unfilled. Two-thirds of the way through the recount Governor Williams was rubbing his hands with glee. His was an opportunity seldom afforded a Democrat in the midwest. Many of the top appointive jobs were opening. He promised he would be ready for them.

Williams' luck has been poor in the past. When the dust settled over the embattled liquor control commission, Gen. Kunzig retained his $10,380 job, John Kozaren (Williams' appointee) was no longer chairman; David Martin (Democrat) was ostracized for voting Republican Harry Henderson the chairmanship; Martin then was approved by a Republican senate. Confusing, isn't it?

Says Williams: "I can't help but remember how the same two men (Martin and Henderson) were prime movers in issuing 200 S. D. D. (liquor take-out) licenses immediately before I took office." But Williams reappointed Martin. The legislature promisea to take steps to halt the "sloppy operation" of the LCC.

But War end Christmas now crowd our front pages. With most commentators weeping because "United States has lost its first war," Yuletide shopping has continued unabated. Stores all over the state have been cleaned out despite a substantial price rise since 1940.

Michigan's retail business is stumped. With the times so unsettled and controls again peering over the transom, buying becomes a problem. And if all predictions are correct January will see more stringent price controls reinstated.

If Congress reduces draft standards, 50 per cent of those in 1-A who failed their first exams will be eligible. That would add 30,000 men to Michigan's manpower pool.

Thirty thousand more soldiers will cost some $240,000,000 per year to keep. Average cost of the G. I. today is $8,100 yearly. Before the war the cost was $3,200.

The V.F.W. has scorned the proposed merger of all state veterans' agencies. G. Edwin Slater, state commander, says it would lead to chaos and build "the finest political machine in Michigan history . . . ".

Circuit Judge Marvin J. Salmon, Lansing, made news when he set aside as "unlawful" a $1,160,000 annual increase granted the Consumers Power Co. by the public service commission. If sustained by the supreme court the utility company will repay $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 to users.

Government delay and indecision in awarding defense contracts plus curtailment of essential materials may put tens of thousands of Michigan workers out of work. Already the peacetime record of persons employed, set last year, is receding.

General Motors Corporation is financing an institute of industrial health at the University of Michigan. The $1,500,000 endowment will enable researchers "to investigate many facets of industrial health that urgently need exploration . . . ", company officials stated.

Michigan's relatively young winter tourist industry is girding for at least 500,000 winter sports seekers. There are 36 winter sports areas which agree that the summer season was "on and off" but that this winter looks like a banner year.

Older, but less heralded is Michigan's vegetable industry, a $50,000,000 business. Quietly it thrives with only the Michigan Vegetable Growers Council to boom its possibilities.

And the Wolverine state may also have uranium. Four applications for leases are still being investigated and two are being explored further. The two most promising are in Dickinson and Baraga counties.

Foster Boat to Speed Output of Defense Items

Foster Boat company will soon be in full swing on items for the armed forces and defense-related agencies, it was revealed Wednesday.

The company was notified earlier this week that their bid for canvas litter covers was accepted. This is the third canvas item which the company has had approved in recent weeks. The company has been approved by the armed services medical procurement agency as a principal source of some of their requirements.

This action seems certain to swell Foster company's employment in the near future. Company officials also revealed that they are bidding on other items for the government. Inspection has been made of the pre-fabricated localizer antenna shelters for the CAA, Department of Commerce.

Maxfield Bound Over on Assault

Robert Maxfield, 35, Charlevoix, is in the county jail pending arraignment in circuit court on a charge of felonious assault. His bond of $1,500 was not furnished Saturday after preliminary hearing in justice court before Justice H. E. Paddock.

The charge resulted from injuries inflicted on his wife, Grace, 33, Dec. 13 when she was hospitalized for head wounds, according to the complaint signed by Mrs. Archie Belding, mother of Mrs. Maxfield.

According to police, Maxfield cut her with a sheath knife during a family quarrel.

Cooper's Pontiac Has Big Display Window

Cooper's Pontiac Sales & Service is undergoing extensive remodeling of the front of the garage. More space is being provided for the display of new cars.

A large display window has been installed as well as glass brick at the sides of the window. Chuck Cooper is the owner of the Pontiac agency here.

Tri-County Grange Hears State Leaders

A large group attended the Tri-County Grange meeting at the Charlevoix high school, Dec. 14, to hear the interesting talks given by Overseer Vern Stockman and Deputy W. J. Brake from Michigan State Grange.

All Granges were urged to enter community projects for the betterment of rural areas.

Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Hawaiian Christmas Is Elaborate Affair

Although many Hawaiians have seen ice only as frozen in mechanical refrigerators, the trees used by the islanders for Christmas decorations are painted white to simulate snow.

Christmas dinner is an elaborate affair, enjoyed in the privacy of the home behind locked doors and drawn blinds. Any open-house hospitality is an economic impossibility; if the shades were not drawn and the doors not locked, homes would be invaded by hordes of strangers—all expecting food and drink.

Gift-giving is the order of the day as everyone exchanges inexpensive presents. Even the servants in hotels expect and receive gifts from over-night guests.

Township Taxes

Ellsworth—Notice of taxes due in Banks township have been mailed out by John R. Peebles, township treasurer. He will collect taxes at Atwood Thrift Market Jan. 6 and at Ellsworth Farmers Exchange each Friday until Jan. 9. Taxpayers will pay at the rate of 30 mills for $1,000 valuation. Of this total, 10 mills is for county taxes, four mills for school tax and 16 mills for school debt service.

Although over 13 million tons of fertilizer are being spread annually on U.S. farmlands, fertility is still being lost through leaching and erosion 10 to 20 times faster than it is being replaced.

Irish Introduced Christmas Candle

It would be astonishing, indeed, if no candles appeared in homes throughout the nation on Christmas Eve. The legend which surrounds the custom is believed to have started in Ireland.

There on Christmas Eve a large candle was burned which could be snuffed out only by one named Mary. As the Irish put it: "Who knows, on some Christmas Eve, Jesus and Mary and Joseph may come again, not to Palestine, but to the Holy Isle on the fartherest edge of Europe?"

Their first use for Christmas is not recorded in the annals of any nation, but that the "Christ Child Candle", burned in the window of Christmas Eve is according to an old legend, placed there to light His way if He makes an earthly visitation and in atonement for the night of His birth when there was no room for Him.

Legends Associate Mule, Camel of Jesus With Giving Custom

Syrian legends have associated the magic Mule and the Gentle Camel of Jesus with gift-giving, for reasons that are at once different, and yet similar in their association with the Christ Child.

It seems a certain traveler tied his mule to a tree when he went into an inn for refreshment on Epiphany Eve. Just at midnight, when the boughs of the tree bowed down in homage to the Holy Infant, the mule was caught up on the rebound and found cradled high up in the branches by its returning master.

The youngest camel of the three ridden by the Wise Men was exhausted by the pressing journey and was blessed with immortality by the baby Jesus as it lay moaning near the Nativity scene.

IT HAPPENED ON ....
BEAVER ISLAND

By Mrs. J. C. Hanley

It's homecoming time on Beaver Island for our sailor boys who are returning from duty on Great Lakes freighters. Most of the lads haven't seen the home folks since last April. That's a long stretch away from home, but the stretch for some will be longer, for several of the lads will be leaving soon at the request of Uncle Sam.

Last Tuesday, Russell Greene left on the North Shore to report for duty. Since Russell's school days, he has remained at home to help on the farm - and as a side line - to operate the Greentown Express. Russell was given a sendoff at the dock with everyone wishing him the best of luck.

• • •

AS JOE McPhillips buzzed over the island last week. more than likely, one of our sailors was among the passengers. James McCafferty and Francis O'Donnell returned the first of the week. Ray Cull returned Thursday. Buster Elms landed on the island Saturday.

Dan Greene, son of John Greene, has arrived to visit his father and his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Andy Gallagher. Dan sailed on the Wilfred Sykes this past season.

, Mrs. Mary Martin left on Tuesday's boat to spend the winter months on the mainland. ,

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wojan were in Charlevoix for a few days last week.

• • •

ART TAFT says Lake Genesereth has been frozen over for a couple of weeks and the south arm has been solid for quite some time. Art plans on staying in the village during the winter months.

There's very little ice in the harbor, but Gull Harbor has been solid enough for ice skaters.

The merry tingle of sleigh bells is sounding through the village as the folks from the country in their one horse jumper come in to shop and visit. Frank O'Donnell's sleigh bells have a beautiful tone - sounds just like the ones shined up by the brownies at the North Pole for that special trip on Christmas Eve.

Word was received last week by Mr. and Mrs. Mike Cull that their son, Larry, won't be able to make it home for Christmas. Larry is stationed way down in Louisiana and could only get seventy-two hours. His address is: Pvt. Lawrence Cull, H. & S. Co. 120 Engr. C. Btn., Camp Polk, La.

Bill Pat MacDonald hasn't been very well in the past two or three weeks.

The winner of the door prize at the card tournament Thursday night was Mrs. Rita Elms. There was a good turn out for the games.

• • •

TUESDAY evening, members of the Third Order of St. Francis met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McDonough.

The Head Light has been closed for the winter. The head man at the Head Light, "Cap'n" Burt McDonough, will winter at his home in the village. Johny Andy Galagher is back at the Coast Guard Station until navigation season opens in the spring.

Beaver Islanders are mighty proud of the new county road truck. It runs like a top, and according to Elston Pischner, there'll be no cause for the snow plow to be out of commission this winter with this new truck behind it. Elston said goodbye to the old truck Wednesday when he put it aboard the North Shore.

LLOYD and EVA McDonough received a telgram from their son, Buddy, Thursday saying he would leave California by plane on the 20th for home sweet home. Buddy was lucky enough to get a 20 day leave.

Way down south - that is, down at the south end of the island - Joe McNamee is supervising a logging operation for a concern on the mainland. Joe and companion have established a camp to be near the project, but Saturday, they came the distance by horse drawn sleigh. It wasn't because the sun was shining or because of rising temperatures, so it must have been because of style . . . Joe had his team decked out in straw hats with convenient outlets for starched ears . . a genuine McNamee creation, I betcha.

BETTY Davison is home for the holidays from Hope College. Sylvester Howard took his flying taxi to Grand Rapids to pick up Betty and they returned Saturday. Howard and his son. Sylvester Jr., will leave during the week for Jackson to attend the golden wedding anniversary of Howard's parents on Christmas day.

Mrs. Ada Martin flew to Charlevoix to meet her son, Sheldon, who is on his way home from sailing. Before returning to the island, they will visit Mary Helen in Flint and shop for Christmas.

ONLY A FEW more days before the wonderful feast of Christmas. As for the little children, there's toys and sugar plums dancing through their heads . . . but for us older folks, there are more serious thoughts this Christmas. May the Prince of Peace guide and direct us in the months ahead and a joyous Christmas to you all!

Noah was 600 years old when the ark was completed.

Come in and see the New Silver Anniversary Pontiac

Double Proof that Dollar for Dollar you can't beat a Pontiac!

② A look at the Price proves its Value!

In the short time since it was presented, thousands of people have flocked to see the great new Silver Anniversary Pontiac—few cars have ever had a reception to equal this. Most people came to admire, which is natural enough. But a great many people do more than admire, they start figuring—they begin to compare this wonderfully beautiful and desirable car with the modest price tag it bears. No car, at any price, offers more for every new car dollar you invest than a great new Pontiac! Drop in any time and look at the car—then look at the price—you'll be doubly sure that dollar for dollar, you can't beat a Pontiac!

Community Nursing Program to Serve Vital Health Function

Designed to educate residents in the prevention and control of communicable diseases by urging immunization wherever possible and instructing families in general health, the community nursing service made 427 calls to homes in Charlevoix and the surrounding area during the last year.

In its third year here, the work of the nursing service is financed by the Community Chest and the District Health department. Mrs. Dean Davenport is the community health nurse.

Some 250 different homes were visited with services given to all or part of the family as needed. There were 27 residents here x-rayed for tuberculosis at Gaylord. When tuberculosis is found all possible contacts are patch-tested and x-rayed if necessary.

* * *

SOME CALLS are made to homes where they have new-born babies. Demonstration baths are given. Care and feeding are discussed. Pre-school and school children where there are health problems comprise about half of the calls.

Another group on whom home calls and follow-ups are made are the crippled and afflicted children. A sight-saving program has been inaugurated. The entire school group being tested with the Massachusetts vision testing machine. Some 60 children were referred for further eye exams by a doctor. Some 20 pairs of glasses were supplied with the Community Chest furnishing several pair.

A dental program was organized with 215 children receiving dental care through the co-operation of the Health department and the Children's Fund of Michigan.

* * *

A NUMBER of children were referred to Miss Hardacre, child psychologist at Traverse City for examinations. Home calls and follow-up calls are made in these cases.

Another phase of the work is along social service lines with referrals made to the proper agencies. Good used clothing has been distributed where needed as well as free cod liver oil and baby cereals to indigent families.

A breakdown of the types of work done by the Community nursing service include communicable diseases, venereal diseases, tuberculosis, infant, pre-school children, school children, crippled and afflicted children and adults.

Poison ivy and poison oak can be killed by spraying the plants to wet them thoroughly when in full leaf with a solution of one-half to one pound of ammate in one gallon of water. The solution is corrosive to metal, and the sprayer should be washed out thoroughly immediately after spraying.

MSC Making Plans for Big Farmers' Week

Farmers' Week at Michigan State College . . . the mid-winter educational and entertainment feature for rural Michigan . . . is being planned to bring 40,000 people a full week of programs. It will be held at East Lansing, January 29 through February 3.

E. L. Anthony, dean of the school of agriculture and general chairman of the annual event, says a few new features will be added this year. There will be many of the traditional events that have brought old-timers back for many of the 35 Farmers' Weeks of the past.

Monday, January 29, will be dairy day and feature a general meeting in the morning and breed association meetings in the afternoon. The agricultural engineering department will hold a farm building day.

General sessions in the afternoon will start on Tuesday and continue for three days. Outstanding speakers are being obtained for auditorium addresses. All departments will start morning and early afternoon sessions on Tuesday and they will continue through Thursday. Agricultural economics, agricultural engineering, animal husbandry, conservation, dairy, crops and soils, home economics, horticulture, poultry, sociology, and other departments are included.

Wednesday will feature banquets, livestock events and the start of muck farmer meetings, which will continue through Saturday.

Many contests will be conducted to pick Michigan's champions in steer and swine feeding and lamb production.

One of the new features will be a series of programs on grassland agriculture to be held throughout the week.

Some Seasonal Drops for Farms Products Seen

Here's what Michigan farmers can expect during the next month or so in the way of seasonal price trends for several farm products, according to Michigan State College agricultural economists.

Hog prices will decline in January probably to set the low point of this marketing season. Cattle prices will hold steady. Lamb prices will decline from November's record high, but will still be strong compared to lamb prices of previous years.

Dairy product prices will stay at about present levels for the next month or two. The seasonal price decline will be less than normal this winter and spring.

Egg prices in January will average about 5 cents a dozen below December prices, the M.S.C. economists believe. U.S. Grade A large prices paid to grading stations by first receivers in Detroit will likely average 42-47 cents a dozen.

It has been officially announced that the government egg support program will be discountinued on December 31. The government may buy some shell eggs in local areas in 1951 to prevent unduly low prices probably in connection with the military procurement program.

The economists report that the wholesale price index has reached a new all-time high, and the general trend is upward. Retail prices will move up in months ahead . . . with food prices expected to be generally higher. Consumer prices already are at an all-time high.

ORCHARD NOTES

By Claude Fairman

A 1944 survey in Michigan shows that cherry production will increase, especially in the late 50s. The number of bearing trees will be increased 16 per cent for red cherries by 1955 and 20 per cent for sweet cherries.

Or, an increase in tonnage of 16 percent for sour cherries and 20 percent on sweet cherries, However, population is also increasing. Old orchards will go out and many of the newer orchards will not develop to the expected production, due to poor sites and locations and poor nursery stock.

Also the larger plantings have been made by people that do not live on their farms. Our orchards, starting from Torch Lake and on north have proved to have much heavier production and more regular crops of cherries.

Our crops are more regular than Berrien county or southwesten Michigan. At this date our peaches have not been frozen, that is not affected by the November freeze.

While in southern Michigan they had temperatures of 23 below zero and not only are the fruit buds frozen, but much of the wood is also frozen. Our locality is a very favorable spot for fruit growing, with better land, climate, hardier trees and many other advantages.

The life of farm machinery depends on the type machine and type storage, say Michigan State Agricultural economists. They say a storage shed should not cost more than 20 per cent of the value of the machinery being housed.

MADE YOUR Christmas WISH?

It's natural to make a lot of wishes at Christmas time, but the one that's most important is the wish for the continued safety and security of our families.

The light-hearted happiness of Christmas is centered around home and family —familiar voices raised in age-old carols, the joyful tingling of sleigh bells, the gay seasonal salutes of friends and neighbors. The Christmas tree in the living room, the holly on the window, the red candle on the mantel set the stage for the best scene of all—the faces of those we love seated at the dining room table.

These are the things that help make this the merriest time of the year. Small things they are—but close to home and close to the heart.

From The Equitable agents and representatives who have helped assure your family's security, here's a heart-felt wish for the most joyous Christmas ever.

Banned Christmas Candle Custom Had Its Start in England

Christmas was outlawed in England by the Puritan government of England in 1643 and, although the restoration of the Stuarts brought a revival of Christmas customs and traditions, Christmas never regained its former prestige in England.

It is observed religiously in the churches and as a day for family reunion and social gatherings, in contrast to the lavish feasting and boisterous merry-making of olden times.

Merry-making and gift-giving come in for their share, however, on December 26 which is Boxing Day. The origin of Boxing Day antedates Christmas and can be traced to the custom of gift-giving during the Roman festival of Saturnalia.

Charlevoix Rayders Eke Out Victory Over East Jordan, Oppose Petoskey Tomorrow

Rayders Manage to Stretch Streak To Four After Close Hard Fought Tilt

Unbeaten in their four starts this season, the Charlevoix Red Rayders oppose a non-conference opponent tomorrow night when they journey to Petoskey for the first of a two-game series.

The Rayders grabbed another close one Friday night when they defeated East Jordan 38-35 in a bitterly-fought contest. While the locals led most of the time, several times in the final half it appeared as though Gayle Saxton's boys were going to snatch victory from the Rayders.

The play of Don Whiteford of East Jordan who scored 20 points for high point honors was outstanding. In the last half, he kept his team on the heels of the Rayders by pumping in five field goals and two free throws. The rest of the East Jordan team scored only five points during this time.

* * *

THE Game was marked by many missed shots by both teams. Charlevoix attempted 57 shots and sank 15 while their visitors shot 42 times and made 12. The Rayders made good only eight of 15 free throws.

Although the game was a throbbing thriller for the fans, it was highlighted by loose play on many occasions. Bill Wallace led his team by scoring 16 points on seven goals and two free throws.

East Jordan got off to a good start with Bryan Boring and Whiteford scoring nine points between them to lead Charlevoix 9-3 at the end of six minutes of play. Then Charlevoix came back with Wallace ramming home two goals and a foul and Norm Ketchman and Ron Cunningham chipped in with a bucket each to even it up at nine all as the quarter ended.

Wallace started things rolling again in the second quarter with three shots for goals, Fairbanks got three points on a goal and a free toss and Tom Donaldson hit for a two pointer near the end of the second quarter.

Whiteford came back with two baskets and Boring and E. Evans, and McGeorge totaled five points in the second stanza as East Jordan trailed the Rayders 20-19 at intermission.

Whiteford really was hitting with his long toms at the outset of the second half as he scored on three from out on the floor plus a free throw. Max Sommerville added three points and E. Evans sank a free toss. East Jordan outscored the winners 11-10 in the third period.

* * *

THE LAST period was really hard-fought with Charlevoix scoring eight against five for East Jordan. Wallace hit for a goal and free toss, Fairbanks chipped in with two free throws, Ketchman sank one of two free throws and Ron Wojan hooked a jump shot after a slick toss by Fairbanks.

Whiteford did all of his team's scoring in this period with two goals and a free throw. The pressing game of Jordan kept Charlevoix off balance most of the game and their close guarding seemed to upset the Rayders.

* * *

The second team game was another thriller with the two teams fighting hard all the way. The Rayders won this 42-32. Bobo Bennett scored 17 and Deano Davenport got 16 to provide the spur for the victory. Gee for East Jordan was high for his team with 7.

Killed by Thousands, Reds Still Came, Bud Kohler Writes

The following is a letter Marine Lt. Louis 'Bud' Kohler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kohler, telling of the severity of the fighting the privations of the American forces in Korea.

Pusan Harbor,
Dec. 15, 1950

Dear Folks:

We're still aboard the Gen. Randall and expect to board L.S.T.'s today and move on to Mosan. No room for us here I guess. Have no idea what we will do in Mosan (30 miles from here) but I sincerely hope we will get a long rest.

We need it but I'm afraid we are in for some more dirty duty. I wish people at home would shout loud and long enough to bring us home. It will take shouting from the people of America to do it, that's for sure.

You and your neighbors, not politicians, can get us out of here. If the people yell long and loud enough then the vote-crazy fools in Washington will pull us out and not before.

• • •

WE GET VERY LITTLE news even here aboard ship but it sounds like a national emergency will be called soon, I hope not. And most of all I hope we won't have a war . . . or even half a war, in China. We cannot beat them with their numbers . . . and if we did . . . what do we gain?

We killed them by the thousands up above (at the Chonjin resevoir) and still they kept coming on. I believe we killed 30 or their men to one of ours . . . but they were so heavy in numbers that even at that rate we were losing the fight.

By staying in Korea we are only dropping our guard at home, letting our forces be cut down and becoming more vulnerable for an attack on the U.S. itself. We are doing exactly what Russia wants us to do.

For our country's sake we must admit our error in intervening here . . . and most particularly crossing the 38th parallel . . . and pulling out now while we can still save the men that are left.

I will gladly fight to defend or protect America . . . and anyone of us here would do the same . . . but here in Korea we are mere pawns in a political chess game and many of us have died needlessly. We have made a terrible mistake but we must be big enough to admit it. Our politicians never will unless the people get together and insist that we pull our troops out and set up to defend our own homeland.

• • •

EVEN BEFORE the heavy fighting in areas that were supposed to be secure, we had trouble. Small patrols were always hit hard by little bands . . . ambushed. Then big patrols . . . large enough to protect themselves . . . could never find the enemy.

These Orientals pretend to be your friend and even actually help you out . . . then when you need them or your back is turned they strike. It's nasty. You can not beat an enemy like that without taking every man, woman and child a prisoner or else killing them and that would defeat our purpose in coming to Korea in the first place. The whole thing had been a terrible and a tragic mistake.

But to us over here, it looks like we must admit our mistake and save what we can. Only public opinion and the shouting of the people in the U.S.A. can save us. Hope you will do your share and yell long and loud to the right people.

I sound like a soap box orator or a commie or something but I am sincere in everthing I say. I think this whole situation is much more serious than we think. If we stay here and let Russia's puppets cut us down little by little we will be left wide open for an attack on the U. S. itself.

• • •

NUF SED. Upon the international situation question. I got out safe and sound and I thank God for that. Now it is my constant prayer that I can get back to my wife and you before too long.

Just realized that in ten more days it will be Christmas. Doesn't seem possible. It certainly does not seem like Christmas at all . . . but I'm sure it will be a good day at home. Here's wishing you all a merry one. Have a Tom and Jerry for me, Dad, and we'll have one together the day when I get home.

Received 12 letters from Tanny, you and some others. They sure looked good to me. Also got the fruit cakes but I think the other packages were lost on the convoys that were hit along with other mail. Several of the convoys were hit by the numerous road blocks you know.

I'm still under weight by quite a ways but life on this ship has been excellent I've been getting eggs for breakfast each morning. Only hope we can continue to get enough food from now on.

• • •

DAD, I PICKED a pair of G. I. Marine binoculars from a dead Chinese officer on a ridge back there. Still have them with me and I'll do my best to bring them home to you. They were heavy and I nearly threw them away a dozen times on that 70 mile march but I still have them. They are really excellent glasses.

Lost my pack and all my gear except the cloths I wore.

Council Votes to Abandon Trailer Park After Hearing Both Sides

After hearing both sides presented on the proposed abandonment of the trailer park, the city council at a special meeting Thursday voted unanimously to sell the parcel of land in Boulder park to the Hospital association.

Mayor John Knight called on all persons in the council room to speak their minds for or against the proposal in order to guide the council in its action. The majority of the 17 present spoke in favor of having the hospital group use the trailer park as the site of the new hospital.

The park will be used until actual construction of the new hospital is started, according to the provisions of the sale agreement. It may be at least a year or perhaps longer before the hospital is started.

The council was disappointed that a much larger turnout did not appear at the hearing called purposefully to give objectors a chance to be heard Alderman Harry Gebeau who previously voted against the sale of the property changed his vote because residents who voiced their objections did not appear.

• • •

AMONG THOSE who spoke against the measure were John Wolf, Charles Bellinger, Mr. Moore and Pete Scott. Scott said the city should not get out of the trailer park business until it is assured that someone will start a trailer park as it is an asset to the community.

He said that restrictions on a new trailer park are such that he doubts if an individual will care to start one. Bellinger spoke in a similar vein. Mr. Wolf said he doubted if the city should give away its property to a private corporation such as the hospital association.

Earl A. Young, Dr. Gilbert Saltonstall, Mrs. Kit Carson and Mr. Carson gave their views why the city should sell the site to the hospital.

DR. SALTONSTALL said that it is likely that the city will have to improve conditions at the trailer park in the near future to meet state restrictions and that the city should find another site for the trailer park.

Mr. Young appealed for unity in building the hospital and said he stands ready to sell the few lots he has in Boulder park and donate the money to the hospital. He said that the Boulder park site is a natural for the hospital inasmuch as it is being developed so rapidly.

He called for a bigger and better trailer park and said that in the last two years he has had two persons interested in starting a trailer park but would not do it as long as the city was in the business.

• • •

MR. AND MRS. Kit Carson pointed out that the Boulder Park development should progress rapidly and that it would provide a perfect location for the new hospital. Herb Schofield said that he thought the lake site should make an ideal one for the hospital.

Rayders Show Better Form At Petoskey

A blistering last-half attack provided an easy cushion for the Charlevoix Red Rayders as they swamped Petoskey last Friday by the score of 60-38 in the Northmen's gym.

Hitting the hoops for 37 points in the last two periods, the Rayders came within a point of matching the Petoskey game total. Bill Wallace had another one of his red-hot nights, scoring 23 points on nine field goals and five free tosses.

Chuck Fairbanks chipped in with 16 for runner-up honors as the Rayders played their best ball of the season. Their passing showed improvement and team floor work showed a lot more polish than it did in their four other victories.

• • •

THE TEAM play was better against Petoskey as the winners concentrated on working the ball in whenever possible to a team mate under the basket. Coach Del Terrill employed all of his squad in fashioning the team's fifth straight win of the current season.

The Rayders will be idle until after the holidays in conference competition. The game against the Alumni should give them a good workout.

• • •

Petoskey trailed 11-12 at the first quarter mark and it appeared that perhaps the Rayders would have a fight on their hands against their Class B opponents.

Wallace scored on two fouls and a field goal in the second period as Tom Donaldson added two slick field goals and Fairbanks added a twister from the side. Dwight Smith sank a free throw to give Charlevoix 11 points for the period. The score at halftime was 23-17, Charlevoix.

Wallace started things off in the third stanza and before the period was over had sank nine points, along with Fairbanks, six, Donaldson's two. Meanwhile Petoskey got nine more on three goals by Steinbecker, one by Compton and a foul by Wolgast.

Fairbanks and Wallace combined to sink 11 points before leaving the game in the final period. Substituting freely, Coach Terrill gave all of his boys a chance to play.

Petoskey's Compton sank a goal, Hitchmough made two goals and Robbins, a substitute, sank a goal and four free throws. Hitchmough added to the Charlevoix total when he sank a foul from the Charlevoix circle instead of his own.

The Rayders second team lost a thriller 32-30 with the decision being in doubt until the final whistle. Petoskey got off to a good start but Charlevoix managed to come back strong in the second half. Bobo Bennett had 13 points for high point honors.

A flurry of baskets in the final minutes enabled the second team to creep within two points of Petoskey but the early handicap was too much.

Joins Waves

Susanne Webster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Webster, will become the first Charlevoix girl to enter the armed forces in the present conflict. She passed her final physical exam Wednesday in Detroit and will leave Jan. 15 from Detroit for duty with the Waves. She is a graduate of Charlevoix high school, class of 1948.

Courier Starts Religious Series

In the belief that the teachings of our community churches should be more widespread, the Courier is starting a weekly sermonette, written and edited by a different local minister, each week. The sermonette is dedicated to furthering the teachings of Our Lord. Rev. Gaylord Howell wrote this week's sermonette.

Red Rayders Oppose Tough Alumni Team

An undefeated band of Red Rayders will oppose the star-studded Alumni team Saturday night at 8 p.m. in the local gymnasium.

Among the old grads who are slated to see action will be Don Carey, Gene Hardy, Pat Martin, Chick Gallagher, Johnny Swanson, Bill Lusk, Bergmann, Don Meggison, Rose Case, Cliff Lagerman and Warren Shadko.

The game should be a thriller to watch and a large turnout is expected.

Report $300 Damage In Grillo Blaze

The Charlevoix fire department was called out Christmas morning to extinguish a blaze at the Andrew Grillo apartment on Bridge Street.

The fire spread to the second floor of the building through the partitions while Mr. Grillo was attempting to thaw frozen water pipes.

City Votes Down Plan to Buy Balancer

A move to purchase counter balance mechanism to greatly reduce vibration in the diesel engine at the city light plant here, was defeated at a special meeting of the council Thursday night.

By a vote of 3-2, the motion by Alderman Ralph Hamilton to purchase the equipment on the forthright reccomendation of Professor Hansen, one of the nation's foremost experts on motor vibration, lost because it required the majority of the six-man council.

Because only five were present the measure needed four affirmative votes. Hamilton, Harry Gebeau and Drew Young voted yes and Carl Kohler and William Heering voted no.

• • •

IT IS POSSIBLE that another vote will be taken in the next two weeks to reconsider the matter, following the council's expected action to name a replacement for Claude L. Davy who intends to resign. The counter-balance item will be brought up again, several councilmen said.

The vote by the council followed months of deliberation and consultation with Professor Hansen and Rathbun-Jones, builder of the Diesel engine, which has proved to be the biggest headache for the city in the last two years.

Charlevoix Firemen Help Fight Fire in Zero Temperatures

Loss from fire early Wednesday at the Herman Drenth and Son Company, East Jordan, was estimated today at more than $50,000.

It is believed that most of the loss is covered by insurance.

The fire of unknown origin at one time theatened several other buildings in East Jordan's business district. A shift of the wind was reported by Police Chief Harry Simmons as saving the other structures.

Firemen from East Jordan and Charlevoix fought the stubborn blaze in zero temperatures and succeeded in preventing the spread to other buildings. The town's community Christmas tree was destroyed.

• • •

FLAMES FROM the blaze shot above the tree tops and could be seen 10 to 12 miles away, motorists said.

The fire was discovered by James Brennan about 3:15 a.m. Moments later a call for the Charlevoix department resulted in local firemen rushing to help fight the fire.

Believed to have stared in the front office, the blaze destroyed three buildings filled with lumber. Two trucks were destroyed. Surrounding buildings were cracked and scorched by the intense heat.

Firemen from both cities performed a heroic job in fighting the blaze in bitter cold weather which froze water and made their footing precarious and hazardous. Residents commended the firemen for their difficult job.

Need for Leadership Never Greater

Some of the keenest, down-to-earth editorial comment in an American newspaper these days appears in the daily issues of The Wall Street Journal. We pass along to our readers this piece which appeared in the December 8th edition:

This country, as every schoolboy knows, was never intended to have a one-man government in the conduct of its foreign affairs any more than in any other sphere.

But for the last two decades the men who have been charged with the conduct of our foreign affairs have acted as if they thought this field ought to be the exclusive domain of the president.

The most notable--and notorious--examples of this were Yalta and Potsdam, where two presidents committed this country to foreign agreements not only without the advice and consent of anybody but without even telling the country all of what they had agreed to.

Yet Yalta and Potsdam were unusual only because they were extreme and because their dangerous consequences are so clear. The attitude that in foreign affairs the president must be free to do what he will antedated World War II and it has prevailed within the administration since then.

The origin of this attitude, we suspect, was the League of Nations fight. President Wilson proposed something most intellectuals thought was wonderful and the Senate rejected it. Since, in this view, the Senate acted stupidly, every effort should be made to prevent that body from having anything to say about foreign affairs.

Every effort was made. And the effort was successful to a very large extent.

We are today involved in a shooting war. The wisdom of the decision that got us there is debatable, but is is indisputable that the decision was made by the president alone and that any advice he got came only from his own official family. The only function Congress has been asked to perform is to provide the men and money to support that decision.

That is not the way the government of the United States was intended to operate. What is more important, that is not the way it ought to operate.

A realization of this is what prompted twenty-four senators to call upon President Truman to make no agreement with Prime Minister Attlee of the British government without informing the country what was agreed to and without giving the Senate an opportunity to pass on it.

Now if the senators mean that a formal ratification ought to be required before Mr. Truman and Mr. Attle can agree on a common set of objectives or a common program, we think that their natural fears have bestirred them too much. But the senators are very much right on at least two counts.

First, there ought to be a full and complete statement by the president as to what was agreed upon. This understanding, however informal, ought to be subject to scrutiny and debate. Even if it is nothing that calls for ratification in the constitutional sense, the Senate ought to be free to express its disapproval if it does disapprove.

Secondly, if there is an "agreement" with Great Britain that commits us to more than common objectives in the present military situation then it ought to be formally presented to the Congress. The chance that it may veto a wise proposal is not so grave a risk to a free people as that they should be deprived of their freedom to choose.

We have had enough bitter experience with secret diplomacy. Certainly the people have a moral right not to be awakened on some long tomorrow to find themselves committed to something they never even heard of.

What Types of Controls Are Needed

War has always been inflationary, and World War 2½ is no exception. How much inflation we can expect from war expenditures depends on three conditions: (1) The duration and cost of the armament program; (2) How this program is financed, and (3) The kind and effectiveness of controls we are willing to accept.

If inflation is to be prevented some kind of controls are necessary. It is not a question of controls versus no controls. The question is — what kind? There are two broad categories of controls — (1) direct and (2) indirect.

Direct controls involve price ceilings on many individual products such as were administered by the Office of Price Administration (OPA) during World War II. Rationing, shortages, black markets, and the multitude of regulations are part of this type of control. Control of wages and salaries is also involved.

Indirect controls deal chiefly with monetary and fiscal policy. Attempts are made to keep the volume of money, including credit, in line with the amount of goods available for civilian use. This method relies on a heavy tax program and strong regulations of the banking system and use of credit. Heavy taxes, credit restrictions and increased bank reserves were part of this approach.

Americans do not like controls of either the direct or the indirect type — both are repulsive to our way of life. The question is — "Which is best under existing conditions to do the job of preventing undue inflation?" The answer depends largely on future world developments. An immediate all-out war of world-wide scope will bring with it direct price controls, ceiling on all things, and a host of other regulations. We will become a military state. This, we hope, would be temporary.

Most observers feel, however, that we are in for a period of heavy military expenditures, of possibly 25 to 40 billion dollars annually. This could go on for a decade. We will have to be prepared for more Koreas and the possible outbreak of a world-wide war. We must keep our economy strong and flexible to make needed adjustments both from a military and from a civilian point of view.

Under such conditions indirect controls are to be preferred — they strike at the roots of the problem rather than treating the symptoms. Neither approach is easy — each brings distasteful consequences, and hardships to some of our citizens.

Direct controls are less flexible than the indirect controls. Price ceilings which freeze prices at existing levels, for example, would cause too many things to be out of line if they were extended over a period of years. Under rigid price control, if prices were in perfect balance today many would be out of balance tomorrow. Our economy is based upon changing prices to meet constantly changing conditions.

Sermonette

Have Faith in God

By Rav. Gaylord Howell

"And in the morning, as they passed by, they saw a fig tree dried up from the roots. And Peter calling to remembrance saith unto him, Master, behold, the fig tree which thou cursedst is withered away. And Jesus answering saith unto them, (Mark 11:22) Have faith in God. For verily I say unto you, that whosoever shall say unto this mountain, be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; and shall come to pass; he shall have whatsoever he saith."

Dr. E. Harold Mohn tells the story "about a passenger who was making his first voyage across the Atlantic Ocean. Because he was a personal friend of the captain, he was given permission to visit the pilot house and permitted to take over the helm of the ship for a few minutes.

HIS INSTRUCTIONS were to steer the ship in line with a certain star, and thus keep her on her course. Incidentally, some other duties called the captain away for a few minutes, but upon his return the commander found his ship far off her course. The explanation given by the novice pilot was simply this: 'You see, Captain, we passed that star several miles back; you'll have to give me a new star to steer by now.'"

A great many of us need a new star to steer our lives by. Often times we are merely inconvenienced or delayed because we have followed the wrong star for a while. But again it may become disasterous for us when we find ourselves shipwrecked upon certain obstacles in life because we followed the wrong star too long. Then we may have to start and build our lives all over again, beginning at the very first. Our lives depend upon our faith and in what we place it.

AS WE EMERGE from the Christmas season, some will have found that new star as it has shone over the life of Jesus, and others will very dismally put away their Christmas decorations and cheer for another season. Those who have understood and accepted the true meaning of the Christmas season will face the new year with confidence and hope in a living Christ who cares about people. The new year will hold its doubts, problems, and gloomy days, but through it all will be shining the faith in an eternal star of Bethlehem.

Bishop Marshall R. Reed has said, "During the destructive days of the recent war, we were often reminded that the stars were still shining. Bombs could blast cities into bits. What man had built he could destroy, but no man could put out the stars that God had hung in the skies. Man-made systems may lead to human suffering. Even circumstances beyond man's seeming control have often placed him in need of help. None of the forces of this world have dimmed the star that shone on Bethlehem nine-teen hundred years ago."

IF MAN PLACES his faith in that which is destructable and which can destroy as well, he will often go down with his object of faith. On the other hand if he places his faith in that which is eternal and indestructable, he will be raised up to a higher plane of living and loving. The faith that will do this is one based in love founded in God, Jesus Christ, and the Kingdom of God which does not perish or is destroyed by any force known to man.

Jesus by His teachings and life constantly challenges His followers to have faith in the Father in heaven. The Master never questioned the trustworthiness of God. On the contrary, He demonstrated His faith based on the assurance of the fact that God is wholly worthy of faith, adoration, and love.

Our God is not molded by the hand of man nor is he cut from stone by chisel and hammer. He is not one who sits in silence and does not hear or heed the cries of his people. But He knows the needs and desires of man and will hear and answer our prayers if we pray believing in Him.

Often times I believe that loss of faith or no faith at all is worse than faith in the wrong things. That person who has no faith knows the agony and pain of one living in total darkness. All adverse thoughts and feelings take ahold of his life. His life is filled with fear, anxiety, insecurity, and dread. Although a little of it may have some real grounds, most of it is without reality and never comes to pass. In many cases that person in the most unlikely circumstance who has a real faith in God, radiates with hope and love to incourage the more fortunate individual. For it is possible that no bodily handicap can keep one from having the abundant life, if he has a faith in God and the eternal things of life. God's love is not shut in or out by walls, nor is it altered or changed by the opinions of people.

It has often been said as we quote the Scriptures that "Faith without works is dead", and so it is. But the extreme opposite is also true, that works without faith is futile. No one with any common sense will begin a task that he has no faith in seeing results from. No one will begin a great number of jobs without expecting to finish at least a few of them. Neither is faith a blind leap in the dark expecting God to protect us.

Faith is based upon reason and love of God. It carries with it at least some knowledge of possibilities and limitations. If an individual is definite that something will not work, no amount of faith in God will change the outcome. We are sure that if we step out of a window of a high building, we will fall down and be killed or injured seriously. No amount of faith in God will change this situation.

The same is true when we know that an explosion will occur if two definite chemicals are mixed together, and no amount of faith in God's love will stall off that explosion. God's faith is a reasonable and a sensible thing even in war or flood or famine. It also persists in days of peace and good will.

Henry Van Dyke in "The Story of the Other Wise Man" has an old friend say to Artaban, "Religion without a living hope would be like an altar without a living fire." May we apply that to any individual by saying that a person without faith is like a body without life. All the possibilities for a full, active individual is present but will never be realized until there is present a faith in something that is personal and dynamic . . . something that will call for the best and highest in us.

Let us start this new year and live it as if you believed in God and his Son Jesus Christ. This will take study and cultivation, for faith is not born over-night just because we say we now believe. Give faith some fertile soil to grow in through the practice of prayer and worship. Live your life each day in your personal relationships as if the life of Christ matters in your life. Our prayer should be, "God, I believe, help thou my unbelief."

The number of forest fires in the United States increased approximately 11 per cent during 1949, but the total acreage burned was less than swept by fire in 1948. Last year, 193,774 fires burned 15,397,419 acres.

Man's first weapon in warfare was the slingshot.

Your approval of the franchise now gives the Company the legal right to continue doing business in the Township. This legal right is important to you and to us because it justifies us in making the investments necessary to maintain good electric service as your needs grow.

Again thank you for your confidence, which we will always try to merit.

Balanced Ration Every Day

Don't try to save on feed that is needed or your animals will reduce production. False economy on feed robs you of profit.

Chick experiments definitely proved deficiencies in vitamins and amino acids in overheated soybean oil meal. We need soybean meal to be uniformly heated if it is to be fed to poultry to best advantage.

Milkmaker 34%

Dairy Milkmaker at present prices is a lot cheaper than single protein concentrates when health and production are concerned. Government is supporting cottonseed at 90 percent parity. This has raised the price of cottonseed meal. Soybean meal is up and linseed is climbing.

Bureaulas

Did you know we have a high protein concentrate that carries 25 pounds of molasses in every 100 pound bag. It is called Bureaulas 30% protein. It also contains trace minerals and Vitamin D. It will pay you to try this.

Bud Kohler Writes

They were blown up back there in Yudamni where the whole terrible thing began. We destroyed every bit of ammo and every weapon and shoe and blanket that we could not carry away. Returned everyone of our wounded and most of our dead. If you could have seen the thing you never could have believed it possible.

At one time I was really ready to throw in the towel. We were on a flat valley surrounded by ridges to our front, right and left. In our rear the 7th Marines were trying to break through a road block. Our mission (1st Bn. 5th Marines) was to delay the enemy pounding at us from the three ridges.

We (B Co.) were in the valley in reserve and A and C companies were trying to hold high ground. Mortars dropped all around us and the ground was so frozen that we could not dig in. I was behind an empty gas drum and heard the shrapnel bounce off it several times . . . some penetrated the drum.

A company called for help so we moved up the ridge. They overran our position on the hill but we held on and wiped them out as they broke over the hill. They just kept coming at us in droves and we must have been outnumbered 10 to one on that hill. We held it from 4 a.m. to 7:30 a.m. when it started to slack off and they didn't come so fast.

* * *

THEN, AS IT became light Marine Corsairs came in! Beautiful, beautiful planes, and they helped us drive them out. Once we got them on the run they continued to run. My boys stood up straight and fired at them as they ran.

After the excitement was over I found three Chinese grenades . . . all duds . . . on a parapet in front of my cover. Why they did not explode I will never know, but I will never forget to thank God for my safety. That was just one of the close calls. There were so many more that it doesn't seem possible that I'm still here and unhurt.

Got to write to my wife now. Merry Christmas! and I hope you get news that I'm safe by then at least.

Love, Bud

I am very tired, having lost 15 pounds. It has been a rough time for us all. Fifteen days of fighting and only two nights of sleep.

Our unit started with 41 men and ended up with 18. But we returned all of our dead and wounded. Our march was 70 miles through the mountains and ridges, fighting every foot of the way.

The temperature has been around 30 below. All of us are frost-bitten of course. These shoe packs are absolutely worthless in this temperature. My fingers and toes are still numb but will be ok, I am sure. I am so thankful that I have not been scratched.

* * *

I KNOW THE LORD was watching closely over me every moment. Men fell and died all around me. Bullets missed me less than inches.

Shrapnel hit my clothing but did not penetrate. We are going to Pusan for a rest. Thank God for that.

City Votes Down Buying Balancer

Kohler's for moving the muffler and auxiliaries and adding to the concrete foundation, advised following the advice of Professor Hansen.

HE ARGUED that Hansen is taking his reputation on the mechanism to greatly reduce the vibration and that the city has gone to considerable expense to hire an expert. "I think if we hire an expert who knows his business as Mr. Hansen, that it is folly if we don't do as he says. Otherwise we should have saved our money."

Kohler disagreed with those who favor Mr. Hansen's project, saying that he does not feel that it will work. He pointed out that he only spoke for himself in expressing his opinion.

He contended that the city has no assurance that it will work and that the city will be out $11,000 which it will cost to build the counter-balancer. Kohler estimated that it would cost near $3,000 to move the muffler and auxiliaries of the engine and add to the concrete foundation.

• • •

MR. YOUNG and Mr. Gebeau were very much in favor of the counter-balancer, believing that the city should take care to protect its investment of $150,000 in the engine by following the advice of Hansen.

Gebeau even offered a motion to accept Hansen's counter-balancer project and Kohler's as well. This lacked enough support by the council and was defeated.

Heering in voting against the counter balancer, wanted to give Kohler's proposal a try-out. He said that it was too much money to spend for the counter-balancer and still not get a guarantee that it would work.

Heering argued that the city should look for another solution which is less expensive.

The mayor, who is not able to vote except in the event of a tie of the complete council, said that he favored Kohler's proposal, adding that he thought it was ridiculous to even consider the counter-balancer and Kohler's project together.

City Attorney Norman Ance who with the council committee has been working with Professor Hansen and Rathbun-Jones said the decision should be clear cut, contending that the city has spent much money to get good advice and should follow that advice.

Missing Council Meetings May Result in Fines

The suggestion of slapping a fine on councilmen who miss several meetings in a row for reasons other than sickness raised considerable discussion at the council meeting Monday.

Alderman Ralph Hamilton suggested some type of a fine. Laughingly, he said: "Fine them $50 . . . a year's salary for councilmen . . . and they'll come to meetings. No one took issue with him on the proposal.

Others seemed to think that $10 fine for each meeting missed above three would result in better attendance.

In any event, Alderman Bill Heering told the mayor that he did not intend to go south this winter because he did not want to miss any meetings.

The discussion was touched off when Mayor Knight became irked because the council did not accept Davy's resignation and would not agree to Davy's successor. Knight told the council that the people in the first ward and the rest of the community deserved aldermen who attended meetings regularly.

Attendance at council meetings has been a touchy subject in recent weeks because several times there has been a hunt to obtain a quorum of four members.

Area Reports Safe Holidays, From Accidents

While the state and nation reported a staggering toll of death from accidental causes, Charlevoix and surrounding area came through unscathed.

Meanwhile, law enforcement officers called upon motorists to use extreme caution on icy streets and roads to prevent serious accidents.

Chief Heise urged motorists driving on Antrim street to use extreme caution on approaching the Grant street intersection where there is considerable sliding by the youngsters.

Knight, Young File Petitions In Mayor's Race

Mayor John Knight will have opposition in the city's primary in February for the top post in the community as Alderman Drew Young filed petitions before the deadline last Saturday.

Young's filing of his petition for mayor came as somewhat of a surprise as many had thought Knight would have no opposition.

Aldermanic races in each of the wards were assured when six candidates filed. They are: Charles Bellinger and Ivan Phillips in the first ward, Harry Zeitler and Oscar Ward in the second and John Wolf and incumbent Harry Gebeau in the third ward.

No opposition was reported for city clerk, city treasurer and the three supervisor posts. Incumbent supervisors are George Haggard, first ward, Athur Bergeon, second wad and Clarence Meggison, third ward. All three filed petitions for re-election.

In the ward races, Ward is the only newcomer to politics here this year. Bellinger is a former council member. Phillips, Zeitler and Wolf were unsuccessful candidates last year.

Plane Lands in Field, No One Hurt

Freakish weather which closed in on Joe McPhillips Tuesday as he was flying to Charlevoix from Beaver Island forced him to land in a field near Harbor Springs.

His twin-engine Cessna, carrying five passengers, landed all right in the field but a dip, crusted with snow, rolled his plane over. No one was injured. The passengers were brought to Charlevoix.

The mishap occurred about 2:15 p.m. Tuesday, shortly after he took off from the island. Upon seeing that the weather was worsening, he headed for Pellston. He landed his plane about nine miles north of Harbor Springs, rather than take a chance of going farther.

Passengers were Lawrence Malloy, George Ricksgers, Mrs. Truman Ramsey and two members of the Barkley family, all of whom live on the island.

Nurses Will Be Trained to Aid Atomic Injuries

Lansing—Training of nurses to deal with problems of atomic warfare is a 1951 "priority project" of the Michigan Nursing Center Association.

Plans made in cooperation with the State Council on Civil Defense to avoid or relieve serious injury in case of attack have been announced here by Mrs. William McKinley Robinson, Kalamazoo, chairman of the association's committee on Nursing in National Security, and her co-chairman, Miss Elizabeth S. Moran, director of nursing at Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit.

At the committee's request Miss Mildred Seyler, instructor in medical and surgical nursing, Wayne University College of Nursing, Detroit, attended the first national workshop for nurse teachers on Nursing Problems of Atomic Warfare, held by the National Security Resources Board in November. Three other nurses nominated by the association have been appointed by Governor Williams to attend a similar workshop in Minneapolis Jan. 29 — Feb. 2.

They are Miss Mary E. Blackburn, instructor in surgical nursing, University of Michigan School of Nursing, Ann Arbor; Miss Ruth Jubb, assistant director of health and physical education, Grand Rapids board of education; Miss Catherine Wubbena, instructor in medical nursing, Hurley Hospital, Flint. On their return they will join in conducting workshops in each of the four cities, selected as centers of nurse population.

From twelve noon to twelve midnight a clock's minute hand passes the hour hand ten times.

Siren Will Blow For Draftee Sendoff Monday

When you hear the city siren blow at 8 a.m. next Monday, Jan. 8, it won't mean that there is a fire.

However, it will mean that you are urged to be at the courthouse and bus station to say goodby to the largest group of men to leave this county since the drafting for the Korean conflict started.

Twenty-one men will leave for induction.

The Charlevoix Service organization committee will be on hand to present gifts to the men. A minister will be there to ask the Lord's blessing and to speed their safe return to their homes in the county.

A large turnout is expected. The siren will blow at 8 a.m. and the boys will remain here until about 8:45 a.m. before actually boarding the bus.

Walter E. Milan of Charvoix is group leader.

38 County Road Workers Cited for Loyal Service

The Charlevoix County Road commission in appreciation for past services to the county road employes presented 38 members of its staff pins of recognition at a recent meeting of the Charlevoix County Road Employes club. Angus L. Fochtman of Charlevoix, chairman of the road commissioners, made the presentations.

Among those so honored was Ernest Peaslee, first clerk of the county road commission who retired Jan. 15, 1946 after serving 25 years in the position. He took the job on Dec. 6, 1920, when the office was created and when the county had little equipment and few roads.

He nursed the office through its growing pains until today there are approximately 122 miles of county roads, more then 600 miles of township roads and 70 miles of state highways under its jurisdiction.

Mr. Fochtman voiced the appreciation of the commission to Mr. Peaslee for his years of hard work and understanding. At the time he retired he was the oldest county road commissioner clerk in years of service in the state.

Volley Ball League Gets Underway Here

City Delays OK of Bids on Line Truck

The city council delayed action on bids for a line truck for the utilities department pending an understanding on terms.

The city is asking bidders, all of which are local, to wait until July 1 for payment on the truck to replace the present one which is 11 years old. Two of the bidders indicated they would comply with the city's request.

Mayor Knight said this is necessary if the city is to order immediately the badly needed truck. He pointed out that the city will not have enough money to operate if equipment is purchased and paid for at present. Tax collections will start July 1, and the mayor feels that the city will be able to meet obligations for equipment at that time.

The Telford Equipment company which sold the city the snow-loader voluntarily offered to wait until July 1 for its money No interest will be charged by Telford.

Bidders on the line truck were Brown Motors, Krahnke Motor Sales, Northern Auto Co., and Charlevoix Oil Co.

The city also decided to ask for bids on the body for the line truck and the water pump. Deadline for bids is Jan. 15.

The matter of overtime pay for men working at the ice rink was taken under consideration. Don Swinton was istructed to talk it over with Schools Supt. Roy G. Bennett.

Mrs. Christensen Succumbs After Long Illness

Mrs. Fred Christensen, 70, resident of this community for more than 50 years, died Monday after a long illness.

Funeral services were held at the See Funeral Home Wednesday with the Rev. G. D. Howell officiating. Burial was in the Brookside cemetery.

Born in Flat Rock, Mich., March 18, 1871, the former Olive Lautenslager came to northern Michigan shortly after her marriage to Thomas Nowland who died in 1919. In 1927 she was married to Mr. Christensen. She was a member of the Rebekah lodge.

Besides her husband she is survived by four stepchildren, Mrs. Marie Blissett of Charlevoix; Nelson of Chicago; Fred of Waukegan, Ill., and Kenneth of Mundeline, Ill; ten grandchildren; one great-grandchild and a brother, Edward Lautenslager of California.

Lip Service Is Not Enough

The Charlevoix Service organization account to provide gifts for county men leaving for service is in the red.

Your help is needed. No one needs to give a lot but anything at all will be appreciated.

So far two individuals who did the bulk of the work during the last war to provide for the the men leaving for service, are paying all the bills.

This can't go on much longer. For they are people of modest incomes. But they are imbued with the importance of helping the men feel cheerful when they leave their homes and community for a hazardous job in the service.

A bank account has been opened at the Charlevoix County State bank for this fund. You can make your donation anytime.

To date there has been no great need for money because the groups leaving our county have been small and the expenses have been no more than a few dollars.

The gifts presented to the service men include magazines, gum, candy, cigarettes and post cards. Little things you say! But they mean a lot to boys who are entering the service of their community and country.

Make it a point to be at the bus station Monday, Jan. 8, at 8 a.m. when the largest group to leave the county since the Korean crisis says farewell to Charlevoix county Remember, you have a date.

We must keep the fund alive as there may be larger groups leaving each month.

So won't you stop into the County bank and contribute 50 cents or a dollar to help pay for the little gifts for the men leaving the community.

Can we do less for them?

Council Split 3-2 on Vote To Accept Resignation: Compromise Expected

The long-awaited resignation of Claude L. Davy as first ward councilman was received by the city but the council Tuesday night voted 3-2 not to accept it.

So the council continues to operate with five members. It is expected that a special meeting will be called in the next few days at which time the resignation will be accepted. Davy has been in Florida since October.

A motion of Alderman Ralph Hamilton that a councilman who misses three consecutive meetings for reasons other than illness would have his seat vacated, also lost by the same margin.

The Davy resignation has been one of the prime topics at recent council meetings. The vote not to accept the resignation came as a surprise. Voting to approve the resignation were Carl Kohler, Hamilton, and Harry Gebeau. Voting against were Drew Young and William Heering.

• • •

Mr. Young said he voted against the acceptance because he wanted a little more time to consider a successor. Mayor Knight rapped the failure to appoint a successor who would only serve until the spring election a "deliberate attempt to keep him from voting."

The mayor may cast a tie-breaking vote only if all the councilmen are present.

The names of Charles Bellinger, Ivan Phillips, both of whom are running for election in the first ward, and Erber were discussed as candidates to succeed Davy.

The council could not agree on the successor of Davy so the resignation was not accepted.

It was considered likely that a compromise candidate, one who is not running for office, would be appointed within the next two weeks. It was pointed out that neither Phillips nor Bellinger, inasmuch as they are opposing each other in the primary, should be appointed.

Mayor Knight said he would ask for a ruling from the attorney general this week to determine if the city may legally vacate a council seat by passing an ordinance to that effect.

He insists that the council should be at full strength to cope with the pressing problems including the decision on the purchase of the counter balancer equipment.

City Contests Census Figures In 1950 Survey

City Comptroller Don Swinton informed the city council Monday night that he has appealed the census department's count of residents in the 10-year survey last April. Charlevoix is listed as having 2,664 residents.

The reason for the appeal, Swinton said, is that he believes there are at least 100 or 150 persons whose legal residences are here but who actually live in some other community.

Under census rules, these people should count in the city's population figures.

SWINTON estimates that the city will lose between $2,000 and $3,000 annually from state funds based on per capita ratio. The state as a whole reflected a 20 percent increase in population since 1940. Charlevoix showed a smaller increase.

He told the council that state aid payments to the city, based on the 1950 census, shows a five percent decrease, adding that the city badly needs the money for operations.

Swinton emphasized that he felt the local census takers did a good job but that many people who maintain residence here did not comply with census regulations.

Cribbage Tourney Starts

Joe Williams captured opening night honors in the cribbage tourney with a 962 score for the Oddfellows. Barney Englehart had high for the Masons with 953. The Oddfellows won by 616 points. The second round will be played next Monday night at the IOOF hall.

Joan Hess Crowned Yule Ball Queen

Joan Hess was lovely in a white gown featuring a bouffant skirt as she was crowned queen of the Christmas ball at the high school gym Friday evening. Ron Cunningham was crowned as her king.

The gym became a Christmas wonderland for the ball with a large lighted tree in the middle of the dance floor and evergreen decorated the band stand where Three Slips and a Miss held forth during the evening.

Council Should Not Have to Work Shorthanded

For the past several months, the city council has been functioning with one less alderman.

Due to the decision of Claude L. Davy who represented the first ward to work in Florida, the council had been operating short-handed. Several times there was difficulty obtaining a quorum so that regular business could be transacted.

At various times councilmen find it impossible to attend every meeting due to business commitments or illness. But when one other councilman was absent, it meant that only four councilmen were there to transact business. This is a bare quorum.

On several occasions in the last month decisions have come up which required a two-thirds vote of the council. Many other issues confronting the council required a majority of the elected council. This means four affirmative votes.

Two weeks ago, the vital decision affecting the diesel engine at the light plant came up for consideration. After much discussion of the various merits, a vote was taken on the purchase of the counter-balancers.

The vote turned out to be three to two. But the item of business required a majority of the elected council. It lacked one vote for this and the measure was defeated.

And it's not generally known that the mayor cannot vote except in the event of a tie vote of the complete council. Mayor Knight has cast only one vote since assuming office last spring.

The council has appeared reluctant to take action on Mr. Davy's absence. A letter from Davy indicated that he would resign because he intends to spend about eight months a year in Florida.

The mayor was urged to ask for Davy's resignation because of the necessity of having the first ward fully represented as well as aid the council in acting on current matters.

Until Monday night when the council acted on Davy's formal letter of resignation, the council has done business many times with only four members present. When this occurs, it means a unanimous vote of the four members present to transact most affairs of the city.

The city council is urged not to permit a repetition of this awkward method of conducting city business.

"Face" and Facts

Much is being said these days about the West's "losing face" in Asia through the Korean defeat. This concept of "face" needs closer examination.

The most powerful, the most practically effective figure in the Orient in this century has been Mohandas K. Gandhi. Hundreds of millions of Orientals throughout the East love and revere his memory today. Yet Gandhi showed a sovereign contempt for the concept of "face." He never hesitated to reverse a policy when he found it was wrong, and with disarming humility he would admit that he had made a "Himalayan blunder."

The West may have more to learn from the East than it imagines. Already many western statesmen must be remembering ruefully the scant attention they paid to India's warning that if the UN armies crossed the 38th parallel, the Chinese Communists would enter the conflict. It was easy to accept General MacArthur's assurance that Orientals respect nothing so much as force without balancing that statement against the evidence of Gandhi's life that Orientals can also respond amazingly to moral force — when it is made unmistakably clear to them.

In the momentous decisions that lie ahead, therefore, let the West be more concerned with the substance of justice and wisdom than with maintaining a fictitious "face" before the East. If Himalayan blunders of policy have been made, let them be corrected rather than compounded by new errors induced by false pride. And a thoughtful ear turned toward India and other countries of the new Asia may help the West to find the straight and narrow path between appeasement and holocaust. — Christian Science Monitor.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fren Mertin

If you are one of those individuals who hasn't bothered to notice that there's quite a war on in Korea (and there are some), we hope you read the letter written by Lt. Bud Kohler . . . and if that doesn't convince you . . . try looking at the pictures and story "There was a Christmas" . . . no, they aren't pretty . . . but neither is war.

• • •

IT DOESN'T seem possible that another year has ticked away good-by to 1950 . . . . And as you heard the strains of Auld Lang Syne . . . go through your 1950 file and see what's there before you put it on the shelf with those of preceding years . .

It's rather fun and a little sad too as you think back on all the things you've done, nice, interesting or otherwise . . . of the people you've met . . . the new friends you've made . . . the big things and the little things, the important and the unimportant things that happened . . . the people who left us for good this year . . and the little new arrivals . . . the heart-break, the joys and the myriad of just ordinary thing . . . that have gone to make up the year which is the half-way mark of the twentieth century . . . Perhaps you're glad it's over . . . and if you're not there's not a thing you can do about it . . .

SO TO THE FRIENDS we've made . . . we're glad we met you . . . and to all our old and new friends a happy, prosperous and peaceful New Year . . . May all your wishes come true and may you find what you're seeking at the end of the rainbow . . . The best of everything to all of you from all of us . . .

Aren't you glad the problem of the cheerleaders has been settled? For week's everyone's been waiting for the decision to be handed down . . . it was a close race but Gail Krahnke, Cynthia Smith, Pat Ratigan and Joyce Hardy won . . .

And did you ever see anything so sweet as the gingerbread house in the drug store window . . . it was made by Barbara White who was very generous in sharing the masterpiece with everyone by placing it in the window . . . children and grown-ups alike stopped to admire it . .

• • •

DID YOU EVER read the story of the Christmas Bells adapted from Longfellow's "Christmas Bells"? . . It was on a Christmas card received by Miss F. L. Edson who called it to our attention . . .

And it seems to bring a ray of hope in these troubled times . . it tells of a poet who sat at his desk on Christmas morning and heard the bells softly ring out their message of peace on earth, good-will to men . . . But suddenly, as tho' speaking to the bells he asked "But don't you know there is no peace on earth? Can't you see how man fights man, how hate goes on and on?"

• • •

THEN THE BELLS rang louder and deeper then ever and their message was clear . . . "You must have faith . . . God is not dead nor does He sleep. Believe it for we know . . , The wrong shall fall and the right shall win . . .There will be peace on earth for those who are just and kind and good.

This is our message" . . . Thus Longfellow wrote the lovely words: "God is not dead; nor does He sleep! The wrong shall fail, the right prevail, With peace on earth, good-will to men" . . .

Hello . . . how are you this nice new year . . . have you managed to break all your New Year's resolutions yet, If you haven't you'd better hurry . . . after all, this is the fourth day of the new year and you'll have to hurry . . . Or are you one of those people who makes really super resolutions and tries to live by them . . . there are a few of those, you know . . . they resolve to be more thoughtful of others, to say nothing but good about everyone . . . to do a kindness every day and in so doing these become better people and citizens . . . give it a try . . . it's well worth your time and effort.

. It's good to know the Essenbergs heard from Andy last week . . . he was north of Seuol when he wrote last and things were pretty bad . . . In his letter he wrote 'I went to bed 30 miles behind the front lines and woke up in the front lines . . . what a feeling . . . The letter was postmarked Dec. 14 . . . Other news of our servicemen brings the news that Dave Hardy, stationed near Norwich, Eng., at a B-29 base, has been promoted to sergeant . . . it was Dave's first Christmas away from home and he was plenty blue about it . . . and he'll be more so when he hears of all the gang who was home for the holidays . . . in fact, air force blue was by far the most popular color in town last week . . .

Among those who didn't get home was Alvin Bennett Jr., who had completed boot training at Great Lakes and who expected to be home for New Year's . . . His mother, Mrs. A. T. Bennett along with his sister, Donna and brother, Bobo, had gone to chicago to bring him and his brother, Chuck, back . . only to find that Jr. had his orders to go to Norfolk . . . they saw him briefly before he took off and brought Chuck home with them for a one-day visit . . . a pretty disappointing thing, we're sure you'll agree . . .

The wildlife around here sure was top news last week . . . first a lot of sea-gulls got frozen in the ice following a quick-freeze one night last week . . . and last Wednesday another deer made it's way into town via south Bridge st. and gave everyone who saw it quite a start . . .

Who says it isn't a small world . . .Mrs. J. F. Webb, the former Marie Novak, now living at Sumter, S. C., and Mrs. Charles Powell, the former Marguerite Hull, who lives in Columbia, S. C., met on the street in Columbia while Christmas shopping in mid-December . . guess they were two surprised gals. . .

To all our friends who remembered us during the holidays with cards from all over the country . . a million thanks . . . that's the thing we like best about the Christmas season . . . hearing from people one never has a word from any other time . . .

How did you like the Rose Bowl game? . . Wouldn't it have been a thriller to see especially the second half when Michigan really bounced back . . . And among the lucky spectators were two Charlevoixions, Otto Kane and his son, Bill, the latter a student at the U of M . . . who made the trip west for the game . . too bad they couldn't have tucked a few of us in their pockets so we could have seen it too . . .

Sermonette

We All Need God!

By Rev. W. D. Wond
pastor Community Church of God

I want to thank the editor of our Courier for asking the ministers of our city to take some space in our paper.

You will notice that I said our Courier and our paper and that is what I mean. With the world in its present condition we are all feeling as we have never felt before that we belong to each other and that we all need each other and God.

That is why I have said our Courier for it is our Courier, our City, our State, our School, and our Churches. You will also notice in the opening sentence I said that our editor had asked the ministers to take some space in our paper, I am sure that this attitude of feeling the need of making place for spiritual emphasis, is not only the feeling of our editor, but it is a feeling that is moving over all of us in times like this.

I feel as we face the New Year, there is going to be a greater awakening in our community for the need of our churches and for what they have to offer. I do not mean to say that we are turning to the Christian Faith, because we are weak, but because we are strong, for religion is a weapon for the strong not a refuge for the weak.

If we are going to carry on the great traditions and the strong convictions that have made our nation great, we need the same Faith that has brought us this far. Let us be intolerant, not with each other, but with all indifference and evil that would lead us to be a weak people.

I count it a great priviledge to have been a part of our community for the past eight years, and I am sure that we in our community will not fail in fulfilling our part in the carrying on of our great national heritage, which is based upon the teachings of Christ that teaches us that the fulfillment of life is found in loving God supremely and our neighbor as ourself.

May the Spirit of Christ guide us all this coming year.

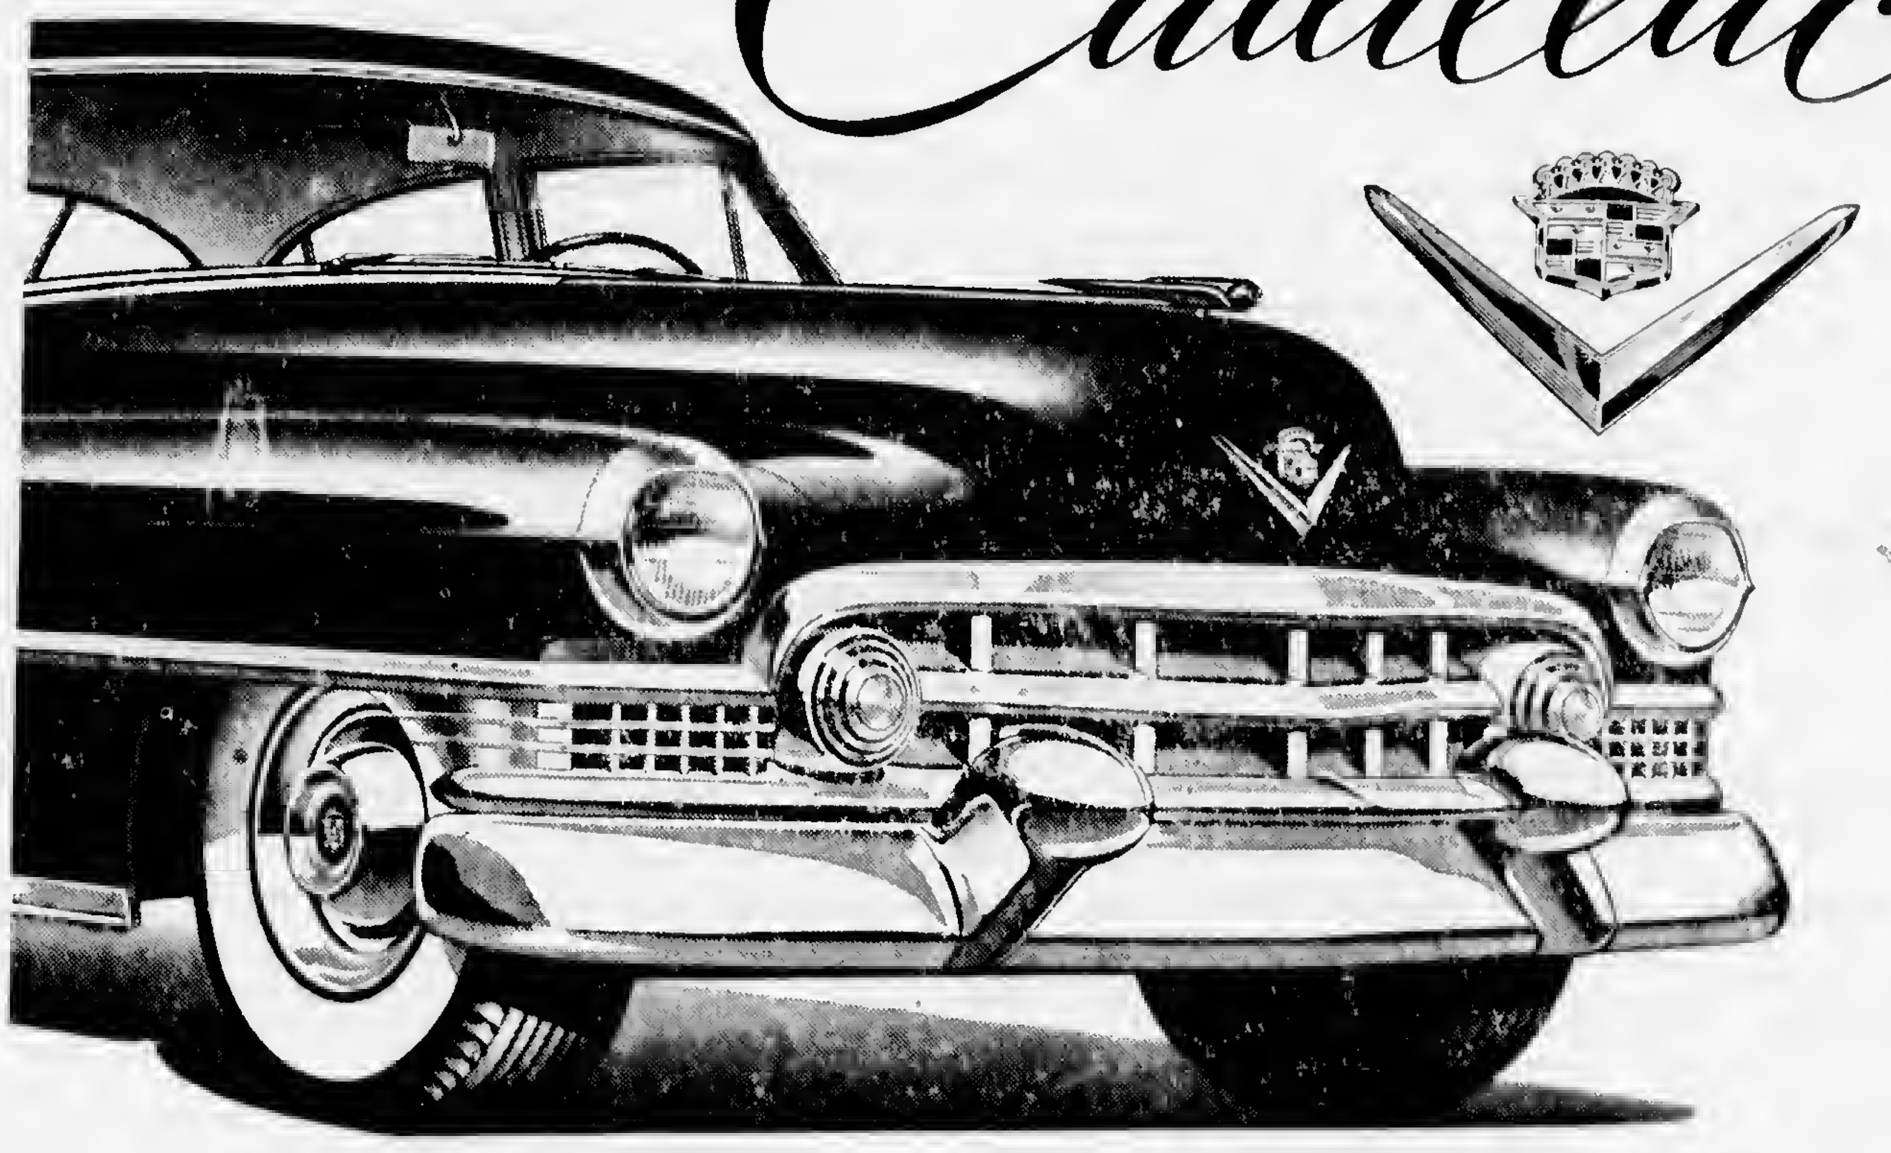
Presenting the New 1951

Cadillac



Far More Beautiful . . . Gorgeous New Interiors . . . and an Even Finer High-Compression Engine!

Today, we are privileged to present the new Cadillac for 1951—finer and more wonderful from every conceivable standpoint. . . . Numerous refinements in exterior design have made it more lovely to behold—while wholly new interiors, so rich in fabric and tailoring that they defy description, impart a sense of luxury that is simply beyond compare. . . . And, oh, the things that have been done to make it more gentle to handle—and more comfortable to ride in! The changes in this regard are manifold—and the results are a revelation. The car's quietness is now akin to silence; driving is all but a response to your wish; comfort leaves literally nothing to be desired. To ride or drive is to relax—and to rest. . . . The great master engine has also been refined—down to the smallest details. Its voice is closer to a whisper; its power application is faster; and it's even smoother in operation. . . . And there is an even finer Hydra-Matic Drive—with a new reverse for easier shifting, and for "rocking" the car in sand or snow. . . . There is new steadiness on the road—better balance on turns and curves—easier and softer braking. And throughout the chassis are vital improvements which add to endurance and dependability. . . . All in all, here is new lustre for the Cadillac name—and a far higher standard for the automotive world. . . . There are ten distinctive body types and four individual series—the "Sixty-One," the "Sixty-Two," the "Sixty Special," and the incomparable "Seventy-Five". . . . Why not come in and see them today? We'd be most happy to see you—and we are certain you'd find it an interesting and enlightening experience.

$358,000 Awarded U. of M. to Fight Poliomyelitis

Ann Arbor—Continuation of the search for a chemical means by which to prevent or control poliomyelitis is a major aim of a five-year March of Dimes grant of $358,290 just awarded to University of Michigan scientists.

Announcement of the grant was made jointly by Donald W. Barton, Eastern Michigan representative of The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan.

The intensive chemical research will be headed by Dr. Thomas Francis, Jr., professor and chairman of the Department of Epidemiology at the University's School of Public Health, who has directed a board program of polio research at the University since 1941 with the financial support of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Under the terms of the new March of Dimes grant a team of highly trained scientists, including virologists, chemists, pharmacologists and epidemiologists, will concentrate their efforts to find a chemical or drug that will effectively act against polio.

Dr. Francis indicated that the research will be carried out by the Department of Epidemiology, but other University departments such as that of Pharmacology will actively aid in conducting certain special aspects of the research.

In commenting on the project, he explained that the investigators in general will look for three different types of chemicals: (1) one that may prevent the multiplication of polio virus in the intestinal tracts of persons and thus prevent its spread; (2) one that may halt invasion of nerve cells by the virus; and (3) one that may prevent mullipication of the virus if it should reach nerve cells where it does major damage.

Among the many methods to be used in the search for such chemicals will be the newly discovered techniques of growing polio virus in tissue cultures. This artificial means of growing virus in test tubes may facilitate the obtaining of information on how various chemicals affect virus growth as well as the metabolism of tissue cells.

The March of Dimes is the sole support of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Michigan Farm Champs In Arizona

PHOENIX, ARIZ.—Mason County Soil Conservation district winners of the grand award in Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company's Soil Conservation Awards program this year, a seven-day vacation trip to Wigwam guest ranch on Goodyear Farms, relax in western regalia underneath the arch leading into the famous winter play spot. The trip to sunny Arizona is the Akron, O. rubber firm's reward to the group for contributing most to the soil conservation effort in Michigan during the fiscal year 1949-1950. Left to right, standing, the winning governing body members are: Ranold Thorow, Scottville; Tom Alway, Lodington; Floyd Wood, chairman, Scottville; Frank Hook, Lodington, and Donald Young, of Lodington. The three outstanding farmer-conservationists from Michigan's winning district are seated in front, left to right: Carl Schwass, Scottville; Dwight Spoller, Branch, and Ranold Van Dyke, Ludington.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By Gene Alleman
Lansing Observer for
Michigan Press Association

While the world is wishing itself a happy new year, Republicans in Michigan are estimating the strength of Dr. Lee M. Thruston, supt. of public instruction. The mild mannered little scholar has a strong hold on his job (which he has long campaigned to make appointive). His defeat next spring would allow a Democrat . . . the only one . . . on the governors administrative board.

For although Williams is the first off-year Democratic governor in 36 years, the G.O.P. hopes to keep him isolated in a sea of Republican assistants. Williams' nuisance power is great; his actual ability to get things done is limited.

Fred M. Alger, secretary of state, emerged from the defeat of former Governor Harry F. Kelly as the Republican to watch for 1952. Alger topped all nominees in the Nov. 7 balloting. Why did Kelly lose? The editor of the Muskegon Chronicle believes one reason was a voter impression that Kelly stood for the "Republican Old Guard". Definitions are elusive. You'll have to "roll your own".

MICHIGAN AUTOMOBILE industries are miffed over auto price rollbacks (until Dec. 1), labeling it discriminatory. But Walter P. Reuther, president of the U.A.W. (C.I.O.) applauds, reiterating his argument that business could raise wages, cut profits and still show reasonable profits. The end result of this kind of logic is state ownership of industry such as exists today in England.

At the same time the unions are sweating out their membership lists. As their members are called into the armed forces, women and other temporary workers are replacing them. But how long and how staunch will they be with them? The postwar (W.W.II) membership was not too inspiring to locals.

CHIEF BENEFICIARIES of present inflation, now running at the rate of 10 percent a year, will be farmers (through inflated food prices and land values) and city industrial workers through frequent pay boosts. Linking pay adjustment to higher cost of living will automatically contribute to more inflation.

Public assistance programs in Michigan from Jan. 1 to March 31 will cost $10,178,000.

And the U.S. government which for years has been eagerly voting through welfare measures by the score expresses amazement that there are now more than 5,000,000 persons receiving $2,000,000 in public assistance. Prewar records show that in boom times only 2,000,000 persons, including aged and incapacitated, were unemployed.

* * *

NOW MORE THAN 160 battle casualties from Korea are at Percy Jones hospital in Battle Creek. Since most of these men have suffered frostbite as well as combat wounds, it is possible the base will specialize in that treatment. The doctors are garnering first-hand experience of what exposure can do to a soldier.

National plans to build an air academy (Fort Custer and two other Michigan sites) have been scuttled. The house armed services committee says "this is the kind of a project which must be deferred until after the emergency".

In January 3,884 Michigan men, at least, will be called to duty. This is the fastest draft pace since World War II. And we are still waiting to establish training areas?

* * *

WHILE THE STATE MULLS its $65,000,000 mental hospital expansion program Republican senators Bonine (Vandalia) and VanderWerp (Fremont) argue that facilities for diagnosing mental disturbances before treatment are needed. Would cut down on state hospital needs, they say.

Including state aid to local governments as required by a constitutional amendment, the State of Michigan spent an average sum daily of $1,524,708 during the past fiscal year (ending July 1, 1950). State government received $1,422,811 average in revenue daily. The difference on a 12-month basis was a $21,311,232 deficit.

So the state began its present year (ending next July 1) with a red-ink handicap of $21 millions. Add to this sum the additional cost of financing public services due to our latest spiral of inflation, running currently at the rate of 10 percent a year. You get some idea of the financial headache awaiting the state legislature in January.

State payrolls have gone up. So has everything else . . . inevitably so as the dollar buys less and less. The outlook for 1951 is no different than that of recent years: Government services must be curtailed or higher taxes must be levied to pay the bill.

Soil Group's Annual Meeting To Be Jan. 17

The Charlevoix soil conservation district will hold its annual meeting Wednesday, Jan.17 at the Charlevoix high school, starting at 8:30 p.m., according to Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. Two outstanding speakers have been obtained. Dr. Turk, head of the soil science department of Michigan State college will appear on the program. Dr. Turk will discuss some of the important fact about soils and give some recommendations in regard to soil management.

Dr. Schoenduest Goetz, representing the Duchy of Luzemburg is in the U.S. working with Michigan State college and the Dow Chemical Co., in the development of a new type of cellular magnesium soil to be used in long distance shipping of fresh fruits and vegetables without mechanical insulation.

Dr. Goetz owned the largest green house in Central Europe and saw it twice reduced to rubble by American forces. He holds the official position of Sub- Commissar of Finance in the Luxemborg government and has spent considerable time in Washington. Dr. Goetz will be a very interesting speaker and all farmers and city folks are invited to this meeting.

The Charlevoix State Savings bank, the Stephens Implement company, The Charlevoix County State bank, the Charlevoix Oil company and the Charlevoix Co-op are assisting in making it possible for Dr. Goetz to appear.

Fertilize Vegetables

According to J. O. Dutt, extension vegetable specialist of the Pennsylvania state college, experiments have shown that best results are obtained by applying commercial fertilizer in bands two or three inches to the side of the seeding row and 2 inches below the level of the seed in the row.

Deadline for Signing up Farms Is Jan. 15

With the closing date for signing up in the 1951 agricultural conservation program only ten days away, approximately 600 county farmers have signed up to cooperate in this program, according to figures released by the Charlevoix County Production and Marketing office.

This is about 75 percent of all the farmers in Charlevoix county, says LeRoy Hardy, county PMA committee chairman.

He points out that the Agricultural Conservation Program is open to all farmers and that any farmer who cooperates in this program is contributing to keeping the nation strong. It is because our soil and water resourses are so vital to the welfare of the Nation that assistance is provided to help farmers carry out approved conservation practices.

Charlevoix County farmers who have not already signed up for 1951 may do so by contacting their township committeeman or coming to the PMA office before Jan. 15.

The chairman points out that conservation practices which help to build up the Nation's soil reserves are being emphasized for 1951. "With adequate supplies of most foods, the opportunity continues for farmers to build up their soil. By building up our soils now, they will be ready should the Nation need to make any substantial increase in food production later on.

Breeders Group Plan All Day Meet Jan. 9

The annual meeting of the Antrim-Charlevoix Artificial Breeders association will be held at the community hall at Ellsworth Tuesday, Jan. 9 Ed Rebman, county agent, said. This will be an all day meeting and will start at 10:30 a.m. Dinner will be served at the hall and the meeting will continue in the afternoon.

The program for the day will include the business meeting, election of directors, and other important business. The speaker for the program will be Larry Johnson, dairy extension specialist from Michigan State College. Mr. Johnson will discuss calf raising and herd management.

The Antrim-Charlevoix Red Dane Breeders association will hold its meeting at the same time. All dairymen in this area are invited to attend.

Farm Shop Meeting Planned Jan. 16

A farm shop meeting has been planned for Charlevoix county farmers on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 16 according to Ed Rebman, county agent. The place of the meeting has not as yet been decided so watch this newspaper for this information.

The program for this farm shop will include showing a series of slides on farm shops, discussion of shop arrangements and shop tools, a discussion of wiring, lighting and motors. Two welding companies have agreed to participate in this farm shop meeting.

Keeping Records Is Good Business

If you are not keeping records in your farm business, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, suggests you start on January 1. Each year more farmers in Charlevoix county are discovering that a good record book is one of their best paying investments, the farm adviser reports.

Why keep farm records? Michigan State College agricultural economists say up-to-date farmers need them to:

1. File the income tax return.
2. Find strong and weak spots in the farm business.
3. Determine whether the farm business is making a profit or loss.
4. Make wise adjustments in the farm business.
5. Aid in obtaining credit.
6. Make periodic settlements between landlord and tenant.
7. Settle insurance claims in case of wind or fire.
8. Keep adequate records to comply with Social Security Law.
9. Determine net worth from year to year.
10. Maintain a permanent record of farm operations.

Account books suited to Michigan farms may be obtained from your local county agricultural agent.

Pine and Spruce Transplants to Be Ready This Spring

Red pine and white spruce transplants for spring field planting may now be ordered from the Forest Nursery, Michigan State College, it was announced this week by Ira Bull, in charge of the nursery.

Bull explained that a million red pines and 400,000 white spruce transplants have been purchased by Michigan State College from the U.S. Forest Nursery to sell land owners for reforestation purposes.

Red pines are three-year-old seedlings, 4 to 6 inches in size and will sell for $7 a thousand. White spruce transplants are 4 to 5 year-old trees, 8 to 12 inches tall and cost $20 a thousand. No limit will be made on purchases.

Bull reports that black walnuts for field planting are also available from the Forest Nursery at 50 cents a peck. Black locust, white ash and green ash trees are also available in unlimited numbers for forest planting.

Order blanks for these trees and information on planting may be obtained from county agricultural agents, soil conservation district offices and from the Forest Nursery at Michigan State College.

A flavor tip from Michigan State College home economists . . the next time you broil hamburger, steak or chops, brush each side with Worchestershire sauce and a little melted butter.

An Old Friendship

The tie between men and dogs—shown by canine devotion in war and peace, in the saving of human lives, the guiding of the blind, the tracking down of man's game, and the guarding of his home and possessions—can be traced back to cave-dweller days.

Laying Hens Need Water--Not Ice

Laying hens need plenty of water . . . but not ice, says Ed Rebman, the county agricultural agent.

He advises farmers to inspect their poultry house watering system. Much needless work can be eliminated by a few simple changes.

The agent recommends an insulated water pail for farmers who have to carry water. This is simply a box large enough to contain a pail. The box is large enough to allow straw, saw dust or some other insulation to be put around the pail.

Some kind of top should be provided to keep water out of the insulation when birds drink. A perch or running board, from which hens can drink, is nailed to the box and a cover with holes through which birds can drink completes the insulated pail.

A fully automatic system can be made with drain pipes, float valves and heating cable. Poultry raisers can save themselves trouble, time, and money if they observe these points when they ice-proof an automatic system:

Use flexible heating cable of high resistance and water-proof covering.

Use enough cable and tape it to the water pipe. Length of cable will depend upon the length of pipe, number of lateral connections, number of birds housed, and minimum outdoor temperatures.

Use a thermostatic switch to automatically turn on electricity when temperatures fall to near freezing.

Honeybee Gives Much to Farmer Besides Honey

Emphasizing the importance af the honeybee to Michigan agriculture, a bulletin by the Michigan State College extensian service points out that far each dallar the beekeeper receives, fifteen ta twenty dallars warth of crop pallinatian is returned to the farmer.

The folder points out that 50 percent af the cultivated crops require insect pollinatian and that clean cultivation practices in orchards hinder aperatians of the bee. Clean cultivatian destrays the meeting places af wild insects, which feed on nectar and pallen.

Because bees seldom get enaugh nectar fram fruit trees, many growers seed nearby orchard areas with sweet clover and other legumes, the bulletin reports. A gaod stand of alsike carries enaugh blossams to produce 10 to 13 bushels of seed per acre, but the averago remains at ane bushel an acre taday. Cancentration of bee colanies in a gaod stand of alsike might increase the seed to four or five bushels an acre.

The bulletin emphasizes the fact intensive farming practices, through the eliminatian of permanent pasture fields, wood lots, and fence rows, have upset the balance between plants and pollinating insects.

The folder is titled, "The Importance of the Honeybee to Michigan Agriculture." It is numbered F-152 nnd may be obtained from county agricultural agents or by writing the Bulletin Office, Michigan State College, East Lansing.

Recommend Methods of Lightning Protection for Metal Buildings

Many requests are coming in to Ed Rebman, County Agricultural Agent, for infarmatian regarding the efficiency of the simple method of lightning protection for metal roafed buildings. Consensus of opinian is that the simple system is quite adequate, but perhaps the rodded system is better. The fallowing is an excerpt from the Farmers' Bulletin No. 1512 entitled "Pratection of Buildings and Farm Property Fram Lightning."

"Metal-roafed and metal-clad buildings, when praperly graunded, usually require little further attentian to make them reasonably safe from damage by lightning. The dawn conductar shauld be connected to the underside of aluminum roafs.

Clamps and fastenings made of aluminum but atherwise similar to those used far copper grounds should be used. Adding air terminals where needed and cross-connecting and grounding interiar metalwork completes the installation and brings it into full accordance with standard practice as set forth in the follawing paragraphs quoted from the Code: 214 Metal-Raofed and Metal-Clad buildings.

(a) Metal in overlapped sections—Buildings which are roofed or raafed and clad with metal in the form of sectians insulated from ane anather, or so applied that they are not in electrical cantact, shall be treated in the same manner as are buildings camposed of nancanducting materials.

(b) Metal Continous — When buildings are roafed or raofed and clad with all-metal sheets made electrically continuous by means of an interlocking ar other contact, or by bonding, the fallowing modifications may be made:

Air terminals need be pravided only an chimneys, ventilatars, gables, and other projectlans. such as are likely to receive and be damaged by a strake of lightning. Projectians that are likely ta receive, but not be damaged by a strake of lightning need nat be provided with air terminals but shall be securely banded to the roof.

Roof conductors may be dispensed with and elevation rods, if used, connected to the roof by soldered jaints, ar securely balted jaints, having an area of cantact of not less than 3 square inches (19.3 cm 2). If the roof metal is n small sections, connections shall be made to at least four of the sectians.

Down conductars shall be cannected to the edges of roofs, ar to the lower edges of metal siding, soldered or balted jaints having an area of contact of at least 3 square inches (19.3 cm2). If the metal is in small sectians, cannection shall be made ta at least four af the sections.

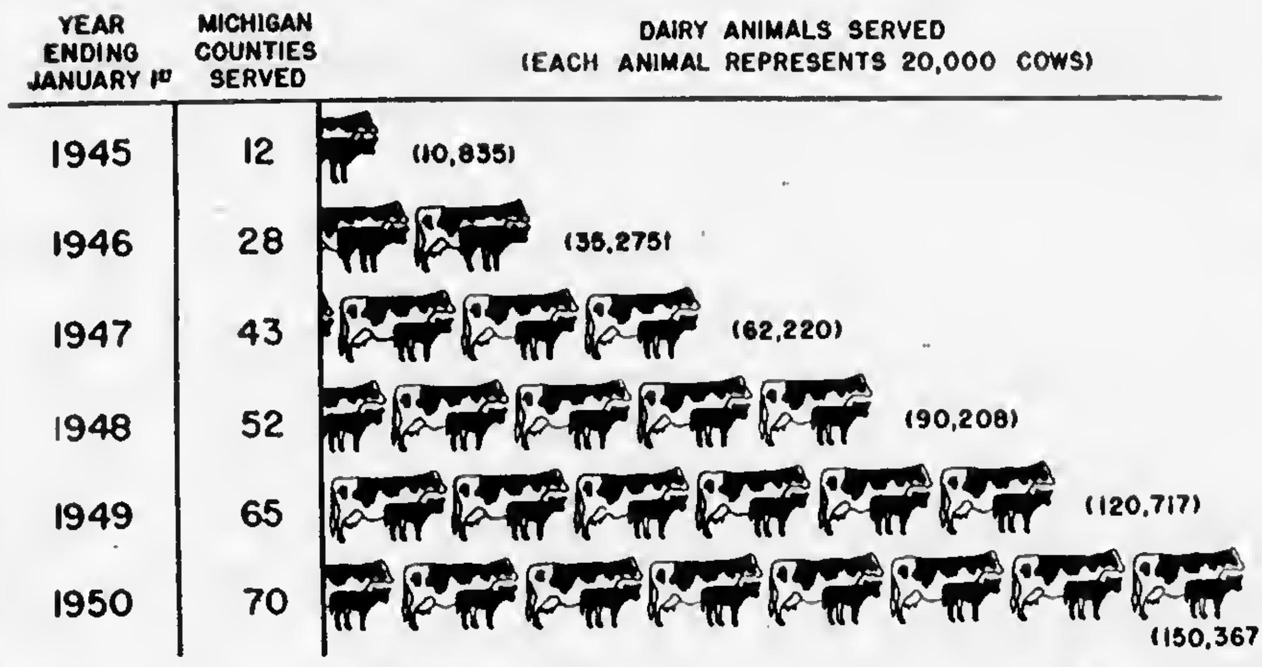
GROWTH OF ARTIFICIAL BREEDING
IN MICHIGAN DAIRY HERDS



In 1945 the Michigan Cooperative Extensian Service saw the need far a centralized artificial breeding pragram to aid the state's billion dollar dairy industry. It provided persannel, leadership and initial funds to arganize tha Michigan Artificial Breeders' Cooperative, Inc.

Today the organizstion is self supparting and owns many thousands of dollara worth of valuable bulls and facilities.

The 78 bulls kept at the central laboratory at East Lansing include many of the best in the state. Most of them have proven ability to raise butterfat production in female offspring abave that of the mother. Purebred bulls include the Holstein, Guernsey, Jersey and Red Dane breeds.

By enrly 1950, locally operated breed associations were operating in 70 caunties and serving 150,000 caws. Since then, 15,000 more caws in 2,200 more herds have been added to the list:

Semen is delivered to local inseminators by train, bus and air transportation. Local county agricultural agents help develop the program and some caunties have as many as six associations.

A. C. Baltzer, Michigan State College extension dairyman, is secretary-manager of the farmer-owned cooperative which canstructed madern buildings and laboratories on lnnd leased from Michignn State Callege near East Lansing.

Island Thresher Still Working After 70 Years

That is the record of a Case Eclipse thresher owned by Pat Banner, Beaver Island. This unusual service came to the attention of L. N. Ditlefsen, Lt. Commdr. of the Coast Guard, wha in turn told the Case campany abaut it.

The machine has been in continued annual use, except far two years when there was no crop due to drought and grasshappers, for nearly three-quarters of a century.

The thresher is now owned by Bonner who has run it for 40 years and his oldest brather ran it far 30 years befare him. The men inherited it from their father, John Bonner who had purchased it secand hand from the original owners. The original purchasers were William Gallagher, John Connelly and William Gallagher.

It was ariginally driven by horses, althaugh it is now driven by tractar pawer.

Whether you cook hubby's meals yourself, or whether you have a kitchen full of help; we'll grow your food. It'll keep us pretty busy to supply you and all your neighbors. We may be too busy to market our farm products in person, but we have developed our farmer cooperative marketing associations to see that you and your sisters have better food and clothing at lower cost. Our farmer cooperatives not only market for us, but they also do a better job for all of us by efficiently purchasing the things your brand new husband makes in his factory.

Red Rayders Cagers Swing Back into Action After Vacation Layoff - Meet Mancelona Friday

Charlevoix Guns for Sixth Victory After Losing to Alumni All-Star Team

The Charlevoix Red Rayders return to action on the basketball floor Friday when they travel to Mancelona for a conference game.

The Rayders victorious in all regular season games thus far will attempt to keep their string intact against a team which has lost three games while winning only one.

At times Mancelona has looked a lot better than their records indicates. Besides Charlevoix will face that bugaboo . . . the opposing teams usually come up with their best game when facing the boys from Charlevoix.

While Charlevoix remains at the top of the league, the local team can expect plenty of trouble from Boyne City, East Jordan and Pellston over the balance of the season.

* * *

IN RECENT GAMES, the passing of the first team seems to have improved. Coach Del Terrill is attempting to weld the unit into a smoother floor-working combination. At times they have appeared slow in getting the ball up from the back court. He continues to shake up his lineup in an effort to get the best team possible. Terrill is paying a great deal of attention to having the boys sharpen up their assortment of plays.

The team tasted its first defeat this season in an unscheduled game against the Alumni last Saturday when the former high school stars, paced by Keith Carey, won 56-38.

Carey made the difference in the Alumni team. Not only did he pump in 15 points on six baskets and three foul shots but his floor play under the basket enabled his team to score easily most of the time.

Bill Wallace was high point man for the losers with 13 points. Charles Fairbanks, Charles Krahnke and Ron Wojan, each had five points.

The Alumni jumped off to an early lead and worked it up to 15-9 margin at the first quarter mark. The halftime score was 32-19 and the third period score was 46-26.

The game was a rough one with 30 fouls being called on the Alumni and 26 on the Rayders. Pat Martin and Johnny Swanson were ejected on personal fouls. Ross Case teamed up with Carey, scoring 10 points, as a good one-two combination.

Case in turn held Fairbanks to five points. Terrill used 12 players and the Alumni 11.

IT HAPPENED ON . . . . BEAVER ISLAND

By Mrs. J. C. Hanley

Beaver Island had a white and very cold Christmas. Santa sure brought some of the North Pole with him this year. But with all the cold, there was the warmth of good cheer and gladness that the season brings.

The few days before Christmas was exciting with Beaver Islanders returning for the holidays. They came from far and near to be with the home folks on Christmas day. The longest distance was covered by Buddy McDonough who flew from California to Grand Rapids and the rest of the way by bus and boat. Buddy made wonderful time--the long trip in two days.

• • •

RODNEY NACKERMAN came all the way from Texas and arrived on Christmas Day. Both Rodney and Buddy look mighty handsome in their Air Corp uniforms.

The village of St. James was decked in Christmas lights and gaily decorated trees for the season. The windows of the Beachcomber were outlined in lights and a beautifully decorated tree was in front of the Shamrock. LaFreniere's and McDonough's stores featured lighted trees.

One of the loveliest features of the Christmas was the out-of-doors Nativity scene by the high school students. It was placed in the village for a few days and lighted with lamps, but for Christmas, it was moved into the convent's yard next to the church.

• • •

THURSDAY evening before Christmas, the high school students presented the story of Christmas in three acts. Rosemary Nackerman took the part of the Blessed Virgin; Robert Bonner, St. Joseph; Richard O'Donnell, Herod; Bernadette Malloy, the Angel Gabriel; Patrick LaFreniere, Peter Greene and Gilbert High, the three wise men; Gerald Hanley, counselor of Herod; Russell Palmer, Guard. Glenn McDonough, Henry Dubiel, Kenneth Ricksgers, Alvin LaFreniere and Charles Dudley were the shepherds. Seven little girls from the lower grades were court dancers. The costuming and scenery was beautiful. After the play, Santa arrived to distribute gifts, candy and fruit to all the children.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McCafferty and little daughter came from Chicago to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burt McDonough and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Mooney.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Cross and little daughter, Debora Jean, spent the holidays with Mrs. Cross' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burke. Gene and Jack Burke returned home to join the family circle. Gene came home sporting a 1951 Ford.

Donald Cole is home from sailing.

MR. and MRS. PAT Burke, Chicago, returned to the island for the holidays.

Mrs. Burke was the former Burnell Greene. Rose Greene, Grand Rapids, and Dan Greene, Detroit, came for Christmas and to make the family complete, Russell was given a five days leave. Greenetown must have been a lively place and just the way Mrs. Greene was hoping it would be.

From Mercy Central School of Nursing, Grand Rapids, Lillian Connaghan, Joy McDonough and Mary Malloy returned to spend the holidays with their parents.

Tom and Emmet Schmidt returned home from sailing in time for Christmas. Emmet set himself up to a car before returning to the island.

Patricia O'Donell spent Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James O'Donnell.

Teddy Wojan spent Christmas with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. William Belfy had as their guests over the Christmas weekend, their son, Erwin, their daughter, Mrs. Edna McCann and Grandson, Verle, all of Detroit.

• • •

Bussie LaFreniere came up from Detroit to spend Christmas at home.

Don Burke is another sailor who came home with a new car. Don figured his walking days were over, but when he took a look at the snow drifts out towards home, Don said he should have bought snow shoes instead of a car.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ricksgers had as their Christmas guests, their daughter, Mrs. Donald Evans, the former Margaret Ricksgers, Alfred and his fiance, Mary Lou Dormire of Fenton.

Bans of marriage have been called for Alfred Ricksgers and Charles McCauley. Charles' marriage has taken place December 30th and Alfred's date has been set for January 6th. Charles came to the island to spend Christmas with his mother, Mrs. Lizzie McCauley. Returning to Pontiac, he drove his mother and Hubert, his brother, down for the wedding.

Gretchen and Bill Backley arrived on the island a few days after Christmas. Gretchen is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McDonough and Bill was the guest of Glenn McDonough.

Patricia Ramsey, a student at Central Michigan Teacher's College, spent the holidays with her peents, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Ramsey.

CHRISTMAS on the island was white and very cold. Although Christmas Eve was blustery along with the cold, there was a beautiful moon to light the way to Holy Cross Church where practically every Beaver Islander was winding their way for mid-night Mass. Practically every Beaver Islander was present. The altar was decorated with poinsettia and small pines and mellowed with candle light. Preceding Mass, a program of Christmas hymns was sung by the choir. The altar boys in procession marched into church while the choir sang Silent Night. In front of the Christmas crib, Father Giles read the Prayer of St. Francis of Assisi. Mass and benediction followed. Thus, the birthday of the Christ Child was ushered in on Beaver Island.

The harbor is freezing up fast. The North Shore had to plow its way through a crust of ice to reach the dock Tuesday. Joe Gallagher's tug, the Bonnie, and Mike Cull's LaFond, sliced up the ice in the center of the harbor and the northwest took it out the next day.

Dr. Palmers Entertain Group At Holiday Fete

Beaver Island—Dr. and Mrs. Russell Palmer were hosts at a lovely holiday affair in their home Tuesday evening. Thirty-five guests were present for a musical treat which included piano and vocal numbers by members of the St. Cecelia Club, a vocal student, Rosemary McDonough and a number of talented guests.

The Palmer's home was beautifully decorated for the occasion with cut flowers, silvered pine and a gaily decorated tree. Mrs. Palmer received her guests wearing a powder blue evening gown. Mrs. Geraldine Buckner and Mary Margaret Greene, dressed in formals, assisted Mrs. Palmer.

Members of the St. Cecelia club include Ann and Kathleen Gatliff, Karen Pischner, Karen Ryan, Mary Elizabeth Gallagher, Beverly Moody and Ann Marie Hanley. They presented Christmas songs and Mary Elizabeth and Ann Marie played several piano selections.

Others who contributed to the enjoyment were Mrs. Larry Davison, who accompanied her daughter, Betty, in two delightful vocal numbers. Mrs. Teddy Wojan, Mrs. Willard Pischner, Janet Gallagher and Patricia Kenney presented vocal numbers.

Marilyn Kenney played "Silent Night" on her piano accordian while all the guests joined in singing the favorite Christmas hymn. Mrs. Davison, Mrs. Wojan and Mrs. Palmer presented piano selections.

After the program, refreshments were served and dancing enjoyed.

STARVATION . . .

In the Land of Plenty

For years, gulls around St. Augustine, Florida have lived off the refuse thrown overboard from the shrimp fleet. But recently the fleet moved 500 miles down the coast.
Many gulls, unused to making a living as nature intended, starved to death. In our growing dependence upon government subsidy, we wonder if this might be a lesson. We wonder!

New Wonder Drug Developed in State By Health Dept.

A new antibiotic which may well rival the sulfas, penicillin and streptomycin in its effectiveness against disease has been discovered in the Laboratories of the Michigan Department of Health, Dr. Albert E. Heustis, State Health Commissioner, announced today.

The antibiotic is a product of a peach-colored soil mold, the 3,590th of 17,000 molds tested in the Department's four-year-old antibiotic research program.

Based on its structural form, it has been given the name synnematin (pronounced sin NEE ma tin) which means "fused thread."

Synnematin kills the organisms of several diseases in test tubes and in animals. Tests in humans have not been done.

The new antibiotic is effective against diseases caused by certain Salmonella organisms for which no present adequate treatment exists. Salmonella organisms are the cause of certain types of diarrhea, including the type which causes the deaths of numerous Michigan infants in hospital nurseries. The Salmonellas are also responsible for certain types of septicemia and for typhoid fever.

In the test tube it appears that synnematin may also be effective against tuberculosis, undulant fever and certain streptococcus organisms.

Credit for the discovery is given to four of the Department's young researchers: Dr. Russell Gottshall, bacteriologist; Dr. John M. Roberts, mycologist (mold expert); Dr. Lucile Portwood, chemist; and Jay C. Jennings, bacteriologist.

While much additional testing in animals and much purification remains to be done before production for human use can be undertaken, the Department has applied for a patent on the antibiotic in the name of the State of Michigan.

Kiwanis Head Urges More Attention to Gov't

"Freedom is not free . . . it costs us lives and money to be free."

So said Walter Patengo, governor of tha Michigan district of Kiwanis, who spoke to the local Kiwanis club Monday night. He said it takes tremendous efforts by all in this country to keep the nation free from foreign "ism."

He called for aggressive citizenship which is developed by precept and example in this time of great stress. Expressing confidence in the nation as a whole, he said "we must get the best leadership possible to direct our great responsibility.

Terming religion as the greatest fundamental foundation of life, he declared that the United States is great today because of its freedom of worship. The speaker contrasted the situation in Russia today where God is not recognized by the Soviet government.

"WE CAN HAVE the type of government we want, if we want it badly enough," Mr. Patenge said. In his inspirational talk, he stressed the necessity of performing all the functions of good citizenship and a growing awareness of governmental business.

WALTER F. PATENGE

Sharply critical of the huge domestic spending of the federal government, he said the nation is like a private concern or an individual. It must live within its income or else face eventual bankruptcy.

"WE CAN'T SQUANDER our wealth else we will have lost it forever," he said.

Mr. Patenge was introduced by the Kiwanis district's lieutenant governor, Zal Fryman of Petoskey. Club president Gordon Freedman presided.

Lenore Goldman Fund Aids Many Here Past Year

The local operating committee of the Lenore Goldman Meyer fund made its report this week on the work accomplished during the last quarter of 1950.

Robert Bridge in making the report said 25 individuals, the majority of whom were children, had been aided directly by the fund through the purchase of clothing, shoes, food and in a few cases fuel.

For the first time the fund purchased school books for children attending the parochial school whose families were unable to purchase the books for them. A sum of $32.00 was used for this purpose.

Also in the schools where the greatest work is accomplished $170.00 has been paid for the pur-

Adult Education Classes Offered Again This Year

Adult education classes in which so much interest has been shown in the past two years will be opened to the public again this winter, Supt. Roy G. Bennett announced this week.

Classes in any subject in which enough interest is shown will be given, he added.

Most popular courses last winter proved to be woodworking, typing and sewing. This year several requests have been made for a course in bookkeeping. If enough individuals are interested to warrant a class the course will be given.

All persons interested in registering for any vocational, academic or commerical courses may do so by calling 51-J or enrolling at the high school building at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 18.

That adult education classes have been well attended in the past is shown by the figures given for the two years the courses have been offered. In 1949 100 persons were enrolled and in 1950 64 persons attended.

These figures do not include those enrolled in the ballroom dancing classes for adults as well as high school students. These classes may be opened at a later date.

Local Seaman on Navy Repair Ship

Lyle S. King, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. King of route 2, Charlevoix, is serving aboard the USS Kermit Roosevelt, one of the Navy's repair ships in the Far East.

The ship is officially designated as an internal combustion repair vessel, but her crew is resourceful. It proudly boasts that it can do almost any job imaginable, including provisioning, transferring fuel and water, hospital work and all kinds of precision and technical jobs.

Most of the men aboard the Roosevelt are graduates of the Navy's specialized training schools serving to keep the combat ships in fighting trim.

Council to Be at Full Strength Again

The long-raging controversy as who would represent the first ward on the council to replace Claude L. Davy, who resigned, was finally settled at a special meeting last Thursday when Karl Erber, former mayor, was named to the post.

Mr. Erber will serve until the spring election in April. The appointment of Erber was made possible through a 4-1 vote of the council as a result of Drew Young's changing his vote from the original balloting on the previous Monday. Alderman William Heering cast the dissenting vote.

The appointment means that the council will be at full strength for the first time since late September when Mr. Davy left for Florida where he expects to spend some eight months a year in the future.

DURING THIS period when the council could not decide on many business items, simply because they required a majority of the elected council. It meant that there had to be four affirmative votes for any action to be legal.

Several issues including the decision to order the counter-balances were defeated because of lack of four affirmative votes. Erber is familiar with city affairs from his mayorship and more recently has closely watched the proceedings of the council.

Young in changing his vote said that he did so because, after careful consideration he believed Mr. Erber to be the man for the job. A few days earlier the council had refused to accept Davy's resignation because of a split as to who should be the replacement.

One faction led by Heering favored Charles Bellinger and the other wanted Ivan Phillips to succeed Davy. Both men will be opponents for the seat vacated by Davy in the primary in February.

It was pointed out that it would not be fair to either of the candidates in the first ward to have the other named to the council at this time.

The other item of business conducted by the council was the acceptance of the bid of Krahnke Motor Sales of $2,295. for a line truck for the utilities department. Krahnke was low bidder.

Census Bureau Making Survey On Employment

Information on the number of different persons who worked at any time during 1950 will be obtained as a part of the Census Bureau's Current Population Survey in January, District Supervisor Donald P. Watkins, Boyne City announced. The current population survey interviews each month a representative cross-section of 25,000 households throughout the United States, including a number in the Charlevoix area, Mr. Watkins said.

Three out of every five persons of working age reported some work for pay or profit in 1949, according to a similar survey conducted in December last year. In all, some 67½ million persons either worked for wages or operated a business, profession or a farm at some time during 1949.

Many of these, housewives and students, in the main, worked only for a limited period, however, and the average number employed in any one week in 1949 was but 58¾ million.

This year, special questions will again be addressed to all persons of working age in order to determine the number who had work experience of any kind during 1950, how long they worked, and what their principal job was.

With mounting labor shortages, it is important to know the amount and kinds of work that such persons as students, older people, and married women with young children are able to do and to what extent these persons can be expected to fill the gaps left by those who enter the armed forces or transfer to defense industries.

1951 Deficit May Reach $30,000 as Supervisors Cope with Money Crisis

The assistance of the State Tax commission will be sought by Charlevoix county in making a survey of property assessments in an effort for a solution to the mounting deficit facing the county.

County Clerk F. R. Bulow said he will write a letter to the tax commission for an overall survey of assessments in the county. Supervisors heard E. Sheldon Markle, field representative for the tax commission, canvass the assessment problems at their two-day meeting last week.

He told the supervisors how to approach the problems of assessment on various types of property to obtain a fair assessment. He urged supervisors to make equitable adjustments in their respective townships.

* * *

THE SUPERVISORS heard Lillis Flanders, county treasurer, explain that the county entered the new year with a deficit of $22,500. It is considered likely that the deficit will reach $25,000 and perhaps go as high as $30,000.

At present the assessment of real and personal property in the county is nearly $12,000,000. Some supervisors believe that this should be increased to about $15,000,000. Where the increase will come from is a debatable question with little agreement.

The county was also handed the bad news that the Ironton ferry lost $4,622.14 during 1950. This compares with tha 1949 loss of $3,405. Ralph Hamilton, road commission clerk, advised the board that the county owed the road commission $8,027.50 for operation of the ferry during 1949 and 1950. This represents the loss from ferry operations which must come from the general fund.

Hamilton advised the board that a legal opinion stated that the county road commission cannot use its funds for ferry operation. The county when it decided to invoke a toll on the ferry in 1949 asked the road commission to operate the ferry, adding that it would assume any loss.

* * *

HAMILTON also pointed out that the ferry operations cost the county $7,800 in 1948 before a toll was charged. Fewer people used the ferry last year, reflecting the smaller number of tourists in the area.

The supervisors passed a resolution favoring the conservation department in controlling the size of the deer herd for a five-year period instead of having the legislature exercise its control.

No action was taken on a resolution asking that a member of the county board of education be named by the supervisors.

East Jordan Wins to Step Into 2nd Place

East Jordan stepped into second place in the Northern Michigan Class C. conference, trailing Charlevoix, when the Jordanites defeated Boyne City 50-48 in a thriller all the way.

The game was nip and tuck all the way with the lead changing hands almost every minute or so. Before the game, Boyne City and East Jordan were tied with three wins and one defeat each. Both have been beaten by the Rayders in real close contests.

The way the race is shaping up indicates that the Rayders will have a fight on their hands the rest of the schedule. The locals have a game against East Jordan and Boyne City. Scores in the games among these county rivals point to some very close games.

Pellston is still given an outside chance to win the conference title if the leaders should eliminate each other.

Charlevoix managed to defeat East Jordan by three points and Boyne City by two in the first games with these teams. Gayle Saxton's boys from East Jordan showed better ball-handling against Boyne than they did against Charlevoix.

It appears that the conference title will not be decided this year until the final game.

Eight County Men Join US Air Corps

With the closing of Army Air Force enlistments Monday for one month, U. S. Air Force recruiting offices were overrun by young men wanting to enlist in the air corps before their numbers came up in the draft.

Earliest of the enlistments were Elmer D. Manville and David S. Bodley who have already been accepted.

Others who signed up and who have gone to Detroit for final physical examinations were William Novotny, Richard Falting, Arnold Loper, Junior Potter, and Jack C. Grubaugh, all of Charlevoix, and Patrick Wabanimkee of St. James.

Several others nave gone elsewhere in the state to enlist and have not notified their families if they were accepted.

Supervisors Urged to Raise Assessments

Most supervisors were not too surprised when state tax officials last week advised the raising of the equalization for property assessments in Charlevoix county. State officials have long contended that assessments are low.

There had been talk about the advice at the courthouse for many weeks. The county board of supervisors listened intently as they are seeking a solution to the financial crisis which threatens every governmental unit in the state.

Some blame the crisis on increased demands of residents for more and better services. Many others attribute it to one of the results of mounting inflation. Perhaps both are right.

It's no easy job for the supervisors to operate the county in the face of a continued deficit. As one supervisor put it: Either the county has to eliminate some of the services or else taxes will have to be raised to cover the costs for that service.

He pointed out that the county had sold all of its bonds which had accumulated over the last few years and now faces the prospecct of strong medicine–cutting expenses in the wake of spiraling of costs of operation.

Other counties, meeting the same problems, are considering the raising of assessments as one of the mensures to copo with the situation. It is taken for granted that the county will do its utmost in reducing operational expenses wherever possible.

The county's income and outgo is simiiliar to that of families throughout the county and rest of the state. Unless wages are increased, expenses have to be cut to keep within their weekly income.

Economy in government is vitally necessary but there is a limit to that economy in every instance. Functions have to be performed and the public is quite demanding of its officers and employes.

Editor's note: The following is part of a letter from Cpl. Charles (Clair) Williams, son of Mrs. Melvin Jones, which he wrote to his mother and step-father.

Pusan, Korea

Dear Folks:

Today is the twenty-third day of December, just a short time before Christmas. I received the package you sent today. I enjoyed the candy. It sure hit the spot.

Well, I am fine and all in one piece. Yesterday I was transferred to a new outfit. I am back doing what I was in division headquarters. Just a few days after Thanksgiving, we moved on north above the 38th parallel and we were hit hard. I really mean hard. We ran into a trap as you probably know by reading the papers. We were in the trap for 10 miserable days and nights. And finally we made a break for it. With the help of the Air Force and the artillery we came out fair.

We are now below the parallel in a fair area. But at least we are safer than we were. Mother, you asked if we had enough to keep us warm. Yes, now we have. It is not cold here but above the parallel it was terribly cold. And you see at times we had to leave so much stuff behind. But speaking for myself and the men here, we are warm enough now. God bless you both.

Charles (Clair) Williams.

What Is Your Life?

Rev. L. L. Lewis

In The Book of James we read, "What is your life? In Philippians 1:21, Paul says. "For Me to live is Christ, to die is gain".

What is your life? God has given you life, What do you live for? There are Three False Estimates of Life. First is Things; But those who live for Things make a grave Mistake. For a Man's life consisteth not in the Abundance of the things which he possesseth" (Luke 12:15)

The Leading business in America is Junk business. Today things tomorrow Junk. Money can shut God out of your life. We can become so busy in Things, That we do not have time to know God. Jesus our Lord exhorted us to "Seek first the Kingdom of God and His Righteousness, and then all needed things would be added." Eat, Drink, Wear.

John The Apostle says; "I wish in all things that thou mayest prosper, and be in health even as thy soul prospereth III John 3 verse. No man is richer than his soul.

Second is Thrills; Those who live for thrills also make a mistake; "She that liveth in pleasure is dead while she liveth." (I Timothy 5:6) Pleasure is a Product not the main business of a Christian.Some say there is no thrill to being a Christian. Ask D. L. Moody, and Paul the Apostle, and Millions who have found Christ Precious.

God gives, "Joy unspeakable, and full of Glory. Also, "The Blessing of the Lord it maketh rich, and he addeth no sorrow with it." No morning after regret in the Joy of the Lord.

Third is Theories; "The world by wisdom knew not God." (I Corinthians 1:21) Josh Billings a Southern preacher used to say, "I'd rather know a few things for certain, than to be sure of a lot of things that ain't so." Not head first, but heart first we approach God the Heavenly Father. He that cometh to God must believe that He is, and that He is a rewarder of all those who seek Him." (Hebrew 11:6)

Life's true Estimate not found in Things, Thrills, not Theories, But in Truth. Our Lord before Pilate said, "My Kingdom is not of this world. " Things, Thrills, or Theories.

To this end was I born, and for, this cause came I unto the world, that I should bear witness unto the Truth. Everyone that is of the truth heareth my voice." (John 18:36 & 37). Pilate asked what is truth. Jesus is the Truth. Paul said for me to live is Christ. And by this statement he set forth the Christian's true estimate of Life.

Let Christ so live out His life through our humble lives that it shall not be us but Christ that is seen. If we have life's true estimate, we can also have death's Victory. To die is gain. Be sure that we have Life's true Estimate. Then even Death is a paying Thing. To die is Gain.

Cites Importance Of Church Stewards

Are you a steward of the Methodist church? If you are there is still time for you to get busy and join in the church work was the message brought to the members of the W.S.C.S. by Mrs. Arthur Edwards at a regular meeting held at the home of Mrs. Frank Bird Thursday. The title of Mrs. Edwards' talk was stewardship and she went on to enlarge on the work to be done and the need of workers to do it.

A social hour and refreshments followed.

With 20 men leaving Monday the committee contacted him to make some arrangement whereby the CSO could purchase the candy for with so many leaving it seemed a lot to ask one person to do . . . His answer? . . . There have been two wars and I wasn't called for either and now won't be for this one . . . Is giving that candy too much for me . . . We feel it's a pretty generous act . . . and is going to get even bigger as the months go on . . . Many thanks from the CSO and from the grateful families and friends of these boys . . .

There are times when you may cuss the mail service but here's proof that it can be efficient . . . Little Garlyn Bice received a letter the other day addressed only "To my little sweetheart Charlevoix, Michigan" He'd neglected to put her name on it anyplace but guess the postman had had other letters addressed in such a way and remembered . .

* * *

MRS ANNA ECCLESTON had quite a thrill last week when her son, Sgt. John Eccleston called her from Newfoundland after he failed to get a holiday furlough. And the Ken Forbes had a Christmas card from their son's outfit the 25th Division . . . with which he's serving in Korea . . .

Heard on the street: We've been wondering why the streets on the north side were cleared first and finally came up with the answer . . . it's the only ward in town with four aldermen . . .

* * *

THE PERCH and smelt are running at Ironton and we understand the catches are really something to see . . . Mrs. Vaughan Orvis had 59 which weighed seven pounds when dressed . . . wouldn't you like a mess of those or the wonderful perch? . . .

Some mothers we know have hesitated to let their young fry go skating until after one evening they see the attention being given the little ones by the older children on the pond as well as the rink caretakers . . . And the patients of those kids . . . they fall down and they get up only to fall down again but they rarely cry and continue the hard task until finally they can skate . . . wonder of wonders . . . oh for the patience and tenacity of the very young . . . And if you don't believe all this stop by some night and watch for a while . . . you'll love it . . .

AND MAY WE make a correction which should have been made before . . . Art Stoel trapped 30 minks this season and not the 150 we mentioned in a recent story about him . . . the latter number was caught over a period of years . . .

Don Campbell and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Linda Campbell report a most unusual experience . . . when returning to their homes on River st. one night last week they saw something hopping and flapping down the street in front of them . . . as they approached they saw it was a large arctic owl which was frightened by the car and flew some distance ahead of them, dropped what he had been trying to carry . . . On investigation they found a full-grown seagull, still warm but killed by the owl's talons . . . Mr. Campbell said he'd seen owls attack many small birds and animals but never anything as large as a seagull . . . The owl was a big one with a wing spread of about three feet.

Two Farm Experts to Address County Soils Annual Meet Jan. 17

Two outstanding farm authorities are slated to address the third annual meeting of the Charlevoix Soil Conservation district at 8:30 p.m., Jan. 17 at the Charlevoix high school auditorium.

Dr. Turk, head of the soil science department at Michigan State college will discuss the important facts about soil and will give recommendations regarding soil management.

Dr. Schoenduest Goetz from the duchy of Luxembourg will speak on the development of a new system of long distance shipping of fruits and vegetables.

* * *

PROCURMENT OF THE services of these outstanding speakers for this meeting was made possible through the efforts of Ed Rebman, county ag agent, in cooperating with MSC, and Charlevoix County State Bank, State Bank of East Jordan, Charlevoix Co-Operative Co., East Jordan Co-Operative Co., Boyne City Co-Operative Co., East Jordan Canning Co., Stephens Implement, Charlevoix Oil Co. and the Jordan Valley Creamery Co.

All farmers, their families and others interested in farming are urged to hear these men.

George Klooster of East Jordan, chairman of the board of directors of the soil district, will preside.

* * *

THE FIRST item of business will be the election of two directors. The terms of Klooster and Peter Winnick expire. The annual report, prepared by the directors, the farm planner and the county agent, will be presented.

Directors who will take part at this meeting are Klooster, Clayton Healey, East Jordan, Norval Korthase, Boyne City, Carlton Smith and Winnick, both of Charlevoix.

Contract Growers Will Meet Jan. 12

All growers in the Charlevoix and Antrim counties who are contracting canning crops from the Ellsworth Canning company will meet Friday afteroon, Jan. 12 at 2 p.m. at the Community Hall at Ellsworth according to Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

Any farmer who is planning on growing these crops for 1051 for the Ellsworth plant should plan on being at this meeting. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the possibilities of organizing a growers association to bargain with the plant in regards to crop prices.

Adoption of Good Soil Practice Is Primary Conservation Goal

Soil conservation districts and their benefits are now available to 82 percent of the farmers in the United States. Michigan has kept pace with other states with 65 organized districts in 57 counties, covering more than 80 percent of the actual farm land in the stato.

Many people ask the question: are farmers and soil conservation districts cooperating with each other? They wonder if there actually exists a "movement" toward adoption of soil conservation practices.

Russell G. Hill, Michigan State College extension soil conservationist, makes this comment as an answer: "It is true that only approximately 12,000 Michigan farmers have obtained detailed farm planning assistance in soil and water conservation from soil conservation districts. However, it is estimated that more than 50,000 farmers in Michigan have greatly increased their use of soil and water conservation practices in the past 11 years as a direct result of district activity."

* * *

HE CREDITS demonstrations, tours, field days, and numerous other educational methods and events for farmers using an increasing number of conservation practices, based on the capability and needs of the land.

Hill claims that the ultimate goal is the development of "conservation farmers." He defines a "conservation farmer" as one who really believes that soil and water conservation practices are necessary, that their application will result in more efficient farming for an indefinite period, and one who actually applies conservation practices on the land.

This individual, Hill believes, will practice conservation farming on whatever land he may be located. Such an attitude is important on the part of land operators, since more than 0,000 farms in Michigan change hands each year. In this educational process, the aid from many public agencies and civic groups, working through local leadership provided by soil conservation district, will be needed, Hill believes.

He concludes by pointing out that, "The adoption of conservation farming must be based not only on immediate profits, but also upon a realization that each generation has a moral responsibility to maintain natural resources for use by future generations."

Livestock Injuries Costly to Farmers

Injuries to livestock cost Charlevoix county farmers many thousands of dollars each year, points out Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. Just a little "good housekeeping" on the farm cut the toll, he said.

It is difficult to prevent all livestock injury, but a good clean-up session will help. Here are a few of his suggestions:

Keep pastures free of old machinery. Sharp edges often injure animals with resulting lost production and income.

Grounding wire fences properly will help to prevent electrocution of livestock on pasture during summer months. Wiring in barns should be located so that animals cannot reach it and chew tho wires.

Udder and teat injuries in dairy cows are also a danger to herd health. High door sills, short stalls with deep gutters and bad fences are frequent danger spots. In the winter, cattle sometimes slip on icy areas with resultant injury.

Pick up all small pieces of wire and hardware from the barnyard and pasture. Bits of metal swallowed by animals cause the deaths of many animals each year.

Farm Shop Meet Slated Jan. 16

The farm shop meeting as announced last week will be hold Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 10 at the East Jordan High School shop starting promptly at 2 p.m. according to Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

This meeting will last about 2½ hours with the first part being taken up by showing a series of slides on farm shops, discussion of wiring, lighting, motors, shop arrangements and shop tools.

Every farmer has a need for a well organized and well balanced shop so that they can carry on their own repair work as much as possible.

Two welding companies have agreed to participate in the last half of the 2½ hour program. There will be a discussion and demonstration of both electric and oxyacetyene welding.

All who are interested in welding and thinking about purchasing a welding outfit should also plan on attending this meeting.

Keeping Farm Records Helps, Says Geo. Klooster

George Klooster, progressive Charlevoix county farmer, invites Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, to look over his farm records for 1950. "No income tax headaches there," says Ed.

By Vic Spaniolo

In fact while Charlevoix and Antrim county farmers will burn plenty of midnight oil attempting to figure out their income for the last year, Klooster will be doing something else.

The chief reason for Klooster's failure to be worried over his tax computation is that he keeps good records throughout the year as part of his farm accounting project in co-operation with the MSC extension department.

County Agent Ed Rebman counsels him on his accounting. Klooster has been keeping books on this project since 1936. He estimates that he can figure up his 1950 income tax computation in less than two hours.

But not only does this farm accounting project help him with income tax worries, it enables him to receive analysis of his farm practices. The aim of the project is to give specialists at MSC and Rebman facts in regard to income and expense items in the operation of farms.

• • •

FOR EXAMPLE, dairy income provides about one-half of the total gross income of farms in this area. All livestock and livestock products supply two-thirds of the gross income in this area. The information is useful in that more emphasis must be placed on livestock and raising of crops for feed.

On the expense side, labor makes up half of the total expenses. This includes operator, family labor and hired help. Consequently anything that can be done to make labor more efficient will increase the net income.

Klooster is enthusiastic about the books for the project because he said, "it tells me how efficiently I am farming. I feel that it helps me do a better job of farming at less money."

The farm accounting project is being carried out by 1,200 farmers in the state with a great many more using a modified form of it, Rebman said. Klooster said the records after analysis tell him he should spend more money on better seed, fertilizers, good breeding stock and so forth.

• • •

ANY FARMER in the county is eligible for the project. All they have to do is to come into the county extension office at Boyne City and purchase one of the regular farm account books.

Inventories are placed in it at the beginning of the year. This is a statement of what the farmer has on hand. The farmer enters all expenses and income on a daily basis. Later in the year the county agent and a specialist from MSC visit him and helps him with problems in account keeping.

At the end of the year MSC representatives come into the county to check the farm account books to determine if all expenses are entered and if the book is complete. Upon completion, the books are taken to the college where specialists make a summary sheet.

Farmers should remember that when the book goes to the college, it loses its identity and is given a number so that no one know's the individual's financial picture. After all the books in this area are checked in and summaries made, a summary for the area is made.

The service is free to farmers for the first 10 years and thereafter it costs $6 per year.

Klooster, a director of the Charlevoix Soil Conservation district, is a member of the South Arm Farm Bureau and the Peninsula Grange. He is a student of farm economies and often checks his farm project books for the last 13 years to study the ups and downs of his farm program.

HIS FARM of 115 acres is used prinicpally for Guernsey cattle. He has about 30 head and is milking about 18 to 20 at present. He raises his own feed. Last year he had a better than average yield from corn, getting about 10 tons of sileage to the acre. His wheat ran about 35 or 40 bushels to the acre. Incidentally, his wheat sample won a blue ribbon at the Charlevoix county fair. He is a school board member and a Sunday school teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. Klooster have four children. They are Marilyn, Kay, Carol and Ronald.

ORCHARD NOTES

By Claude Fairman

Several new plantings of the Montmorencey cherry trees will be made in my immediate neighborhood next spring. Martin Bottema will plant 702 trees near his house to avoid deer damage.

John Peebles will fill in and add 200 trees to his orchard which is near woodland. He will build an ordinary fence, except at the top of the fence he will have arms extending at right angles at about 45 degree which have three wires.

He believes this will keep deer away. Others planting are Conrad Klooster, Silas Doctor and several others who will be named later.

All of these are planted on good locations and in the cream of the cherry belt. All are fairly free of deer troubles except Connie and Silas, who had some deer injury. All trees will be of the Stark Bros. nurseries.

It is reported by Michigan State college that some nursery stock that is lined out, or that will be this spring, may be injured by low temperatures and they say such trees are a poor risk.

Warning: Buy stock from southern nurseries, or nurseries that have dug trees in the fall and use the storage cellar. Southern Michigan and New York had low temperatures early in the season and many young trees may have black heart, according to farm papers.

Although I am growing fruit commercially, that is, sweet and sour cherries, apples, prunes, pears and peaches of the favorite varieties, I am under obligation to help anyone that wishes to grow their own, or commercially.

So don't be afraid to call on me or have me come and help you, or call the district horticultural agent at Traverse City.

One of the best ways we can make the soil better is to abide by accepted practice for land use, crop rotation and proper fertilization. To learn these accepted practices without costly trial and error, we depend on the experience and experiments of experts from Michigan State and other colleges.

George Klooster, progressive Cherlevoix county farmer, invites Ed Rebman, county egricultural agent, to look over his farm records for 1950. "No income tex heedaches there," seys Ed.

By Vic Speniolo

In fact while Charlevoix and Antrim county farmers will burn plenty of midnight oil attempting to figure out their income for the last year, Klooster will be doing something else.

The chief reason for Klooster's feilure to be worried over his tax computation is that he keeps good records throughout the yeer es part of his farm accounting project in co-operation with the MSC extension depertment.

County Agent Ed Rebman counsels him on his accounting. Klooster has been keeping books on this project since 1936. He estimates that he can figure up his 1050 income tax computation in less than two hours.

But not only does this farm accounting project help him with income tax worries, it enables him to receive analysis of his farm practices. The aim of the project is to give specialists at MSC and Rebman facts in regard to income and expense items in the operation of farms.

• • •

FOR EXAMPLE, dairy income provides about one-half of the total gross income of farms in this area. All livestock and livestock products supply two-thirds of the gross income in this area. The information is useful in that more emphasis must be placed on livestock and raising of crops for feed.

On the expense side, labor makes up half of the total expenses. This includes operetor, family lebor and hired help. Consequently anything that can be done to make labor more efficient will increase the net income.

Klooster is enthosiastic about tha books for the project because he said. "It tells ma how efficiently I am farming. I feel that it helps ma do a better job of farmtag at less money."

The farm accounting project is being carried out by 1,200 farmera in the state with a great many more using a modified form of it, Rebman said. Klooster said the records after analysis tell him he should spend more money on better seed, fertilizers, good breeding stock and so forth.

• • •

ANY FARMER in the county is eligible for the project. All they have to do is to come into the county extension office at Boyne City and purchase one of the regular farm account books.

Inventories are pleced in it at the beginning of the year. This is a stetement of what the fermer has on hend. The farmer enters all expenses and income on e deily basis. Leter in the yeer the county agent and a specielist from MSC visit him end helps him with problems in account keeping.

At the end of the year MSC representatives come into the county to check the farm account books to determine if all expenses are entered and if the book is complete. Upon completion, the books are taken to the college where specialists make a summary sheet.

Farmers should remember that when the book goes to the college, it loses its identity and is given a number so that no one know's the individual's financial picture. After all the books in this area are checked in and summaries made, a summary for the area is made.

The service is free to farmers for the first 10 years and thereafter it costs $6 per yeer.

10 Beef Quarters Could Be Sold

"I guess I'll have to put a want-ad in the Courier to tell people not to call me about those quarters of beef."

That is what Bob Doherty, Charlevoix RFD, said when he called the Courier to report he had at least a dozen calls within 24 hours after the paper printed a want-ad that he had two quarters of beef for sale.

It cost him only 50 cents to sell those quarters of beef. Others testify to the sure-fire results from Courier Want-Ads. If you have anything you want to sell, buy or trade, Phone Charlevoix 2 and the Courier will do the rest.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Friendship—Four Thousand Miles Apart

Never quite got the hang of how to play chess myself, but I'll say this for the game—it started one of the strongest friendships I know of: between Dad Wilson in our town and a fellow in Sudbury, England.

The two of them have never met or seen each other—but for eight or nine years they've been playing chess by mail together. Dad puzzles over the Englishman's latest letter, takes a couple of days to think it over, and then airmails a chart of his next move.

Dad always thinks best with a mellow glass of beer beside his chessboard. And the fellow in England writes that he does the same. "Almost as if we were in the same room," says Dad contentedly.

From where I sit, you can talk about diplomacy and foreign policy, but it's often little friendly things—like a game of chess or a glass of beer—that can make for tolerance and understanding . . . between people of different nations, between folks here at home!

Alfred Hoeksema Takes Bride from The Netherlands

Ellsworth—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Hoeksema was the scene of a very pretty wedding Wednesday evening Jan. 3 when their son Alfred claimed as his bride, Miss Susan Van Kampen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Van Kampen of Endhaven, the Netherlands. The house was beautifully decorated with evergreen boughs and white carnations.

Rev. Herman Goodyke, of the Atwood Christian Reformed church, read the single ring service in the Dutch language.

The bride chose for her wedding a gown of heavy white bridal satin with a long train. The lace bodice was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and the long sleeves came to points over the wrists. Her finger tip veil fell from a white satin halo. She wore a single strand of pearls she had brought with her from the Netherlands, and carried an arm bouquet of white carnations.

Mrs. Andrew Kooyer, sister of the groom, was matron of honor and Gerrit Hoeksema served his brother as best man.

The bridal couple received a cablegram of best wishes from the brides parents in the Netherlands on the day of their wedding. In the message her parents requested that a Dutch Psalm be sung at the wedding and this was done.

Close relatives and Mrs. Goodyke were the only guests at the wedding and reception which immediately followed the ceremony.

A three tiered cake, iced in white and topped with a miniature bride and groom, was served with ice cream and coffee to the guests.

Better Soils Pay Rich Dividends

Soils make your farm a good farm or a poor farm. If you don't have good soil, you can't get far in farming.

You don't get good soil merely by accident. The richest soil in the world can be robbed of its nutrients by improper land use and failure to take adequate steps to keep it nourished.

HOW TO GET BETTER SOILS

The latest information on soil programs including conservation, proper land use and natural fertilization will be given you if you attend the annual meeting of the Charlevoix Soils Conservation organization, Wednesday, Jan. 17, at the Charlevoix High school gymnasium.

Every farmer is invited to hear Dr. Turk, Michigan State farm specialist, and Dr. Goetz of the duchy of Luzembourg, who is touring the United States giving the farmers of our country a chance to hear what Europeans are doing to re-build their soil.

It will pay you to attend the meeting. Bring your neighbors.

The Good Earth

It smells good. It feels good. Treated properly and tended with care, it provides our food and our income. Handled without thought for the future, it withers and grows poor . . . . depriving us of our livelihood.

Agricultural science has shown us the way to farm security by discovering new ways of soil conservation.

Consumers Power has long advocated and actively supported soil conservation measures to prevent costly loss of valuable soil from wind and water erosion. Consumers Power believes that good soils benefit not only the farmer but the entire population. Better soils mean more crops, more money for farmers, merchants and more capital for industry.

Chiefly responsible for the great progress this country has made in its young history has been attention to its rich soil and inventive genius in every walk of life.

We recommend that all farmers in Charlevoix County attend the third annual meeting of the Charlevoix Soil District, Jan. 17 at 8:30 p.m. at the high school gym.

Be sure to attend.

Rayders Looking for Tough Game with Pellston Team Tomorrow in Quest for Seventh Straight

Ron Cunningham Leaps High to Score for Rayders

Ron Cunningham tskes off for the basket in the Charlevoix-Mancelona contest lsst Friday when the Rayders rsn up 75 points for their highest point total of the season while holding the losers to 38.

Locals Score Easy Win Over Mancelona, Rolling Up 75 to 38 Margin

Those rampaging Red Rayders, victorious in six starts of season cage play, are expecting a rugged battle here Friday night when Pellston comes to town.

Pellston comes here with a 3-2 record and is led by Keith Emerson who has been a scoring hot-shot for his team. While Charlevoix remains a favorite to win, Pellston promises to make it very interesting before the final whistle sounds.

Pellston supporters contend that the visitors may pull a surprise against Charlevoix. Naturally they are not saying what the surprise will be. Rayder Coach Del Terrill views the game with misgivings, believing that Pellston is vastly under-rated.

THE RAYDERS resumed conference play last Friday after a holiday layoff, lashing out with a remarkable scoring attack to swamp Mancelona 75-38 in the latter's bandbox gymnasium. It marked the season's high total for the Rayders whose 60 points against Petoskey was their peak.

Coach Terrill pulled a neat surprise when he started the Mancelona game with Bill Wallace and Charley Fairbanks, his scoring guns, on the bench. Charles Krahnke and Don Hardy started at forwards. Ron Wojan was at center and Dwight Smith and Norm Ketchman at the guard slots.

This combination worked almost all of the first half and appeared to function quite well.

Smith also proved to be a big surprise as he scored 16 points, two less than Wallace who rammed in seven field goals and four free tosses for his total. Smith was really hot pumping in eight field goals of 13 attempts.

MANCELONA'S coach, Matt Jacobson, said after the game that nearly every time Smith shot, he scored. Smith sunk several from near the middle court when his teammates were covered.

Charlevoix jumped off to an early lead but picked up momentum as the game progressed. The winners led 16-6 at the first quarter mark and 33-17 at the half. By the third quarter mark, they had worked it up to 51-25.

The Rayders scored 42 points in the final two periods including 24 in the final stanza while holding Mancelona to 21 points in the last half. But the individual scorer of the game was Ernie Wilcox of Mancelona who had 23 points on 7 goals and nine fouls out of 13 attempts.

The Rayders presented a smooth-working combination, showing a better passing attack and a closer working unit. Smith gave signs of giving the team more height as well as more scoring power. The Rayders scoring: Wallace, 18; Smith, 16; Krahnke, 11; Cunningham, 8, Wojan, 7; Boss, 4; Barber, 2; Hardy, 1; Ketchman, 6; and Donaldson, 2.

The Rayders Reserves had an easy time of their game, winning 55-26 with Bobo Bennett leading his team with 17 points. Deano Davenport had 11 for runner-up.

IT HAPPENED ON ....
BEAVER ISLAND

By Mrs. J. C. Hanley

Beaver Island's land locked harbor is no longer restless. It's quite still, in fact, it's one large chunk of ice.

Up until Thursday, one half of the harbor was kept open by the fish tugs, but after the departure of the North Shore Thursday afternoon, the harhor was left to freeze over and it did . . . but fast.

Fish shanties are appearing on the ice. The first one to pull a shanty out was Owen Chapman New, four are scattered here and there on the east side of the harbor where the ice is thickest.

Fish come in and out of the harbor during the year and right now they are out. For the past month or more, fishing has been very poor, but the fishermen say they will come back. We hope so. Fresh perch pulled out of the harbor during the winter months taste mighty good.

Island youngsters have been having a time skating on the ice. In the evening, they build a big bonfire along the shore and skate in the fire light. An enthusiastic bunch have been keeping a rink cleared of snow with brooms and shovels.

• • •

THE PLANE is still able to land at the airport, but it wont be long now when Joe McPhillips will be setting down his Station Wagon on the ice in the harbor. Joe started delivering the mail January 2 and made the three regular trips last week.

Our hats go off to Joe for the manner in which he handled a difficult situation recently when he had to force land in a field between Harbor Springs and Pellston.

The plane struck a ditch and nosed over, but not a single passenger was hurt to any extent. Butch Ramsey came out with an "egg" on his head and George Ricksgers bumped his bad leg, but the others came out without a scratch. We on the island feel very grateful that no one was hurt . . . and we are thankful we have such a capable pilot like Joe.

Lawrence Malloy and George Ricksgers, township supervisors and two of the six passengers, went across to attend a meeting in Charlevoix. Lawrence returned the last of the week while George continued on to Fenton to attend the wedding of his son, Alfred on Saturday.

Father Giles left on the first plane Tuesday for Walkerville, Windsor, Ont., Canada to attend the golden wedding anniversary of his perents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Berthiaume. Father Aden OFM Conv. of Grand Rapids is substituting in Father Giles' absence.

• • •

BUDDY McDonough left on Tuesday's plane to return to Edwards Air Force Base, Celif. On Christmas day, Buddy and Patricia Ramsey announced their engagement. The date of the wedding has not been announced. Patricia has returned to her studies at Central Michigan Teacher's College.

Mrs. Bob McDonough and children spent the Christmas holidays with her mother, Mrs. Wilbur Martin, in Petoskey. She returned to the island Thursday.

Capt. and Mrs. Forest Pratt have come to the island to make their home here. Last year, they bought the house next to the Post Office, the good looking house Francis Ricksgers built. Both Captain and Mrs. Pratt were former residents of the island.

• • •

SOME OF OUR sailor boys have returned to the mainland to work until navigation season opens. Bud Martin, James McCafferty, Gene Burke and Francis O'Donnell left soon after the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Elston Pischner left on the plane Wednesday for Charlevoix. Mrs. Pischner entered the Charlevoix Hospital for surgery. The operation has been performed and Mrs. Pischner is getting along nicely. Mr. Pischner returned to the island Saturday.

Wednesday evening, the juniors sponsored e party at the parish Hall to raise funds for the senior banquet.

"Coffee" Jack Gleason went down to the head of the islend last week to cook at the lumber camp being operated by Joe McNamee. The campers are occupying Mrs. Nellie Olsen's cabin.

Bob Peterson was in town Wednesday from his cabin down at the head. He said the road was in good condition and he had no trouble at ell driving to the village.

The Beachcomber Tavern closed it's doors New Rear's Eve until the summer season.

Friday Morning at an early hour tha big bird with the long lags flew over the Island and dropped a bundle of sweetness at tha Archie LaFraniera home. It's a young lady and har name is Judith Ann.

Buddy Left flew to the mainland Sunday to be on hand in Charlevoix Monday to leave with the induction group. Charles McCauley will leave with the group, also. The best of luck fellows!

THIS WEEK, the best news comes last. The new school building was ready for occupancy Tuesday morning when the children returned after the holidays. The building contains two large, cheerful rooms, hallway and lavatories. Green boards have replaced the old fashion black boards, which the experts say, are better for the eyes, so our new school received the green boards last week. Oil burning stoves heat the two rooms. One room is used for the commercial students and the other room is the regular class room. The fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades have moved to the upstairs room in the old school building.

• • •

THERE IS SOME work yet to be done on the new building, but every thing essential is there and we are mighty proud to have a new school.

The school lunch project is coming right along, too. Hot, nurishing lunches are served to the pupils and just imagine, turkey is on the bill of fare two and three times a week!

chase of milk for children who otherwise could not afford it. No distinction is made between the child who pays for his own milk and the one who receives it through the fund.

The twenty-five persons aided by the fund does not include the children for whom books and milk have been purchased.

The Lenore Goldman Meyer fund is going into its tenth year of operation as an emergency fund to tide the unfortunate or needy through times when they cannot help themselves or until other help can be given.

The fund was organized by the immediate family of Mrs. Meyer following her untimely death in August 1941. Contributions have been entirely voluntary by members of the family and by others who have wanted to contribute to it in her memory, in the memory of some other dear one or in honor of an anniversary of a friend or relative. Over the nine-year period the family has made the necessary contributions and many friends have given varied amounts through the years. Although it does not derive its revenue from the latter source, the fund is always open to anyone who cares to contribute to it.

The local operating committee is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Bridge, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ranger and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Meyer.

Earliest New England houses were built of thick planks instead of logs as is generally believed.

County Polio Drive Goal Is $4,000

Residents in Charlevoix county were asked this week to give financial aid to the annual March of Dimes drive in the fight against dread polio, the crippler.

The goal for the county is about $4,000, Dallas Henry, vice chairman, announced. He said that Charlevoix, East Jordan and Boyne City are expected to raise $1,000 each and the remainder of the county, another $1,000.

Twelve persons in this county including five from Charlevoix, five from East Jordan and two from Boyne City received assistance in 1950. The county chapter for infantile paralysis received $9,600 from the National Foundation last year.

A total of $2,484.15 was raised in the March of Dimes drive plus another $2,400 in the emergency drive last fall. This total represents about half as much as the county received from National Foundation.

• • •

THE COUNTY fund is nearly broke at present due to the large bills for expert treatment of cases in this county. One polio sufferer has received $950 from the county chapter for treatment since August 26, 1950.

Because of the great drain on resources from the National Foundation, due to the large incidence of polio last year, residents are urged to heed this appeal. The National Foundation stands ready to spend as much as its resources permit in this county as it has in the past to give polio sufferers financial assistance.

Edward Heise has been appointed temporary city chairman. He will be assisted by Tom Carey and Junior Willis.

Milk Price Boosted Cent In Charlevoix

For the first time since 1946, the price of retail bottled milk has been increased a penny, John Boss, of Maxbauer's Dairy, announced this week.

Regular pasteurized milk now costs 19 cents per quart and homogenized milk, 20 cants a quart. Tha increase affects only bottled milk. Carton milk remains at 19 for pasteurized and 20 for homogenized. Cream and other kinds of milk advanced a cent.

The raise here follows the announcement in many other cities and communities that milk prices have been raised a cent a quart.

MILK PRODUCERS in Charlevoix county selling to Maxbauer's effective last Tuesday, began receiving $4.20 CWT for 3.5 milk, a raise of 25 cents. Leo Berg, spokesman for the milk producers said that the cost of dairy operations on the farm has risen so sharply that a price increase was inevitable.

He pointed out that everything the dairy farmer buys has been raised at least 100 percent in the last 10 years and many items including farm machinery has been raised even more.

Barg said that et least two dairy producers in this aree have caased milk operations because it was more profitable to turn to somo other phasa of farming.

The increase of a penny a quart actually means a .02 per CWT loss, Boss sain, to Maxbauer's. He explained this by saying that carton milk constitutes half of Maxbauer's sale and the price remains the same on carton milk.

There are 46 quarts to a 100 pounds of milk.

Wojan Lumber Co. Damaged by Fire

Extensive damage was done to the roof of the kiln room of Wojan Lumber Supplies on Stover road late Thursday when a chimney from the hopper through the kiln room became overheated and started the blaze.

Firemen devoted their efforts to extinguishing the fire which spread to the sawdust and shavings used to fire the hopper.

Estimate of the damage was set at $300 by Fire chief Charles Marshall. There was no insurance.

This is the second fire in the kiln room in a year. Last April the roof was damaged and some lumber burned. In November the roof in the front of the building collapsed from the weight of a heavy snowfall.

Mayor Knight Reveals State Amateur Golfers To Hold Tourney Here

Charlevoix will issue an invitation to the State Softball association to hold its final playoffs here next summer.

The city council, acting on the suggestion of Mayor John Knight, who is also district softball commissioner, decided to make a strong effort to induce the softball group to hold its finals here.

It would mean upwards of 700 players and visitors from all parts of the state for four days during the Labor Day week-end. It would not interfere with the SPEBSQSA Jamboree at the same time.

• • •

THE MAYOR also reported that the Michigan State Amateur golf tourney will be held on the Belvedere course Fourth of July week-end. This will bring several hundred golfers and other visitors to this community.

John Wolf, candidate for alderman in the third ward, asked the council for an opinion on whether an alderman can hold office after he moves from the ward to which voters elected him.

• • •

HE CITED a provision of state statute that said that if any officer shall cease to be a resident of the city, or if elected in an for a ward, shall remove therefrom during his term of office, the office shall thereby be vacated.

City Attorney Norman Ance will rule at the next meeting on this issue. Wolf did not mention the alderman he had in mind but he apparently referred to the fact that Carl Kohler who was elected from the second ward, now does not live in the ward.

Ance said there is legal precedent for Kohler's continuing to hold his seat on the council end that he would rule on the issue Jan. 29.

The council authorized the city clerk to take out 1½ percent of each employe's wage and match it with a like amount from the city for social security. The money will be deposited in a bank here, pending transfer to the collector of internal revenue.

• • • •

THE COUNCIL heard a communication from the electrical workers union, representing city light employes, objecting to the use of the time clock at the light plant, claiming that it is discriminating because street and cemetery crews don't punch a clock. The communication was filed for later consideration.

No action was taken on the bids for a body for the new line truck and city water pump.

Michigan Good Roads Plan Needed Now

Charlevoix county and other counties in the state can look forward to more rapidly deteriorating roads.

Responsible road officials are quick to admit that the situation looks far from hopeful. A talk with Ralph Hamilton or Trim Reynolds at Boyne City who has been a keen student of road improvement, and they will say that the state will have to adopt the Michigan Good Roads plan for a higher gas tax if the state is ever to get assistance.

Consider this strange paradox: The state can use $25,000,000 of federal funds for road building if Michigan will match the federal grant dollar for dollar. But this was not possible this year because the state had only $10,000,000 with which to match.

And there is a crying need for improved roads to replace the battered ones which were due to be replaced years ago. And roads are doubly important in northern Michigan as tourists and resorters are avoiding travel over bumpy stretches of roads to Charlevoix and other points in this section.

The state highway department's funds are derived from three cents per gallon gas tax sold for automobile use in the state. Some of this is allocated to the cities and counties for local streets and roads.

Despite that Michigan is well-known as a state with many highways and plenty of traffic, the taxes on gasoline are one and one-half cents below the average tax in the states.

The outlook for building new pavements during 1951 is not encouraging. In fact the state built only 69 miles of concrete pavement last year.

There are many officials in Michigan who believe the state missed out on some of the best road-building years in its history, Had the legislature in 1945 adopted some form of the Good Roads plan, gas taxes would have been raised and the state would have had more funds with which to match federal grants.

It must be remembered that when one speaks of matching federal funds, he is not talking of raiding the federal treasury. The federal funds are derived from one and one-half cents federal tax on gasoline, A gasoline tax should be used for road purposes and the only limiting factor is in the ability of the states to match federal funds.

Few people realize that counting excise taxes on autos and assesories of the federal government's road-use income more than two-third's of it is diverted to purpose other than highway improvement.

The crux of the matter lies in raising the revenue for road-building to a point where it is somewhere in line with road costs. Highways are not expendable but must be kept up for better service to the traveling public. This takes money and increased gasoline taxes--at least up to the national average.

A number of states, mostly southern states, charge nine cents a gallon. This may be too high. But Michigan is only one of three states in the nation with 4.52 gas tax.

Here's the joker. Our gasoline costs as much in neighboring states which have higher gas taxes

The only logical solution is for the legislature now in session approve the Good Roads plan and raise gas taxes so we can have better roads. The state is going to need good roads as long as the automobile and truck travel the highways.

Let's Take Action Before Accident Occurs

Many times during last week's game with Pellston here, spectators, mostly children, continued to throw popcorn, paper and gum onto the playing floor from the balcony.

This practice has not resulted in an injury to a player as yet, but it poses a constant threat to all players. Players running full speed into the corners, pivoting and breaking fast run the risk of slipping on this debris and perhaps breaking a leg or ankle.

This writer recalls that one player suffered a spine injury 10 years ago in a southern Michigan gymnasium when he slipped on a wet wad of gum. After this accident, spectators were banned from dropping anything onto the floor under punishment of ejection from the gymnasium as well as being prevented from attending other basketball games.

The children or spectators do not do this purposely, but unthinkingly. But motives mean little when there is a possibility of someone being severely injured in the game. Perhaps it will take more policing by some of the teachers. Announcements over the public address system should go a long ways toward eliminating this bad feature.

Every Charlevoix sports fan should take it upon himself to urge others to pass the word that nothing should be dropped onto the floor. We can all help prevent a player from being injured.

Another dangerous condition that exists during the game is the permitting of the children to sit on the floor underneath the basket, particularly in the corners of the gymnasium's entrance. On numerous occasions, it has been noticed that one of the rushing players has had difficulty in stopping himself from falling on one of the younger children.

Officials have tried to prevent children from edging close to the playing floor but at best it's a tough job. Perhaps it would mean crowding the seating capacity to have these small children off the floor, but it is important.

It requires the co-operation of the parents, school authorities and the fans at large to be conscious of the players' safety as well as the smaller children who might be hurt.

The time to remedy this situation is before someone is hurt not afterwards.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

If you were at the basketball game Friday night did you notice the "something new" which has been added to the gym? . . . In case you didn't it's a new silk American flag and a new United Nations flag . . . And weren't the new cheerleaders cute . . . decked out in their grey slacks and white sweaters . . . the committee certainly made a fine choice for those youngsters sure have the vim and vigor what-have-you to get the cheering section going . . .

And another thing we noticed were the student directors of the band in Mr. Odmark's absence . . . Charles Krainke and Joyce McGhon did a bit of alright . . . which just goes to show what fine training will do . . .

• • •

WE UNDERSTAND that there's a movement underway to have a class in figure skating for the young fry . . . we don't know much about it to date except that one young lady, Nancy Novak, who is all of three years old calls it 'finger' skating . . . And Sunday was quite a day too for all the kids who went skiing and tobogganing on the slopes around here . . . Gee, to be a kid again.

Boyne Mountain lodge is sure having the big week-ends we understand with scods of people coming from hither and yon . . . it's certainly been a grand year for it and after all the slim years everyone in town is glad to see them on the upgrade . . . When you're out riding sometime stop by over there . . . it's really fun just watching the crowd of skiers and spectators . . .

• • •

VIA THE grapevine we hear that little Barbara Bodley who suffered a severe attack of polio last summer is slowly recovering at the Children's clinic in Traverse City . . . How's about dropping her a card or a note . . . now that the holidays are over the days can be long and dreary . . . so don't forget to put her on your 'mailing' list and send a card now and then . .

Will some of the amateur ornithologists around town come to our rescue . . . One day last week a flock of the most unusual birds made an appearance in our neighborhood and we've seen them almost daily since then . . . they're a slender bird with a breast which is a buff color at the throat but becomes almost white toward the tail and has a black topnot like a cardinal or blue jay . . . the remainder of the body is dark gray . . . they're a fast-moving almost jittery bird and seem to travel in flocks . . . And speaking of birds, it's been a hard winter for them so don't forget to throw out some crumbs, seeds or suet for the poor things. . they only have what you give them, you know . . .

Despite the cold weather there was a good turn-out Jan. 8 for the 20 boys who left for the service . . . And added to the gifts given by the CSO Sam King brought peanuts and candy bars and Miss F. L. Edson of the Charlecote sent small address books for each man . . . a fine gesture on their part as well as all the organizations which were represented at the send-off . . That's the way it should be and we're glad to see that the public is responding . . .

Birds are credited with being kinda smart but we're beginning to wonder after the latest reports on the robins . . there are several that make the mountain ash tree in the Kit Carson's yard a regular feeding place as well as other places on the north side . . Early this week Bob Dougherty reported seeing nine of the so-called harbingers of spring in his orchards . . . Either they didn't go south or their weather-man isn't any better than ours and got the weather mixed up . . . So help us, we've never seen so much winter as we've had this year . . . Do you suppose the next two and a half months will be as cold and snowy as the last two and a half have been?

• • •

CONGRATULATIONS to Gene Bridge . . on his selection as one of the men in General Eisenhower's guard . . . If he really wants to get to be the General's driver perhaps Fire Chief Charlie Marshall should write and give him a recommendation and a resume of Gene's experiences driving the local fire truck . . . We'll bet one thing tho' . . . Gene will be the nattiest and best looking guard in the outfit . . . We suggest you look for him in future newsreels . . . in that job he's bound to turn up sooner or later.

Sermonette

Christ's Invitation to You

Rev. John Bekkering

Bernard Reformed Church

'Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Matt. 11:28.

The Bible is full of promises and invitations. God is always seeking us, inviting us, pleading for us to be saved. If you are not a Christian it is not God's fault. The Lord says in Isaiah 55: "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, buy and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price. Again the Lord said: "Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth: for I am God, and there is none else." (Isa. 45:22)

How plain it is that the Lord wants people like you and I, to look and to come unto Him. And we know too that none that come to Jesus will ever be cast out. And one of the greatest invitations is found in Matthew 11; "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

Jesus know what it meant to be "heavy laden" and to "labor". He knew the pinch of poverty He was born in a borrowed stable, was laid in a borrowed manger, and was buried in a borrowed grave. He had no money to pay taxes until Peter caught a fish with a coin in its mouth.

Yes, Jesus was poor for our sakes so that we through Him might be rich. And Jesus knew labor. He Himself was a carpenter.

He was accustomed to unremitting toil. He knew all the details of the life of the family and the common laborer. How fitting then that Jesus would say: "Come unto Me, all ye that LABOR and are HEAVY LADEN, and I will give you rest."

Rest for our souls, rest for our troubled hearts! On many a grave are printed these words: "At Rest".

That is but an acknowledgment that this old, wicked world does not give rest. Why are here more than 25,000 suicides a year in America? Because people have no rest of soul. Why the multiplied thousands who go insane every year? Because people are finding that the things of this world do not give any rest. You see, only Jesus can give you rest. Only in Him is the remedy for our burdens, sorrows, disappointments, our labors and worries. So come unto Him and you shall find rest unto your soul.

Start Early to... STOP THAT COLD

Whenever you feel that you're "catching cold," start sensible home treatment as early as possible — at the very first warning sneezes and feelings of discomfort. Prompt action will usually shorten the duration of a cold and lessen its severity. But if a cold begins with chills or fever, or does not yield readily to home treatment, call your doctor. Only he can decide if you are suffering from a cold or something more and prescribe the proper course of treatment.

Norwood Couple To Celebrate 57th Anniversary

Saturday will be a happy occasion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Jones of Norwood for on that day the couple will observe their fifty-seventh wedding anniversary.

They are not planning a celebration but they have been residents of the community for more than fifty years and many friends and old neighbors will be sure to pay a brief visit sometime during the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones were married at Dorr Center, Michigan, Jan. 20, 1894 and lived in nearby Moline for five years before they came to Norwood township in 1899. Since then they have resided in that community and have lived at their present home for the last 30 years.

• • •

MR. JONES who will be 63 years old on May 15 was born at Moline.

Mrs. Jones, the former Jennie Newland, was born in the Netherlands Aug. 11, 1673, and came to this country at the age of nine years.

She recalls how her father left her, her mother who was blind and two younger children in the Netherlands and came to this country, planning to send for them in two years. He came to Michigan and near Holland met two men he had known in the Netherlands. They gave him employment and helped him to prepare a home for his family and in six months he had saved enough to send for them.

• • •

THE FAMILY arrived in New York after a three weeks' voyage and were placed on a train for Michigan but by some mistake it was not the right train and they had difficulties before they could be returned to Ellis Island and dispatched on the proper train.

The couple enjoy fair health. Mrs. Jones does most of her housework and attends church regularly. Mr. Jones does the chores and in the summer tends his garden.

They have four children, twin sons, Bert and John of Port Huron; Abel of Detroit; Vern of East Jordan and Mrs. Clarence Heise of Charlevoix. They also have 16 grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Value Your Health More Than Riches

Some folks think that fine clothes and fine, big houses are the most important things in life, but these things really don't mean too much if a person doesn't feel well enough to enjoy them. Most folks don't realize this, but Mrs. Lucy Braswell, of Route 2, Stone Mountain, Ga., realizes it very well. Mrs. Braswell takes HADACOL, and by taking HADACOL she found she is helping her system overcome deficiencies of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

Here is Mrs. Braswell's own statement: "I have been sick for some time with stomach disturbances. I began taking HADACOL and I have been taking it about six weeks. I am so much better and much stronger. I will continue to take HADACOL. It sure has helped me. I tell my friends about HADACOL. I can't praise HADACOL too much. I em 59 years old."

Important Meeting for Livestock, Poultry Owners

A movie on poultry and livestock diseases, prepared by the Lederle Laboratories, will be shown at 8 p.m. Jan. 23 at the high school through the co-operation of the Veterans Institute and the Charlevoix Co-Op.

The control of disease is a major problem confronting every owner of livestock or poultry. Relatively few animals are born with disease. Keeping the animal healthy by employing sound principles of sanitation, management and feeding together with the proper use of biological products for disease prevention is the practical, economical way to avoid loss.

When disease appears, however, the immediate correct use of recognized scientifically proved products holds losses to minimum. Successful treatment of diseases also depend on correct diagnosis.

The services of a veterinary should be sought whenever disease problems arise.

The movie on disease control should be a must for every farmer. Be sure to see this movie.

Check Analysis When Buying Fertilizers

Buying standard brand fertilizers is always a good practice. Michigan State College soil scientists explain that some farmers pay "high prices for fancy names" and end up with very little plant food for the dollars they spend.

It's always wise to purchase fertilizer on the basis of cost per unit of plant food, the soils men contend. The analysis of the fertilizer should be on the bag or on a tag attached to the bag.

If it reads 3-12-12, that means there are 27 units of plant food for each hundred pounds total weight . . . three units of nitrogen; 12 units of phosphoric acid; and 12 units of potash.

If the sum of the figures in the analysis (total nitrogen, available phosphoric acid, and water soluble potash) is less than 20, it is low grade. As a rule, the lower the analysis, the greater will be the cost per unit of plant food.

Suggest Controls For Cattle Grub

The problem of cattle grubs is again confronting farmers, says Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. He has information on their control, received from Ray L. Janes, extension specialist in entomology at Michigan State College.

The grubs may occur in the backs of cattle from now until about next June, Janes states. This extended period is mainly due to the life cycles of the two cattle grubs common in Michigan. The common cattle grub is usually present in the backs of cattle from March 15 until June.

Rotenone, at this time of the year, can be used either as a dust or salve. The strength of either should be one and one-half percent. Sprays are not suggested during the winter in Michigan. If they are used, it is at the risk of the farmer. Insecticides, other than rotenone, have not proved too successful to date, Janes states.

The one and one-half percent rotenone dust is usually more easily obtainable than the salve, the specialist points out. The dust should be worked into the openings leading to the grubs. This can be done by using the hand, a brush, or power duster to work the dust through the hair to the hide. A salve can be applied by hand to the top of the warble.

Treatments should be put on every 30 days or oftener, Janes suggests. The need for treatment depends entirely on the presence of the warbles.

Treatments by individual farmers are not so effective as those conducted on a community or county basis.

Spring Pig Crop Depends on Care Given to Sows

Just how profitable Michigan farmers' pig production will be this spring will depend largely on how well sows are managed and fed between now and farrowing time.

J. A. Hoefer, Michigan State College swine authority, says research has established that production performance of a sow is related to the quality of the ration fed during the gestation period.

He says the good hogman will make certain the winter gestation ration is balanced in energy, protein, minerals and vitamins.

Energy requirements can easily be met with corn or oats.

Protein needs can be taken care of largely with soybean oil meal plus a small quantity of animal protein, such as meat scraps. The ration should include at least 15 percent protein.

* * *

FROM 10 TO 15 percent of the ration should be dehydrated alfalfa meal to take care of the vitamin requirements. Mineral needs may be furnished by feeding a simple mineral mixture made up of equal parts of limestone, bonemeal and a trace-mineralized salt. It can be self-fed or mixed into the ration at a level of 2 to 3 percent.

A mature sow needs up to 1½ pounds of feed daily for each 100 pounds of weight. A growing gilt requires about 2 pounds of feed daily per hundredweight . . . the extra feed to help her to gain size. Self-feeding can be practiced if the ration is bulked-up considerably with alfalfa and oats so as to reduce the fattening ability of the ration.

Adequate shelter with good ventilation to avoid the flu and a good supply of fresh water are necessary. Feeding the animal some distance from the shelter will force them to get some of the exercise they need, Hoefer explained.

ORCHARD NOTES

By Claude Fairman

You perhaps have heard about the new method of grading apples in the orchard as originated by the Circle Three orchard at Fremont, Mich.

Farm papers have carried an article regarding the grading and description of the grader and methods used. This orchard is owned by three college men, Glenn Rieks, Gaston, and Don Hootman, secretary of Michigan Horticultural society.

This writer had the pleasure of calling at their orchard on several occasions. Their apples go direct to Dêtroit in the field crates as they come from the orchard.

The fancy, extra fancy and No. 1 apples are all left in the crate, removing only the ciders and processing apples. Even at a smaller price per bushel, they are handled faster with no bruising, no basket-facing,etc., and they realize more total from their crop.

They spray 100 acres of apples in one day, using one "speed' sprayer and one small sprayer. By using the thin wood method trimming and blossom thinning sprays, they grow practically all No. 1 and fancy grade apples that require very little sorting or hand thinning on the tree.

Their motto is not to overdo anything. Trim lightly every year, fertilize, in fact, all operations are not overdone. We have more regular crops of sour cherries than they do because we are nearer to Lake Michigan.

PROTECTION THAT'S PRICELESS

Red Rayders, Still Leading League, Head into Last Half of Schedule with Harbor Springs Game

Charlevoix Scores Seventh Straight Victory with Triumph Over Pellston by 71-37 Margin

The victory-happy Charlevoix Rayders head into the final half of their basketball schedule Friday night when the Harbor Springs team comes here.

Winner of seven straight games thus far, the Rayders top the Northern Michigan Class C conference, having beaten each of its conference foes in addition to Petoskey, a Class B outfit.

For the second straight game, the locals scored more than 70 points. Against Pellston, Charlevoix rolled up 71 points while holding the Northmen to 37 last Friday in the local gymnasium.

* * *

ARCHITECTS of the victory included the whole team which showed a powerful passing attack in the first two periods. The first half obviously was the best first half this year's team has played. During the second half against Pellston, the Rayders scored almost at will but their play lacked the sparkle and zip of the first half.

Coach Terrill refuses to consider more than one game ahead. He has seen too many teams start off fast for a string of games and then slow down to a dull walk.

The passing during the early stages of the Pellston game was a pleasure to behold. The boys worked together as a smooth-passing outfit. During the first seven minutes, each of the starting five, consisting of Bill Wallace, Chuck Fairbanks, Dean Boss, Dwight Smith and Norm Ketchman scored at least a bucket each.

THEY SWEPT away to a 8-0 lead in the opening minutes and were never headed. At the quarter mark, the score stood 14-5, at the half-way post, it was 36-11. Fairbanks who scored 18 points in the game for runner-up honors to Wallace who rammed home 28, got 16 of his points in the first half. Then in the second half, Wallace got home and scored, 18 more.

But more than Wallace and Fairbanks, the team is clicking better together and fast developing that "Esprit de corps", so necessary to winning ball clubs. Terrill is insistant that the team has to have "spirit of playing together" if it is going to be a great team.

Fairbanks and Wallace teamed up in the second quarter for 18 of the team's 22 points. But they had to have plenty of accurate passing from Ketchman, Smith Wojan, Boss and others who saw action to achieve their aims.

* * *

PELLSTON'S big gun, Keith Emerson pumped in 18 points, 14 of them in the second half. He managed to shake his man Fairbanks most of the time in the second half, for his points. But in the first half, Fairbanks held Emerson to a basket and two fouls.

The second team game witnessed the Charlevoix Reserves defeating Pellston second team to the tune of 50-32 with Deano Davenport rolling up 31 points on 14 goals and three fouls for his best performance.

* * *

THE SCORE at the half was 30-15. The final minutes of the game saw the Checkerboard boys, all freshmen, enter the fray. They did all right, too.

IT HAPPENED ON ....
BEAVER ISLAND

By Mrs. J. C. Hanley

Beaver Island mothers have formed an organization to assist the Dominican nuns who have endeavored to establish hot lunches for the school youngsters. It has been decided to hire one of the mothers to take charge of the kitchen instead of depending on voluntary help. Many of the mothers would gladly assist daily, but it's the problem of who will take charge of the pre-school youngsters while mother is busy at school. During the past week, a party was sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Organization to raise funds for the lunch project.

A kitchen has been improvised in one of the rooms in the old school building. An electric hotplate, an electric roaster loaned by Mrs. Rolland McCann and a small range takes care of the cooking. It has been necessary to borrow pots and pans, but with the parents behind the project with an organization, difficulties will gradually iron out.

ICE IN THE harbor is strong enough for the plane now. Tuesday morning, Joe McPhillips landed in the vicinity of McDonough's store, the first landing on the ice this season. Mrs. Walter Wojan and Willie O'Donnell were the passengers. Mrs. Wojan was returning from a trip to the dentist and Willie was returning from his first trip to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Gallagher celebrated their forty-third wedding anniversary Monday with a dinner party in their home. The guests included Mrs. Gallagher's sisters and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Mielke and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Pischner.

My apologies to Mrs. Nonie Gallagher and Mrs. Agnes O'Donnell for not letting the folks know they are spending the winter on the mainland. Mrs. Gallagher is visiting at the Blue Post Inn in Charlevoix and Mrs. O'Donnell is spending the winter months with her daughter in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolland McCann left last week to spend the winter in Bay City.

Tuesday evening, members of the Third Order of Saint Francis met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McDonough.

Two island men who do a lot of travelling through the country during the winter months have rigged up an idea to insure comfort on the long jaunts. One is Bub Burke, rural mail carrier and the other is James W. Gallagher. Both have built cabins to fit on their sleighs outfitted with small stoves nailed down to the floor, seats, etc. The "etc." in Gallagher's cabin includes a radio, various tools, sufficient kindling, and said James, "I always carry apples and candy to munch on". Last Wednesday, Dan "Turner" Boyle and your B. I. reporter were invited to take a run out to visit Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kennedy, our newest Irish residents, in James' sleigh cabin. It's a dandy way to travel, and a lot of fun, too.

Wednesday evening, the Cordeliers met at the home of Mrs. Margaret Hanley. Father Aiden O.F.M. gave an instructive talk to the children. After the meeting, the group enjoyed an hour of skating on the rink-in the harbor.

Sylvester Howard and son flew to Jackson on a business trip recently. Mrs. Larry Davison went along on the trip to visit her daughter, Betty, who is a student at Hope College, Holland.

Vernon LaFreniere flew to Charlevoix on business last week.

Mrs. Ray Cull and Mrs. Kett Gillespie accompanied Buddy Left to Charlevoix when he went across at the request of Uncle Sam.

When Buddy McDonough returned to camp after Christmas vacation, he found a Pfc. rating waiting for him.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Larsen have returned from Detroit where they have been since the first of December.

Mr. and Mrs. Forest Pratt left on Friday's plane for a short stay on the mainland.

Sunday afternoon, baby Judith Ann LaFreniere was christened at Holy Cross church. Mr. and Mrs. Burt McDonough were chosen godparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kennedy and family were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Gallagher.

Sunday evening, Marilyn Kinney invited twenty-eight friends to her home to celebrate her 13th birthday. She was assisted in entertaining the guests by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kinney and sister, Pat.

Last week, Beaver Islanders enjoyed a run of ideal winter days. There was very little wind and we saw the sun a few times. A few more shanties are out on the ice, about six.

Industry Group Spurs Plan to Sell Stock

In hopes that all Charlevoix residents will take part in boosting this community as a resort and industrial center, the Charlevoix Development Corp., a non-profit organization, named captains and teams for a drive to increase membership.

New officers will be elected within a month, having been postponed because a greater representation is likely in the next few weeks. Directors and officers were originally elected three months ago and will serve until the new officers are named.

It is expected that upwards of $20,000 will be subscribed in stock to be used to construct a building for an industrial plant. Henry Heckler secretary of the non-profit group, said that stock certificates are here and will be issued upon receipt of $10 for each share of stock.

SOME $2,200 has been already pledged. The money will be used the directors to build the building for an industry and then when the industry buys the building, the money will be used to help obtain another plant.

This method of having a non-profit company to spur the location of industry has been followed in most small towns. Kalkaska and Mancelona being the closest towns which have obtained industry by subscribing money for a building.

The money eventually will be returned to the stockholders.

They will choose their teams and begin the job of personnally contacting all persons interested in building a greater Charlevoix.

Kiwanis Head 'Raps for Order'

Lack of Interest May Result in No Adult Classes

Unless more people register for the various classes available in adult education at the Charlevoix schools, few courses will be given this winter, Supt. Roy G. Bennett said this week following the recent registration.

Only the sewing class had enough registrants to start classes at once although a limited number registered for classes in art, bookkeeping and typing. Only two persons signed for woodworking so it is doubtful if a class in that will be possible.

Ten registrants are necessary to have a class in any one subject but if enough people can be interested in registering for additional courses in the next two weeks, classes may still be started, Mr. Bennett said.

Boyne City Upset By Mancelona, E. Jordan Wins

Basketball: a game played with a large, round leather ball by two teams of five players each" . . . so the dictionary describes the game which is a major winter sport, particularly in northern Michigan and more explicitly in Charlevoix.

Here it's a game that oldsters and youngsters alike eat, sleep, dream, discuss, replay and on occasion even try to coach from November through March.

And after Friday night's game the fans have had plenty to discuss for Boyne City, for the second week in a row, was the victim of an upset at the hands of Mancelona. In other games played then the teams came through as expected with Charlevoix knocking off Harbor Springs even though it was pretty close during the first half; East Jordan tripping Gaylord 65 to 42 and Pellston coming through with a 58 to 32 score against Class D Mackinaw City.

• • •

IN THE Boyne-Mancelona played on the latter's floor, the Ramblers were ahead all the way but as they have been known to do before Mancelona had that spurt of hitting that put them ahead in the closing minutes. Mason had 25 points for Boyne while Wilcox had 24 for the Ironmen.

Boyne City will host a much-improved Pellston five this week and unless the Ramblers find their stride they may again find themselves in the debit column. Last week the Hornets trounced Mack-

Litzenburger Urges Support For Polio Drive

A plea to help the March of Dimes drive in Charlevoix county was voiced Wednesday by Dr. A. F. Litzenburger, director of the District Health department.

The county-wide drive is aiming to raise $4,000 with one-fourth of that goal scheduled to be collected in Charlevoix. Boyne City and East Jordan have similar quotas and the rural part of the county is asked to raise the remainder.

Because Dallas Henry, vice chairman in the county and city chairman for Charlevoix, will be in Florida for the next few weeks, a committee composed of Edward Heise, Junior Willis and Tom Carey will supervise the drive here.

• • •

DONATIONS may be left at either bank.

Dr. Litzenburger emphasized the fact that the expenses from polio care are great. Both cases in Boyne City required special nurses and one of the Charlevoix cases was in an iron lung for nearly six weeks. "We are indeed fortunate in having an organization which does provide the needed care, and it is up to all of us to support that organization to the utmost of our ability", Dr. Litzenburger said.

Of the $12,000 spent last year on polio expenses in this county, more than $9,600 came from the National Foundation. The money raised in this county fell short by nearly $10,000. "We can't expect the rest of the nation to pay our polio bills, although they stand ready to help at anytime.

"Be glad that you are one of those fortunate ones in 1850 and give generously, secure in the knowledge that at some future date your local chapter and the national chapter will be willing and ready to aid you.

"The county chapter needs money to pay bills of patients who are still receiving expert, costly treatment. This is the only drive for funds. Everyone should give something", the health director said.

Saltonstall Named To Medical Council

Dr. G. B. Saltonstall, local physician and surgeon, has been appointed by the Council of the Michigan State Medical Society to fill out the unexpired vacancy of E. A. Oakes of Manistee who has tendered his resignation as councilman of the Ninth district.

Cooking School To Be Held Here on Feb. 7

Martha Logan, widely-known home economist for Swift and Company, recently announced the foods to be prepared at her cooking school on Wednesday, Feb. 7, at 1:30 o'clock, at the Palace theatre, Charlevoix.

"Seventy-seven Treats" from a basic Make-Your-Own mix developed in the Martha Logan Test Kitchen is the theme of the program which includes a variety of main dish and dessert suggestions.

The mix, according to Miss Logan, is a rich and versatile formula that can be made in advance and then stores in a canister on the pantry shelf ready for instant use in a variety of main dish and dessert suggestions. Apple-Peanut Butter Twists, sausage Cornbread, Cream Puffs and Modified Pizza, all made with the basic mix base will be prepared to illustrate its versatility and convenience.

To illustrate her simplified techniques of deep fat frying, French Fried Onion Rings will be prepared. This is an ideal accompaniment to broiled meats. According to Miss Logan, when you use a quality shortening, there should be no carry-over in flavor to other foods, even to the Tea Doughnuts which she will fry in the same kettle of this shortening. These tea Doughnuts are ready to serve in ½ hour.

Known as "America's Busiest Homemaker", Miss Logan is nationally- recognized through appearances on the network "Breakfast Club" radio show and through the company's advertisements. In addition to contacting thousands of women yearly through similar cooking schools, Miss Logan also talks to hundreds of high school, college and club groups. Television, too, is used by Miss Logan in bringing help to the American Homemaker in better feeding her family. She serves planning divisions of the company on woman's viewpoint.

The cooking school will be sponsored by the Swift and Co., Charlevoix Gas and Appliance Co. and Quality Food Store.

Community Loses Rev. Howell

Rev. Gaylord D. Howell, pastor of the Methodist church since 1945, will leave the community to assume the pastorate at the Grandville Methodist church about March 1.

The change of pastorates will mean moving to a larger church. Grandville is a suburb of Grand Rapids and is a fast-growing community. It has a Class B high school.

The announcement of Reverend Howell's leaving here was made by District Supt. Russell R. King on behalf of Methodist Bishop Marshall R. Reed of Detroit.

Reverend Howell, one of six brothers in the ministry, has been active in community affairs here. He graduated from DePauw in 1942 and attended the Garrett Biblical Institue on Northwestern's campus, completing his studies in 1945.

No successor has been announced, Reverend Howell said.

Irish Family Given Royal Welcome By Residents on Beaver Island

Beaver Island—For the first time in about 50 or 60 years, Beaver Islanders welcome an Irish family from the land of Saint Patrick.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kennedy, their three-year old daughter, Mary, and one year old, Eddie, left Liverpool, England Dec. 28 and landed on Beaver Island Jan. 6. Mr. and Mrs. James W. Gallagher, made it possible for the Kennedys to come to the United States.

Patrick, Theresa and family left Ireland about a year ago in preparation for the trip to this country. Patrick's home was in Limerick where he farmed for his father. Dark-haired, blue-eyed Theresa hails from Roscommon, but at present her parents are living in England. While in England, the Kennedys made their home in Birmingham where Patrick drove a double-decker English bus.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy said they had no trouble at all at the customs. Everyone was very considerate. First thing, they met an Irish policeman from the auld sod who was more than helpful getting them to the train and seeing that everything was fine for the next lap of the journey. In Grand Rapids, they were met by Msgr. Murphy and Mrs. Kennedy's sister, a Dominican nun, and whose motherhouse is Marywood in Grand Rapids. In Charlevoix, they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Giles McCann.

Patrick, Theresa and the little ones are occupying the country home belonging to Mr. Gallagher. The home is located on the main road, a half hour by sleigh from the village. Come spring, Pat will begin farming. At present, he is caring for 30 head of cattle in Gallagher's large barn.

Thersea is busy learning a few tricks that everyone must learn when moving from one locality to another. One is bread making. "In Ireland", said Theresa, who speaks with the delightful fresh-from-Ireland brogue, "We do not use yeast" to make bread. We make soda bread. Just stir up the ingredients and put it in the stove. Today, I learned to make yeast bread." And she had three beautiful loaves coming out of

U.S. Should Demand Other Nations Help in Korea or Quit UN

Sharply critical of the nation's top administrators, Rep. Charles Potter of Cheboygan, whose district includes Charlevoix county, charges that the American public has lost all confidence in the State department.

He said in a speech before the House of Representatives Jan. 12 that unity can be achieved only after many individuals have been replaced with men whose integrity is beyond question. Potter has long believed that Secretary of State Acheson should resign.

Referring to the war in Korea Potter said: "American boys have been dying in Korea. We as a nation, have suffered in Korea one of the greatest disasters in our military history. Reports have come to us that our soldiers are not fighting with the will that has marked our military tradition.

"This is not due to lack of bravery or intestinal fortitude on their part, but as American citizens they must know for what they are fighting. Every American is asking himself 'What are we trying to do in Korea?'

Bi-Partisan Board Needed to Chart Nations Course

As American citizens attempting to find the right solution to the present world crisis threatening to engulf the entire world in armed conflict again, it behooves us to be as well as informed as possible.

Recently the Courier received what its editor believes to be a realistic analysis of the United States, position from W. S. Woodfill, president of the Grand Hotel at Mackinac Island. Mr. Woodfill has long been a keen student of international affairs and American history.

His analysis follows:

"We entered World War I to "Save Democracy for the World." Some of the events which followed that undertaking included the rise of very undemocratic dictator governments in such important countries as Russia, Germany, Spain, Italy and elsewhere. The benefits to our country were nil and the injuries considerable.

However, the greatest anomaly of all time is our experience with World War II. We entered into a de facto war long before Pearl Harbor, with our nation's leader saying and sincerely believing that again we must "Save Democracy for the World," defend our country from destruction, and protect the free people of the world that we might retain our own freedom. It was a noble effort, even though possibly of questioned wisdom.

Instead of accomplishing our avowed purposes following a great victory with arms, Russia forsook all pretense of honorable statesmanship and has become the most ruthless and aggressively militant dictatorship the world has ever known, China has become a militant dictatorship, France and Italy have turned importuntly to communist philosophy, and England has seemingly become hopelessly addicted to socialism. Again we never saved or advanced our idea of democracy for the world even though we were successful in military objectives. Again the benefits to our country were nil and the injuries extensive.

Mr. Roosevelt had what he called the "Grand Design," indubitably well intended and undertaken with great confidence in its noble purposes and high hopes. Japan was an industrial and well-developed nation that wished to become the dominant power in Asia. We fought with two other Asiatic powers, Russia and China, to keep Japan from attaining such domination. Now, we would arm Japan, to fight Russia and China, and probably bring about Japanese domination of Asia.

Germany had again become an industrial and well-developed nation with ideological views repugnant to us and desired to become the dominant power of Europe and Western Asia. With Russia as our most effective ally, we fought Germany to keep her from becoming that dominant power. Now, we would arm Germany to fight with us against Russia, and this probably would lead to Germany becoming the dominant power of her geographical area.

World War III is looming with the premise that our former allies (Russia and China) shall this time be our enemies, and that our former enemies (Germany and Japan) shall this time be our allies. Was there ever a greater paradox?

We fought World War II among other reasons to liberate the European countries and save England. Now, they give us cause to wonder if they will truely fight and sacrifice to defend themselves against possible further enslavement.

We are told and verily believe that this country cannot be captured or destroyed by any foreign power or group of them. We were frightened by aspects of the atom bomb and what it might do to our nation in event of enemy attack with such weapons. However, now we learn that the atom bomb is of no particular value in the Asiatic war, that the huge concrete dam on the Yalu River of Korea could not likely be destroyed by atomic bombs because heavy concrete installations are virtually impervious to atomic blasts, that an atomic bomb would have to be exploded every half-mile to effectively knock out a column of tanks on the battle fields, and that a soldier could walk away comparatively uninjured from an atomic explosion two miles distant.

How then, for instance, could atomic bombs destroy our Soo Locks, which are of heavy concrete construction, largely set flush with and into the ground instead of rising to great heights with an exposed concrete wall as in the case of the Yalu River Dam? I think we have been greatly disillusioned about the terror of the atom bomb. As Mr. Hoover stated in his recent address, we have come to realize that it is not the dominant weapon that we have thought it to be. This points up an unsuspected weakness in our offensive potential, and at the same time points up our defensive position as being less vulnerable than we have perhaps thought since the atomic bomb came upon our conciousness.

Mr. Wilson's noble purposes and high hopes brought us nothing but grief. Mr. Roosevelt's "Grand Design" brought us only more grief. Now we are again at the cross roads of decision. Let us make certain so far as we humanly can that we do not again venture into policies that may be equally disastrous, and let us try valiantly to reach a high degree of unity in our decisions, whatever they may be.

However, we all want only a sound course. The country is badly disunited. Politics, lack of information and sincere convictions have brought this about. There is only one approach to the problem of finding unity and hopefully a sound course to which we can all devote ourselves wholeheartedly.

Mr. Truman should create a Council, or call it what you will, composed of an equal number of Republicans as Democrats selected from the leaders of Congress, who would meet with him daily and advise and consider with him military and foreign affairs. With such a group having confidential daily briefings by officials of the State Department and Defense Department, and helping form the decisions on a day to-day basis involving these important non-political matters, it is my opinion that the decisions would be virtually unanimous, that the country would rally to these decisions with unity, and that we would all have confidence that these decisions were closer to being the right decisions than if they came solely from any one man and his self-appointed non-elected advisors and political associates.

I have more than the prevailing questioned confidence in the ability of Mr. Truman and Mr. Acheson to cope with foreign affairs. I have a very warm-hearted sympathy and understanding of the great stress and strain under which these honorable and highly placed officials are laboring in our behalf. I do not mean to imply that I necessarily condemn their actions in foreign affairs but the fact remains that they alone will never unite this country on these questions any more than Mr. Wilson and Mr. Roosevelt did with their Secretaries of State in matters of foreign wars.

In fact it is apparent that the present situation is bringing greater disunity than ever before and that this will continue even granted that Mr. Truman's decisions have been and will continue to be sound and wise, as well they may be. My views as to what should have been done or what should be done now in military and foreign affairs are so unimportant as an uninformed humble citizen as to not be worth the stating and I confess to much uncertainty of opinion. However, as to how these all important decisions should be made in government and presented to our people I feel strongly my propriety in voicing.

All of this sums up to my view that the great error of Mr. Truman rests in his failing early last summer to establish a bi-partisan Council such as I have mentioned. Failure to create one now will be tragic. I think that everyone should be urged to write Mr. Truman and propose this procedure to him. I have already written two letters to him proposing it. He will not have time to read such letters, but they will register on the White House score board of public opinion.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

If you're wondering what the birds were we desribed last week, they're cedar waxwings . . we don't know anymore about them than that . . . but thanks to Mrs. Harry Ladd and Mrs. H. E. Paddock for telling us . . . And you know, more people called to see if we'd found out what they were then to tell us the names . . guess we're not the only curious people around . . .

And many people mentioned too that they feed the birds . . . Many have regular feeding stations or special place to put the food but Mrs. Ida Sterritt told us of her novel feeder . . . She lives on the second floor where there's a little porch . . . she's fixed a small Christmas tree to which she ties suet, pieces of bread, meat rines and other things and the birds come down to eat from it . . . they not only enjoy the food but she enjoys watching them . . .

THE PRIMARY election's coming up, don't forget, and there's contests in every ward . . . Think how angry you're going to be with yourself next month when you can't vote for your favorite candidate because you forgot to register so ferhevensake, get yourself to the city hall and take care of the little matter . . . You only have until next Tuesday to do it.

It's good to hear that Ras Hendrickson who was a patient at the Marine Hospital in Detroit for several weeks early this winter is now out and is at the home of the Clare Ushers in Grand Rapids . . . Of course Mrs. H is with him and they're keeping house right now for grand-daughter, Sally, while the Ushers are in Florida . . . Mr. Hendrickson gets around the house and has his meals at the table . . . And was just full of questions about Charlevoix when Mrs. Catherina Bergeon who brought us the news stopped in to see them while in Grand Rapids on business last week . . .

A very wonderful man had a birthday last Saturday . . . we're sure that many of you, had you known about it, would have sent him a personal greeting . . . we're a little late but we'd still like to say "Happy birthday, Alvin Goldman, and may you have many, many more, each happier than the last" . . . we're awfully glad you call Charlevoix your home . . . even if it's only for part of the year . . . We know that many others here join in this message.

And to the E. R. Jones at Norwood a belated happy anniversary . . . 57 years together is a long time . . . we're sure they've been treasured years.

You know, one nice thing about our basketball team this year . . you're never quite sure who is going to be in that starting lineup each week . . . After the warm-up all eyes are on the team to see who's going onto the floor, it sure has added to the interest of the game . . . and we've sure had a variety of starters . . . which is a bit of alright for our money because every player has to practice as hard as the other fellow every night and it's good to see everybody get into the act . . . small compensation for all the time and effort those boys put into the game . . . And have we mentioned recently that we think they're pretty swell kids . . .

It's January again and you're being asked to give to the March of Dimes . . . Before you make your contribution will you think twice for if you do we're sure you'll give twice as much . . . polio is no respector of anything, as you've found . . . it strikes from nowhere and does its vicious work . . . And the only thing one can do is give the victim the best care possible . . . and that's where you come in . . . How can you be sure that you'or someone close to you (and that goes for everyone) isn't going to be the next one . . . your block or your family isn't anymore immune than our block or our family . . . not that everyone is going to be hit BUT . . . who is it going to be? You can't afford not to make available to yourself or to everyone you know the means of giving that good care to the next victim . . . For in polio it's the care and the necessary treatments which follow which marks the difference between a person crippled for life and a person who will live a full useful life . . .

We have a friend, a nurse, who volunteered for service when polio struck a southern Michigan city a few years ago . . . the stories of the courage of the doctors and nurses was second only to that of the patients . . . listening to her you'd wonder how people with so many odds against them could fight back so long and so hard . . . But they did and usually came out on top . . . but again it was your dime and your dollar which provided for the wherewithal to give them the care which in turn gave them the courage . . . We hope Charlevoix will never know the need for such medical teams as large areas have known . . . but if we should need them, isn't it good feeling to know they will be provided? . . . Charlevoix county has received from the National Foundation many times more than it has contributed . . . giving to the March of Dimes is just insurance for the future . . . you'd better pay your premium while you have the chance . . .

Dear Editor:

It was noted, by the undersigned, in a recent issue of a Petoskey newspaper, that the Petoskey High School football team needed one more game to fill out it's 1951 schedule. Now, since Grayling dropped from the Class "C" conference, Charlevoix High also has an open date for next year.

So why don't the two schools, located in cities only 17 miles apart, get together and arange a game for this coming football season.

Charlevoix and Petoskey already meet on the Basketball court and compete in track meets, so if football could be added the Sports Supremacy of the North might well be decided every year.

If these two schools could meet on the gridiron a huge crowd would attend and a strong rivalry would probably result.

Let's see if we can get a little fan interest generated and have the two schools get together on the issue.

Go See It . . For an Inspiration !

You ought to go see the new Cadillac. You ought to walk all around it and look at it from every angle—and you ought to open the door and get in and sit down.

You ought to slide over behind the wheel and look out over that jewel-like dash into the exciting beyond.

And you ought to do this, whatever the car you own today—and whatever the car you expect to own.

For it will lift up your spirits and add to your faith in America's industrial enterprise and productive ingenuity.

You look at those beautiful, flowing lines—and you can't escape the conviction that America's industrial artistry in metals is unsurpassed in all the world.

You look at the fabrics that tailor the seats and cushions—and you realize that America's manufacturing genius is unapproached for bringing luxury into everyday life.

You look at the flawless execution of every structural detail—and you have the comforting feeling that America's industrial craftsmanship is in a class by itself.

But your greatest inspiration is yet to come.

You ask the price of the lowest-priced Cadillac model—and you find that it's easily within the means of hundreds of thousands of American families.

Where else, in all the world—you ask yourself—could there be such a blending of luxury and practicality?

And the answer, of course, is—"nowhere." It's strictly an American "monopoly."

Yes, here is the new standard for the automotive world. It is new in beauty, in comfort, in luxury and in performance.

So come see it soon—and come with your hopes high.

Your first eye-smacking look at the line of lovelies pictured here tells you that they've got what it takes in visual charm.

But the fellow who said a picture speaks louder than a thousand words wasn't talking about these superbly able 1951 Buicks.

There's the SUPER—that looks and is a smart new edition of its "best seller" forebear.

Then there's the ROADMASTER—that coddles your anatomy on luxurious new fabrics and cloud-soft cushions—pampers your pride with its lordly bearing—shoots a delicious tingle right up your spine by the exuberance of its power and action.

We could go on and on. This is the car that "breathes through its nose." This is the car that sports a brand-new front-end styling. From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Right Under Our Nose!

Sometime back, we got word from the Governor, asking if we wanted to use the State Fire Inspection Team—a group of experts they send around to communities to inspect public buildings.

We sent a letter saying: "Okay! Give us the once-over!" They came down, all right—last week.

After the inspection, we got their report. Came out pretty well, all told. Town Hall and the School were O.K. Post Office just needed more sandbuckets. In fact, everything got a clean bill of health, except—the Fire Station!

From where I sit, we volunteer firemen had just been too blamed busy keeping everyone else on the ball—and not realizing our own firehouse was not up to snuff. Like the man who worries so much about his neighbors—about whether they work hard enough, about whether they can really afford their new car, about their enjoying a temperate glass of beer—that he forgets to take a good critical look at himself now and then.

Teenager Gets Appetite Back; Thanks Hadacol

HADACOL Supplies Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron Which Her System Lacked.

According to Sara Loraine Beck, Box 253, Coker, Alabama, when a person is only 15 years old and feels terrible, can't eat or sleep the way they should, it's mighty bad. That is the way Loraine says she used to feel, but that was, of course, before she started taking HADACOL. Loraine found that taking HADACOL helped her system overcome deficiencies in Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

Here is Loraine Beck's own statement: "I was run-down, sick and skinny, and weighed only 90 pounds before I used HADACOL. I would not eat because I had no appetite. Now I weigh 123 pounds and have an appetite. I feel a lot better. I have been taking HADACOL 10 months and am still taking it. I am 15 years old. HADACOL has done me lots of good."

Warn Against Rabies In Winter Months

Is your dog protected against rabies?

"Rabies is a year-around disease in Michigan. Don't wait for 'dog days' to get your pet immunized. Immunization now may save his or your life," the Michigan Department of Health warned today.

Eighteen new cases of rabies in animals were reported in Michigan during December, seven of them in the last week. A total of 222 cases of rabies were reported during 1950, in comparison with 185 cases the previous year.

The third rabies case in the upper peninsula in the past ten years was reported during December . . . a cow in Menominee county.

IT HAPPENED ON . . . .
BEAVER ISLAND

By Mrs. J. C. Hanley

Beaver Island's harbor cleared of half the ice last week. The wind broke it up and swept it right out. The North Shore could have come into the harbor with as much ease as in July and tied up at the dock. The mercury climbed to thawing temperatures and the drip-drip from the house tops made one feel that spring may be on the way . . . a little early this year.

Well, the spring and summer "dream books" have arrived and kitchen table shoppers are developing spring fever in January from looking at all the pretty things.

With all the ice that drifted from the harbor last week, Shanty Town was left undisturbed. The community of ice fishermen is growing weekly and they say the perch are coming in. In the gray of early dawn, the fishermen can be seen treking across the ice usually accompanied by their dog. In a short while, smoke begins to curl out of the smoke stacks and Shanty Town has come to life.

"Captain Perch" Sonderegger is an occupant of Shanty Town and he's managed to keep up his reputation . . . and that Sonderegger "line" is catchy, even the perch think so.

Tuesday, Father Aiden, who substitued for Father Giles in his absence, returned to Grand Rapids to resume his duties as a member of the Franciscan Mission band. Father Giles returned to the island Tuesday.

Johnny Greene has been on the sick list lately. His daughter, Mrs. Stella Brown, and his son, Andy, both from Chicago, spent a few days on the island last week visiting their father and their sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Andy Gallagher.

Mrs. Eston Pischner returned from the Charlevoix Hospital Tuesday. She is looking and feeling fine. Papa Pischner held down the home fort, which includes eight little Pischners, with the assistance of his mother, Mrs. Herman Pischner, while the missus was away.

The St. Cecelia Club members meet regularly every Saturday afternoon at Mrs. Palmer's home. Jean Catherine LaFreniere is a new member. After the little girls practice their piano and vocal numbers, games and treats are provided for a little fun.

Mrs. Teddy Wojan was taken to Petoskey by plane Wednesday for observation at the Little Traverse Hospital. Her condition has not been very good.

Thursday evening, the card tournament was held in the Parish Hall. The shuffle board tournament is still going strong.

Wednesday afternoon just about dusk, Sylvester Howard flew over the harbor and blinked his lights. He was returning from Jackson. His son, Junior, remained in Jackson to take up flying. Mrs. Lawrence Davison was a passenger. They landed at the airport.

Joe McPhillips has been landing on the ice near Allen's cabins and in a very convenient spot for your B. I. reporter to see who comes and goes.

There was a lot of buzzing going on in the village during the week. Lawrence Malloy and his son, Bob, buzzed up a beautiful pile of wood and up on the hill, Tom Gatliff was buzziny away. From down at the other end of the village, a lot of buzzing was going on in Joe Sendenburg's yard. Wood piles were shrinking fast from the long drawn out winter, but now, fresh piles are appearing. Willie "the wood chopper" O'Donnell and his sons are delivering some of these new piles.

Mr. and Mrs. Danny Gatliff are the proud parents of a son born early Sunday morning. Mrs. Gatliff was the former Catherine Connaghan.

Dick Lyons and Mark Cross flew to the island Sunday to attend a directors meeting of the Beaver Island Transit company. The meeting was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McDonough.

Our balmy weather came to a sudden close Saturday night when the nor'west pushed the mercury down to four above. Sunday, there was no more open water.

Straits Travel Down

Lansing — Traffic across the Straits of Mackinac showed a decrease of 1.361 vehicles during 1950 compared to 1949, according to figures released by Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler.

A total of 604, 612 vehicles were transported between Mackinaw City and St. Ignace during the past year, compared to 605,973 in 1949, which was a record-breaking year for Straits traffic.

Grandvue Patients Remembered by Many Groups

The patients at Grandvue Hospital near East Jordan were remembered by many organizations in the county during the holidays, according to a report made this week by Mrs. Hilda Hartlep R.N., superintendent of the hospital.

Among the many groups were the Baptist church and the W.C.T.U. of Charlevoix and a group of individuals from Ironton who with others brought gifts and arranged programs for the more than 20 persons hospitalized there.

The Boyne City Rotary Club and a group from the Boyne City high school glee club sang carols and visited with the patients. Rev. Howard Moore and members of the East Jordan Methodist church arranged a Christmas Eve service for the first time.

The Grandvue Hospital which was opened in July 1949 following the remodeling of the former county infirmary now has from 20 to 25 patients. It is operated by the Charlevoix County Welfare Commission and cares for people who need extensive convalescent care or who are not capable of living alone because of illness or an injury.

Watch for Rheumatic Fever in Children

Rheumatic fever is a comparatively common and extremely dangerous disease among Michigan school children. Each year it takes the lives of more youngsters of school age than any other disease, and in addition cripples many others for life.

Rheumatic fever is a baffling disease. Its cause is not known. It is not contagious, but it flourishes in cold damp weather, under crowded living conditions and among children who do not eat proper food and get proper rest. It often follows a "strep" throat or a "bad cold."

Symptoms which may indicate rheumatic fever, especially in children under 14 years, are these: low unexplained persistent fever, pain in muscles and joints, rapid heart beat, repeated nosebleeds without apparent cause, pallor, poor appeatite, loss of weight or failure to gain, jerky nervous movements and frequent sore throats.

These symptoms may be so slight that the physician may have to study them for weeks and then consult specialists. To aid the physician, the Michigan State Medical Society has established Rheumatic Fever Diagnostic and Consultation Centers throughout the state.

Gaylord Team Out to Pull Upset of Cage Season, Hoping to Catch Charlevoix Off Guard Friday

Harbor Springs Gives Rayders Tough Fight in First Half

Harbor Springs players try to outmaneuver the Red Rayders as shot by Warren Haven, Harbor star, nears backboard in the first half of last week's game here which Charlevoix captured 68-36. Tom Donaldson, No. 3, is heading for rebound as Snively, No. 00, and Wright, No. 66, both of Harbor, get ready to take ball off the backboard.

Rayders Stage Second Half Rally to Defeat Harbor Springs 68 to 36

Gaylord basketball players and fans are stirred up, hoping for an upset victory over the Charlevoix Rayders who travel to Gaylord Friday night.

The game on the records of both teams heavily favors Charlevoix, unbeaten in seven conference and one non-league game against Petoskey. Gaylord on the other hand holds firm possession onto the bottom rung in the NMCC standings. The last time Charlevoix met Gaylord, it resulted in a 59-36 victory for the Rayders.

But Gaylord fans are still hopeful that the Rayders may let down while Gaylord will be pointing to knock off the leaders.

* * *

LAST WEEK'S GAME between Harbor Springs and Charlevoix saw the Rayders' form slip considerably from the previous week's game against Pellston. The Rayders won handily 68-36, on the basis of a last-half flurry of baskets.

The Rayders, having an off night, barely managed to stay ahead of Harbor the first half, leading 24-21 at intermission. The play of Haven of Harbor with 21 points was outstanding. Time and time again he shook loose to score field goals.

Coach Del Terrill started a combination of Don Hardy and Krahnke at forwards, Dean Boss at center and Jim Bowman and Bud Barber at the guard slots. This team led Harbor 13-11 at the quarter mark. Boss slipped in three baskets, Krahnke one and Hardy, four points.

The passing and timing of the local boys appeared off of their previous performance. Harbor remained close to the Rayders in the second period scoring 10 points to Charlevoix's 11.

Terrill substituted Wallace, Fairbanks, Wojan, Ketchman and Smith in the second quarter. The score at the half was 24-21 in Charlevoix's favor.

Wallace started things going in the third stanza, getting five baskets while Fairbanks chipped in with a two-pointer and Wojan with five and Ketchman with a bucket. Meantime Harbor felt the pace of the first half play and slowed down, scoring only 12 points.

During the last quarter, Harbor lost its scoring punch when Haven was ejected on fouls and was followed by Melching and Troup. Wallace scored seven points in this period, Fairbanks two; Wojan, two; Ketchman, two; Cunningham, two; and Tom Donaldson, four to make a total of 25 points. This was one more than they scored in the entire first half.

In the preliminary game, the Charlevoix Reserves won a close one 23-17 in a low scoring affair. White with six points was high point man for the winners followed by Bennett with five and Davenport with four. The Reserves have lost only one game so far this season.

COOPERATION does it

Attaining personal and family security is a big job. For most of us, it can only be secured when many people join together with the same purpose in mind. That's the idea of life insurance.

It was the voluntary association of many families that created mutual life insurance. That cooperative endeavor made economic protection available to everyone at costs that are infinitesimal compared to what they would be if a family attempted to create this protection on its own.

For a few dollars a year an average family can assure itself of thousands of dollars worth of rock-solid security, of immeasurable peace of mind, and of financial independence for youngsters and old folks alike.

Pasture Improved By Tree Removal

Undesirable trees often "invade" pasture land and cause trouble. John Fields, Michigan State College extension forester soys you can control howthorn, honey licust and similor trees with some of the anti-weed sprays.

This moy make o good first atep in o pasture improvement program for your farm, he suggests.

Sprouts of hawthorn, sassofros, aspen, elm, honey locust and other trees that begin to grow in your pastures or other cleared lond can be controlled when they are young with the ester sprays of 2, 4-D or 2, 4, 5-T.

Fields says the best way to kill out trees that ore more than four to aix feet high is to first cut them down. This job can be done in winter when other work is slack. Then early the next summer, the new sprout growth can be sprayed with the foliage sprays described obove.

One spray opplication should do the job, but some resistant trees may take two or more. Ash, mople and oak, not ordinarily found as posture weeds, are hard to kill.

Another method is to put ammonium sulfamate crystals on the freshly cut stumps. This is o poison that will kill stump and prevent the sprouts from developing.

Large Turnout Marks 3rd Annual Meeting of Area Soils District

The third annual meeting of the Charlevoix Soil Conservation district which wos held last Wednesday evening, January 17 in the Charlevoix High School was o huge success according to reports received from those in ottendance. More than 200 farm and city folks attended this meeting, directed by George Klooster, choirman of the board.

The meeting started with the showing of moving pictures that were taken by Ed Rebman, last summer. The film used was purchased by the soil district, the Boyne City Artificial Breeders associotion and the county extension service.

Annual reports were given by Carlton Smith, Clayton Heoley, Norvol Korthase, George Klooster, Bill Grimm and Rebman. The election of two directors, one for the East Jordan area ond one for the orea north of Charlevoix, was handled by the election committee composed of William Boss, Harry Smith and Wolter Kemp. A total of 99 bollots were cast with Harold Goebel being elected for the East Jordan area and Robert Straw elected for the area north of Charlevoix. These men will serve a three-year term without any salary except mileage expense to ottend board meetings.

DR. TURK, head of the soil science department ot Michigon State, was introduced by Rebman. Dr. Turk said thot the United States and Russio hove obout three acres of aroble lond per person, Canada, five ocres, China 0.4, Great Britain 0.25 and Japon 0.2 acres of arable land per person. The food production during 1949 in the United States, according to Dr. Turk was twice that produced 50 years ago. Most of this increase occured in the last 10 years. In other words, Dr. Turk stressed that American farmers have the "know how" to produce food. About 18 percent of the people are engaged in the production of food with one-half of the 18 percent producing over 90 percent of the total food.

Dr. Turk's theme wos soil fertility maintenance. He stressed thot there were two moin ways that soil looses its productivity. One is by the depletion of plant food nutrients either by drainage, erosion or cropping. The second way is by the loss of the soil itself by the deteriorotion of the soil structure.

He also mentionsd that this organic matter or humus supply in the soil is one of the limiting factors in the food production. The soils in Charlevoix County contain roughly about 2 percent organic matter. The soil microbes are very necessary for plant production and they are only found where there is a humus supply.

The relationship according to Turk can be compared by saying that the microbes are the engines and the organic matter is a fuel in the soil program. He also mentioned that if everyone in the world wonted to have the same diet that we have in the United States that they would have to kill off 50 percent of the population in the world. But he also added that if we would be sotisfied with the diet of that of the people of Asia, the world could feed 50 percent more people.

Dr. Turk closed his talk by stating that what we need is "efficient production on o durable basis" to do this, reduce the removal of organic matter from the soil and add more if possible.

THE PROGRAM closed with Douglas Hill of Traverse City impersonating Dr. Goetz of Luxemburg. Everyone in the audience throughly enjoyed Mr. Hill's oct and all were throughly convinced that he really was from Luxemburg. Those who did not attend this meeting realy missed a wonderful show.

New MSC Bells

East Lansing—Michigan State college has installed 14 new soprano bells in Beaumont Tower carillon. The lotest addition brings to 37 the total bells in the tower. Beaumont Tower was given to MSC by the late John W. Beoumont, an olumnus and widely-known Detroit lawyer. He died in 1941.

ORCHARD NOTES

By Claude Fairman

Let's take a look at the industrial prospects of fruit growing and processing in our territory around Lake Chalevoix ond six miles or more from Lake Michigan.

We hove good atrowberry land. A processor could contact growers, contract acreage for frozen, canned and preserved strawberries. Processors ore poying as much for capped berries as the fresh fruit brings and the grower does not toke the chonce of shipping fresh berries.

Apples can be grown further inland and on marginal cherry land. A larger per centage of the apple crop is gradually going to the processors.

Apples can be stored and conned after peoches and pears are out of the way. Certain varieties are more easily grown, yield heavier ond take less spraying. Apple varieties which are best in order of rotation are Grey Stark, not a Delicious, Greening, Wagner, Spy and Jonathan.

Spy takes more spraying for scab. Jonathan grows rather small in this section, however, processors will take them. The plant needs a large volume of apples and I believe processing opples are o better crop to raise than potatoes.

One plant could can and freeze fruit in this order: Strawberries, cherles, peaches, Stanley prune, Bortlett pears and opples. The Amber Gem peach, a hardy clingstone, is the variety to plant for processing.

MSC Now Ranks As 10th Biggest in U.S.

East Lansing—Michigan State college jumped from eleventh to tenth largest university in the nation, according to the annual survey of educational institutions' enrollment conducted by Dr. Raymond Walters, president of the University of Cincinnati.

The 31st annual survey ploced four Michigan universities in the top 25 schools of their particular type. U. of M. ranked seventh in full-time enrollment, eighth in grand total enrollment; MSC was tenth in full time enrollment, 18th in grand total enrollment; Wayne was 19th in grond total enrollment, and Western Michigan college of Educotion was largest of 112 independent teachers colleges.

Have You Ordered Fertilizer?

The situation on fertilizer for the coming months is quite uncertain. Some companies are cancelling orders because of unavailability of phosphates.

Every farmer should determine in the next few weeks his needs for the coming growing season and order his fertilizer in the next 30 days. Even then we cannot guarantee delivery of certain types of fertilizer.

Some Orders Cancelled

One large fertilizer company has informed the Farm Bureau that orders for 20 percent phosphate are being cancelled. The cancellation is due to the inability to obtain sulphuric acid used in the fertilizer.

Mixed fertilizers are still available. How long they will be available is anyone's guess.

Cutbacks from suppliers of sulphuric acid and triple superphosphate has created a serious situation. Neighboring states stopped shipments of 0-20-0 several weeks ago.

If you need fertilizer, we urge you to order as soon as possible.

60 Boxers Expected To Compete in Area Golden Gloves Event

Michigan's twentieth annual Golden Gloves Tournament will be underway in several weeks. This year marks the first in which Petoskey will send a team to the State tournament to be held in Grand Rapids during the middle of February.

Through its short life, the meet which origonally drew only a few fighters now attracts 500 to 600 contenders throughout the state. The local tournament expects about 60 contenders.

Tournament officials point with pride to the list of their fighters who have continued on from the amateur ranks to become some of the nation's outstanding boxers. Among those who have accomplished this feat are such names as Joe Louis, Barney Ross, Henry Armstrong, Sugar Ray Robinson, Ike Williams and many others too numerous to name. If a boy wants to box and has the ability, the Gloves is one place he can show it.

Every attempt is made to insure the safety of each of the contenders for local, state and national honors. When a fighter receives even the slightest of injury he is sent to the hospital for a complete examination. Rounds are kept in only two bouts in one evening, thus eliminating the possibility of fatigue leading to a serious injury.

If a contender plans on boxing as a career, he will probably never be covered more adequately by protective rules through his boxing days as he is by the rules of the Golden Gloves tournament. Michigan and National Golden Gloves rules apply as do the regulations of the Michigan High School Athletic association and the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States.

There is no match-making during the tournament as in professional bouts. Opponents are paired by drawings, at which team representatives can be present.

If the participant wins in the State meet, he is again paired in the same manner in the National tournament in Chicago.

Amateur boxing has come a long way since the first meets were held. Each year promising boxers are given their chance to prove themselves. The Northern Michigan tournament could provide just such a champion as did Detroit when Joe Louis came as an unkown to rewrite the history book of the boxing world.

Tickets for the Northern Michigan tournament will go on sale Thursday of this week, Herman Feldman, local director, announced today.

Feldman listed all ticket prices to include taxes. Tickets to school children in the downstairs bleachers will sell at 60 cents; adults unreserved general admission $1; reserved seats in the best section of the balcony $1.50; and ringside seats, sold for the entire three nights only $6.00. General admission and balcony ringside seats will be 25 cents more on the final night.

Tickets will be on sale at Herman Feldman's Economy Store, Palace Cigar Store or by contacting John Bellamy or George Danser.

Mr. Feldman added that, though the High School gym is large, many persons from northern Michigan will want to see the tournament and the supply of tickets is limited.

U. S. Should Get Help of Nations

the same United Nations which committed our troops to Korea is still reluctant to brand the Chinese Communist regime as the aggressor. Possibly the UN is reluctant because the 53 nations which signed the resolution on Korea are making proportionate sacrifices.

Only 12 other countries besides the United States have sent forces to Korea. The great country of India with a third of the population in the world has sent a medical unit. The 24,300 men sent by other UN nations is less than half of the casualties suffered by the United States.

Many of these countries are still trading with Communist Chins. Many of thesa countries object to embargoes being placed against Red China.

The American people are bitter and disgusted over the episode of the United Nations at which the China Reds were invited to this country merely to denouce the United States as aggressors. The UN is failing pitifully in meeting its responsibilities. It will do so until the Soviet Union and its puppets are expelled from the UN.

It is inconceivable that why we should continue to allow a Trojan horse in our boundaries when Communist troops are killing our soldiers. Russia has never been a bonafide member of the UN and has used her seat to perpetuate her propaganda. If we are to save the day, let's kick out the Trojan horse.

IT IS STUPIDITY of the first order to continue to absorb the punishment as we are doing in Korea and not to take advantage of taking the handcuffs off the Nationalist forces. I realize that by taking off the handcuffs, Mr. Truman, Marshall and Acheson will be losing face. Fifty thousand American causualties is a mighty stiff price to pay for operation "Face saving."

Blue eyed, blond haired Mary feels a little strange after seeing so many new faces. She made friends finally and brought out her pretty doll, the nuns had dressed and given her in Grand Rapids. Little Eddie, who celebrated his first birthday in Charlevoix, Jan. 5, hasn't been so well. Long trips are trying on little ones and Eddie landed on the island with a cold. He's getting along nicely, now.

Right now, Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy are getting settled in their new home and they haven't gotten around to see the island. They like the cozy farm house very much, but most of all they like being in America.

7 Scout Troops In Klondike Derby

Plans for the fourth annual Boy Scout Klondike Derby are being completed this week by Arthur Ranger, chairman of the event and L. H. Barker who is serving as vice chairman.

The event in which at least seven local troops will participate will be held at Mt. McSauba at 2 p.m. Sunday when the various patrols will line up and receive their instructions for the course which has been laid out over a two mile area.

Each patrol will visit the seven testing stations and at each will display knowledge of various activities on a second class scout basis. Gold nuggets will be given for all events and the patrols earning the greatest number of noggets will win first place. Second and third prizes will also be awarded with each number of the patrol receiving a prize.

Assisting in the event will be George Wolfe and Charles Bleha who will be in charge of the refreshment booth and Charles Bergmann, Dr. Fred W. Young, E. D. Hawley, P. D. Campbell, Chief Robert Ashdon, Scout master and Herbert Campbell, secretary-treasurer of the Boy Scout Committee, who will be among those assisting at the testing stations. Others will be named later.

Parents and friends of the Scouts and everyone interested in scouting are urged to attend the event.

Florida Woman Aids Many to Find Housing

Through the efforts of two Charlevoix residents, this northern Michigan town is receiving a bit of publicity in Florida.

In a letter appearing recently in a Florida newspaper, E. J. Smith who is spending the winter at Ormond, near Daytona Beach, paid tribute to Mrs. Jerry Conley who has done so much to secure apartments for many Charlevoix friends. Mr. Smith, in the letter, suggested some recognition be given her for her work. The paper in turn suggested she be given a 'medal or something' by the Chamber of Commerce for her work.

At Ormond and nearby communities are the P. R. Rosses, the Jerry Scudders, the George Emorys, the C. M. Jurgens, the Smith, Mrs. Sadie Oldham, plus the Conleys with others planning to join them. When everyone arrives there are about 23 at Ormond and seven at Port Orange.

Certainly everyone will agree that Mrs. Conley has done more than her share for the community.

Mr. Sharrow was born at Elk Rapids Jan. 30, 1677 and came to this community as a child. He was a lumberman and later operated a farm.

He is survived by one brother, Albert of Charlevoix and several nieces and nephews.

City Rejects Plan to Buy Balancer

The city council by a vote of 5-1 defeated the proposal to authorize the purchase of a counter-balancer for the Diesel engine at the city light plant.

This marks the second time in the last two months that the council has rejected the plan, submitted by Professor Hansen of the University of Michigan for a counter-balancer to neutralize the vibration in the engine.

The action was taken after the council heard the pleas of City Attorney Norman Ance and City Comptroller Don Swinton who have worked closely with Professor Hansen on the project.

DREW YOUNG who made the motion to purchase the counter-balancer, was the only one to vote for it. Ance said that it should be realized that the best engineering advice indicated that a counter-balancer would solve the vibration problem in the engine. It would require six month to build and no guarantee of delivery could be made in the light of the present emergency.

Ance called attention to the fact that the experts who were hired by the city to study the problem recommended it. He feared that in the wake of the rejection of the professor's recommendation that the city will not be able to call upon Mr. Hansen for further advise.

Most councilmen expressed the belief that there was no guarantee that the new equipment, estimated to cost $10,000 or more, would do the job.

Alderman Kohler has expressed his belief that the engine will continue to operate efficiently. He noted that the effects from the vibration are no longer as great as they were a year ago.

Rayder-Boyne Game Tops League Play

Northern Michigan Class C standings will be at stake this week as Charlevoix hosts Boyne City in a return bout after taking them by two points in their first meeting; East Jordan travels to Pellston and Harbor Springs to Gaylord where the two teams will battle it out in an effort to rise above the cellar position. Mancelnna has an open date.

After losing two in a row Boyne came back last Friday to roll over Pellston five that really never got started. Despite that fact, however, Keith Emerson managed to drop 25 points. The Ramblers found their stride after falling to Petoskey and Mancelona and will be in there pitching every minute against the Rayders who took them by two points in December. The Rayders after a 13-point victory over Gaylord will have to be in the game all the way to stop the visitors.

Pellston will be hosting the second place East Jordan five who were idle last week-end and after their stinging defeat by Boyne City the Hornets will be trying hard to pick off the visitors. East Jordan defeated Pellston by 12 points in their first meeting but unless Jordan can find someone to stop Emerson on his own floor the tables may be turned.

When Harbor Springs goes to Gaylord the two teams will have the cellar position at stake with the winners rising above that lowly position. Mancelona edged past Harbor Springs by two points last week to take over fifth place in the league leaving Harbor and Gaylord in last place. With so much at stake the game is bound to be close although Harbor Springs did win by 12 points earlier in the season.

Five Bake Sales Planned for Polio Campaign Fund

The benefit series of bake sales for the March of Dimes drive here will open Monday, Feb. 5 in the Polly Kay store, Mrs. Tom Carey announced.

Church organizations will cooperate in holding the bake sales. The Episcopal church group will hold their sale Monday, the Methodists, Tuesday; Community Church of God, Wednesday; the Congregational church, Thursday; and St. Mary's, Saturday.

Any church organization which would like to hold a benefit bake sale on Friday is asked to call Mrs. Tom Carey. Arrangements will be made to assist in the sale, she said.

Persons wishing to bake for any of the days are urged to get in touch with Mrs. Carey. Their assistance is greatly needed.

Plans Underway For Community Plasma Project

Plans for a community blood plasma procurement center are now being made by the Charlevoix county chapter of the American Red Cross in conjunction with the Michigan Department of Health.

According to Mrs. Roy G. Bennett of Charlevoix, blood program chairman for the county chapter, the center will be set up at the Hotel Dilworth in Boyne City Feb. 22 and 23.

The center will accept donations of blood which will be processed into plasma and fractions and returned to this community for the exclusive use of Charlevoix county residents. There is no charge made for the use of these products by patients from this county but the patient is expected to pay for any professional services incidental to their use.

CHARLEVOIX county has not had a blood procurement program since Oct. 1949 when 132 pints of blood were donated. The supply of plasma now on hand from that clinic is very low. It has been used regularly in hospitals where Charlevoix county residents have been hospitalized for surgical treatment, for injuries from accidents or fires or for other illnesses.

Further details will be announced later by the chairmen in the various towns in the county. They are: Mrs. Robert Wexstaff in Charlevoix; Mrs. Don Haig in Boyne City and Mrs. Ted Malpass in East Jordan. Local chairmen in Walloon Lake and Boyne Falls will be named this week.

Polio Drive Lagging Sadly In Charlevoix

The 1951 March of Dimes drive in Charlevoix is lagging badly.

The campaign to raise $1,000 as the city's share of the $4,000 county quota is nearly at a standstill, Edward Heise, Jr., committee chairman, announced Wednesday.

While the drive has been in operation for two weeks, less than $100 has been raised to date, he said. He called upon residents here not to forget that polio struck down 12 county residents including five in Charlevoix last year.

Residents are urged to drop their coins in cannisters in the stores and gas stations. They may also leave their contribution at either of the Charlevoix banks.

Meanwhile, the drive in East Jordan and Boyne City was reported proceeding favorably. Several hundred dollars have been collected already, Heise said.

The Argonne donated its facilities for the annual March of Dimes dance Wednesday night. Net proceeds have not been announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Allards' 60th Anniversary

By Fran Martin

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Allard, pioneer residents of this community, will observe their sixtieth wedding anniversary Sunday.

The couple was married at St. Francis' church in Petoskey, Feb. 4, 1891, making the trip by horse and cutter for the ceremony because there was no Catholic church in Charlevoix at the time.

Mrs. Allard recalls that on their way home from Petoskey following the ceremony the supply teams bringing supplies to Charlevoix were stuck in the snow at Greensky hill and they had to wait until they were shoveled out.

They have always made their home in Charlevoix except for the time spent at lighthouse stations along Lake Michigan.

Mr. Allard was born on South Fox Island April 15, 1863. His parents had gone to the island which today has few inhabitants to join the fishing colony which was quite large at the time.

He came to Charlevoix as a young man and worked as a wheelsman on such boats as the Petoskey and other steamers which plied northern Lake Michigan waters at the time. After his marriage he operated his own fishtug out of Charlevoix for many years. He also worked aboard the Geik C. Geiken tug, the Geik, before joining the lighthouse service during World War I as a master on the Grey's Reef lightship.

He served aboard the ship for seven years and when it was taken to Milwaukee before being replaced by another he served briefly with it there before going to Point Au Sauble.

In 1925 for the first time since he entered the service, Mrs. Allard was able to join him at the lighthouse during the navigation season. Later he was stationed at Squaw Island, Frankfort and was at Beaver head light on Beaver Island when he retired at the age of 65 years.

An ardent fisherman, Mr. Allard fished the year around until recent years when failing health forced him to give up more strenuous activities.

Mrs. Allard, the former Pauline Cheney, was born at Bracebridge, Ont., May 16, 1873. Her father died when she was in her early teens and about 1889 she came to Charlevoix with her mother and six younger children to join her uncle, the late William Dougherty, who was then warden at the Chicago Club.

Mrs. Allard tells of the years she spent at various isolated lighthouses along the lake. Although many wives found the days empty and lonely, she always managed

Seven Boy Scout patrols turned out Sunday for the fourth annual Klondike Derby staged at Mt. McSauba by the local scout committee.

The Charlevoix Gas and Appliance Co. furnished a gas stove and gas and John E. Boss of Maxbauer's furnished cans for water for the food booth.

Rev. Howell Preaches Final Sermon Feb. 11

His successor has not been announced.

District's Role In Bomb Attack Is Outlined

Northern Michigan's role in the event of an atomic bomb attack on Michigan's vital spots was outlined Wednesday by State Police Commissioner Donald S. Lennard, speaking via remote control to a gathering at the Petoskey high school auditorium.

He spoke to the assembly of city and county officials and municipal workers over a public address system after failing to reach Petoskey because of bad flying weather.

Lennard stressed the importance of protecting water supplies and utilities in the north in case of atomic, biological or chemical war.

He said this section of Michigan would be expected to send doctors and nurses to the disaster areas and the Red Cross and other organizations would be called to send volunteer workers, food and medical supplies into the area.

Homes in northern Michigan would be used to house evacuees and school children who would probably be moved from the affected districts. Temporary hospitals would be set up in the disaster areas and other patients brought to communities outside the areas.

Northern Michigan probably would never be attacked but it has a definite role in the Civilian Defense program, he concluded

George Haggard, who suffered a fracture of his lower leg while in Lansing on business last week, has returned to his home here.

Ruling Made On Holding Council Seat

Temporary absence, even for years, does not defeat the residential requirement for an elector or a councilman in the city, City Attorney Norman Ance ruled Monday night.

The ruling was sought by John Wolf, candidate for alderman in the third ward, who said that several people in the second ward had asked him whether they should vote for two aldermen or only one.

This had reference to the fact that Alderman Carl Kohler has moved from the second ward. Whether this absence has been temporary or whether it will be permanent has not been determined.

Alderman Karl Erber, a former mayor, was critical of "street talk" and said the council can't recognize this type of loose conversation. He suggested that if residents in the second ward have a complaint that they should come to the council meeting and register it in American fashion.

ANCE RULED that the same set of qualifications to be an elector applies to the councilman or other elected officers. Residence in the ward is defined as domicile. In order to be a resident of a ward, he must define his intention.

He emphasized that many persons who have not lived in Charlevoix for years still vote here because they say that Charlevoix is their legal residence. In final analysis, the councilman or elector defines his intentions.

The council is the judge of a councilman's qualifications when he is seated. Ance cited a similar case in Muskegan where a judge ruled that a subsequent council had no authority to vacate a seat when a councilman moved.

The proper procedure for having a seat declared vacant, Ance said, would be to take recourse to the courts. The court would determine the facts of the case and then rule on it.

Come Early for Seats for Boyne City Contest

Due to the limited seating capacity of the local gymnasium for the Boyne City game here Friday, a limit of 650 tickets will be sold at the door.

Principal Harry Bingham said first come, first served will be the policy as no reserved seats will be sold. Additional seating capacity has been taken up by the sale of season tickets.

Season ticket holders are urged to enter the gym by way of the corner door of the grade school building.

Capacity Crowd Expected for Gala Cooking Show Here on February 7

Women in Charlevoix county and the surrounding area will receive many cooking hints at the cooking show at 1:30 p.m. Feb. 7 at the Palace theater.

The famed Martha Logan, the home economist with thousands of recipes, will prepare food for the school which is expected to draw a capacity crowd.

The program includes a movie hit, "An Old Fashioned Girl" starring Gloria Jean and Jimmy Lydon, helpful hints in preparing food and prizes galore. All of the food prepared will be given away, too. A charge will be made for the movie. Everything else is free.

Sponsored by the Charlevoix Gas & Appliance Co., and Quality Food Store in collaboration with Swift & Co., Miss Logan, nationally popular on the "Break fast Club" radio show will demonstrate "Seventy-seven Treats from a Basic Make-Your-Own mix developed in the Martha Logan test kitchen.

A NUMBER of main dish recipes and dessert suggestions will be offered the women.

A new Tappan range is being given away by the Charlevoix Gas & Appliance Comany and Quality Food store is giving away 11 baskets of groceries.

The mix, according to Miss Logan, is a rich and versatile formula that can't be made in advance and then stored in a canister on the pantry shelf ready for instant use in a variety of main dish and dessert suggestions. Apple-Peanut Butter Twists, sausage Cornbread, Cream Puffs and Modified Pizza, all made with the basic mix base will be prepared to illustrate its versatility and convenience.

TO ILLUSTRATE her simplified techniques of deep fat frying, French Fried Onion Rings will be prepared. This is an ideal accompaniment to broiled meats. According to Miss Logan, when you use a quality shortening, there should be no carry-over in flavor to other foods, even to the Tea Doughnuts which she will fry in the same kettle of this shortening. These tea Doughnuts are ready to serve in ½ hour.

Known as "America's Busiest Homemaker", Miss Logan is nationally-recognized through appearances on the network "Breakfast Club" radio show and through the company's advertisements.

Firm to Construct Two Buildings on Stover Road Early This Spring

Construction of two buildings on Stover road for a general construction and concrete brick making firm is expected to start late in March, Hal Forbirg, company owner, disclosed late Wednesday.

The firm of Forbirg and Ganyon was given a 10-year lease on two parcels on Stover road Monday night by the unanimous vote of the city council, after the Charlevoix Development corporation had recommended it.

The company will have an option to buy the property for $500, but can only exercise its option after buildings are constructed on it.

Mr. Forbirg, whose father is retiring from the construction business and is building a home on the south arm of Lake Charlevoix, at present is working on a sewer project for the city of Muskegon.

He told the Courier that he anticipates employing six men at the start and plans to employ a number of additional workers later in the spring. Road equipment machinery will be brought here in the next few weeks.

TENTATIVE PLANS call for the erection of two buildings 30 by 50 feet to house the equipment. A concrete road will be constructed on the property and he will have a need for a railroad siding.

Part of his business will be devoted to the construction of colored concrete brick for homes and buildings and a concrete roofing material. He showed samples of the products at the council.

Persons wishing to see the brick samples may do so at the Courier office.

The major part of his business will be large sewer and water line jobs. His firm completed a several million dollar job at the Soo a few years ago. He said that he will use Charlevoix as his headquarters of operations in the northern third of the state.

ONE PARCEL of land has more than 200 feet frontage on Stover road and the other parcel has 300 feet frontage along the railroad.

Forbirg indicated that all employees will be hired locally with the exception of two men.

Meat Nightmare

"If the Government wants to develop black markets, putting on meat ceilings is the quickest way I know."

"Honestly, I'd like to get out of the meat business at a time like this."

These remarks are taken from a long front-page feature article in a recent issue of the Wall Street Journal, called "Meat Nightmare." The men quoted are both retail meat dealers—one, an executive of a supermarket chain, the other the owner of a small butcher shop. And their remarks are typical of those made to Journal reporters in 13 U. S. Cities.

What is the reason for this view? Here is how the article explains it: "It's a matter of memory. They claim few Federal rules have ever had a better claim to the title of 'most violated law' than World War II's meat 'controls.' Reflecting how a hoard of black-marketeers drained meats from the hands of legitimate dealers who did try to stick to the law, they hold that few statutes have ever so penalized those who tried to observe them.

"Official record backs them up. In February of 1946, at the tail end of the OPA era, a Senate committee surveyed retail stores in 11 cities from coast-to-coast and found five out of six charging above-ceiling prices. With the black markets diverting meat from normal channels, the Bureau of Labor Statistics made a similar check of retail counters and found: 85 per cent had no veal; more than 80 per cent were without pork loins, ham or bacon; almost 70 per cent had no beef or lamb."

Millions of consumers also will remember that era when the black-marketeer prospered, and most of us went without fair share of the meat. Let's not have history repeat itself in this case!

Selling Savings Bonds

As readers of this newspaper are aware, the Treasury is planning to finance more of its requirements through its so-called savings bonds, with special attention to the Series E issue. Unofficially but reliably it is reported that holders of E bonds which mature within the next few years will be asked to hold them for an interest yield (not yet disclosed) calculated to satisfy the majority of them. Also, the Treasury will conduct repeat "drives" to sell E bonds on a big scale.

So far, so good. Series E bonds will be maturing for payment or some sort of refunding by the billions annually in the coming years. And even a balanced budget—not at all likely for the near future—would not relieve the Treasury of the necessity of appealing to investors for help. It always has obligations other than the savings bonds to meet at frequent intervals.

But there is no blinking the fact that the great fall in the purchasing power value of these savings bonds is vivid to the minds of all holders thereof and all the "sales prospects." The people know, of course, that the government will always meet its dollar obligations in dollars. But they have reason to wonder what the pay-off dollars will be worth in terms of meat, bread and shoe leather.

Now it happens that the Council of Economic Advisors made a report to President Truman the other day which believe it or not, contains some hard common sense. Not direct regulation of prices but taxation and credit controls, says the Council, are the real anti-inflation measures. But if taxes are to help keep the price level from rising, "they must be imposed where they will reduce spending." If this doesn't mean that taxation must pursue increasing incomes into the lower income levels, where the tendency to spend on better living is marked, what does it mean? The Council knows that just any kind of taxation is not anti-inflationary.

Again, the Council says that the government should cut down its "non-essential" expenditures on civilian projects "to the largest extent feasible." All right, but what does "feasible" mean here? Does it mean only that much of economy as will avoid risking the loss of votes in 1952? In the vernacular, there ain't no such animal. The Council tries to sugar-coat some nasty pills by saying, "Many government activities which have a high priority in peacetime must give way in a period of mobilization." Would it be too much to ask the Council to recognize the fact that "government activities" have long included and do now include doings which have neither high nor low priority at any time?

We have said that the Council's latest report includes some good common sense declarations. But they are far too cautiously worded. They are phrased as though the Council members were afraid to say clearly and bluntly that this squirrel cage of wage advances, prices advances, more and more clumsily laid taxes and uncontrolled government spending in only an avenue to disaster.

And Washington etiquette, we think, should not deter the Council from mentioning the obvious fact that the Treasury's ambition to expand its savings bonds financing won't get on that avenue—and shouldn't.

Sermonette

"Trained to Hear"

By Gaylord D. Howell

Many times Jesus closes his sermons with these words, "He that hath ears to hear let him hear." Does he mean that some can not hear at all even though they have ears, or for those who have ears to pay closer attention to what he is saying, or is there a deeper meaning to these words?

In a recent pulpit journal, I came across a very interesting article on the topic of ears and hearing. Did you know that a dog may have the very best ears and hear all that it is supposed to hear, and yet if you strike the lowest key on the piano, it cannot hear the sound. You can hear the low tones but the dog cannot. But a dog can hear tones much higher than a human being can.

Very interesting, you may say, but what does this have to do with us and the Christian way of life. Just this . . . that physically we can hear what we are made to hear, but there is a spiritual voice which insects and animals can not hear; but which the human being can hear if he attunes himself to do so.

So often we just hear what we want to hear or what we are trained to hear. Have you not sometimes heard a sound only after your attention has been drawn to it or after you train yourself to pick one particular sound out of many around about you? This brings to mind the song that says, "Hush, someone is calling my name." The songwriter could hear God calling even beyond the noise and rush of the day. He had trained himself to hear something special.

On the other hand, we may hear something and not interpret it or put any understanding in the voice or sound. Jesus might have said, "He who has heard these words interpret them for living." It takes training and practice to interpret the sound we hear. For instance, only the trained can really understand and appreciate good music as he listens to it. A number of the religious leaders of the day came to John the Baptist and asked, "Who art thou? That we may give an answer to them that sent us. What sayest thou of thyself?" He said, "I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness, make straight the way of the Lord, as said the prophet Esaias." He did not mean to say that no one could hear his voice, but he did say that few could understand or interpret his message of salvation. Can you hear the spiritual message of God with your spiritual ears, and can you interpret what you have heard?

It is very difficult for us to hear God's message sometimes because of ourselves and our attitudes. So often we put a sound-proof wall around us which is called the wall of prejudice, or personal hatred. So often it is called a selfish desire which shuts the feelings of others out. Sometimes it is just called ill-feelings or hurt-feelings. Maybe we will have to use a little determination and unstop our spiritual ears and listen to God's message of forgiveness and faith in God and our fellowmen.

the Railroads RESPECT...

What is the TRUTH?

the Labor Unions seek to REPUDIATE this agreement!

At various states in the present dispute with the brotherhoods of railroad operating employees

. . . the railroads agreed to arbitrate. The union leaders refused.

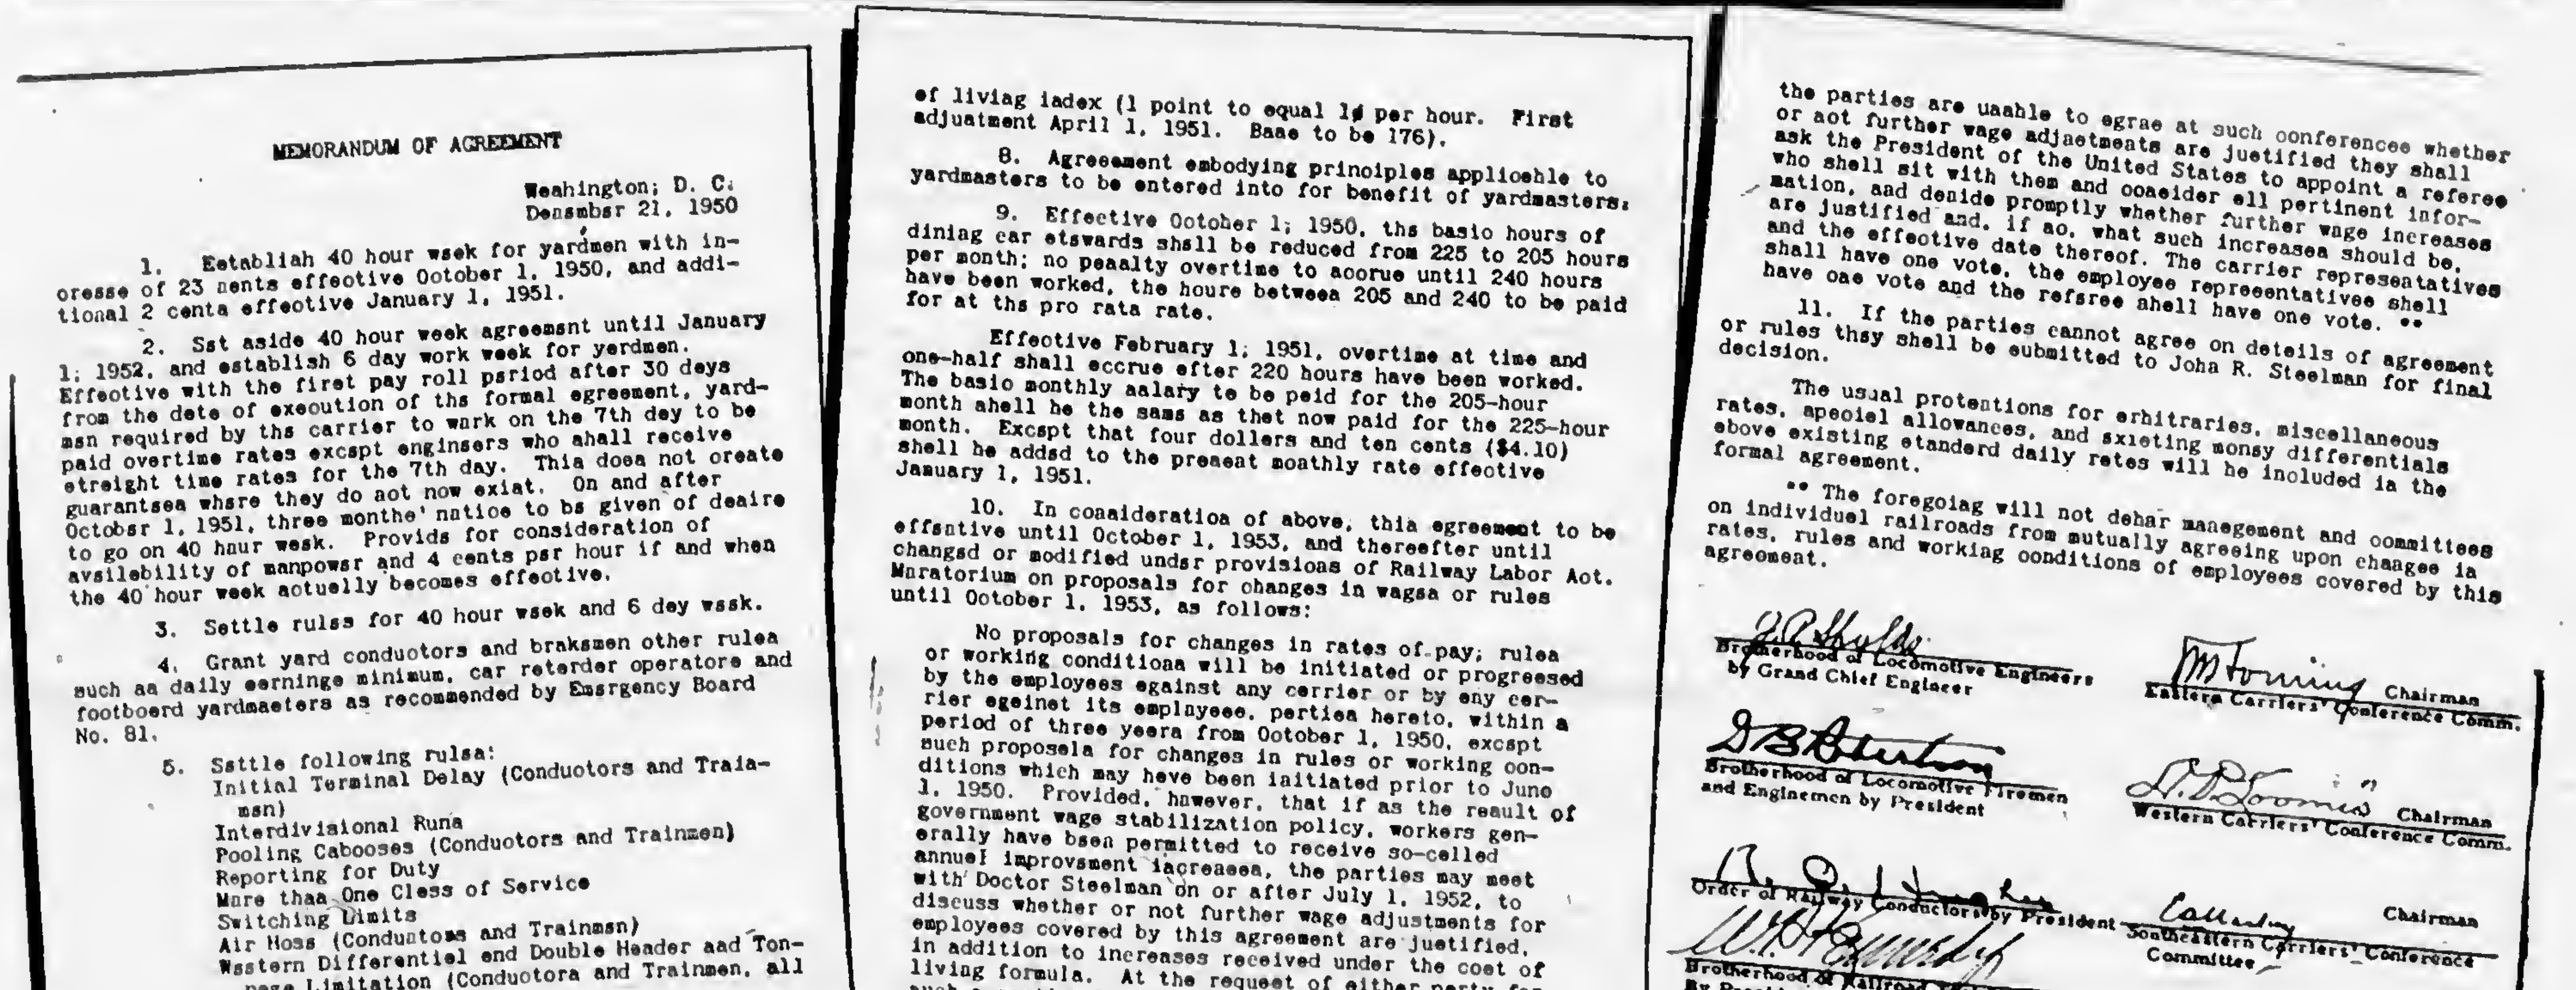
. . . the railroads accepted the recommendations of President Truman's Emergency Board. The union leaders refused.

. . . the railroads accepted the White House proposal of August 19, 1950. The union leaders refused.

Finally an Agreement was signed at the White House on December 21, 1950. Now the union leaders seek to repudiate the Agreement.

The railroads stand ready to put the terms of this Agreement into effect immediately, with back pay at the rates and date indicated.

The Agreement is given in full below:



MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT

Washington, D. C.
December 21, 1950

1. Establish 40 hour week for yardmen with increase of 23 cents effective October 1, 1950, and additional 2 cents effective January 1, 1951.

Effective with the first pay roll period after 30 days from the date of execution of the formal agreement, yardmen required by the carrier to work on the 7th day to be paid overtime rates except engineers who shall receive straight time rates for the 7th day. This does not create guarantees where they do not now exist. On and after October 1, 1951, three months' notice to be given of desire to go on 40 hour week. Provide for consideration of availability of manpower and 4 cents per hour if and when the 40 hour week actually becomes effective.

3. Settle rules for 40 hour week and 6 day week.

4. Grant yard conductors and brakemen other rules such as daily earnings minimum, car retarder operators and footboard yardmasters as recommended by Emergency Board No. 81.

5. Settle following rules:
- Initial Terminal Delay (Conductors and Trainmen)
- Interdivisional Runs
- Pooling Cabooses (Conductors and Trainmen)
- Reporting for Duty
- More than One Class of Service
- Switching Limits
- Air Hose (Conductors and Trainmen)
- Western Differential and Double Header and Tonnage Limitation (Conductors and Trainmen, all Territories)

6. Road men to receive 5 cents per hour increase effective October 1, 1950 and additional 5 cents per hour increase effective January 1, 1951.

7. Quarterly adjustment of wages on basis of cost of living index (1 point to equal 1¢ per hour. First adjustment April 1, 1951. Base to be 176).

8. Agreement embodying principles applicable to yardmasters to be entered into for benefit of yardmasters.

9. Effective October 1, 1950, the basic hours of dining car stewards shall be reduced from 225 to 205 hours per month; no penalty overtime to accrue until 240 hours have been worked, the hours between 205 and 240 to be paid for at the pro rata rate.

Effective February 1, 1951, overtime at time and one-half shall accrue after 220 hours have been worked. The basic monthly salary to be paid for the 205-hour month shall be the same as that now paid for the 225-hour month. Except that four dollars and ten cents ($4.10) shall be added to the present monthly rate effective January 1, 1951.

10. In consideration of above, this agreement to be effective until October 1, 1953, and thereafter until changed or modified under provisions of Railway Labor Act. Moratorium on proposals for changes in wages or rules until October 1, 1953, as follows:

No proposals for changes in rates of pay, rules or working conditions will be initiated or progressed by the employees against any carrier or by any carrier against its employees, parties hereto, within a period of three years from October 1, 1950, except such proposals for changes in rules or working conditions which may have been initiated prior to June 1, 1950. Provided, however, that if as the result of government wage stabilization policy, workers generally have been permitted to receive so-called annual improvement increases, the parties may meet with Doctor Steelman on or after July 1, 1952, to discuss whether or not further wage adjustments for employees covered by this agreement are justified, in addition to increases received under the cost of living formula. At the request of either party for such a meeting Doctor Steelman shall fix the time and place for such meeting. Doctor Steelman and the parties may secure information from the wage stabilization authorities or other government agencies. If the parties are unable to agree at such conferences whether or not further wage adjustments are justified they shall ask the President of the United States to appoint a referee who shall sit with them and consider all pertinent information, and decide promptly whether further wage increases are justified and, if so, what such increases should be, and the effective date thereof. The carrier representatives shall have one vote, the employee representatives shall have one vote and the referee shall have one vote. **

11. If the parties cannot agree on details of agreement or rules they shall be submitted to John R. Steelman for final decision.

The usual protections for arbitraries, miscellaneous rates, special allowances, and existing money differentials above existing standard daily rates will be included in the formal agreement.

 The foregoing will not debar management and committees on individual railroads from mutually agreeing upon changes in rates, rules and working conditions of employees covered by this agreement.

Milk Tests Show Variance, But Expected Ed Rebman Says

Wide variatians in the fat test of milk from individual caws and herds is narmal and shauld be expected, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent advised dairymen today.

The agent points to tests made by the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station at East Lansing. Milk fram each of seven herds was accurately sampled and tested every day far seven days. Variations in daily tests ranged from .3 percent to 1.7 percent for the different praducers.

Milk fram each of 2,000 cows was tested every day alsa. More than half the cowa showed daily variations of 1 to 2 percent in test and more than 300 cows showed daily variatians aver 2 percent in test.

The county agent explained that the fat test is normally lowest about the secand month after the cow freshens and highest at the end of the lactatian period. Fat tests are alsa usually lower in the summer and higher in the winter.

In general, the shorter the interval between milking time, the higher the fat test and the smaller the volume of milk. Evening milk tends ta he higher in test than morning milk, experiments reveal.

Some causes of fat variatians may be disease, the heat period, stage of lactation, season of the year, and sudden weather changes.

There are some management practices, hawever, that bring about fat variations in milk tests. Michigan State College authorities say they are:

1. Failure to practice uniform milk procedures. The answer—adopt "managed milking." This promotes complete let down af milk. Rapid and camplete milking are important.
2. Differences in interval between milking.
3. Irregularities in amount and test of milk used an the farm.
4. Freezing of milk fo sides of can. An accurate sample far testing cannat be taken. It usually results in lower test and of caurse, a loss in weight. The answer—don't let cans af milk stand in cold air.
5. Cans over-filled. Remaval af lids in dairy may cause spillage of same high test milk. Ship full cans but nat over-filled.
6. Warm milk in partially filled cans will sametimes churn on the way ta the plant. A true sample cannot be taken and the test is lowered.
7. Any excitement interferes with let down of milk and lawers both the quantity of milk and the test.
8. Expasure to stormy weather and discomfarts usually lawer the test.
9. Praper coaling facilitates good creaming and mare accurate test.

Check Farm Tools Is Burnett's Advice

The combination af a hard, early winter and the possibility of defense production controls being imposed on farm equipment manufacturers makes winter service and repairs of farm equipment this year more impartant than ever before according to Burnett Brothers, Bay Shore, dealer of the Oliver Corporation.

Burnett Brathers, said that the reductian in steel available for repair parts and new production during the caming year cannot yet be fareseen by manufacturers. They stated that they have been advised that the extent af praduction cutbacks may exceed 15 percent, causing shartages during the coming year which could severly hamper farming operations.

They said that most dealers have ample repair parts supplies present, and suggested that farmers wishing to insure the condition af the equipment when the fields open up in the spring wauld have their machinery checked and put in the best possible condition during the winter months.

Simple Changes Can Cut Chore Work

Did yau know the average dairy farmer can cut up ta 120 miles of walking a year from his chore work and still get the necessary jabs dane?

That same dairyman is going ta spend six hours a day for the next six or seven manths doing chore work, tao.

Much of this wark can be cut down by a little planning, accarding ta Bryon R. Bookhout, Michigan State College agricultural economist.

Perhaps the best way af to find where to cut is ta break the chore work dawn into separate jobs, he says. The wark can be divided inta feeding grain, feeding hay, feeding silage, milking, caring for the milk and utensils, and cleaning the stables.

Dairy Barn Tour Planned in Area For February 7

A dairy barn tour has been planned for farmers in Charlevoix Caunty by Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. This tour will be held next Wednesday, Feh. 7 and will include three stops. Art Bell, extensian agricultural engineer from Michigan State callege will be present ta lead the discussion at each of the stops.

The first stap will be south of Charlevoix at the Franklin Cellner farm starting promptly at 10:30 a.m. Mr. Cellner canstructed a new barn a few years ago of a laminated rafter type. He also has built a modern milk house. Franklin Cellner is a member of the Charlevoix-Antrim Dairy Herd Improvement association and a student in the Veterans Training class.

The first stap in the afternoon will be at 2:00 p.m. at the Charles Reidel farm on the Deer Lake road near Boyne City. Charles and his son Bab have a nice herd of Holsteins and are selling whale milk. They have a very nice milk house and their barn is af the stanchion type. They belong to the Boyne City Artificial Breeders associatian.

The secand stop in the afternaon at 3:30 p.m. will he at the Art Nicloy and Sons farm between Advance and Whiting Park. These folks have a pen type barn and are also selling whale milk. They are members of the Charlevoix-Antrim Dairy Herd Improvement association and the Boyne City Artificial Breeders association. Curtis Nicloy and Bob Reidle are also students in the Veterans Training class.

Art Bell is known thraughout the state for his work with farmers in farm structures and machinery. Mr. Bell has helped develap and papularize laminated rafter canstructian for farm buildings. Many folks in Charlevaix County will remember Mr. Bell. Some af the tapics that will be discussed will be low cost building construction, ventilation and insulation of dairy barns. There will also be a discussion of advantages and disadvantages of both the pen type and stanchion type barn.

ORCHARD NOTES

By Claude Fairman

There seems to be some canfusion over last week's writeup. Explanation: Nearly all varieties of peaches can be grown in aur locality.

The local trade and the housewife likes a freestone of yellow flesh. The best of these for this area are the Red Haven, Fair Haven, Hale Haven and Kal Haven.

We have two new, good early peaches of the freestone varieties on trial, the Jerseyland and Southland. In regard to peaches for a processing plant or canning factory, California Clingstones of several varieties are used there as factories have machinery for pitting clingstones.

Michigan has developed anly one variety of clingstone peach for its factories and this one is used on a large scale. It is the Amber Gem. Hawever, some pracessors like Gerber's take freestones for baby food and the Cheery Growers, Inc. at Traverse City canned freestones this year.

A. J. Rodgers, president, is very well posted on pracessing apples and cherries. He prefers Stark, Greening, Wagner, Spy and Jonathan apples.

New vaccine cuts spread of Bang's disease 50%

A new Bang's vaccine called Brucella M. is showing outstanding results in tests made by Michigan State College research and extension veterinarians in co-operation with the State Veterinarian. Some 400 herds with more than 5,000 cattle were checked. In herds not vaccinated, indications of the disease accounted for more than 7 per cent. In herds vaccinated with Brucella M., only 3.6 per cent showed indications. Abortion in cattle practically ceased after Brucella M. was used. The vaccine developed at the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station is available through veterinarians specially licensed by the State Department of Agriculture. For more information, call, write or visit your County Agricultural Agent.

New telephone wire means fewer poles

The stronger the telephone wire, the farther apart poles can be set. Michigan Bell is now using a new high-tensile steel telephone wire so strong it can span as much as 600 feet between poles. That means fewer holes to dig, fewer poles to set, fewer crossarms to put up, greater efficiency in rural telephone construction. It is another thing we are doing to bring more and better service to you at low cost.

Unbeaten Red Rayders Face Difficult Hurdle In Week's Top League Game With Boyne City

Ramblers Win Impressive Game Over Pellston As Charlevoix Chalks Up Ninth Win at Gaylord

The Red Rayders of Charlevoix, suffering a mid-season letdown in their last two games, will tangle with a resurgent Boyne City five here Friday night in the No. 1 conference game.

And the word is being passed around in Boyne City that this is the time for Charlevoix to be tipped over. Boyne's coach, Dick Dixon has been telling his boys that this is the game to point for. The Boyne lads don't need any urging when Charlevoix is the opponent.

Charlevoix leads the pack in the NM CC standings with an impressive eight victories in league play and one win against Petoskey. Boyne has been beaten by Charlevoix in a thriller and by East Jordan and Mancelona.

* * *

ON THE RECORD, Charlevoix should not have difficulty. But that is never true when these two teams meet. It will be a hammer and tong battle to the finish. Boyne will be out to hang the first defeat on the Rayders' spotless record. Boyne appeared off when it lost to East Jordan and Mancelona but last week it walloped Pellston as badly as Charlevoix did a few weeks ago.

The last game between Charlevoix and Boyne was a ding-dong battle with the locals winning the game in the final minute of play after trailing most of the way. The largest crowd of the season is expected to witness the game. And the lineup outside the gym will begin earlier than usual.

Boyne has an annual habit of reaching its form late in the season and then being at its peak in the tournament games. In any event Charlevoix will have to be at its best to measure Ted Mason and company.

In the game against Gaylord last Friday, the Rayders showed little of the form they showed against Pellston or several of the other games. While they won 48-35, it was a far cry from their form a few weeks previously.

It was a game of missed shots and opportunities. Bill Wallace led the point-getters with 18 followed by Charley Fairbanks and Don Hardy, 10 and eight respectively.

Their last half rally failed to materialize with the Rayders garnering only 21 points while Gaylord hit for 18 in the final two periods. The score at the half was 27-17. Charlevoix sank eight of 14 free throws and Gaylord had five of 13. Jim Scheur was Gaylord's best point getter with 14.

The game was a low-scoring affair with the Rayders failing to score 50 points for the first time since the games with East Jordan and Boyne City.

In the second team game, the Rayders Reserves captured the tilt 32-25 with Deano Davenport getting 13 points. This game was close all the way with the Rayders seconds leading 15-12 at intermission and adding a little to their lead in the final periods. Points for the Rayders were made by Lewis, six; Bennett, four; Pearl, four; Mosier and Whitley, two each; and Nathan Bos, one.

All future Girl Scout news and publications will be put in the Scout column. The Trefoil cut was purchased by the Council.

Return Books

The Girl Scout Librarian for the new year is Mrs. Max Novak. She will be glad to help anyone in securing any literature they may need.

It would be greatly appreciated if any leaders or past leaders would take inventory of the books they have out and kindly notify Mrs. Novak. In this way an accurate list can be compiled and the work be done more efficiently. Books that are out and not in use can be returned to either the library or Mrs. Novak.

Leaders Meet

The Girl Scout Leaders and Assistant Leaders met on January 22 and formed a Leaders Club. The club will meet once a month.

Plans for the Girl Scout year were discussed and many problems solved. It was a most successful meeting.

The next Leaders meeting will be held on Monday, February 19 at Phyllus McClure's home.

Our girl scout troop No. 4 met Monday night. We made a total of $22.00 on our bake sale last Saturday the proceeds will go towards our camping trip we are planning on taking in the spring. Plans were discussed for the trip at this meeting and also we are talking about taking a few cook outs during the winter months.

Scribe, Joyce Cunningham

Friday, Jan. 19 Scout Troop No. 8 and our leaders Mrs. Olesky and Mrs. Hamilton went out to Mrs. Abfalters cabin at the mountain. Our guests were Mrs. Kit Carson and Mrs. Mildred Paddock.

Part of the troop left early to go ahead and blaze a trail and the rest left at 9:30 and tracked their trail in. The first thing we did was explore around the woods before eating our dinner. After dinner we went on a hike and then came back and played for a while before we ate our supper. We arrived home about five thirty and everyone had a very nice time.

Coffee Cup Sold To Harbor Residents

The Coffee Cup restaurant has been sold to Lewis and Joseph Juilleret of Harbor Springs, Pete Scott, present owner, announced.

The new owners will take possession today, Feb. 1. They have been in the restaurant business in Harbor Springs for many years. Their restaurant long has been a favorite summer spot for nearly 50 years.

Mr. Scott said that he will leave for Florida in a few days but said his business plans are indefinite.

Scarcity Looms In Furniture, Appliances

Furniture and appliance stores throughout the nation are preparing for an indefinite period of shortages of merchandise.

Mr. Hess related that manufacturers of many appliances and furniture are now operating with their wholesale and retail market on a quota basis. One major appliance manufacturer has cut production to 40 per cent of the 1950 schedule because of armed service contracts.

In the soft goods line, such as carpeting, the manufacturers are changing from all-wool to part wool and part rayon, Hess said. The market proved to be "absolutely a seller market". Most dealers bought everything they possibly could, Hess said.

NOTICE

Due to personal reasons, the committee that sponsors the Beaver Island parties, feel that its members are unable to hold the annual party this year.

Most of the islanders don't realize the time and work we have to do to put these parties on. Otherwise we would have more help which would be welcome and much easier on those that do.

Sincerely hope there won't be too many disappointed and if everything goes well we'll plan to see you in 1952.

East Jordan Nips Rayders to Tie for Lead

Abe Lincoln Really Slept on This Couch

Lester Smith, commander of the local American Legion post, Fenton R. Bulow, Vern Whiteford of East Jordan and C. B. Meggison look over the couch on which Abraham Lincoln, who later became this country's great Civil War president, once slept. The couch has been in the Legion hall for many years.

Abraham Lincoln slept on this couch.

And that is not a tall tale. Behind the statement is a story that is little known despite the fact that the couch has been at the home of the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226 of the American Legion for more then 15 years and in Charlevoix for close to a half century.

The Lincoln couch, as it has become known, dates back to the days when Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday is observed Monday, was first in politics and often rode the train between Springfield and Chicago in his home state of Illinois.

For his comfort the roilroad had the couch put aboard the train so he might rest during the long tiresome trips.

Many years later the railroad car was dismantled. A railroad superintendent, knowing the history of the couch, asked if he might have it and his request was granted.

In 1901 this superintendent, George J. Carlton of Chicago, purchased a cottage on the Belvedere Club and in time brought the couch to Charlevoix.

* * *

In 1929 the cottage and furnishings were sold to the Lloyd R. Steeres of Chicago and Chesterton, Ind., when they remodeled the house in the early '30s they debated what to do with this historically valuable piece of furniture and finally decided the local American Legion post would be a proper guardian.

So, with little ceremony other than a letter telling the history and verifying the authenticity, the couch was transferred to the Legion hall on Garfield avenue.

Until recently it was used as a settee and little thought given to its great historial significance. Many of the younger Legion members had never heard the story.

It is still in good condition and the original green plush covering on which Lincoln slept, shows little sign of wear.

A percentage of the blood to be donated at the February clinic will be turned over to the armed forces for use in Korea.

Cupid Keeps Busy Here in January

Dan Cupid was working overtime during January, according to county clerk Fenton R. Bulow, who reports that an almost record number of marriage licenses were issued last month. The average number is about eight or nine.

Fourteen couples decided to say "I Do" to make Jonuary the most popular month of brides in some time. During September 1950 21 licenses were issued.

That was the largest number since September 1947 when 23 licenses were issued.

Mr. Bulow believes the increase in marriages is due to the uncertainty of the world situation and because increased numbers of young men are being called for military services.

Charlevoix Rally Falls Short in Final Minutes, 10-Game Streak Broken

A fast charging East Jordan fought off Charlevoix's determined final quarter rally Tuesday night to hand the Red Rayders their first loss of the cage season.

The score was 40-38 with East Jordan leading all the way.

The triumph gave the East Jordan lads, coached by Gayle Saxton, a virtual tie for first place with Charlevoix. The Rayders have won nine and lost only one while East Jordan has eight wins and one loss. Jordan plays Mancelona Friday while the Rayders are idle.

The East Jordan team was off to a fast start and managed to stay ahead of Charlevoix all the way.

At one point in the game the Rayders trailed by 12 points. But the game was close and hard-fought most of the time.

An ill-fated rally in the final minutes almost threw the game into a tie and overtime. The Rayders appeared stronger in the final quarter, scoring 11 points against six for East Jordan. This was the only period when the winners were outscored.

* * *

WHILE HOLDING East Jordan to a bucket by McGeorge and three foul tosses, the Rayders with Tom Donaldson leading the way with three buckets in a matter of minutes fell short of a tie. Bill Walloce who was high point man with 14 points sank a goal and two free tosses in the final quarter and Chuck Fairbanks sank a free throw. But it was not quite enough.

Bryan Boring, Max Sommerville and Jim Whiteford occounted for 33 points in Jordan's total. Although giving height to Charlevoix, the Jordan boys refused to give anything else.

Recruitment Of Student Nurses Starts in Area

A student nurse recruitment program, sponsored by the Petoskey District Nurses association, will be undertaken throughout Emmet and Charlevoix counties in the coming months.

There is an urgent need for more nurses, not only to offer their services to their community, but to their country as well.

Michigan's share in preparing more nurses for the nation's growing civilian and military needs includes admission of 2000 new students to state approved schools in 1951.

This is a program that should interest the entire community for its vital need affects each of us most personally. Thus far, our hospitals have been fortunate in being able to adequately fill their staff needs.

Any qualified girl or woman entering professional nursing can know that she has a thousand opportunities to be useful to her country.

The student nurse recruitment committee in Petoskey is seeking to reach potential candidates through high schools, girl's clubs, and through the aid of various clubs and organizations. Committee members include Mrs. Ann Schumacher and Mrs. Dorothy Bailey of Petoskey

Scouts Observing 42nd Birthday of Movement

Charlevoix and other communities in the United States are observing the forty-first anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scouts, termed one of the most valuable youth organizations in the world today.

While Boy Scout activity may not be as widespread here as it is in other communities, the movement under able leadership shows definite signs of steady growth. Many of the nation's leaders in war and peace have paid tribute to the Boy Scout organization for guiding youthful activity and building character, so important in the formative years.

The annual court of honor held Wednesday night here was in observance of this Scout birthday which is being marked in every community where there is a Cub pack or a Scout troop.

Leaders in the fight against juvenile delinquency are quick to point out that wherever you have active movements there is less juvenile problems: Since Feb. 8, 1910 more than 17,750,000 American boys and men have been influenced by the Scout oath and law. They have henefitted by using their leisure-time energies in outdoor living and activities of cultural and practical values which lead boys to become dependable men.

Today over 2,750,000 boys and men are actively enrolled in over 75,000 different units. Fortunate indeed are communities where Scouting flourishes. American adults of good character give generously of their time for leadership.

Others help by raising funds and members of the Scout council which in turn provide training for leaders, camp facilities and worthwhile year-around activities, personal advancement and opportunities for Scouts to render community service.

In celebration of this Scout anniversary, the Boy Scouts are stepping up their training for civil defense and are promoting greater interest in conserving the nation's natural resources.

May the world come to the obvious conclusion that a vigilant peace depends on a bi-partisan movement such as the Scouts, one in which race and religion and creed count little and service to mankind is the guiding rule.

Seek Boost in State Tourist Advertising Fund

An increase in state funds to advertise and promote Michigan's tourist industry is included in a request submitted to the legislature by the State Tourist Council.

Robert J. Furlong, executive secretary of the council, explained that the increase is necessary for two reasons: 1) To offset rising costs of advertising. 2) To meet unprecedented competition from other states. This competition, said Furlong, is in part a result of the international crisis.

Tourist officials believe that Charlevoix and other parts of northern Michigan may look forward to a prosperous summer this year, provided the weather is warmer than last. This is welcome news indeed.

"Management, labor, government and public health authorities agree that vacations are essential if peak production levels are to be maintained," said Furlong. "There is no indication that the threat of all-out war will seriously affect the vacation payment programs of industry which today provide nine out of ten workers with paid vacations.

"However, if restrictions on travel are imposed, more advertising will be necessary to 'lure' enough visitors to Michigan to keep the tourist industry among the state's top bracket income producers, continued Furlong. "This is especially true in the face of the stepped-up advertising programs of competitor states."

Furlong pointed out that since 1945, when the Tourist Council was created by the Legislature, the cost of advertising and the cost of producing tourist promotion literature has increased more than 35 per cent. During that time the Council's annual budget remained the same - $250,000 - until the current fiscal year when it was reduced to $225,000.

Michigan now ranks 13th in the amount of state funds appropriated for tourist promotion. Despite this fact, evidence of the effectiveness of Michigan's advertising program is found in the results of a recent national survey which places Michigan third in popularity among the nation's vacationists.

The Tourist Council's current budget request calls for an appropriation of $297,495 for the year beginning July 1, 1951. This amount, it is said, would tend to offset the increase in the cost of advertising and the production of tourist literature. It would also help Michigan to keep pace with her competitors.

In submitting the request, members of the Tourist Council pointed out that in two-thirds of the state, the tourist industry is the number one source of income.

Investments by the state and its people in tourist and travel accomodations during the past few years has been tremendous. Also, the tourist industry which represents an estimated $500,000,000 annual income, contributes substantially to the state's revenue in the payment of gas taxes, sales taxes, cigarette taxes and other levies. It is estimated that upwards of $16,600.000 is paid in this manner each by Michigan's tourists.

Michigan's current appropriation for tourist advertising is 45/1000 of one per cent of the total dollar volume of the tourist industry.

ODDS 'N ENDS

About the weather . . . everyone we know has been feeling so sorry for us way up here where it's so cold . . . but do they realize that the temperatures here have been higher than in Chicago and Milwaukee . . . last week when it was so cold every place else the old mercury never got to 10 below but once alt week . . Small consolation, we grant you, but at least Charlevoix isn't the Arctic circle . . .

And how about the groundhog . . . we never could get the prophecy straight . . . one thing we know . . he saw his shadow on Friday . now you dope out how many more weeks of winter we're going to have . . and if you say 'six' we'll say you're sure an optimist . . .

But the robins . . they're supposed to be smart birds, as we've said before this winter but in all the snow that came floating down Sunday morning ten of them were sitting in the apple tree at the Franklin Curtis residence on Dixon ave. . . . and added to that they were hob-nobbin' with some blue-jays . . . something almost unheard of . .

WHEN HAVE you seen so much ice on Round Lake . . almost like the good old days Art Ranger was telling us about last week when people walked across the lake most of the winter . . . the poor seagulls have had trouble finding open water and are spending a lot of time in the channel . . who says it isn't a hard winter?

Here's something we got quite a snicker out of . . . we noticed the other day a little item telling of an editorial written by Edward Bok some 50 years ago on the question "Is a Newspaper office the place for a girl" . . . of 42 reporters questioned on the subject 39 said no and one went so far as to say he'd rather see his daughter starve than be employed in a newspaper office . . Wonder what these same guys would say today if they could see all the top notch women reporters in action in offices throughout the world or read of Maggie Higgins covering the war in Korea . . . How times do change . . .

HAD AN INTERESTING time Sunday . . . Vane Smith, home from Central Michigan brought his guest, Cyrus Tavallali of Tehran, Iran, also a student at Central over with him . . . Ony 19, the boy has been in this country a year and expects to stay until he's completed his degree in medicine . . . Do you know where Iran really is? Neither did we till we got the atlas out and looked it up . . . he's a very interesting lad . . . likes this country, especially the people because they're so friendly . . . has a hard time with English (the way Americans speak it) . . . too much slang . . . he knows more about his country than I'm sure most of us would know about ours if we were questioned at length . . .

Among the things that surprised us most are the number of students in this country from Iran . . . more than 3,000 and his country is one sixth the size of ours . . . added to that they learn to speak English in school . . . Imagine leaving your home almost as a mere youngster to travel to a new and strange land for an education . . . We sometimes wonder if we appreciate what we have almost at our fingertips . . . and remember . . . these young people must stay for several years, learn a new set of customs, a new language away from all that is familiar to them. We think it's pretty wonderful . . and what better way to bring about an understanding of our country and the rest of the world.

LOTS OF LUCK to Greg Bryan when he enters the Golden Gloves at Grand Rapids next week . . . he had a good fight at Petoskey last Saturday . . . really took his boy, a sailor from the Mackinaw . . . Ted Browe lost his bout by a close decision . . but the winner of the fight went on to take his division so Ted shouldn't feel too badly . . . It was a grand sport watching all those young kids in the ring . . . they sure have to be in the pink of condition to stay in there for three rounds . . . Any glory they might receive is sure earned the hard way . . . A big thanks to Jack McDermott for his part in the fight . . . he gives his time and advice for love of the sport and we're glad to see his boy go so far . . . And a personal thanks from us for arranging for a trip to the Golden Gloves for the first time . . .

And loads of luck to the Rayders . . . what's this about things coming in threes (if you're superstitious) . . . they're having three tough games in a row . . . Boyne, East Jordan and Petoskey . . . let's hope they make it three straight . . . We know they're capable of it . . .

And happy birthday to the Carey twins, Bill and Bob . . . who will be all of 21 this week . .

We've been hearing a lot about the Rosebush quads born in Pontiac recently but did you know that a former Charlevoix girl was in on the delivery of the new famous foursome? . . . She's Mrs. Robert Barkey, the former Ruth Essenberg, who was one of the nurses in attendance and was later on the radio to tell about it . . . Charlevoixans sure get around, don't they? . . .

Long-term Investment that pays daily dividends

But it's rare when doing your duty turns out to be the best way to satisfy your heart's desire.

That's what's so marvelous about this '51 Buick.

If you picked a car just for the lift it gives you—your pride in its power—or its generous comfort—you couldn't make a better choice.

But make note of this:

That gleaming new push-bar forefront, which greets your eye with flashing beauty, contains 25 grille bars made of stamped steel, individually mounted to "give" and come back unharmed. Combined with a massive, wrap-around bumper, fortressed by two stalwart "bumper bombs" and two added uprights, it gives unsurpassed protection.

Springs of stout spiraled steel on all four wheels let your wheels curtsey over bumps, while you ride level as a lance. But they also need no servicing, and breakage is virtually unknown.

Buick's great-powered engine is a Fireball, wondrously lively and eager at the mere touch of your toe—but it also wrings extra power from every drop of fuel, and has the mechanical perfection that comes only from years of experience with this basic design.

Dynaflow Drive gives you effortless smoothness of control—but it also eliminates clutch repair bills, saves tires, eases strain on the whole driving mechanism, from engine to differential.

The road-steady gait of a Buick assures relaxed security—and is also evidence that you have a durable, deep-silled, X-braced frame beneath you.

However you check it, you'll discover this: The things that make you yearn for a Buick on first acquaintance, are the very same things that make Buick such a smart long-time buy.

Better see your Buick dealer—soon.

Standard equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.

No other car provides all this:
DYNAFLOW DRIVE* • FIREBALL POWER
4-WHEEL COIL SPRINGING • DUAL VENTILATION
PUSH-BAR FOREFRONT • TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE
WHITE-GLOW INSTRUMENTS • DREAMLINE STYLING
BODY BY FISHER
*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series

Blue Wins This "Hunt"

Cappy Miller's coon dogs—except for one of them, Old Blue—are about the finest hounds in the county. Blue's too friendly and easy-going to care much about hunting. He doesn't act the way we think a good dog should, so we figured he'd never amount to much.

But a fellow comes around Saturday looking for a good dog to photograph for some advertising. And the dog he picks is Blue! Says Blue's happy, friendly face is just the one to attract people's attention. So Cappy gets more money for that picture than his other dogs will ever take in hunt prizes.

From where I sit, that should teach us not to look down on humans, when they act differently than we think they should. For instance, maybe you think tea goes best with food. O.K.—but don't size up wrong the man who enjoys a bottle of beer at mealtime.

Like Blue, I guess we're all "different" in one way or another—but that doesn't mean we don't have our good points, too!

Rayders Idle This Weekend After Strenuous Games with Boyne, E. Jordan; Petoskey Next

Donaldson Leaps High to Snare Boyne City Pass

Tommy Donaldson may be a little fellow compared with some of the taller boys but he can go up in the air. Here he (No. 3) is shown really leaving his feet to intercept a Boyne City pass as Ted Mason, No. 28, starts to leave his feet in pursuit of the ball. Bill Wallace, No. 5 can be seen in the right rear and Charley Fairbanks, No. 14, is coming up to be in on the play. Ron Wojan, white shirt, is in the center of the proceedings.

Charlevoix Ekes Out Tenth Triumph Over Ramblers in Tough Contest; Petoskey Set for Revenge Tilt

For the first time this season, the Red Rayders will take it easy on a Friday night as there is no game scheduled tomorrow.

Their eyes will be on next week's game with a revived Petoskey taem which fell victim to Charlevoix early in the season but which has revenge on its mind against its Class C rival. Petoskey has come back in recent games and boasts a victory over Boyne City among its recent triumphs.

This Boyne City team gave the battle of its life before bowing to Charlevoix last Friday in the local gym, 51-49, in a thriller all the way. Living up to expectations, the game was knotted so often that the scorers had difficulty.

* * *

THE CHARLEVOIX RESERVES won a close thriller with a last minute flurry of points, 39-33 with Bobo Bennett high for the Rayders with 17. Deano Davenport flipped in 10 points. Arner of Boyne was the game's high point man with 25. The Rayders led at the half 22-15 and 33-28 at the third quarter mark.

The Boyne Ramblers were up for the game and they really made it close. A break on one or two occasions could have changed the loss into a victory.

* * *

AS IT WAS the Rayders scored their second victory over Boyne this year to keep their spotless record running the string to nine conference games and a non-loop affair over Petoskey.

Six times in the final period, the score was tied.

The Rayders started things off in a quick manner rolling up an 8-1 lead in the opening minutes. Then Boyne surged back to trail 13-18 at the first quarter mark. Bill Wallace who led the game's scorers with 18 points hit for five in the first period. But Norm Ketchman scored seven of his points in the game during this quarter. Ron Wojan had two buckets and Fairbanks had a two-pointer.

Harold Saffran, flashy Boyne guard, sunk three goals in the second period as his team styed on the Rayders' heels. Buck Kujawski rammed home five points and Ted Mason picked up a goal. Meantime, Wallace picked up three goals. Ketchman. two and Tom Donaldson, one.

* * *

THE SCORE at the half was 30-27. Boyne outscored the winners in the last half by getting 16 points in the third period against 13 for Charlevoix and seven in the last period while the Rayders picked up eight.

Fairbanks picked up seven points in the third period in close play. Tom Donaldson chipped in with four points and Wallace got a bucket. Mason who had been held to two baskets in the first half by Fairbanks, broke loose and sank four baskets from out on the floor during this quarter.

In the final minutes Mason broke the 43 all tie and Fairbanks tied it at 45 with a rebound. Ketchman sank a foul and Wallace did likewise. Saffran came right back and tied it at 47 all with two minutes left. Saffran arched one in to make it 49-47 but Wallace got a jump shot and seconds later did it again from the side. And that was the ball game.

Question Cheapness Of Cheap Seed For Forage Crop

What forage crop should I seed? This question is asked by many farmers when they come to the office of Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. Much interest is being shown regarding seed supplies.

The agent points out that there is a widespread difference in the cost of northern grown alfalfa seed and medium red clover. Clover seed is abundant, while northern grown alfalfa is in short supply, Supplies of southern grown alfalfa seed are abundant, but this seed is unadapted to Michigan conditions. Tests have shown that southern grown and Argentine alfalfa are much lower yielding than northern grown strains, beside being much less winter-hardy.

Agent Rebman agrees with C. M. Harrison, Michigan State College forage specialist that alfalfa is Michigan most productive legume.

Differences in seed prices between adapted, northern grown alfalfa and medium red clover are not particularly important when a good, vigorous stand is established. Alfalfa remains productive for two or three years whereas red clover is a one year crop. This spreads the cost of the alfalfa over the two or three year period.

It is only when seeding failures occur that seed price differentials are important. It is always cheaper to have a failure with cheap seed than with high priced seed. It is always important to avoid failures and particularly so this year with alfalfa. Many of the seeding failures can be avoided if good cultural practices are used. In establishing a good vigorous stand of alfalfa, the following practices are essential.

1. Test for acidity and add lime only if necessary.

2. Apply 400 pounds per acre of high analysis fertilizer prior to or at seeding time. Order and accept delivery of fertilizer early.

3. Prepare a fine firm seedbed, which helps to insure shallow planting and makes for good contact between seed and soil.

4. Seed shallow (¼ to ½ inch) and cultipack to cover.

5. Remove nurse crop by pasturing or cutting for hay on soils where moisture is insufficient to mature the grain crop and secure a seeding.

A recommended seed mixture in this area is four pounds of alfalfa, three pounds of brome grass and three pounds of medium red clover per acre.

Time to Plan for Strawberry Crop

It's not strawberry time in Michigan, but unless this old world changes a lot in the next few months, it soon will be. And it is time to be thinking of the home plantation.

Ed Rebman, county agent, finds that in many home gardens folks are growing strawberries too close together in the matted row. This results in low yields and a lot of small berries which do not ripen in dry seasons. The plants should be spread 5 to 6 inches apart in the row.

Another question often asked is . . . Should I purchase a red stele (steel) resistant variety of strawberries in preferance to a variety susceptible to this disease? A grower should never use the red stele resistant variety unless he is sure that his soil is infected with the red stele organism. It seems that the red stele resistant varieties are not killed by the organism, but slightly attacked by it. Thus, they tend to spread the disease and frequently infect a disease free area.

Preparing the meal is under the direction of Mrs. Leatha Larsen East Jordan club leader and school teacher. Following the supper the South Arm 4-H club will demonstrate a model business meeting; the members of this club are state champions.

Special awards will be given out during the meeting. These will include a set of dishes to Martin Johnson of Charlevoix who is the county champion cereal bread baker. Martin defeated 22 other contestants in the contest.

Early Care Needed for Dairy Calves

Careful attention to a few pointers in raising dairy calves often means a more successful job in getting the calf off to a good start, report members of the Michigan State College dairy department.

Feeding, they say, is the first consideration. Feed milk at the rate of one pound a day for each 10 pounds of calf weight. This means eight pounds of milk for an 80 pound calf, which would normally be fed in two feeds of four pounds (about two quarts) each per day. Feed the milk at a regular time and be sure the temperature is around 00 to 95 degrees Fahrenheit.

* * *

FAST DRINKING often leads to scouring troubles, the dairymen say. Drinking can be slowed down by elevating the pail in a rack or manger. Many farmers use nipple pails and find them helpful. A caution in using a nipple pail is to be sure it is kept clean.

Most dairymen prefer to start calves at about two weeks of age on whole grains. A mixture of three parts whole oats, three parts shelled corn, and one part linseed oil meal or soybean oil meal has been used quite successfully. This is fed until about three months of age, when a ground grain mixture should be fed. A satisfactory growing mixture is 150 pounds of ground oats; 100 pounds of yellow corn meal; 100 pounds wheat bran; and 50 pounds of high protein concentrate. Many dairymen just feed the regular herd ration.

Clean, dry, well-bedded pens that are free from drafts are also a "must" to eliminate danger from colds and pneumonia. Some dairymen are using slatted or grated floors which are raised above the regular floor level. This aids in keeping the bedding dry and also reduces the amount of bedding needed.

15 Million Seedling Trees Available For Reforestration

LANSING—Up to 15,000,000 tree seedlings and transplants will be available to farmers and others planning reforestation work in the spring planting season, the conservation department announces.

Stock requests now can be placed with the department's forestry division in Lansing. Stock must be ordered on special blanks provided by the state, on which the legal description of the acreage to be planted appears.

Six classes of red and white pine are offered at no increase in cost.

Stock is distributed at cost for reforestation and may not be resold or otherwise used commercially.

No animal or plant life can live in the Dead Sea because of the high percentage of salt.

Telephone Almanac Is Now Available

The 1051 edition of the "Telephone Almanac," distributed annually by the Michigan Bell Telephone company, is available at all of the company's business offices, it was announced today.

The new edition commemorates the 75th anniversary of the telephone which will be observed in March. Its 12 illustrations on the calendar pages depict the most important steps in the development of the telephone during the past three-fourths of a century.

'Cold Room' Brooder Method Creates Interest

Techniques of "cold room" brooding attracted many poultrymen during Farmer's Week, held recently at Michigan State College, when J. M. Moore, extension poultry specialist, explained this method of handling birds, according to Ed Rebman, county agent, who along with several farmers attended Farmers' Week.

"Cold room" brooding is brooding by electricity, he pointed out. It means that there must be sufficient heat under the brooder. but that there will still be a greater difference between the temperature under the brooder and the rest of the room.

Outlining advantages, Moore advised that fire hazards are reduced and less labor is required since it is automatic, provided electric power is constant.

Faster feathering takes place in "cold room" brooding than when temperatures are too constant throughout the entire room, Moore says. This will also result in less cannibalism and hetter growth.

Good management must be followed or defects will creep in, the poultryman told the visiting farmers.

Some people try to conserve electricity by not maintaining high enough temperature under the hover to start the chicks. This causes crowding, mortality, and reduced growth.

Some operators leave feed and water outside the hover. Because it is so cold outside the hover, chicks will not get feed and water. Poor health and starvation result.

Wet litter can develop under the brooder due to condensation of moisture unless a "built-up" or deep litter is used.

"Cold room" brooding is finding increased favor with poultrymen through the state, Moore says, and it offers a number of good features that operators may wish to investigate.

Dairy Success

A well planned breeding program, good feeding and sound management, combined with a continuous testing and record program, are all necessary to develop a herd of high producing dairy cows, according to supervisors of the six top-producing Michigan Dairy Herd Improvement Associations.

ORCHARD NOTES

By Clauda Fairman

Your county agent can supply you with bulletin No. 179 " The Thin Wood" method of pruning bearing apple trees, trimming young fruit trees and many other pamphlets on fruit.

It is a good plan to get your apples and other fruits trimmed first and do the peaches afterward, after severe cold weather is over about the last part of March and early April.

If peaches are set for a light crop, trim lightly to obtain a better crop this year. If crop is completely lost. trim very heavy to renew the wood. However. if the wood should be injured by extremely low temperatures, it is better not to trim at all.

Do not cut trees until you have given them a trial over summer. Pruning is about the only orchard operation that can wait another year or be neglected.

If any heavy pruning should be desirable for any certain purpose, it is better to spread the pruning out over a three year period.

That is, to prune a little each year for three years. Trim grapes most, peaches next, and sweet cherries practically none.

Benjamin Franklin invented the harmonica.

Water — Not Ice

Laying hens need plenty of water during the winter--but not ice, say Michigan State College extension poultrymen. Farmers should check poultry house water systems so that egg production and profits will continue during cold weather.

Bryan Advances To G. R. Tourney

Greg Bryan, novice middleweight, will represent Charlevoix in the Golden Gloves at Grand Rapids Monday after winning in his division at the northern Michigan tournament in Petoskey Saturday by a decision over John Koch of the cutter Mackinaw.

Wednesday night he won a decision over Orin McClary of Roger City to go into the finals against Koch.

In the novice lightweight class Ted Browe lost by a close decision to Jack Kolka of Grayling who went on to defeat L. Jarvis of Rogers City to represent the north in the Grand Rapids tournament. Browe won a split decision over Frank Schmidt of Petoskey Wednesday night.

Fritz Allard also of Charlevoix entered in the lightweight division, lost to Robert Freidrich of Rogers City.

This is Bryan's third year in the Golden Gloves and the first year he has won the chance to go to the state tournament at Grand Rapids.

Bryan will be accompanied by his manager and trainer, Jack McDermott, on the trip to southern Michigan.

Snow Scooters Gain Popularity

Snow scooters, quite well-known to residents of northern Michigan, are gaining in popularity in other sections of the country where winter sports are enjoyed.

Foster Boat Company holds the patent on the type which it has been manufacturing the last five years. The company reports that they are becoming more popular all the time.

Recently the snow scooter, also called bump jumpers, was the topic of a pictorial page in a Detroit newspaper. Pictures were taken in Petoskey of several children and adults on the snow scooters. One picture was taken in the Foster Boat plant here, showing Crayton Kerr of Charlevoix, at work on one of the snow scooters.

While they have been made in home shops and at school for many years, it has been only recently that snow scooters have gained wider popularity.

Storm Forces Buses To Miss Trips

For the first time in two years, the Charlevoix school buses did not go out on their regular runs Wednesday because of the storm.

Poor visibility, high winds and drifting snow making driving very hazardous brought about the decision by Supt. of schools Roy G. Bennett to cancel the regular runs. Later the Charlevoix county road commission advised that the buses not attempt to travel their routes.

Unless the storm abates before Thursday, there will be no school for the students in the rural areas.

World Prayer Day To Be Friday

The annual observance of the World Day of Prayer will be held at the Community Church of God at 2:30 p.m. Friday, Mrs. W. D. Wood, general chairman of the program, has announced.

The theme of "Perfect Love Casts Out Fear" will be followed in the program in which Charlevoix's Protestant churches will participate.

Joyce Fiedler will be organist. The participating churches will have various sections of the program and will furnish readers.

All are urged to plan for and attend this service and join together in praying for the troubled world.

The World Day of Prayer is interdenominational, inter-racial and international in scope. The offerings are divided between missionary work at home and aboard in an effort to bring the peoples of the world closer together.

This year the day will be observed in 92 countries. Each year it is held on the first Friday in Lent and is sponsored by the United Council of Church Women.

Offices Close

The Charlevoix county offices located in the court house will be closed Monday, Feb. 12, and Thursday, Feb. 22, Fenton R. Bulow, county clerk has announced. All city offices in the city hall will be closed on the same dates. The council meeting scheduled for next week will be held on Wednesday because of the legal holiday on Monday.

Call to Ft. Wayne

Ralph Cline was called to Fort Wayne, Ind., because of the death of his mother-in-law, Mrs. William Schwab. Mrs. Cline was already there. He left here Saturday.

South Arm Meeting

The South Arm Farm Bureau will meet at the home of George Klooster, near East Jordan, on Feb. 20. Members are urged to attend and join in the discussion.

Charlevoix Rally Fails In Final Minutes

East Jordan was off to a 6-1 lead in the opening two minutes and led 11 to 7 at the first quarter mark. In tha second quarter Wallace sank two buckets and a free throw, Fairbanks tossed a two pointer in as did Norm Ketchman and Ron Cunningham sank two frea tosses.

While this was going on, Max Sommerville sank four long toms and Whiteford accounted for three more points. The score at the half was 22-18 in Jordan's favor.

• • •

A SPLURGE of baskets by Boring lengthened Jordan's lead in the third period. He sank four jump shots after breaking away from his man under the basket. Sommerville and E. Evans combined on two more goals.

Charlevoix could not match this outburst as Wallace sank two goals, Don Hardy, who played a bang-up game, and Cunningham got a two pointer each. Donaldson scored on a gift toss. The score at the three-quarter mark was 35-27.

• • •

DURING THE final minutes, East Jordan appeared to be tiring as Charlevoix broke through to take the ball as the winners froze the ball. A couple of bad passes hurt the Rayders' cause at this time and East Jordan was sagging when the final whistle sounded.

The second team game was won by Charlevoix 33-29 in another spirited battle. The game was nip and tuck most of the way. East Jordan's bid for this game was nipped in the final minutes.

Wanted: Blood Donors in County

Mrs. Robert Wexstaff, local chairman, reports she has had few local residents register for the clinic to be held from 2 until 7 p.m. at the Dilworth Hotel next Thursday and Friday.

All blood plasma to be used at the Charlevoix Hospital by county residents as well as those hospitalized elsewhere will be derived from this clinic. The plasma and fraction processed from the blood given at this time are available free of cost except for the administration cost to all county residents.

The clinic is being held through the cooperation of the Michigan Department of Health and the Charlevoix county chapter of the Red Cross

If enough persons sign for the clinic and do not have transportation to Boyne City a school bus will be made available, Mrs. Wexstaff has announced.

The age limit is 18 through 59 years. Anyone may register by calling 547 or 367.

And the Whistle Blew!

'Battle of Fouls' Marks Rayders 20-Point Margin Over Petoskey

By Vic Spanlolo

The Charlevoix-Petoskey high school cage game this year will be known as the "whistle game."

Tuesday's game here which saw the Rayders shatter tha seven-game winning streak of their Class B opponents was marked by the almost continuous blowing of the whistle of Referees Dykman and Graybiel of Traverse City.

Sixty-two times in the second half, the referees blew their whistles, signaling a foul. A total of 80 personals and one teachnical were called during the contest which marked the second time Charlevoix had defeated Petoskey this season. Last time it was 60-38 and this time it was 70-50.

Tha game will be long remembered for many reasons. The first half was marked by close-guarding but only an average number of fouls were called. Dykman said after the game that in most basketball games in this district some 40 fouls ara called. So this game doubled the par figures.

The excessive fouling prevented a better game in the final two periods when none of the players could take more than a step or two without having a foul called.

One of the oddest features was Petoskey's playing with only four players in the last stages of the second half.

* * *

ON TWO DIFFERENT occasions, a double foul was called with both players in each instance having to leave the game on fouls.

Petoskey lost Wolgast on fouls with six minutes to go in the third period and Compton followed as the quarter ended. Ron Wojan, Rayder center, was the first local boy to be banished. He left the game just ahead of Wolgast.

In the last quarter, Petoskey lost Steinbreeker, Hitchmough, Johnston, Stowe and Maybanks. Charlevoix lost Don Hardy, Fairbanks, Tom Donaldson and Norm Ketchman. It was a virtual parade as the boys left the game.

The officials told the Courier that the game marked the most fouls called in any game in their memory.

Tuesday games had no bearing on the league standings in

Rev. Whitten to Be Interim Pastor For Methodists

The Rev. George E. Whitten, retired minister and evangelist, who is well-konwn in middle west religious circles, will be interim pastor of the Methodist church here.

He succeeds Rev. Gaylord D. Howell, who accepted pastoral duties of the Grandville Methodist church. The Reverend Whitten comes here from New Albany, Ind. He will preach here Feb. 18 on "The Unused Power of the Church."

Independents to Have Good Team Against All-Stars

A lively game is promised cage fans in northern Michigan Feb. 24 when Dan Devine's MSC All-Stars play the Charlevoix Independents at 8:30 p.m. in the Charlevoix gymnasium.

Among the Spartans will be several MSC football players who also star on the court. The MSC players include Sonny Grandelius, All American grid star who had an outstanding basketball record at Muskegon Heights.

Others are MSC's grid captain, LeRoy Crane who starred at Mt. Pleasant high school, Dorne Dibble and Hank Minarik, both of whom played end with Charlevoix's Bob Carey the last two years, Jim King, another grid star who also is a defensive specialist on the cage court.

Dan Devine, who coached East Jordan for several years before going to MSC to aid in coaching the frosh gridders, will also play. He played with the Independents here and is regarded as a fine player.

Against this array of talent, will be the best in this area including Keith and Don Carey, Del Terrill, Gayle Saxton, East Jordan coach, Chick Gallagher, John Swanson, Bill Lusk, Don Meggison, Skinny Edson and Lou Brown.

Rev. Howell Feted At Methodist Church Farewell

The Rev. Gaylord D. Howell and Mrs. Howell who with their two children left Tuesday for their new pastorate at Grandville, were honored at the regular Thursday family night supper last week.

Following the supper attended by a record number, a program planned by Mrs. Frank Bird was presented. Leslie Everts representing the Sunday school, Mrs. Arthur Edwards of the clubs, L. E. McGhan of the church, and Velma May of the Youth Fellowship all spoke briefly. Group singing under the direction of Mrs. Leonard Burns completed the program.

Rev. and Mrs. Howell were presented with a lovely gift from the church. Earlier the couple had received a gift from the Ministerial Association at a dinner given in their honor,

Auto Plates Sale Lagging in County

Car owners are reminded that they must purchase 1951 plates no later than Feb. 28.

Charlevoix Leads County In Polio Drive

Charlevoix residents quickly responded to the plea for contributions for the polio drive, giving this city the honor of being the first in Charlevoix county to over-subscribe its $1,000 goal.

More than $1,200 has been contributed to the growing fight against polio in the last few weeks. This was done when most residents here are feeling the effects of the poorest summer in many years.

Edward Heise, Jr., who with Junior Willis has managed the drive in Charlevoix, announced that the $1,200 does not include donations which went direct to the county chairman's office in East Jordan.

* * *

THE DRIVE was reported progressing well in East Jordan and Boyne City, although no figures were available. This year's drive represents more than $500 over last year's figures, Heise said.

The biggest boost in the dirve resulted from the church bake sales. Organized by Mrs. Tom Carey, who herself was stricken with polio last fall, the sales raised $440. Other group contributions include $98.47 from the Argonne's polio dance (the Argonne also contributed $15), the collection at the Boyne City-Charlevoix game netted $111.10, pupils in the kindergarten to the sixth grade also gave $50.

* * *

The Kiwanis club contributed $25 as did the VFW, American Legion post, $5.

Heise expressed his sincere appreciation to all those who contributed or assisted materially in making the drive go over the

Boyne-East Jordan Game Is League's Top Tilt Friday

With Charlevoix and East Jordan in a tie for first place in the northern Michigan Class C league, the East Jordan-Boyne City classic scheduled for Friday takes on added significance as the 1950-51 season draws to a close.

If the Boyne Ramblers could defeat the Jordanites the Rayders would have a good chance of taking the conference championship. East Jordan, the defending champions, however, are not going to give up their place in the standings without a struggle, particularly to their traditional rivals. In their first meeting in January Gayle Saxton's lads won by a two-point margin over the Ramblers but on their home floor the Boyne five will have a slight advantage which could give them the game.

* * *

TWO AND THREE point margins have marked all the wins among the county teams and Friday's game will probably not be the exception.

Last Friday both East Jordan and Boyne City won from Mancelona and Harbor Springs by comparatively close scores.

Pellston which won a close one from Gaylord by a 52 to 49 score last week will be meeting Rogers City in a return non-loop game. Harbor Springs will also be playing in a non-conference game when they travel to Petoskey for a return bout with the Class B five.

Charlevoix which did not have a game Friday will be hosting the Mancelona Ironmen who lost to East Jordan 69 to 60.

Gaylord does not have a scheduled game.

VFW, Auxiliary Plan Chili Supper

The Veterans of Foreign Wars and their auxiliary are planning a chili supper at the V. F. W. hall from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Thursday Feb. 22.

Friends of the organization are invited to attend the supper.

Drew Young Opposes Mayor Knight; Close Races Seen for Council

Mayoralty candidates in next Monday's winter primary in Charlevoix today called upon all voters to cast ballots as a good sign of aroused citizenship.

Mayor John Knight and Alderman Drew Young who are competing for the mayor's job urged every registered voter to come to the polls which open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. All persons in line when the polls close will be permitted to vote.

While there has been little interest in the election in recent weeks, there has been an increasing sign of activity this week on the part of supporters for Knight and Young and aldermanic candidates in the three wards.

No opposition is reported against Nelle A. Hammond, city treasurer, or Hugh Mayne, city clerk.

In the first ward Ivan Phillips is opposing former Alderman Charles Bellinger for councilman. Phillips lost a close race to Alderman William Heering last year. Beilinger served several terms as alderman before leaving the council.

The second ward promises a close race with Harry Zeitler, who lost out by four votes last year to Carl Kohler, and Oscar Ward, political newcomer. Both are campaigning intensively.

In the third ward Alderman Harry Gebeau is opposed by John Wolf who was defeated by Alderman Ralph Hamilton last year. Gebeau was appointed to fill the vacancy resulting when Knight was elected mayor.

No races are expected in the supervisor campaigns with George Haggard, Arthur Bergeon and Clarence Meggison competing in the first, second and third wards respectively.

There has been little talk of slip candidates. Constables in each of the three wards will also be elected.

New registrations have not been more than a handful, city officials said.

Last year when Knight defeated Ray Hamilton for the mayor's post, a total of 1289 persons cast ballots for an all-time high in Charlevoix election history.

While city officials declined to predict how large the turnout would be next Monday, it is expected that 1,000 votes will be cast.

Former Local Resident Killed In Auto Mishap

Mrs. David Howard, 61, of Muskegon, former resident and sister of Mrs. Fred Bergmann, was killed Saturday when the car in which she was a passenger skidded on a icy highway near Celina, O. and hit an abutment.

Her son-in-law, Thomas Brown, 23, also of Muskegon, driver of the car suffered a serious back injury.

The couple were enroute to Celina to join Mrs. Brown who was visiting at the home of her sister. They planned to go to Indiana before returning home.

Funeral services for Mrs. Howard were held in Muskegon Tuesday.

Born in Charlevoix April 24, 1889, the former Cora Cook was married to David Howard about 43 years ago. They resided here for several years before going to Muskegon to make their home. Mrs. Howard often visited here while Mr. Howard was on business in the upper peninsula and Canada for a Muskegon paper company.

She was a member of the Rebekah lodge.

Besides her husband she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Brown of Muskegon and Mrs. Ashley Loughrige of Celina, Ohio; three sons, Charles and George of Muskegon and David of Elkhart, Ind.; eleven grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Bergmann.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bergmann and their sons and daughters-in law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bergmann and Mr. and Mrs. William Bergmann left Sunday for Muskegon. Mr. and Mrs. George Bergmann, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bergmann, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bergmann, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bergmann, Ted Bergmann and Charles Bergmann were in Muskegon Tuesday for the funeral services.

Palace Theater Places $10,000 Order for Seats

The Palace theater will have new seats this spring.

Mrs. Elizabeth Moon, owner of the theater, disclosed that a contract in excess of $10,000 had been signed with the American Seating Company, Grand Rapids, the world's largest seat manufacturer, for new theater seats.

Delivery is expected sometime after April 15, depending on the war priorities which the company holds. Mrs. Moon said that the seats should be installed sometime this spring.

The entire seating arrangement will be revamped with the seats being wider and much more comfortable. The seating capacity of the theater will be reduced to permit this, Mrs. Moon said.

The new seats will have a clearance of 31 inches back to back. The seat width will be 20 inches, considerably wider than the present seats. The staggered arrangement of the seating in the center bank will enable patrons to see the screen between the heads of occupants in the two chairs in front without necessarily shifting position in the seats.

Baptist Circle Gives $12.50 to Polio Drive

Because their circles are small and thus have few workers it was decided to make an outright contribution.

It's Your Solemn Duty to Vote Monday

"I don't know whether I will vote or not next Monday."

Yes, that remark has been heard all too often in Charlevoix in recent days. Certain residents emphasize that there is not the interest this year as there was last year. True, a lot less has been said about this election.

Last year when the factions of both candidates pressed an intensive campaign, there was much more interest. It was the prime topic of conversation wherever Charlevoix people gathered.

But it does not ring true that this election is any less important than the one last year or the year before. With the exception of last year when there were charges and counter charges being hurled with reckless abandon, Charlevoix elections in recent years have attracted a small handful of faithful voters.

A great many Americans fail to realize the importance of voting in every election, city, county or national. At times there will be a huge turnout of voters. Then after the interest subsides, apathy takes over with no trouble at all.

There are times when it is more vital to cast votes, but the moment the voters let their guards down, they are asking for trouble.

The adage that Americans love a show is certainly true in elections. When there is a lot of hoopla, a bigger vote usually results. But most of our elections are quiet and attract little attention.

There can be no denial that every election is important. The habit of voting should be automatic unless illness intervenes. It is one of the prime objectives of an aroused citizenry.

The voters here will elect a mayor, aldermen in three wards, supervisors and constables. There are no contests for city clerk or treasurer.

For the residents of Charlevoix, there can be no more important duty to perform on Monday, Feb. 19 than to cast a vote. But many will stay home for various reasons, some of which will appear very lame indeed.

After every election there is various beefing about the results. Usually, the people who do the most beefing are the ones who did not bother to vote.

Residents should make every effort to vote Monday. It's their privilege, why don't they use it?

Prices and Incomes Are Related!

It is only human nature for consumers to look back on "the good old days" when the cost of living was far lower than it is now, and when, for example, the first-class steaks sold for twenty-five cents a pound or some such attractive figure. But when we mentally compare one era with another, it is also human nature for us to forget certain highly important facts which make all the difference.

An interesting illustration of this is found in a tabulation, made up of official figures issued by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, U.S. Department of Agriculture, which shows how much the average person spent for meat in every year from 1913 through 1949, and what proportion of his disposable income the cost of meat represented. In 1913, the per capita meat bill came to $23.10, while in 1949 it was $70.70. That's obviously a whale of a difference — but there was also a whale of a difference in per capita income between those two far-spaced years. Actually, in 1913, meat took more of the disposable income than it did last year — 6.6 per cent as against 5.5 per cent.

Moreover, the percentage of disposable income accounted for by meat changed very little over that 1913-1949 period. In most of the years, it ran between five and six per cent. And that's where it still is.

What this all adds up to is that the price of anything is meaningless unless the purchasing power of the consumer — in other words, his income — is brought into the comparison. That's true of meat and all other commodities. When everyone — including the farmer, the worker, and the consumer — is making more money, and the cost of carrying on business rises accordingly, prices are naturally higher. But we'll usually find that our incomes will buy as much or more than in former times.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

We went to our first cooking school last week . . . the boss and I and it was quite an experience . . . We were simply fascinated by Martha Logan who was just bubbling over with charm and personality . . . and she could cook too . . . such tempting recipes and it all looked so simple . . . and we sat in the front row and practically drooled 'cause it looked and smelled so good . . .

And one of the nicest things about the whole thing was the spirit shown when Mrs. Myron Hilton won the marvelous stove given free . . . I don't think there was a person there who wasn't happy for her . . . And was she surprised . . . and so gracious when she accepted it . .

• • •

COULD YOU believe it Sunday morning when you woke up to find the mercury above freezing and a little rain coming down? Just that one day gave us renewed hope that spring just might come after all these three and a half months of winter we've had so far . . . And those robins we mentioned last week . . . people have been reporting them all over town but they called a mass meeting one day last week and 17 of them were seen in one tree . . . Either they stayed all winter or somebody gave them a bum weather prophecy . . .

• • •

DID YOU RECEIVE a nice Valentine from someone near and dear to you? . . . We hope so 'cause if there's one thing we love it's pretty Valentines . . . Too bad we didn't think of it before, but wouldn't it have been fun to see who, around town, had the oldest Valentine? . . . Some of those are so frilly and lacy and sentimental . . . but nice . . .

• • •

NEXT MONDAY'S an important day, in case you haven't remembered so put a big circle around it on your calendar and do something about it . . . What day is it? . . . Primary election day . . . we don't care who you vote for but get to the polls . . . We don't like to preach all the time but stop and think how lucky you are to have a vote and then use that right . . .

Not just an orchid but a bouquet of the most precious ones to the church women of Charlevoix whose bake sales last week brought in more than $440.00 for the March of Dimes . . . and the prettiest of the orchids to Mrs. Tom Carey, herself a polio victim, who worked so hard to organize the project and keep it going . . . And the weather was pretty tough last week too and yet many, many people contributed goodies of every description for this worthy cause . . . And when someone you know is being helped by the polio fund, stop and think of the good neighbors and friends who helped make this possible in their own little way on a cold day last winter . . And you might take stock of your conscience right now and see if you've done all you can . . .

SPEAKING of the polio fund . . . if everyone in town could be as conscious as the youngsters in school about not only the polio drive, but any worthwhile cause which is brought to their attention, we'd never have to worry about reaching a quota . . a lot of pennies and nickles and dimes go into those miniature iron lungs in place of being spent for candy or ice cream or a movie . . .And as we've said many times before, kids are pretty wonderful people . . .

FRIENDS of Sandy VonDohlen who is now attending school in Columbus, S. And from Pete and Edythe Scott in Escanaba a note that they'd had a pleasant surprise last week when they opened a can of cherries for a pie . . . only to find they were Lake Charlevoix cherries canned at East Jordan . . . which made them extra good, of course . . . To Rev. and Mrs. Howell . . . we're sorry you're leaving Charlevoix . . we'll miss you . . . we hope you'll like your new pastorate as much as you did Charlevoix . . But we'll still miss our chats with Bobby next summer . . . we got to be good friends, you know . . .

Sermonette

"That They Might Have Life"

By L. L. Lawis

"That They Might Have Life"

"The thief cometh not but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy; I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." (John 10:10)

This verse of Scripture sets before us the purpose of the coming of our Lord to Earth the first time. "That they might have life".

Jesus our Lord did not come to give us a moral Code to live by, in His teachings. And Himself as our Example. For no earthly man could live like Jesus. Nor could we measure up to the Holiness and Perfection of the Son of God. Codes and creeds may be good, but not to one who is dead in Trespasses and sins.

Jesus, Our Holy Lord and Saviour saw the helplessness of men. Lost, hopeless, and doomed under the wrath of God. And because He know our helplessness, and because of the love of God. He willingly left the presence of The Heavenly Father, and came into a world of sin, Hatred, Jealousy, greed and strife. To become man, yea more than man, The God Man. God dwelling among men.

That He might prove Himself the Perfect One. Without Sin.

John the Baptist in presenting the Lord Jesus, Cried, "Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the Sin of the World."

Mankind can never expect to really have the Life Jesus spoke about from a Natural Standpoint.

This a Life purchased for us by the Son of God. When He was nailed to the Cross of Calvary.

It was there that Jesus became our Sin-Bearer.

Therefore we Cherish the Old Rugged Cross, for it was there Jesus our Lord paid the Redemptive price for our sins.

You notice also in this verse, "That they might have it more Abundantly".

The Life Jesus purchased by His death is the Abundant Life. The Overflowing Life. Jesus speaks of it as the Eternal Life in other passages of Scripture. "I am come that they might have Life." Eternal Life.

"For God so loved the world, that He gave His only Begotten Son, That whosoever believeth in Him, should not perish, but have everlasting Life." (John 3:16)

THIRD WARD VOTERS

I have received many telephone calls inquiring about my attitude towards the present administration.

For the benefit of the voters, I can only say that I will work with anyone as long as it is for the best interests of the city.

Your vote will be appreciated

JOHN WOLF

Candidate for Alderman in the Third Ward

To:

All Voters in the Second Ward

We all know that improvements are needed in our city government. If elected I will sincerely do my utmost to represent the people and to carry out their wishes in city affairs.

I would like to mention that I favor the following — I definitely recommend publishing in our local newspaper our city budget after it is drawn up, to be followed by a public meeting for discussion of the budget before final approval by the common council.

I am definitely in favor of bringing industries into the city and supporting those we now have.

I urge a sound follow-up in the promotion of our widely-known resort business.

I am also a great believer in harmony in city government with cooperation among council members and the mayor for the benefit of the city.

Oscar Wilson Ward

Candidate for Second Ward Councilman

He's yelling for another glass of that rich milk from Maxbauer's.

Yes, every child feels better when he gets lots of nourishing, body-building milk. It's a must with meals. They love it after school.

You can buy pasturized milk as well as homogenized milk.

Homogenized milk has 400 units of Vitamin D in each quart. It means extra health.

Drink plenty of milk for your own sake. See to it that the children have lots of it.

The Tragedy Of Neglect

Unfailing courage helped Washington to many victories even in the face of insurmountable odds. But false bravado put an end to his useful life. He laughed at the danger of the common cold. "Let it go as it came," said he as he rode forth into a snowstorm. Complications set in and three days later, the Father of his country was dead. That is the tragedy of neglect . . . and its victims each year are numerous. Don't you be one of them. Treat a cold promptly. If it doesn't yield readily to home remedies—or if you develop chills and fever—call your doctor without delay.

For the first time this winter our mail carrier failed to make the route through here last week Wednesday.

East Jordan schools opened as usual last week Wednesday morning but closed at noon fearing the busses would not be able to make the return trip if they waited until the usual closing time. The roads were quite badly blocked until the plow came through on Thursday. They are once again in fairly good shape but the residents along the line have had to do some shoveling to open their drives and clear the snow away from their mail boxes. But spring will come by and by and the snow will be gone.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By Gene Alleman
Lansing Observer for
Michigan Press Association

Following a series of visits to Washington by Governor Williams and his executive secretary, Larry Farrell, a State Defense Production Council has been formed. In theory it will do for production what Defense Council does for defense preparation.

Actually this new organization is designed to help channel defense contracts into Michigan, to keep everyone working during conversion, and to take care of the little industry. It's too young to predict its success.

But Williams' attempts to bring production to Michigan has gained a bit of attention in Washington. Observers there feel he is taking a bold (and commendable) step in overtly campaigning for national business.

This doesn't mean he is looked upon with any more favor so far as the vice-presidency is concerned. Our national politicians still look upon Williams' campaigning as "juvenile and childish". But they also look right in the teeth of his re-election, with a Republican cabinet.

MICHIGAN'S DEER HERDS have been fortunate this year. While the annual kill is expected to be up this year because of deep snow (and the subsequent loss of forage) periodical snows have kept the toll below the danger point. In 1047-48 more than 100,000 of the animals starved.

Michigan produced minerals valued at $207,608,000 in 1949, second highest production year recorded. It was three percent less than the 1048 all-time high. Iron and copper accounted for more than 31 percent of the production valuation.

Newspapers all over the state have been shocked recently by series of juvenile crimes. It is popularly thought that during periods of war and stress this type of crime increases. But what can be done to prevent such outbreaks? The pendulum now is on the upswing.

MICHIGAN budget papers, looking frantically about, have siezed on one bone on which they can chew, the state colleges. Michigan State College and the University of Michigan have asked a total of $18,000,000. Conservative estimates figures at least $3,000,000 will be lopped off.

But the U. of M. will get its new medical center and possibly M.S.C. will be given a library since that money comes under capital outlay and not the general appropriation.

WITH DEFENSE orders tightening the automobile market, officials are predicting car shortages in six months. That is, of course, if the present trend toward defense production continues.

Michigan's 114 bureaus, long the target for pungent remarks, have been referred to lately as the "boards, bureaus and complications".

The State Department of Labor has listed the increase in living costs at 3.7 percent while the National Conference Board places the figure at 4.4 percent. They agree that the trend is up.

State defense questions may be answered this month. Brig. Gen. Lester C. Maitland state civil defense director, has called a Feb. 10 conference in Lansing of all local defense directors. He has asked the atomic energy commission and federal civil defense authorities to send teams of experts to answer queries.

No matter how remote your home community in Michigan, a bombing attack at any place in the State is likely to seriously affect your way of life. That fact became evident last Saturday when Gen. Lester C. Maitland Civil Defense director met with about two score Civil Defense directors in the metropolitan area for an emergency feeding demonstration.

The demonstration followed the stockpiling of some 2,000,000 paper cups and containers for disaster use only by the paper Cup and Container Institute. The paper service is being stockpiled without cost to the State by 16 paper manufacturing companies in the Institute.

Use of paper service is essential, of course, when bombs knock out water and gas supplies for dishwashing, hospitals, restaurants, and hotels are left helpless in such emergencies after their dishes have been used once.

If the President and Vice-President of the United States should both die, the Secretary of State, an unelected official, would succeed to the office.

Barn Check Helps Reduce Mastitis

Want a tip on reducing mastitis in your dairy herd? It's simple and it's easy.

Check the barn for high door sills, protruding nails or any objects which may injure teats and udders, say Michigan State College veterinarians.

They also advise that milking equipment be well cared for. Cow's teats and udders and milkers' hands should be washed and dried, since they are the paths by which mastitis infection travels from diseased to healthy animals.

Housewives Jam Cooking School

More then five hundred housewives gathered at the Palace theatre last Wednesday afternoon, despite the blizzard, for the first cooking school here in several years.

Charming Martha Logan of the Swift Co., in her own inimitable way, made cooking seem like fun as she demonstrated the preparation of several tasty recipes which were later given away as prizes.

The dishes were cooked on a Tappan range which was given to Mrs. Myron Hilton whose name was drawn from a lucky box by little Emily Hinebaugh. The range was given by the Charlevoix Gas and Appliance Co., co-sponsors of the school with the Swift Co. and Neff Bros. Quality Food store.

Winners of baskets of groceries furnished by Neff Bros. were Mrs. E. J. Hitler, Mrs. S. O. Sorensen, Mrs. Leroy Allers, Mrs. Robert Wexstaff, Mrs. Harry Gregory, Mrs. Ray L. Kipke, Mrs. J. H. Beecher, Mrs. Stanley Barger, Mrs. Bert Carey and Mrs. Albert Smith. Mrs. Howard Houghton, as the youngest bride present, also won a similar prize.

Other prizes of merchandise were won by Mrs. Doris Kosiewicz, Mrs. Clara Denemy of Petoskey, Mrs. Kenneth Krulik, Mrs. Louise Louiselle, Karen Smith, Mrs. Glenn Ingalls, Janice Zeitler, Mrs. Lewis E. Brown of Petoskey, Mrs. Thomas Jackson, Mrs. Walter Russell, Mrs. Louis Kanoff, Mrs. Robert Taylor, Mrs. Kenneth Foches, Mrs. Tim Shores, Mrs. Irene J. Walker, Mrs. Aubrey Block, Mrs. D. W. Herrick and Mrs. Charles Hamlin.

Lucky winners of the dishes cooked at the school were Mrs. Alfred Braw, Mrs. John Schroeder, Mrs. C. M. Bice, Mrs. Ellen Umlor, Mrs. George Goike and Mrs. James Goodfellow.

Seven in County Leave March 14 For Induction

Seven Charlevoix county inductees will leave here March 14 for induction into the armed forces at Detroit, the local draft board has announced.

Unless new orders are issued, there will be no registants called for pre-induction physical examinations in March.

Thirty-seven county registrants will go to Detroit Feb. 26 for pre-induction physicals. This number plus the 14 men who were examined Jan. 25 will form a back-log from which to fill future draft quotas.

Driving Safely on Highways Requires More Than Lady Luck, Survey Shows

Lady Luck hasn't deserted the highway completely.

But in any group of 1,000 middle-aged drivers who have never had an auto accident, only one is really "just a lucky guy." The remaining 999 auto pilots, if examined, exhibit at least eight of the 12 physical and mental habits of an expert driver.

Michigan teachers instructing in 305 high school AAA Drivers-Education courses are impressing this small "luck" ratio in the minds of the 32,550 teen-agers they are teaching to drive this year.

Older drivers, whose highway habits have slipped a bit, can prevent an otherwise inevitable future accident by a serious review of the same 12 habits, says Ernest P. Davis, Automobile Club of Michigan safety and traffic director.

(1) No drinking before driving; (2) alert observation of all traffic laws, signals and signs; (3) constant anticipation of "what the other guy may do next;" (4) heavy attention to rear view mirror; (5) reduction of speed at potential danger points; (6) signaling intentions;

(7) Using horn only as warning signal; (8) regularly checking safety equipment; (9) staying in one lane of traffic until necessary to move out; (10) refusing to gamble on traffic maneuvers; (11) starting on time to make appointments; and (12) controlling speed to match highway, weather, visibility and traffic conditions.

(Next week: "Parking Parallel Is Easy".)

Cancer Research

A new microscope now in use at the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research, New York City, makes it possible for freshly prepared sections of living tissue to be viewed through three different ultra-violet wave lengths. The specimens can also be photographed through the microscope and the photos may be projected or reproduced on color film. The instrument is said to reveal structural detail in a way never before accomplished.

Greg Bryan Suffers TKO

Greg Bryan, novice middleweight, who scored a knockout over Charles Wilson of Port Huron, to survive the first round of the Golden Gloves tournament at Grand Rapids Monday, lost to Arthur Pratt of Kalamazoo on a technical knockout in the third round in the semi-finals Tuesday night.

Pratt went on to win a decision over Hal Schaffer of Jackson and take the championship.

Bryan was the only fighter from the north to win in the first round down state.

Thanks Many Groups For Aiding Bake Sale

Mrs. Esther Carey, chairman of the polio benefit bake sales, today extended her sincere appreciation to all those who made the bake sales such a huge success. More than $440 was realized for polio.

Prominent among those who made the success possible were Polly-Kay's for the use of their store, Bert Carey and Herman Thierry for the window signs, Campbell and Supernaw and Kroger's for the paper cartons and bags. She also thanked the committees of the churches who organized the various sales and all those who donated bake goods, particularly those who gave bake goods for Friday's sale which otherwise would have been profitless. Some $43 was taken in Friday.

She also thanked the Lutheran and Baptist women who contributed money instead of holding a sale. All others who had a hand in any part of the sales, also came in for many thanks.

Road Builders Can Handle Job If Given OK

Lansing — Enactment of the Michigan Good Roads Federation program with its increased revenues will not overload the ability of the Michigan highway construction industry to make the most economic use of additional dollars available, said C. J. Carroll, Executive Secretary, Michigan Road Builders Association, in a recent report to the Federation directors.

"During the peak period of the summer of 1949, a survey by the Bureau of Public Roads and the State Highway Department indicated that Michigan highway contractors were then operating at an average of 35% of their capacity," said Carroll.

He pointed out that in 1942 road contractors were doing from 15 to 20 million dollars worth of work a year, and almost overnight were able to expand their construction capacities to 110 million dollars annually. While a majority of this work was on airports, Carroll said it is basically the same as highway construction.

"In the current defense emergency I cannot visualize a future need for substantial airport construction. The Michigan contractor today with more 'know how', key personnel and a vastly improved equipment position can expand his operations to take care of the increased building operations called for by the good roads program."

Carroll pointed out that so far as cement was concerned, the road building industry used roughly 10% of the state's production. By careful planning, he said, all the cement necessary for road building purposes can be made available.

Insofar as steel is concerned, negotiations are now under way to earmark all the steel necessary for expanded road construction, not only in Michigan but throughout the entire country, said Carroll.

Heart Check-Up Pays Dividend In Longer Life

There's news in the heart field, the Michigan Department of Health said today in urging Michigan people to check up on their hearts.

Medical examinations at regular intervals make possible the detection of heart changes early when they can be treated to prevent further damage, the Department said.

People with heart defects can live to a ripe old age if they follow their physicians' recommendations. The great majority of heart attacks aren't fatal, and the person who has one heart attack may live for many years without a second attack and then die of another cause entirely. Death rates from heart diseases in the older ages are declining.

There is a decline, also, in the incidence of rheumatic fever, due in part to the use of antibiotics in treatment of "strep" infections. Wider general knowledge of the symptoms of rheumatic fever and earlier diagnosis and care are cutting down on heart damage and deaths due to the disease.

Newly developed surgical procedures are improving the outlook for youngsters with certain types of congenital heart disease. Increasing use of penicillin and other antibiotics are reducing deaths due to heart disease of syphilitic origin.

While diseases of the heart and arteries are listed as the cause of more deaths each year, this is due in part to a marked decrease in mortality from infectious diseases at all ages and a resulting increase in the number of people in the older age group.

Traps for Coyote, Ends up with Dog

A regular fox trapper with designs on a coyote believed to be in the state recreation area here, came up with a dog . . . park manager Ernest Hottke's

Hottke reports his pointer lugged the "trap and half the countryside up to the house on the drag hooks."

Child Can Be Taught To Enjoy Mealtime

Mothers who say, "I can't get my child to eat," may find help from some tips given by home economists at Michigan State College.

Children should want to eat they point out, since eating is a natural process. If a small child refuses food, it may be because he has satisfied his hunger by eating sweets between meals. He may not feel well, his eating time may be irregular, he may be too tired, or has had too little exercise.

The home economists suggest training the child's appetite by serving meals at regular times with no "piecing" between meals. Other methods are to serve small amounts of food, to offer only one new food at a time with a food that he does like, and to make meal time a happy occasion.

If other members of the family set a good example by eating the foods their bodies need, small children will often follow suit. When a child refuses a food, parents should not make an issue of it, but act as though they expect the child to eat the foods he is served.

Rep. Potter Chosen "Veteran of The Year"

The Kent County, Michigan, United Veterans Council, at its annual banquet, awarded its "Veteran of The Year" plaque to Rep. Charles E. Potter, Republican, 11th Dist., Michigan for his work in behalf of western Michigan veterans. Since the press of Congressional business prevented Rep. Potter from attending the banquet, the award was made in his Capital office by Rep. Gerald R Ford, Jr., Republican, 5th Dist., Michigan who represents Kent County. Senator Homer Ferguson, Republican, Michigan, was on hand to congratulate the Michigan veteran. L-to-R: Rep. Potter, Senator Ferguson and Rep. Ford.

Rayders Shatter Petoskey Winning Streak In Roughest Contest in Many Years, 70-50

Referees Call 80 Personal Fouls As Charlevoix Rebounds from Loss To E. Jordan; Fairbanks Scores 24

The 1951 game between Charlevoix and Petoskey high school basketball teams will be a prime topic for years to come.

And there are plenty of reasons, too. But it's not the fact that Charlevoix shattered Petoskey's eight-game winning streak or that the score was 70-50 as the Rayders vanquished the Northmen for the second time of the season.

With the exception of one brief minute in the opening period, Charlevoix led all the way with Charley Fairbanks as its pacesetter with 24 points.

The contest will be remembered for it set some kind of a record in these parts for fouls . . . 80 personal and one technical being called by Referees Dykman and Graybiel. Each team had 40 personals.

* * *

BEFORE THE proceedings were ended by the whistle, 12 men had been banished from the game for five personals. Petoskey who had seven men ejected on fouls, played the last 2½ minutes with only four men on the floor. All the others on the squad coached by Ace Zographos had been removed for fouling. A total of 64 fouls were called in the last two periods.

The game was marked by the ejection of a Charlevoix spectator who Referee Dykman said had jumped onto the floor and touched one of the Petoskey players. The game was held up while the spectator left the gym.

Despite the fact the game was not too close except for a couple of minutes, the fouling by both teams made a roughhouse of the game. The game was one of those things that happen at times in sports.

The Rayders, rebounding from that defeat at East Jordan, looked sharp in the opening minutes, jumping to a 11-4 lead in the first five minutes. The score at the end of the first quarter was 16-8 and at halftime the Rayders led 34-15. During this time. Bill Wallace and Fairbanks had accounted for 19 points between them.

The winners really were connecting in the first half as Dwight Smith sank three goals from out on the court, Ron Wojan with three points and Don Hardy with four points and Tom Donaldson with a two pointer.

* * *

IN THE LAST HALF when the fouling really hit a torrid pace, the Rayders scored 36 points of which 24 were scored on fouls and Petoskey run up 19 points on fouls in the same periods and only 14 on field goals.

Petoskey lost the game in the first half when the Rayders set a blistering pace to lead by 19 points at halftime. During the second half, Petoskey scored 33 points to 36 for Charlevoix to make it close as far as last half point production was concerned.

Fairbanks scored 15 points in the final two periods on seven fouls and four goals. Wallace had 17 points for the game and was the only starting Charlevoix player not to be banished on fouls.

Servicemen Exempt From Realty Tax

Home-owning servicemen and those about to enter the armed forces were reminded today by the Veterans of Foreign Wars that veterans homestead tax exemptions could apply to them.

The 13th District of Michigan VFW Adjutant, Don M. Draher of Indian River, states that many persons being recalled to active duty are not aware of the fact that the law may be of benefit to them.

The homestead exemption act provides for a tax exemption on $2000 of real estate owned and used as a home by members of the Armed Forces who have entered service any time since Jan. 1. 1040.

The exemption applies during the period of service and for one year afterward.

The exemption can only be granted where the value of the home is less than $7,500.

The District adjutant pointed out that separate applications for the exemption must be filed each year by the serviceman or his wife.

Our Congressmam COMMENTS

By Charles Potter

Many of you recall the controversy that arose in April, 1049, when then Secretary of Defense Johnson cancelled the construction of the super aircraft carrier, the United States. The 80th Congress not only had authorized but appropriated the necessary funds for the carrier's construction upon the recommendation of then Secretary of Defense, James Forrestal and with the approval of the Bureau of the Budget and the President of the United States.

This carrier was to have been the largest afloat in the world with a tonnage of 65,000. An aircraft carrier is nothing more than a water air base. With the development of our jet propulsion planes, it is necessary to have larger aircraft carriers, and it was upon that basis that construction of the super carrier was authorized.

AT THE TIME Secretary Johnson cancelled the contract for the construction of this super aircraft carrier, the keel had already been laid by the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company and $2 million, 719 thousand of the appropriated funds had been expended.

Since the war in Korea, the Defense Department has come back to Congress seeking re-appropriation of funds for the construction of a large aircraft carrier. Last week we appropriated $235 million, approximately $45 million more than it would have cost to construct the carrier, United States, two years ago.

The principal reason for this additional cost, of course, is the inflation which has taken place during the past two years. Not only is this aircraft carrier costing more than the one originally authorized but it is 10 thousand tons lighter than the contemplated United States. In other words, we are spending more money for a smaller ship.

IT IS TO BE hoped that the President and the Secretary of Defense will not again change their minds and cancel action taken by the Congress. Not only did the Government lose considerable money on the carrier itself but many jet aircraft for which contracts had been let had to be cancelled because they were to be constructed to serve with the super carrier.

The authorization for such ship transfer was contained in the military Assistance Act passed in the 81st Congress. That is one of the reasons I voted against this legislation which gave a blanket authorization to the Administra- to give any weapons it desired to so-called friendly nations. I am pleased to report, however, that the Armed Services Committee rectified this situation and no longer will the Administration be permitted to transfer ships to foreign nations without express consent of the Congress.

Charlevoix County Farm News

Fertilizer Should Be Used Wisely To Extend Supply

It may not be possible for every farmer in Charlevoix and Antrim counties to get all of the fertilizer he wants in 1951, so it will be increasingly important to make sure that fertilizer is used efficiently, J. F. Davis, Michigan State College soil scientist, advised this week.

One of the most practical ways of increasing the efficiency of fertilizer is by proper placement, he points out.

When fertilizer, especially phosphorus, is mixed throughly with the soil, a large amount of this applied phosphorus is "fixed" by the soil particles in such a way that plants cannot use the phosphorus. Generally speaking, soil containing a large amount of clay will "fix" more phosphorus than sandy soil, Davis states.

Placing fertilizer in a band reduces phosphate "fixation" and fertilizer is more effective. Fertilizer placed in bands near the seed is more accessible to the young plants than if placed otherwise. Placed an inch or two from the seed, there is no danger of injury to germination or to the young seedlings.

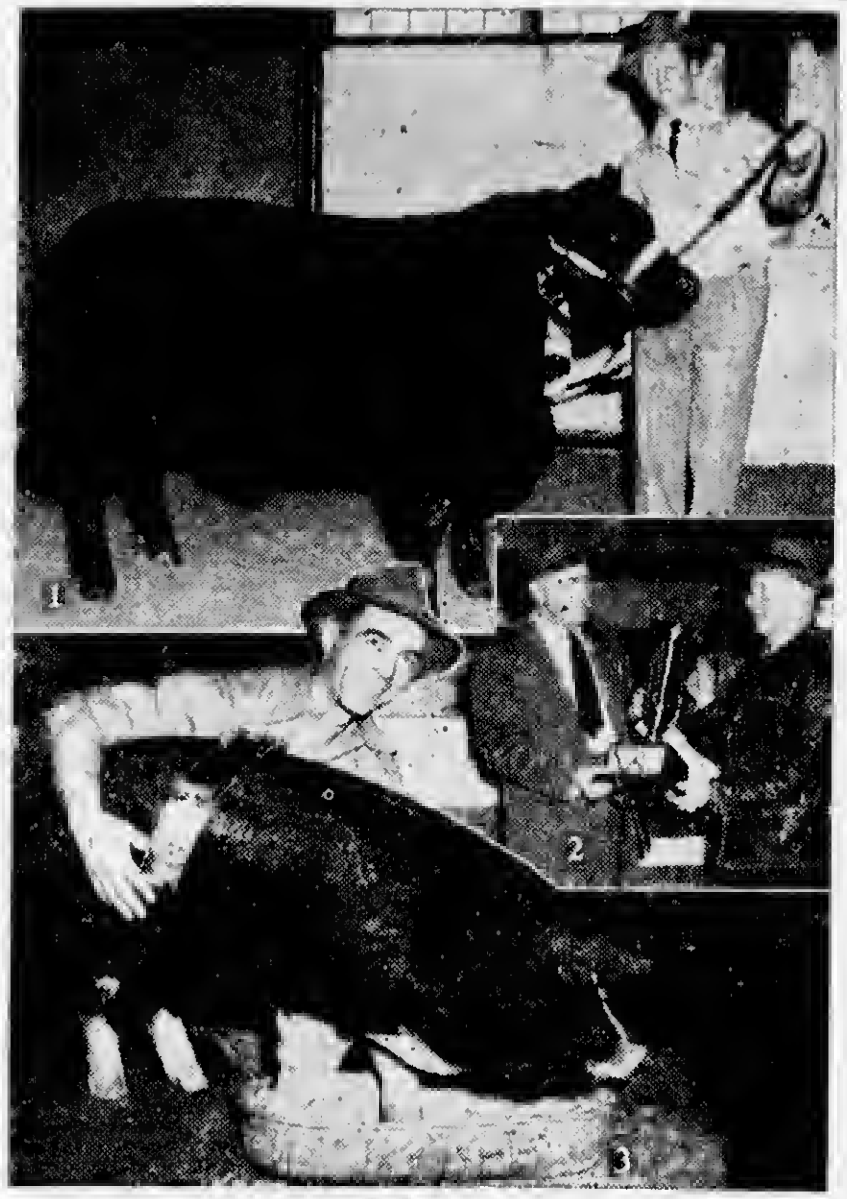
Application of fertilizer through the fertilizer attachment on a grain drill is usually satisfactory for grain crops. The germination or "stand" of the small grains is not injured by fertilizer placed in contact with the seed unless used in larger amounts than is common.

For row crops and vegetable crops it is best to place fertilizer in bands, one or two inches to the side of and two inches below the level of the seed, providing rates of application do not exceed 500 to 700 pounds per acre.

Save Egg Moisture

Dry egg cases, flats, and fillers will draw moisture from eggs. Robert Lauffer, Penn state extension poultry specialist, suggests putting these supplies in a cool, moist room two or three days before using them.

Highlights of Farmers Week



Livestock events which climax with a show at Michigan State College Farmers' Week are always among the featured activities. More than 35,000 people attended the annual mid-winter educational program at East Lansing this year. (1) Alex Lyon, manager of Dr. J. J. Hendron's Grand River Stock Farm, Webberville, exhibits the grand champion steer. This 1,130 Aberdeen Angus won top honers and brought 52½ cents a pound at the auction of prize animals. (2) Jarvis L. Gage, Wixom, who for a quarter of a century has raised sheep on his Livingston county farm, receives the Champion Flockmaster award from Graydon Blank, MSC extension sheep specialist. The cup goes annually to the sheep breeder with the best record on production of lambs and wool. (3) Ernest Girbach, Saline farmer, acts like he almost loves the 230 pound barrow that won him the grand championship in the swine show. This animal is one of the pen of three Poland China barrows that also won the grand championship pen award for the Washtenaw county farmer.

ORCHARD NOTES

By Claude Fairman

So far we have again had the highest temperatures of any fruit growing locality in Michigan. Prospects for an all around fruit crop are good this year as far as winter injury goes up to date.

I have just examined peach fruit buds and find that there is plenty for a good crop here.

As long as peaches are OK other fruits are bound to be OK. And you no doubt have read of the disaster to all fruit crops in central and southern Michigan including the trees themselves in some cases.

COLD AIR MASSES are modified in coming across Lake Michigan, making milder temperatures for us. At Pellston cold air breaks up from the pressure of each lake and the same occurs at Cadillac.

For some unknown reason cold air masses break up along the shores of Lake Michigan, taking in the fruit growing counties of Berrien, Van Buren, Ottawa, etc.

However, our position is different, up here cold air masses settle farther inland. Traverse City and the Old Mission peninsula are 30 miles from Lake Michigan, hence their temperatures were lower than ours this winter.

TOO MUCH cannot be said of our fruit belt. We can outlive any over-production or any depressed times from more regular crops.

Our trees are hardier, they go into the winter well ripened up, are held back longer in the spring, and miss more spring frosts. It is true that in some winters our peach crop freezes. We have had one crop loss, or rather diminished crop of peaches, during the past 10 years.

Up here peaches never freeze from spriog frosts. Except on peaches, there has been a complete crop failure every 12 or 25 years. The old timers tell of having their peach trees freeze. We now know it was because they did not get a dormant spray for peach leaf curl, and from lack of vigor due to improper care.

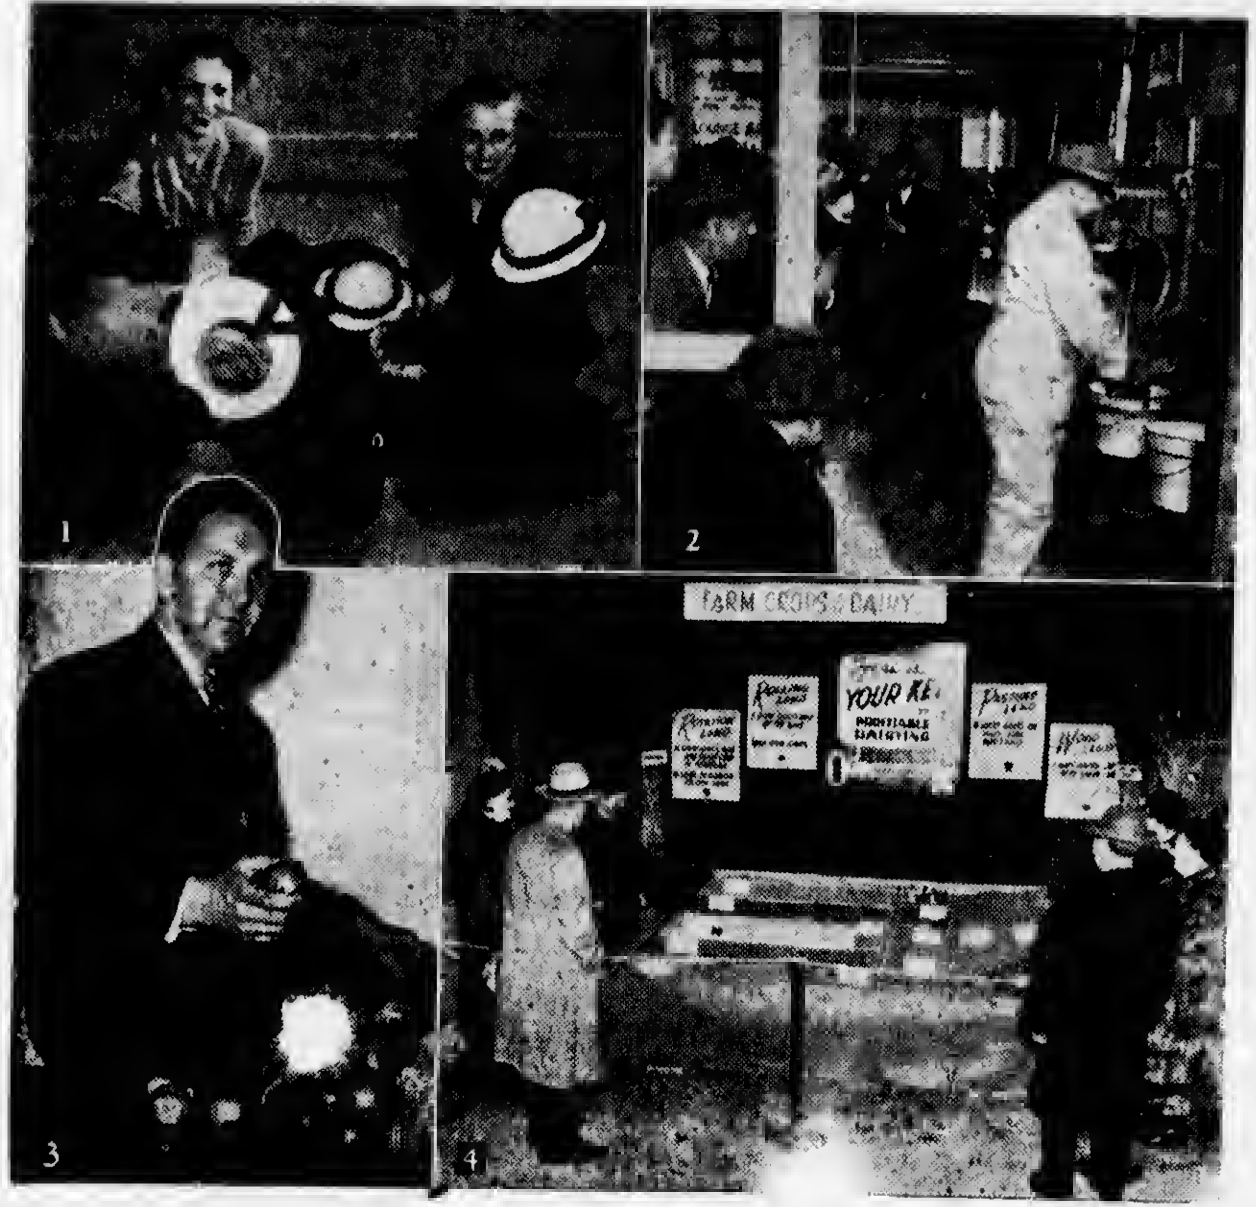
Varied Programs Attract 35,000 to Farmers Week



Exhibits, crop production awards and the style show by home economics students were all features of Michigan State College's 1951 Farmers' Week in early February.

Here are a few of the scenes the more than 35,000 visitors viewed on the East Lansing campus. (1) The style revue by M. S. C. home economics students of costumes they designed and made is always a feature for the women visitors.

(2) The pen-type barn exhibit sponsored by the agricultural engineering department was of great interest with more than 8,000 viewing it in a single day.

Visitors were intensely interested in the labor saving devices exhibited through cooperation from commercial manufacturers.

(3) Peter L. Brink, 31-year-old Grant muck farmer, produced 1,030 bushels of onions on a single acre of land to become the 1950 Onion King.

Although he raised 60,000 bushels of onions last season, Brink says he doesn't eat any onions.

(4) These six Brown City residents from Sanilac county seem intensely interested in the farm crops-dairy exhibit.

Take the slump out of winter

Cows on the Dr. Hess Research Farm seldom go off feed or off production. They handle dry feed and roughage without a bit of trouble. These cows get Stock Tonic in addition to their ration.

Stock Tonic supplies the big three. First, tonics that stimulate appetite and help the cow process her feed. Second, minerals that are essential for body maintenance and for a heavy flow of milk. Third, vitamin D. There is often a deficiency of this vitamin in winter when cows are in the barn. We believe the big three will prove beneficial to your herd.

To Visit Boys Who Feed Beef Calves for Fair

There will be a tour of all the boys who are feeding out beef calves to be auctioned off at the 1951 Charlevoix County Fair this Saturday, Feb. 17 according to Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

Ray McMullen, county agricultural agent from Gaylord will be along to discuss various problems and answer questions during the tour. The plan is to meet at one farm near East Jordan in the morning, eat lunch at the East Jordan agricultural room and then make two stops in the afternoon.

Anyone else interested in making this tour may call at the Extension office at Boyne City, phone 11, for details.

Detecting Mastitis

A good weapon to use in combatting mastitis is a strip cup, say Michigan State College dairymen. Routine checking of the first few squirts from each quarter usually will spot the presence of mastitis.

Save First Calf Heifers

Whenever possible, use first-calf heifers for dairy herd replacements, because they are less likely to be infected with mastitis than adult animals.

Good Management Need in Chick Brooding Method

Techniques of "cold room" brooding attracted many poultrymen during Farmers' Week at Michigan State College, when J. M. Moore, extension poultry specialist, explained this method of handling birds.

"Cold room" brooding is brooding by electricity, he pointed out It means that there must be sufficient heat under the brooder, but there will still be a greater difference between the temperature under the brooder and the rest of the room.

Outlining advantages, Moore advised that fire hazards are reduced and less labor is required since it is automatic, provided electric power is constant.

Faster feathering takes place in "cold room" brooding than when temperatures are too constant throughout the entire room, Moore says. This will also result in less cannabalism and better growth.

Good management must be followed or defects will creep in, the poultryman told the visiting farmers.

Some people try to conserve electricity by not maintaining high enough temperatures under the hover to start the chicks. This causes crowding, mortality, and reduced growth.

Some operators leave feed and water outside the hover. Because it is so cold outside the hover, chicks will not get feed and water. Poor health and starvation result.

Save By-Products In Meat Butchering

Farmers can add a financial gain to their home butchering by saving dressing by-products for sale, L. J. Bratzler, meat specialist for the Michigan State College animal husbandry department, reports.

By-products from a 000 pound steer will approximate $30.00, he states. Save and sell the hide or pelt, killing fats, and bones to the hide dealer and the rendering company.

Insure good quality meat by sanitary dressing, quick cooling of carcasses and elimination of excessive aging or ripening, the meats authority advises farmers. Seven to ten days is long enough to age beef and lamb at 34 to 40 degrees Fahrenheit, provided that it is of choice grade or higher. For the lower grades, four or five days is long enough.

Much loss is trimming and weight and poorer flavor after storage in the freezer are likely to result if the lower grades are over-aged.

Carrots

Good-quality carrots will be firm, clean, smooth, well-shaped, and have good color and fresh, green tops

County Below Average in Books, Report Reveals

Mrs. Loleta D. Fyon, State Librorian ond president-elect of the American Library Association, soid today thot Charlevoix County is on o mental storvotion diet. She went on to explain that her statement is based on a recent study conducted by the Michigan State Library as to the number of books per resident for each of Michigan's 83 counties. Of the 83 counties surveyed, 76 have inodequate food for the mind. Five counties, Arenac, Keweenaw, Lake, Luce ond Montmiorency ore without ony mental nourishment, they hove no libraries ot all.

"According to the American Librory Association's minimum standords for counties of Chorlevoix's size, there should be 2½ books per capita. Charlevoix County has only 1¼ books per capita," said Mrs. Fyan. "An inadequacy in books is certoinly mental starvation. A solution to Charlevoix County's diet problem is an adjustment in the present State Grants to Public Libraries. These state allotments have been based on 1040 population figures. Since then the stote has increased by almost 1,000,000 new residents. Also the dollar has shrunk to 50% of its value.

"In these days of uncertointy", Mrs. Fyan went on to soy, "It is necessory for librarles to furnish food for the mind, good books that serve the need of all residents; practical books of how to do and what to do, os well as books of faith and hope. Unless an adjustment is made of the present State Grants to Public Liraries, Charlevoix County will continue on its starvation diet."

The Michigan State Board for Libraries is asking the State Legislature for $699,421 in order that more regional and county libraries may be established and local libraries better supported. This sum is merely an adjustment to new population figures and decrease in the dollar value.

Heise's statement follows:

This is to express my sincere oppreciation to your generous support in this year's March of Dimes. Now, in many parts of the United Stotes, the children and adults stricken by infantile paralysis are more then ever dependent on the generosity of the American people. You, the citizens of Chorlevoix, can be proud of your record of service and accomplishment. Your contributions adds just thot much more to the certainty that the disease, infantile paralysis, will soon be eliminated as a major threat to the health and well-being of American children.

Because of the public's wholehearted and continued response to the onnual Morch of Dimes, the National foundation and its chapters have been able to fight back. On the Nationol, as well as the local level, March of Dimes funds have made it possible to launch a full-scale counter-attack in the research laboratory, in the classroom ond in the hospital ward.

As chairman of our drive I would especially like to thank those who have worked with me on this year's campaign. First, Jim Willis, who donated his time, his automobile and his efforts throughout the entire drive. Miss Francis Milner who handled the grade school collections. Bill Supernaw, John Rathburn ond the Argonne staff who helped to moke our March of Dimes party a success. Alvin Ranger, Dean Dovenport and the high school cheerleoders for their help in the basketball blanket drive at the gym. Mrs. Tom Carey and the Church Societies of Chorlevoix who did such a wonderful job with their bake sales and also the proprietors of Polly-Kay who donated their building for the sales and the Charlevoix Courier for its advertising and onnouncements.

To every man, woman and child whose dimes and dollars made this accomplishment possiblo I can only say . . . humbly and gratefully . . . Thanks for your help.

VA Dividend Payment to Be Made Soon

The Veterons Administration's plan to stort poyment of a second GI insuronce dividend has been delayed by the heovy volume of checks to be mailed and the fact that payments are still being mode on the 1948 dividend, Commonder Fred Kochler of Charlevoix VFW Post sald.

Covering 1948 through 1950, the plan colled for National Servlce Life Insurance dividend checks to be sent first to veterons who took out their policies in January of any year, with February policies honored in February, March in March, etc.

"If the onniversary date of a policy is Jonuory, the veteran can expect his check in April or May because in most cases there will be a three or four-month delay," Commander Koehler pointed out.

"In cases where dividends are due veterans who no longer have policies in force, the VA will contoct the veterans' district offices for the most current address," Commonder Koehler said.

He pointed out that after the 1950 dividend has been paid, policyholders will get an annual dividend so long as o yearly surplus is declared. Veterans do not make opplications for the 1950 dividend, it was explained.

Final Appeal Made for Blood Donors in County

With approximately 50 registrations on hand today, the Charlevoix county Free Blood Plasma Procurement Committee issued a last appeal for volunteers to donate blood for this community's plasma and fractions supply.

"We must have many more volunteers. This is a community life-saving project. The only way we can get plasma and fractions for everyone who needs them is for every able-bodied adult to give a pint of blood", Mrs. Robert Wexstaff, chairman of the local committee said.

The procurement center will open at the Hotel Dilworth in Boyne City at 2 p.m. Thursday. It will remain open until 7 p.m. Thursday and from 2 until 7 p.m. Friday.

Residents of Charlevoix county between the ages of 18 and 60 who are able to donate blood are urged to call their local chairman and still register for the clinic.

Boyne City Bumps E. Jordan to Aid Rayder Cagers

The Charlevoix Rayders were given a boost into the top position in the northern Michigan Class C league Friday night when Boyne City trounced East Jordan 58-42 on the Ramblers floor.

Boyne City was elated over the win despite the fact that they were pushed back into third place in league standings.

The game concluded Boyne's conference schedule although they have a non-league game with Petoskey Friday. East Jordan will complete its schedule against Harbor Springs this week-end.

Charlevoix will journey to Pellston to conclude its 1950-51 schedule Friday against the Hornets whom they defeated by 34 points in mid-January. The Rayders will have a tough game on their hands on Pellston's small floor but should finish the season in first place.

After giving Class B Petoskey a close game last Thursday Harbor Springs had two games this week playing Pellston Tuesday and East Jordan Friday to wind up the season.

Mancelona which went down before the Rayders Friday will end their season against Gaylord. A win by Gaylord could put them into a tie with the Ironmen for fifth place in the league.

Cheese Co-Op Buys Site for Plant Here

The Charlevoix Dairy Products Co-Operative has purchased a site for the proposed cheese plant on Bridge street, near State st., C. J. Fiedler, a director of the Co-Op announced.

Fiedler said that Mayor Knight, the city council and the Charlevoix Development Corp., are co-operating in an effort to have the cheese plant located here. The property was purchased from Pete Scott.

It is hoped that actual construction of the building will be started as soon as weather permits, Fiedler said. The new co-operative is incorporated as a non-profit organization, composed of farmers in Antrim, Charlevoix and Emmet counties. The producer members will receive the benefits.

Top quality cheese will be the chief product although it is planned to have other products for sale. A retail dairy store is also being planned on the building site. Organizers of the co-op say it will result in a larger market for high grade milk produced by farmers of this area.

• • • •

A GROUP meeting will be held in the near future to complete the organization by increasing the membership and raising necessary funds for equipping and operating the plant. Farmers are urged to watch the Charlevoix Courier for dates of the meetings.

Bellinger, Zeitler And Gebeau Win in Aldermanic Contests

John Knight

Mayor John Knight was re-nominated for mayor in the winter primary election Tuesday in Charlevoix, defeating Alderman Drew Young 772 to 186.

Winners in the aldermanic races were Charles Bellinger, first ward; Harry Zeitler, second ward; and incumbent Harry Gebeau, third ward.

A total of 908 votes was cast in the primary, 291 less than were cast last year when Knight defeated Ray Hamilton in a spirited contest. Election officials before the election had predicted about 1,000 votes.

• • •

SOME 40 VOTES were thrown out in the mayor's contest for various reasons while in the close race in the first ward, nine votes were cast aside in the alderman contest.

The count by wards for mayor was: First ward, Knight 156, Young, 55; second ward, Knight 333, Young 86; third ward, 283 and Young 45.

In the races for the council, Bellinger had a six-vote margin over Phillips in the closest contest of the primary. Phillips who lost out to William Heering last year showed an increase in strength this year, although losing again.

There were no other contests in the city slate. Automatically nominated were incumbent supervisors George Haggard, first ward; Arthur Bergson, second ward; and Clarence Meggison, third ward.

City Treasurer Nelle A. Hammond and City Clerk, Hugh Mayne were also unopposed.

Bellinger served several terms on the council up until two years ago. It was not known whether Phillips would ask for a recount. There has been some talk of a slip candidate in the first ward in the April election. This could not be varified late Wednesday.

Harry Zeitler who last year lost a close race to Carl Kohler, came through Monday to defeat Oscar Wilson Ward, 223 to 201. This contest was close all the way as only 22 votes seperated the totals of the two men.

In the third ward Harry Gebeau who was appointed to the council last year to fill the vacancy resulting when Knight moved into the mayor's chair, defeated John Wolf, 225 to 04.

City Studies Sewer Cost for Cheese Plant

A preliminary study is underway to determine costs of a proposed sewer extension to accommodate the new cheese plant which has an option on a parcel of property, adjacent to the Coffee Cup.

The city council was told last Wednesday by J. C. Marshall that tentative costs for the sewer job from State street across U.S. 31 to the property of Pete Scott's would be about $3,100.

Permission is being sought from the Michigan Highway department for right of way across U.S. 31 and from Dr. Gerald Gibbons whose property would be crossed in the sewer installation.

C. J. FIEDLER, a director of the proposed cheese plant Co-Op, said that it is expected that a building 40 feet by 120 will be built this spring.

The Mason street dock was also under consideration of the council to determine what, if anything will be done by the city this spring. The council was told that it is in extremely bad condition. Alderman Harry Gebeau, chairman of the council's committee on parks, and waterfront will confer with Leo Allard before reporting to the council at the next meeting.

Allard was asked by Mayor Knight and the council to do everything possible to expedite the removal of snow from the front of K & K plant on the north side. Allard said that it is difficult to keep the street and the parking area open, particularly when it drifts so badly.

The council appointed Marjorie Webster, chairman, Inga Smith, Florence Fox, Fred Tyler, Sadie Supernaw, Ethel Hamlin, Edward Heise Jr., Shirley Lusk, Ralph Cross, Charles Ager, James Willis Jr., and Jone Durrance as election workers.

Born in Germany, Mr. Foster came to this country in 1883. He was married to Ann Schmidt June 11, 1883 and resided near Greenwood. He operated a dairy farm at Petoskey from 1914 until 1932. Mrs. Foster died in November 1949.

Unity Comes First

The 38th parallel again has come into the news in Korea — and in London, Washington, and the United Nations headquarters in New York.

From Tokyo a spokesman for the Eighth Army says that reports of a South Korean detachment advancing to Yangyang, five miles north of the parallel on the east coast, were "in error." Certainly is would be an error for UN forces again to strike in force across that mooted line without genuine consultation among the allies who, with the United States, are contributing troops to the Korean front.

It is likely in the long run that UN troops will have to push into North Korea to the narrow waist of the peninsula north of Pyongyang and Wonsan before Communist leaders will assent to talk seriously about free elections for a unified, independent Korea. And unification for Korea must be one of democracy's minimum terms.

Yet Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain has asked for consultations among powers contributing to UN forces in Korea, and has expressed a persisting hope that settlement with the Chinese may be accomplished by negotiation. If a pause south of the 38th parallel (assuming UN forces could push above it) would provide diplomacy a fresh opportunity, that possibility should be explored.

Reaction in Washington to the Attlee statement sounds a bit highhanded and obtuse. To say that the original UN resolution gives authority for the military to cross the parallel at will is to ignore a great deal of subsequent thinking and current judgment. If America is to have willing allies, it must move with them, not merely advise them of moves it has made.

Little as Americans are accustomed to a waiting game, it would be worth while if other nations again wish to feel out any possible Chinese readiness for an acceptable peace, to allow time for that process —using the time to strengthen forces.

If it should prove that nothing less than a military advance well north of the 38th parallel will impress Peiping and accomplish the UN's declared purposes, the United States would have a good case for a concerted decision to cross the parallel in Korea. But it should be a UN decision, and should be made in unity of judgment as well as purpose. —Chistian Science Monitor.

Voice of Our Readers . . .

Dear Editor:

Maybe this letter should not be written to you but then you can see to it that it gets to the right party in your city. A group of us came over to see the Mancelona - Charlevoix basketball game last Friday night.

And the condition of the icy streets were a disgrace to your city. We are certainly glad we live in Mancelona if that is an indication of the streets.

True, it was slippery, exceedingly so. But where were the sand crews. The street in front of the school was far more slippery than a skating rink. Not a bit of sand was there before the game. And there might be some excuse for it at that time.

At 10:30 approximately four hours later, we came out to get into our car. And what a mess. There was still no sand and it certainly appeared as though nothing had been done to the street or sidewalks.

People were falling down, and cars were having a h--- of a time getting away from the curb. It was one of the worst situations I have ever seen. It seems to me that some official should have had common sense enough to have sand put on the ice to alleviate the situation.

As I have lived in this north country for 20 years, I always envied Charlevoix's paved streets and other things. I don't know who was at fault on the failure to do the sanding. But someone ought to hear about it. Or is your street crew on vacation?

Yours for slippery streets

Dear Editor:

The writer was very much interested in your story of "Abe Lincoln's Couch." Mr. George Charlton was General Passenger Agent for the Chicago and Alton Railway and owned a cottage known as No. 515 Belvedere club (near the railway bridge). Mr. Charlton was very instrumental in getting a number of St. Louis people to come to Charlevoix.

Mr. Charlton's oldest daughter, Catherine, known as Kate, took over the Charlton cottage on his death. She had married Lloyd Steer and was the one that donated the couch to the Legionairres. The writer had sat on the couch many times without knowing its history.

Our family started in Charlevoix in 1883 at what is now known as No. 212 Belvedere Club and some of the family have occupied this cottage ever since, which now belongs to the writer.

Yours very truly,

Did you ever see so much 'weather' as we've had in the past ten days . . . it was cold and clear and then it rained and froze and now it's raining . . . the only nice thing about it all is that the snow is going but fast . . . We're almost tempted to believe some of those people who've been telling us we're going to have an early spring . . . but in this country you can't tell so we'll join all of you in waiting and hoping for the best . . . But if the snow doesn't go soon the Easter bunnies will be having troubles . . . what with Easter arriving March 25 . . . just three months after Christmas . . .

ISN'T IT wonderful now that Charlevoix's back on top in the northern Michigan basketball league . . . thanks to Boyne City who clipped East Jordan Friday . . . And we never thought we'd see it happen . . . but so help us, it's true . . the Charlevoix cheering section even led a yell for Boyne when they heard the Ramblers were winning . . . The Rayders will end their regular season Friday against Pellston . . and then the tournaments . . . need we say more? . . .

We'd like to take time out here to say thanks . . . a million or more . . . to a swell bunch of kids and an equally grand coach who have given Charlevoix a wonderful season of basketball. Stack those youngsters up against a team any place and they'll rate ace high . . . and we're not talking about them just as players but as individuals. . . they have to take the jibes and jeers, the plaudits and praise and be able to keep their heads . . . and on the whole we think they do a good job of it . . . And those are our sentiments . . . regardless of what the next few weeks will bring . . .

DID WE remember to tell you about a very lucky gal we know? . . . She's Rheta Boss who was selected to assist Martha Logan when she conducted a cooking school here recently . . . Rheta worked from nine o'clock til the school was over and it was a tough grind . . . but what an opportunity . . . to work with a person like Miss Logan . . . And not only that but she's been invited to work with her again when Miss Logan returns to northern Michigan for a school later this year . . .

Have had several more calls on robins . . . someone even heard them singing this week so maybe spring is really here . . . do you suppose? . . . Wasn't it wonderful the way Charlevoix went over the top in the Polio drive . . . Congratulations to all those who worked so hard to make it a success . . .

We're celebrating an anniversary this week . . . this column is now a year old . . . Have had a couple people call regarding the Charlevoix party in Detroit . . . Seems it's usually held in mid-March . . . If anyone has any information on it send it along and we'll be happy to Plug it . . . Guess they're lots of fun, from all we hear . . .

"That They Might Have Life"

By Rev. Harold F. Krach
Bethany Lutheran Church

Gethsemane's Message

"Then cometh Jesus with them unto a place called Gethsemane and saith unto the disciples, Sit ye here while I go and pray yonder." Matthew 26:36.

On the western slopes of the Mount of Olives there is still to be found the traditional Garden of Gethsemane. Eight very old olive-trees stand within the Latin enclosure.

These trees really are very old. No one who has seen them would doubt that they have stood there at least one thousand years. No one, however, can say with certainty that they are the very trees under which Christ gathered with His disciples in that night in which He was betrayed. From the roots of these ancient and gnarled trees there are coming up new shoots, which in a thousand years will again be old.

Therefore, if the present trees are not the very trees under which Jesus prayed while His disciples slept, they may be the offsprings or shoots, from those under which Christ knelt in His agony.

But our salvation is not dependent upon the fact that these trees are the very ones under which Jesus knelt. The only thing of importance to know is that Jesus actually did go to the Garden and there became sorrowful unto death and wrestled and fought with the powers of darkness in the greatest battle of all ages.

This is certain, that on the slopes of the Mount of Olives Jesus overcame the devil.

Because Jesus has fought with the powers of darkness and has been victorious, we have peace with God. He drank this cup of His Passion for the salvation of the souls of men For this reason there is forgiveness of sins today and hope amid all conditions of life for each and every one of us.

Because Christ Jesus overcame the devil, no one need despair. There is no situation which comes into our lives, no matter how tragic, that compels us to give up hope. We know today that Jesus prays for us in the hour of trail. He says to us, "I have prayed for thee that thy faith fail not."

Because Christ fought victoriously against the powers of darkness in the Garden, we need not go into that outer darkness where there is weeping and gnashing of teeth. To us is given the promise, "In My Father's house are many mansions. I go to prepare a place for you. Because I live, ye shall live also.".

With and through Christ we can become more than conquerors and shall live with Him in eternal glory. Amen.

Joan Heise, Donald Jadwin Exchange Vows in Rites at Congregational Church

In an impressive ceremony solemnized at the First Congregational church Saturday afternoon Joan Clare Heise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heise, became the bride of Donald Allen Jadwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Jadwin of Detrait.

The Rev. Jackson E. Turner read the double ring service in the presence of one hundred guests before an altar decorated with white gladioli and mums and lighted tapers in candleabra.

Mrs. Charles Bellinger at the organ played a program of traditional music and the wedding marches. She also accompanied Mrs. Robert Hamilton, cousin of the bride, who sang the Lord's Prayer.

Given in marriage by her father the bride selected a gawn of white satin designed with a V-neckline, long sleeves and a cathedreal length train. Lace inserts from the shoulders to the hemline accented the princess lines of the gown. A lace and satin cap held her shoulder length illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of pink and white gladioli.

Ruth Doty of Flint was her only attendant. She wore a Colonial gown of blue taffeta styled with a hoop skirt. Her long gauntlets and braided headdress were also of blue taffeta and she carried a bouquet of yellow carnations.

Tom Meikle of Grosse Painte assisted the bridegroom as best man and ushers were Clarence Healey Jr. of Saginaw, Claire Martin and Robert Hamilton.

Mrs. Heise selected a teal blue gown with navy and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Jadwin wore a navy dress with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations.

A reception for seventy-five guests was held at Shady Corner. A tiered wedding cake centered the refreshment table which was decorated with sweetpeas, ferns and white tapers. Mrs. Clarence Healey' Jr. of Saginaw, cousin of the bride, served the cake and Mrs. Claire Martin and Mrs. William Lusk poured.

After a wedding trip to Grand Rapids and Chicago the couple will reside at 1172 Oak at. in Flint. For traveling the bride wore a mauve suit, matching accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations.

Both are graduates of Michigan State College, 1950. Mrs. Jadwin is a member of University Women's Club. Mr. Jadwin is a former president of Alpha Delta Sigma honorary fraternity.

Coming from away for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Jadwin of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Healey Jr. of Saginaw; the Misses Esther and Julia Pederson af Holly; Mr. and Mrs. Grey DeFarrest of East Lansing and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Healey Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Larson of East Jordan.

Highway Head Takes Issue With Governor

Recent statements given to the press of the state by the Governor and Robert F. Steadman, state controller, recommending legislative appropriations for state highway construction, leave the impression that these appropriations are new or additional money, according to State Highway Commissioner, Charles M. Ziegler.

"This is not true", he said "the funds which are recommended by the Governor and the controller to be appropriated by the Legislature represent gasoline and diesel fuel tax collections, and other miscellaneous revenues collected by the Michigan Public Service Commission and the Secretary of State, which are in excess of the arbitrary estimate of collections made in 1949 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1951, and set up in the current budget for highway construction.

"The Governor recently referred to these funds as 'supplemental'. They are not supplemental. They are funds distributed by law to the State Highway Department in normal course of business at the close of the fiscal year, which ends on June 30, and would not add one penny to the total amount which the Department would receive in any event. Any appropriations that do not increase the total revenues are meaningless, as we always get our money in time to carry out our annual construction programs.

"There are no excess gasoline tax revenues. The constitution of the state provides that ALL taxes imposed on all motor vehicles registered in this state, shall, after the expense of collection be used for highway purposes.

Fire Delays Service At Conservation Dept.

While the conservation department suffered comparatively small damage in the record $5,000,000 state office building fire, Director P. J. Hoffmaster advises there still will be disruption and delay of many public services for at least several weeks.

The department's game, parks geology and legal divisions are not located in the state office building and consequently near normal public service in these divisions is possible.

Persons who have occasion to write the department should address letters: state department of conservation, Lansing, Michigan. Letters will be rerouted accordingly. Correspondence to those divisions not directly affected by the fire can use these regular Lansing addresses: game division, Christman building; parks division, 400 Bauch building; legal division, 200 Bauch building; and geology division, 203 Capitol Savings and Loan building. When further changes are made announcement will be made.

State Checks Shoe Fitting Machines

All flouroscopic shoe-fitting machines in Michigan are now being checked by Industrial Health Engineers of the Michigan Department of health to make sure that they meet proper standards to protect the customer and store employe from the danger of overexposure to x-rays.

Indiscriminate and too frequent use of any x-ray shoe-fitting machine is dangerous. Overexposure to x-rays can cause radiation burns, anemia, leukemia, and chronic radiation poisoning, the Department said. Overexposure to x-rays is particularly serious in children.

No individual should have more than 12 flouroscopic shoe-fittings in any year and each exposure should be limited to five seconds.

Flash pasteurization spurs Michigan apple juice industry

In 1950, half a million bushels of Michigan apples, which otherwise would have been a loss to their owners, were converted to top-quality apple juice, thanks to efforts of the Michigan State College Agricultural Experiment Station. Flash pasteurization at packing time was found to preserve both color and flavor of the juice, making it available for year-round use. The research workers have also found a way to fortify apple juice with Vitamin C. Improvements in packing have helped reduce costs and speed up operations. As a result, a million bushels of Michigan apples should be profitably converted into juice in 1951. For further information about these new developments, call, write or visit your County Agricultural Agent.

Aureomycin Effective For Boils, Carbuncles

Sufferers from eruptive skin boils and carbuncles are offered new hope for relatively quick, safe relief by the use of aureomycin, the "golden wonder drug"

Early tests with this versatile antibiotic drug indicate that it is the most effective agent yet developed for combating these types of skin infection.

Most boils and carbuncles are caused by staphylococci and streptococci germs, which enter the skin though tiny hair openings or through a very small scratch. While these infections are almost always localized, there is a strong chance that low resistence or amateurish tampering will push the germs into the blood stream and cause serious illness, possibly death.

Much suffering and possible complications can be avoided if the infected person visits his doctor as soon as local inflammation is detected. Advanced cases of boils and carbuncles require surgical treatment.

Citizen Soldiers Prepare for Mobilization

Northern Michigan's citizen soldiers of the 310th Ordnance Depot Company are working diligently these days in preparation for the day when they will be called to active duty now that they've been classified as one of the top reserve units in the state.

The outfit is composed of 55 enlisted men and two officers the majority of whom are veterans of World War II although a few non-veteran recruits have joined the unit recently. The company was formed more than two years ago and has on its roster men from Emmet, Charlevoix and Antrim counties.

When the unit is called to active duty, and it's almost a certainty they will be now that they're a Class A company, the present personnel will serve as cadre for an outfit which will have 154 men and eight officers when at full strength. The increased personnel will be drawn from men already in the army.

First Lieut. James Pringle of Petoskey is commanding officer and Second Lieut. James Foster of Charlevoix is the executive officer. Assistance in their training is given by Major John Mollema, northern Michigan representative of the Michigan Military district at Traverse City and his aide, M/Sgt. J. K. LeBar also of Traverse City.

The company is a supply base unit for certain types of equipment and specializes in small arms and automotive parts.

George Smith Turns Down Six Sales

Last week he advertised in the Courier Want-Ads to sell a 10 in. Atlas saw. Yes, he sold it in less than 24 hours after the paper came out. Not only that but he had six other calls for the saw in two days.

He is only one of the many users of Courier Want-Ads who call No. 2 when they have something to buy, sell or swap.

In Jan. 1049 I was transferred to Chatham AFB after 10½ months at Tucson. I then entered the crash department of the firefighters as a crash rescue man. I was transferred here in Sept., 1050.

And suddenly....all other cars seem tame!

All you know is that everything about this 1951 Packard is conspiring to make you forget there's anything mechanical about motoring.

You flash a wish to the new Packard Thunderbolt engine—and to its teammate, Packard's exclusive Ultramatic Drive—and the road ahead is suddenly behind you . . . with a silent smoothness that can't be matched.

You breeze along, cradled by a Limousine Ride that's as relaxing as a lullaby—and gradually you remember you've been missing the old kick-up at railroad crossings, the jab of the frost-breaks, the side-thrust of winds.

And bear in mind: Packard precision-built quality will keep this enchantment alive for years to come.

So come in—drive the greatest Packard ever built! Within ten minutes, all other cars will seem tame!

It's more than a car --it's a PACKARD

IRONTON

Mrs. Robert King

Hello again from Ironton, the fishing is fine here again, lots of bait available too, cisco running good and catching lots of perch and smelt too.

Miss Munger from Lake City came up last Wednesday night with a party of five women. She said it's lots of fun. People from as far down as Benton Harbor -- also several parties this week from Grand Rapids. Ray Williams saw robins this week and says there have been two wood cock that stayed around their bait house all winter. Brave little birds.

Mr. Alvy Worth had his 75th birthday anniversary on Saturday and his children gathered together for o family reunion. He was a little disappointed when he lost one of the biggest cisco he'd ever seen on Saturday morning. We hope you have many many more of those happy birthdays, Mr. Worth. You know, Mr. Worth is quite a gardener, it's worth a drive out to Ironton in summer to see his flowers.

The young peoples' meeting was held at the Bennett home this week. Don made it a sort of valentine party too. Five young people turned out. A nice time was had by all. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted England were guests last week-end of the Ralph Prices. The Englands are from Lansing and have a summer home here.

Karl Vincent was called to Flint last week by the serious illness of his sister.

Mrs. Pete Kanoff entertained last Monday night in honor of her daughter, Carol. It was Carol's 11th birthday. Joy Nielsen and Lonie Thompson were her guests. Cake and ice cream were enjoyed by the girls then a movie in Charlevoix. I hear Carol is really thrilled by her new bike.

A valentine party was held at the Ironton school last Wednesday. Lots of fun and Valentines. And they tell me the children made a cake.

The Ladies Aid met last week with Mrs. Walter Kemp, eight ladies met to sew and chat and decided to send a "care" package abroad. Mrs. Kemp served tea with a lovely salad and tarts.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Walton of Central Lake visited in Ironton this week with Mrs. Walton's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Colwell.

Little Larry Sarna is now in Little Traverse hospital at Petoskey -- his condition is about the same.

Grant Hammond is in Charlevoix hospital, after several severe heart attacks. Mr. Hammond is one of our oldest residents and everyone wishes him good health in the near future.

Mrs. Richard Russell and Mrs. "Sonny" Williams are now working at Foster Boat co.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Brown spent last Sunday with Mrs. Lewis Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Nielsen tell me they held a "canasta brawl" last Saturday night. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Karl Vincent, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Nielsen -- after some fast and furious canasta they all had "hot" homemade rolls, cake and coffee.

Mrs. Evelyn VanderWall is in Charlevoix hospital for surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Alexander are spending their spare time these days in Petoskey, with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Frieod and little Deborah, their first grand child. Couldn't be that little Debby is really the big attraction over there.

Pete Deschamps who is working in Detroit was home for the week-end. Rita Cook, Mrs. Deschamps sister, who has been in Ironton for quite some time, accompanied him back to take a position there.

Little Larry Walker is having lots of fun these days. His little canine pal "Bonnie" decided to start a family and now Larry has three extra playmates. The cutest little round, fat, puppies I've ever seen.

Melody and Claudia King want to say thank you to those thoughtful ladies of the ladies aid, for the lovely little gifts during their illness.

Please try to attend Sunday school next Sunday.

That's all for now but in closing I'd like to say hello to Mrs. Marie Harris in Chicago, who sent me such a nice bit of encouragement about our news. Also Mrs. John Penner of Lansing. It's nice to know people enjoy hearing of Ironton.

Michigan Plants Many Seedlings

Farmers and other land owners in Michigan planted 11 million trees last year . . . one third more than the number planted in any other north central state, reports W. Ira Bull, Michigan State College forester.

Grand total of trees planted by individual and industrial land owners is 12,000,000. The trees were grown in nurseries operated by Michigan State College, Michigan Conservation Department, United States Soil Conservation Service and local Soil Conservation Districts.

Despite all these sources of forest tree seedlings, demand for certain species still exceeded the supply, Bull states.

Sometimes Good Intentions Aren't Enough

That fire at the Griffin place didn't do much damage last week, but Volunteer Chief Murphy was pretty angry about it. Spoke to some of us over dinner and a bottle of beer.

"Griffin's farm is a good mile from town," he said. "And by the time we'd dodged all the people on the highway who were going to watch, we hadn't a minute to waste.

"Then blamed if those sightseers hadn't parked cars right in Griffin's driveway and there was a mob of people milling around the house—just gawking. Joe, tell folks a fire's no sideshow. Ask 'em to think of the other fellow!"

From where I sit, some of us need to be reminded occasionally that even though our intentions are good we may be unfairly interfering. Whether it's blocking the right-of-way of fire equipment or criticizing a person's right to enjoy a temperate glass of beer now and then—the American Way is to give way, and give the other fellow his fair "share of the road!"

Pellston Is Only Obstacle Between Rayders and Conference Title as Boyne Throttles E. Jordan

Charlevoix Reserves Have Record of 11 Wins, 2 Losses

Barring an unforseen upset at the hands of Pellston Friday night, the Charlevoix Red Rayders will finish the season with undisputed possession of the Class C conference title.

And the chances of an upset are ever-present, particularly in this conference. Coach Del Terrill has not been taking any chances with his team, telling his players that Pellston, paced by Emerson on its own floor, may have the punch to pull an upset.

Last Friday the Rayders showed too much scoring power for Mancelona which was beaten for the second time by Charlevoix this season, 72-34. Charley Fairbanks for the second time in a week led the Rayder scoring with 26 points.

* * *

THE GAME was marked by a head injury suffered by Dick Lucas, Mancelona stalwart, in a collision with Dean Boss. He was taken to the hospital for observation but returned home with his teammates.

Mancelona played the type of game which Charlevoix seems to be strongest against. The lads of Matt Jacobson hesitated in pressing their defense, giving the Rayders more than enough time to get set for most of their shots.

* * *

COACH TERRILL used all of his players, substituting freely. Some 40 fouls were called by the referees, 20 on each team. This was just half of the number in the Charlevoix-Petoskey game.

The Rayders built up a commanding lead in the early minutes of the game although it was tied twice for a short time in the first quarter. Fairbanks pumped in five goals and Don Hardy and Tom Donaldson each contributed a two-pointer, Ron Wojan tipped in a goal and sunk a free throw during this period. The score at the first quarter was 17-8.

In the second quarter, Charlevoix scored 17 points with Boss, Bill Wallace and Fairbanks getting four points each. Donaldson scored three and Wojan two, to give the Rayders a 34-19 lead at the half.

Fairbanks sunk four field goals early in the third quarter, Wallace chipped in with two goals and a free throw, Boss with three points, Ron Cunningham with a goal and Charles Krahnke sank a foul for the Rayders 19 points.

Meantime Mancelona was able to score nine points but their play missed the aggressiveness it had when Lucas was in there. The losers scored six points in the final period. Wilks and Wilcox each had 11 points to share Mancelona point honors.

* * *

THE RAYDERS substitutes provided the sparkle in the last period when they scored 19 points. Krahnke sank a couple of nifties, Barber had a goal and two free throws, Cunningham cashed in three points, Boss, two points and Jim Bowman dropped a goal in. Fairbanks scored two goals before leaving the game early in the final quarter.

Several Charlevoix 4-H Members Awarded Honors at Annual Event

Despite bad roads and rough weather, 30 persons attended the 4-H leaders meeting and banquet at East Jordan.

During the afternoon, State 4-H leaders Kenneth Ousterhout and Mollie Vasold discussed problems with 4-H leaders and advised them in the latest requirements regarding their projects. A supper was served by the East Jordan sophomore class, directed by Mrs. Leatha Larsen and Miss Elizabeth Dhascleer.

Following the supper presentations were made to outstanding club members for their excellent performance in 1950.

Howard Campbell and Pat Murray, both of route 1, Charlevoix, received the Michigan Farmer award of the beautiful bronze engraved paper weight for their outstanding work last year and an outstanding record. Howard Campbell has six years of club work with projects in handicraft, dairy, grooming, electrical and tractor maintainance. Pat Murray has had seven years of club work with projects in clothing, hot lunch, food preparation, canning, victory and grooming.

Martin Johnson of Charlevoix competed with a large group of girls to win the 52 piece set of dish ware as Charlevoix County champion cereal bread baker. Martin defeated 22 other contestants with an excellent loaf of graham prune bread. His award including a plastic table cloth, was furnished by General Foods. Martin Johnson has had four years of club work with projects in handicraft, vegetable garden, flower garden, knitting, poultry and food preparation.

A highlight of the Charlevoix county 4-H leaders meeting last week was the presentation of a $55 check for being the state championship team in conducting a model business meeting to South Arm Community 4-H club. County Agricultural Agent Ed Rebman is shown presenting the check to Barbara Lehrbass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lehrbass, East Jordan RFD. Others in the picture are Mrs. Sadie Liscomb, second from left, East Jordan project leader and teacher in East Jordan, and Mrs. Mary Lord, second from right, community leader for the club.

Joyce Fiedler of route 1, Charlevoix was awarded a baking set which consisted of just about everything a person would need to bake pies and cakes. She received this for six years of outstanding food preparation. Joyce Fiedler has had five years of club work with projects in handicraft, grooming, knitting, clothing, food preservation and food preparation. The above awards were all presented by K. C. Festerling, district 4-H club agent.

The model business meeting demonstration team of the South Arm 4-H Club was awarded a $55. check for being the state championship team in this project. This team is a part of the South Arm Community 4-H club with Mary Lord as community leader and Sadie Liskum as the project leader.

The team included Barbara Lehrbass, president with two years of club work, Margaret Zoulek, vice-president, four years of club work, Audry Elsworth, secretary, six years of club work, Jack Zoulek, treasurer, three years of club work, Barbara Fisher, two years of club work, Margaret Lord, three years of club work, Joe Smith, four years of club work, Sandina Liskum, three years of club work, and Rushell Hart, four years of club work.

Walter Murphy was also a member of the team but was unable to be present.

This group put on a demonstration of their ability to conduct a model business meeting following the dinner. Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, presented the check to Barbara Lehrbass, president of the club.

ORCHARD NOTES

By Claude Fairman

Just as our soil and climate is ideal for fruit growing, the insect problem is at a minimum here.

In southern Michigan the Red Banded leaf roller is public enemy No. 1, but we hardly know what it is up here. So we do not need to use the newer and more powerful materials, such as Parathion, DDT, etc., which also kill natural parasites, such as the lady bugs, wasp, birds, and others, which keep the leaf roller, red mite and red spiders down.

We let wild and seedling apple trees grow adjacent to our orchards to produce these. The farther south one goes, the more codling moth they have. The codling moth produces the wormy apples that we see.

If we spray good for the first brood our trouble is over while farthar south they must spray all summer. We can use the old standby, Arsenate of Lead, up here as codling moth is no problem.

There are about 14 newer materials on trial, none of them so far has proved efficient for everything. Ehile Parathion kills the largest number of insects the material is harmful to McIntosh, Cortland and all varieties of this family. Spray only for what you see you have in your orchard or customarily have.

All people interested in fruit growing are cordially invited to the meeting of the Michigan State Horticulture society at the high school auditorium, Traverse City, March 1 from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

"ONE HAPPY FAMILY" TO BE FEATURE PICTURE ON JOHN DEERE DAY

FARMERS AND THEIR FAMILIES TO BE ENTERTAINED BY LOCAL JOHN DEERE DEALER ON MONDAY, FEB. 26

A full length feature picture, "One Happy Family," starring Don DeFore and Marjorie Reynolds, will highlight the parade of entertainment to be staged for farmers and their families who attend the annual John Deere Day show as guests of Conrad Klooster on Monday, Feb. 26, at 10:30 a.m. at his John Deere Store at Atwood.

"One Happy Family" tells the story of the Lynns, who compose a typical happy, small-town household until they are awarded the title of "Family of the year" in a contest conducted by a national magazine. The new title and the $10,000 in prize money they win contrive to toss all the Lynn's into a whirlpool of comedy and excitement, and Mr. DeFore and Miss Reynolds, as representatives of the magazine, go along for the swim. As entertainment, the picture rates a blue ribbon and will provide the guests with a rollicking time.

Five other new pictures are included in the fast-moving program, according to Mr. Klooster. One of the films, "His Father's Choice," features the likable Tom Gordon, head of the memorable Gordon clan who taught valuable lessons trimmed with humor in previous John Deere pictures. Another of the films, "Oddities in Farming," offers something new and different in its presentation of unusual machines performing unusual farming operations. "What's New for 1951," will acquaint those in attendance with new John Deere implements, and is sure to prove of interest to every farmer and his family. "Mike on the Move," and "The All-American Team," the two movies that complete the program, deal with subjects close to the heart of every farmer.

Admission will be by ticket and farmers who have not yet received theirs may obtain them by calling in person at the John Deere Store at Atwood. Farmers are urged by Mr. Klooster to get their tickets early. The show starts at 10:30 a.m.

Big Program for Tri-County Farmers' Day Here March 8

Plans are being completed for the second annual tri-county Farmers Day program March 8 at the high school gymnasium.

This is likely to be the largest gathering of farmers and their families of the year.

Sponsored by the Charlevoix county Veterans Institute and the extension department of the county agent's office, the program last year received statewide recognition for its efforts in furthering better farming methods.

Arrangements were made several months ago to have three outstanding farm authorities speak at this all-day program starting at 10 a.m.

• • •

JAMES G. HAYS, dairy specialist, who has been acclaimed an authority on various phases of dairy farming, Mike Tesar, farm crops expert, and Arthur Mauch, extension specialist in farm economics, all of Michigan State College, are slated to speak.

The all-day program has been widened to include a talk on the outlook of farm economics in the unsettled times ahead by Mr. Mauch who has done considerable research on the subject. The other speakers will speak on specialty topics in their respective fields.

A PERIOD of questions and answers will be permitted to enable farmers to discuss some of their problems.

Majority of County Farmers Sign Up For Gov't Program

With the closing date for signing up in the 1951 Agricultural Conservation Program only six weeks away, approximately 515 county farmers have signed up to cooperate in this program, according to figures released by the Charlevoix County Production and Marketing Administration Office.

This is about 86 percent of all the farmers in Charlevoix county, says Hardy, county PMA committee chairman.

He points out that the Agricultural Conservation Program is open to all farmers and that any farmer who cooperates in this program is contributing to keeping the Nation strong. It is because our soil and water resources are so vital to the welfare of the Nation that assistance is provided to help the farmers carry out approved conservation practices.

Charlevoix county farmers who have not already signed up for 1951 may do so by coming to the PMA county office sometime before March 31.

The chairman points out that conservation practices which help to build up the Nation's soil reserves are being emphasized for 1951. "With adequate supplies of most foods, the opportunity continues for farmers to build up their soil. By building up our soils now, they will be ready should the Nation need to make any substantial increase in food production later on."

"Conservation practices which build up the organic matter and restore fertility will help to give us these reserves, and for that reason winter cover crops and green manure crops will be particularly stressed in 1951."

Farm Crops-Soils Meeting at Boyne City

The farm crops and soils meeting will be held Friday afternoon, Feb. 23 in the basement of the Boyne City library starting at 2 p. m., according to Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

Ed Longnecker, extension specialist in soils will discuss the importance of soil fertility, fertilizer recommendations and the need for testing soil. D. L. Clanahan, extension specialist in farm crops will discuss some of the most important questions of growing farm crops and also new varieties.

An outstanding program, starting at 10:30 a.m. has been scheduled, Mr. Klooster said. A full-length feature picture, "One Happy Family", starring Marjorie Reynolds and Don Defore will be shown. It's full of laughs and excitement.

Two other films, "His Father's Choice" and "Oddities in Farming" will be shown. "What's New in '51' will acquaint farmers with the new John Deere line of farm machinery. "Mike on the Move" and "The All-American Team" are the other movies.

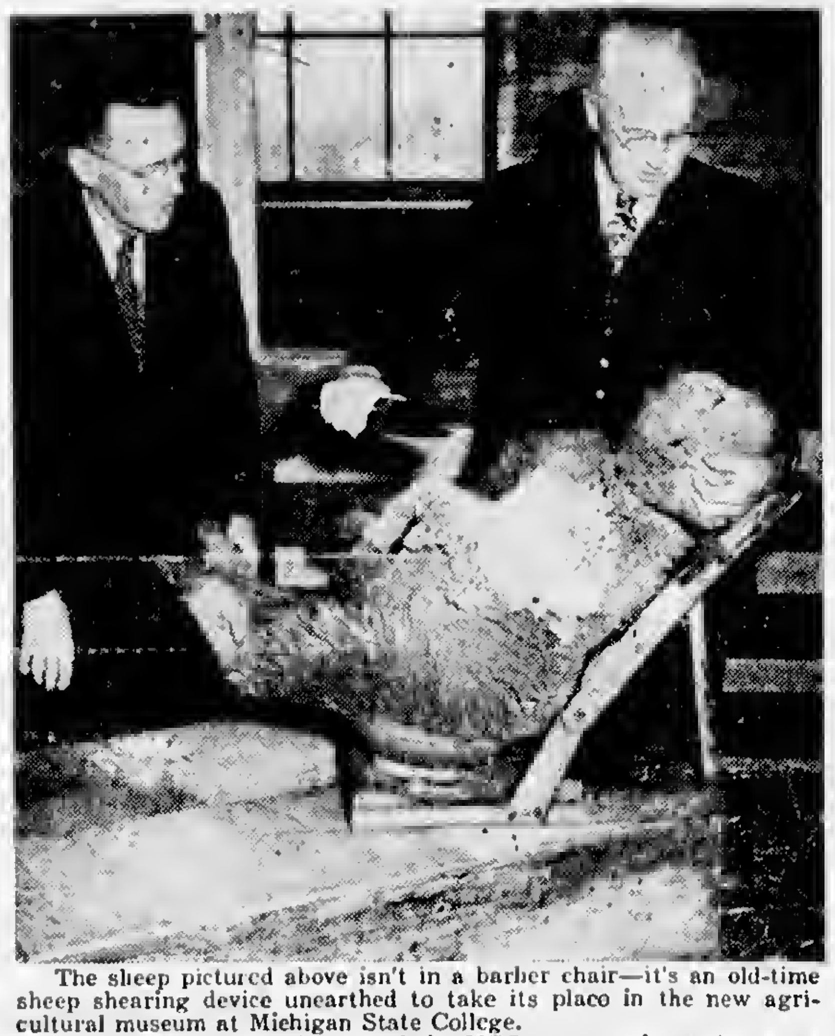
MSC Seeks Antique Farm Tools



The sheep pictured above isn't in a barber chair—it's an old-time sheep shearing device unearthed to take its place in the new agricultural museum at Michigan State College.

J. W. Stack, (left) director of the MSC museum, is getting some pointers on use of the antique farm tool from George Brown, retired head of the MSC animal husbandry department.

Stack has made an appeal to rural and city people, extension staff, and college alumni to be on the lookout for old farming and homemaking implements. Some of the items already contributed include a dog treadmill used to churn butter, a spinning wheel, grain cradles, and old lumbering and maple syrup making equipment.

The museum director hopes that old farm and home tools, gathering dust in the attic or barn, will be contributed to the new museum project.

Persons with items to contribute may contact their county agricultural agent, located at the county seat, or may write to the Michigan State College museum, East Lansing.

Management Still Key to Hog Profit

Although APF and newly discovered antibiotics can be beneficial in getting fast gains in swine, they are no substitute for good feed, management and sanitation.

Michigan State College researchers have found that the best results with these "miracle drugs" come when used in the best feeds available. When used with a low protein and vitamin feed, results are not very spectacular.

Good management, good feed and sanitation are still essential to best results. Dr. R. W. Luecke, agricultural chemist, says high levels of antibiotics get good gains in swine feeding experiments, but reducing the level makes results less spectacular.

"We need to know much more about the use of antibiotics in swine feed before we can advise the farmer as to just which one antibiotic or mixture of antibiotics will give the best results," Luecke reports.

Stock Brings Good Prices at Farm Week.

Although the price for the grand champion fell below that paid in 1950, average prices paid for swine at the auction following the Farmers' Week show at Michigan State college were high.

Harry Moxley, extension animal husbandry specialist, reports an average price of $27.41 a hundred for the swine sold. That was about $5 a hundred above market prices that day. Normally the auction price is between $2 and $3 above the market top at Farmers' Week swine auctions.

The grand champion sold for $1.10 a pound in 1950 and but 90 cents a pound in 1951.

The average price of $36.31 paid for steers entered for championship honors, however, was not outstanding, M.S.C livestock men say.

Save yourself a lot of time and worry during the winter by providing your livestock with plenty of warm, fresh water, say Michigan State College livestock specialists.

Better Dairymen Feeding Higher Quality Roughage

It takes a combination of good management and efficient feed practices to obtain high milk production at low cost, says Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

First, the more efficient dairymen are producing higher quality roughage. These dairymen tend to reduce corn silage feeding to 20 or 30 pounds a day and to get the cows to eat a maximum of this early harvested, high-protein legume roughage. Many of these dairymen used to feed 40 to 50 pounds corn silage a day.

A second important practice that is being used by more and more successful dairymen is the production and feeding of grass silage during August and September when pastures are usually unproductive. Many of the least efficient dairymen either do not provide any supplementary feed during this period, or feed expensive grains and protein supplement in order to maintain milk production.

A third important practice followed by many dairymen is to reduce the amount of protein supplement fed. Dairy nutrition specialists state that where good quality roughage is available, no protein supplement needs to be added to the farm grains fed cows. Some successful dairymen have also reduced the amount of grain fed to cows, with the more efficient dairymen never feeding more than 14 to 16 pounds per cow a day.

Another practice is that of a more adequate system of records of production, feed fed and costs. A dairy farmer without adequate records is about in the same category as a clock without hands. He certainly cannot determine his costs and returns.

Potato

Unlike corn, beans, tobacco, and other new world finds, the potato was slow to spread. It was still regarded with suspicion in France and Germany toward the middle of the 18th century. Though Prussia's Frederick the Great had tried to force potato growing, it was the famine conditions following the Seven Years' War that really established its cultivation.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By Gene Alleman
Lansing Observer for
Michigan Press Association

Michigan sits stunned yet over its tremendous loss in the fire which licked through the state office building in Lansing. Cause of the blaze was easy to dig up . . now comes the task of scraping up money to rebuild the structure.

As a result of the loss of office space, plans for the new office building, scheduled to be built behind the capital building, have been stepped up. Plans now are arranged to exceed not over 4½ million dollars. A. N. Langius, head of the state building department, says it can't be built for that amount.

From whence is to come the money? That is the question staring state legislators in the face in the next four years. In the meantime, it will cost 2½ millions (and 6-8 months) to get the old water soaked office building back into operation. Top two floors will be lopped off, of course, since both are total losses.

* * *

ADDITIONAL monies will be dug up when legislators begin considering the state of the capitol building itself. Long labeled a fire trap, it is expected that measures will be taken to make the old building more fireproof Currently it is listed as "slow burning". The state office building was "fireproof."

This fire, costly as it was and will be, however, has served as an object lesson to every state in the union. Most observers expect to see a modernization program soon in every state where buildings still sit as fair game to any good blaze. And county governments are awakening too. Most of the county courthouses were constructed near the turn of the century and are veritable fire-traps in that they are lacking in sprinkler systems, are overcrowded and are poorly arranged for escape exits.

* * *

SIDELIGHTS TO THE FIRE: The state office building was insured out of the state insurance fund which has assets of only $1,800,000. The states liquor supply is insured by private firms, assets unlimited.

Air force officials predict that one out of three air force reservists will be back in uniform by the end of the current mobilization.

But, for the time being, news from Korea is encouraging. That means domestic news worsens. The psychological letdown is apparent. Once again, people are primarily concerned with getting their own jobs done, laying in inventories to get a big profit if prices rise, buying now to avoid scarcities later.

Manufacturer's inventories have been rising fast and are at a record high. The proposal to boost the manufacturers' excise tax on autos from seven to 20 percent along with similar jumps in taxes of other 'non-essentials" has helped set off a buying rush.

MICHIGAN PAYS $4.79 of every $100 the federal government spends. And so if Sen. Harry Byrd's economy ideas prevail in congress, state taxpayers will be saved some $435,800,000.

A citizen advisory committee has recommended the consolidation of 16 independent professional and trade licensing boards in one agency. The new department would handle licensing for occupations ranging from accounting to embalmers, chiropractors and plumbers.

Beetles may not be vital as bullets, but in the national budget is a request for $487,000 to study Japanese beetles. First recorded find in Michigan was in 1932. Total catch: Eight Beetles.

UPON REQUEST of the department of defense, Michigan State College will go back on a wartime full-year academic schedule. Objective is to make college graduates available for military service or work in defense industries a year earlier.

Final poll card returns show some 50 percent fewer deer were bagged in Michigan than in 1949. Computations show 2,186 deer were copped in Western Michigan by 12,294 hunters as compared to 4,137 deer taken by 15,193 hunters the first season in 1940.

Ironton's 'Shanty Town' Growing

This picture shows a partial view of the many shanties at Ironton. The fishing at Ironton has been gaining in popularity in recent yaars. There ara several colonies of southern Michigan residents who never miss a chance to do their ice fishing at Ironton.

By Fran Martin

Pictured is a section of Ironton's 'shanty town' which dots the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix from just north of the village to the Isle of Pines, an area approximately three miles long and in some places a mile wide.

This shanty town, however, is not an ordinary one but is composed of more than 300 fish shanties used for fishing through the ice.

The fishermen whose shanties are spread over the area are literally 'squatters'; they prospect for a good fishing site and than park their shanties. If it isn't as good as they thought thay merely tow the shanties to another likely spot.

Transportation to the village is not a problem despite the lack of a bus system. Fishermen merely drive their cars onto the ice which even after last week's thaw is up to 16 inches in most places, and drive to the door of the shanty.

• • •

SMELT, some of them up to 15 inches, perch and ciscos up to five pounds are the fish being sought by the fishermen. In fishing for smelt at night, a special light is dropped into the water to attract them.

According to Glenn Williams, Ironton shanty owner, the present colony is the largest ever seen on the South Arm. As compared to the 'old-fashioned' way of fishing the present day shanties are almost luxurious. They have facilities for from two to eight fishermen, are equipped with gas lanterns, oil heaters and some even have bunks.

• • •

THE VILLAGE is also quite 'cosmopolitan' with owners coming from Lansing, Grand Rapids, Belding and many other southern and Central Michigan cities as well as from the immediate area.

Added to all this the fishing has been exceptionally good this winter.

The Williams brothers, Vaughn and Orvis are the only owners who have more than one shanty. Orvis Williams has eight aluminum shanties valued at approximately $250 each and Vaughn has ten less elaborate valued at about $125 each.

If the weather remains cold, the village will occupy the ice for another month, Mr. Williams thinks, but if it should turn warm for a week or more, the shanties will disappear almost over-night, to return again with the ice next winter.

List Seven Men For Induction On March 14

The names of the seven men who will leave Charlevoix county March 14 for induction into the armed services were released this week by the local draft board.

They are Richard L. Buckmaster, Aldon R. Niver, Robert R. Hausler, Herbert J. Howard of Boyne City.

Francis C. Partridge of Charlevoix and David S. Wade of East Jordan were named but their induction postponed until the close of the present school year.

The men will be asked to report at the court house here at 8 a.m. Wednesday, March 14 for transporation to the Detroit induction center.

Five county men will be called for induction in April.

Thirty-four draft registrants left Monday for Detroit for pre-induction physicals. Two other men joined them in Detroit. A third man was transferred to a Wisconsin draft board.

There will be no pre-induction physical call in March.

MSC All-Stars Trip Independents 39-38

The Charlevoix Independents lost a close game to the Michigan State All-Stars Saturday night as Dan Devine, manager-player, dropped a free throw in the last 30 seconds of play to break a 38-38 tie and take the game.

It was nip and tuck all the way with the Michigan State five ahead by one point at the half, 16-15.

38 Voters Fail to Cast Mayor Ballots

In the election resume published in last week's Courier, it was stated that some 40 ballots were discarded in the mayoralty race for various reasons. Edward Heise, jr., acting chairman of the election board, said that a total of 38 persons who cast ballots, did not vote for mayor. Only two ballots were discarded, he said.

Charlevoix county's annual American Red Cross fund drive will be launched Monday, Walter C. Bergeon, county fund chairman has announced.

City Seeking To Clear Title On Property

Owners of a small industrial plant to manufacture automobile accessories have started negotiations with the city for an option on city-owned property on Petoskey avenue, north of the city limits.

The Paul-Reed, Inc., represented by Robert Paul, a Charlevoix resident, formerly of Lansing, and Jack Reed appeared before the city council and the Charlevoix Development Corp., this week.

The property involved is the site of the old ninth hole on the abandoned golf course. The firm needs a plot 300 by 1,000 feet. Some 15 to 20 employes are expected to be hired, Reed said.

The title in this property is obscured and the city will seek to clarify it within the next few days. The firm plans to move the facilities of a plant purchased in Detroit last week.

Hal Hill, superintendent of utilities was asked by the council to determine the cost of making water available to the plant. He will report on this at the next meeting.

The city will ask for bids to repair the Mason street dock, after hearing a report from Alderman Hary Gebeau and Leo Allard, streets superintendent.

Three Men Escape Injury When Car Sinks on Lake

Three Belding residents narrowly escaped serious injury Saturday morning when their car went through the ice near Reedy Point about one half mile south of the Ironton ferry channel on the south arm of Lake Charlevoix as they were returning to Ironton after visiting their fish shanty.

The men, Roy Raymer, driver of the car, a 1950 Buick, Harold Updike and William Saganek, jumped from the car as it sank in about six feet of water approximately 50 feet from the east shore.

After working all afternoon the car was finally pulled from the water at 4 p.m. by a bull-dozer and winch operated by Ed Boss of Charlevoix who was called when other methods failed.

Emerson Scores 260 Points for Top Loop Honors

Keith Emerson of Pellston who led the scoring in the northern Michigan Class C. league during the first half of the season finished well ahead of the pack as the seven teams in the loop completed their 1950-51 schedule Friday.

Behind him in second place was Ted Mason of Boyne City; in third place Bryan Boring of East Jordan with Charlevoix's Bill Wallace taking the fourth placa berth.

Emerson, who is a junior, had 142 points for the first six league games, had 118 points during the second half of the schedule for a total of 260 points in 12 games. In addition he scored 86 points in four non-loop games.

His average for the season was 21 2/3 points per game and 47% of his teams 551 points. He also has the season's record of 33 points in one game.

• • •

MASON has 221 points for an 18 point per game average or 35% of Boyne City's 656 points. He was second in the league last year with 205 points in 14 games.

Boring has 213 points for 35% of East Jordan's 611 points for a better than a 17 point average.

Bill Wallace is in fourth place with 199 points or 16.5 points per game and he tallied 34% of the Rayders points. The closest he came to equaling his tournament record of 40 points in one game was 28 points against Pellston.

Charlevoix Tops Loop for Fifth Time in 6 Years

The three Charlevoix county basketball quintets dominated the top positions in the northern Michigan Class C league as the 1950-51 season ended Friday with Charlevoix in first place, East Jordan in second and Boyne City in third much as had been predicted at the opening of the schedule.

Gaylord	2	10	.167
Harbor Springs	1	11	.083

The Rayders climbed back to the top of the ladder to a position they had yielded to East Jordan for one year to regain the championship they had held from 1945 through 1949.

Charlevoix's record for the season was 11 wins and one loss to East Jordan.

The defending champions, East Jordan were second with ten wins and two losses, one each to Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Boyne City concluded the race with eight wins and four defeats including two by Charlevoix and one each by East Jordan and Mancelona.

Pellston with a six and six average remained in fourth place; Mancelona hung onto fifth place by defeating Gaylord Friday by a 44-41 score for a four win eight loss average.

Gaylord with only two wins in 12 starts remained in sixth place and Harbor Springs held down last with one win in 12 games although they lost to Pellston in an overtime.

Large Crowd Enjoys Father, Son Banquet

An enthusastic crowd of Charlevoix fathers and sons jammed the Methodist church banquet room Thursday night for the annual program.

They saw movies, enjoyed a delicious ham dinner prepared by the Methodist women and saw several demonstrations. S. E. Coleman was the genial toastmaster.

The Rev. George E. Whitten, interim pastor of the Methodist church, invoked the Lord's blessing. The large group, estimated at more than 200, enjoyed community singing and sound films.

Dr. C. O. Whitten who loads bullets for the FBI and several police departments as one of his many hobbies demonstrated how bullets are loaded. Bonnie Nickerson, former president of the Rod & Gun club, spoke briefly and introduced Keith Nickerson who demonstrated safety technique about guns.

Concluding the program was the talk of Art Stoel, well-known Charlevoix county trapper. He exhibited various traps used in his occupation and told of trapping mink, beaver, muskrat, skunk and many other fur-bearing animals.

Jim Bowman won a hatchet for naming the articles taken from a suit case. Kit Carson entertained the group with several tricks.

The Charlevoix Chapter 72 Order of the Eastern Star was host to members of the Boyne City and Petoskey lodges at a Friends night at the Masonic temple Wednesday.

The regular business meeting was followed by a social hour and refreshments. More then 125 members of the local chapter and guests were present.

Mrs. Jeanette Abfalter is worthy matron of the local chapter.

Odd Fellows Increase Lead in Cribbage

The Odd Fellows lead the Masons in the annual cribbage tourney by 953 points. The Odd Fellows won Monday night by 879 points.

Ted Bergmann had a perfect score of 968 for the Odd Fellows. Robert Richards was high Mason with 967, one point from a perfect score.

Band Wins Top Honors At Festival

The Charlevoix high school band directed by C. A. Odmark was the only Class C band in northern Michigan to qualify for the state band festival at the district band and orchestra festival held in Petoskey Saturday.

The Charlevoix musical group was awarded four first division ratings.

The Charlevoix band won a first division rating at the state band and orchestra festival last April.

The Charlevoix junior band, which played for criticism, was unclassified but received favorable comment.

• • •

TWO OF CHARLEVOIX'S soloists, Doris Nielsen, cornet, and Dwight Smith, clarinet, also received first division ratings and are now eligible to enter the state solo and ensemble festival.

All other solists and ensembles received second division ratings except the obeo-clarinet-bassoon trio which was given a third division rating.

Other bands and their ratings were: Class C, Boyne City, Kalkaska, Gaylord and Grayling second division; Harbor Springs and East Jordan, third division.

• • •

IN CLASS B Petoskey was the only band to receive the All-1 rating although the Traverse band and orchestra each rad a first division rating. Rogers City was given a second division rating.

Class D bands and their rates are: Alanson, 1; Elk Rapids, 2; Central Lake, 3; Ellsworth, 4.

The comments given by the adjudicators, Leonard Falcone, Alexander Schuster and Romeo Tata, all of the Michigan State College music department and Forrest Rinehart of Harbor Springs, former East Lansing high school band director, were much better than in the past.

Their comments could be summarized in Falcone's words: This is a good band in many respects. It has a nico tone, plays quite clearly with a good style and generally good intonation.

The director, Mr. Odmark, was listed as one of the strong points of the organization which they also said gave a well interpreted performance.

Other comments were of a technical nature and were meant for improvement of the band.

Comments given the junior band, which is a feeder group for the senior band, were mostly of a technical nature and also meant for improvement of the group. The judges did add, however, that the group had fine possibilities and would certainly improve with hard work after a good start.

East Jordan-Boyne Tilt Promises to Be Thriller For District Cage Fans

For the next two and perhaps three weeks, it will be difficult to talk about anything but the tournaments in Charlevoix.

Here in northern Michigan, when you say the word tournament, it means only one thing . . . basketball tourney time when whole towns turn out for the games.

And this year the tournament fever is reaching a new high. That's saying something for Charlevoix.

The eyes of the Northern Michigan Class C conference will be on the Boyne City-East Jordan game at East Jordan tonight. The battle between these two teams, ranked two-three in the league behind Charlevoix, is the focal point of attention.

Boyne beat the Jordanites the last time out while East Jordan thumped the Ramblers early in the season. It will be close and the odds favor East Jordan because the game is being fought out in their home gym. And another point on the Jordan team's favor is that they are anxious to right that Boyne defeat.

• • •

BUT BOYNE followers are pointing to that 16-point margin over the Jordanites a few weeks ago. They are optimistic about it as well. This is expected to be the best district tournament game in these parts this year.

The winner of this game will tangle with Mancelona which has been up and down all season, on Saturday night. Mancelona drew a bye for opening night.

Both East Jordan and Boyne have wins over Mancelona during the regular season. On the basis of past performance, neither team should have too much difficulty with Matt Jacobson's boys.

On Friday night, Charlevoix followers will move to Petoskey for their opening tourney game with Harbor Springs. The Rayders boast two victories over the Harbor boys. Unless Dick Melching is recovered from an ankle injury, Harbor will be at a distinct disadvantage. The game is set for 9 p.m.

Charlevoix should win over Harbor with ease on the basis of their earlier wins over the Harborites.

Then on Saturday night, the winner of tho Charlevoix Harbor game will tackle the winner of the Pellston-Onaway game. The Pellston-Onaway game is tonight at Petoskey. Onaway has a record of three wins and nine losses and should bow to Pellston.

• • •

CHARLEVOIX with two wins over Pellston this season, the last being a week ago, is expected to win the district title. It is considered quite likely by cage followers and coaches in the area that Charlevoix will fight it out with the winner of the East Jordan-Boyne City game for the regional title.

But then anything can happen in tournament play. At times fans see a team rise from mediocrity in regular season play to the heights of tournament championships.

The blood donated will be converted into plasma and fractions for use of Charlevoix county residents and a percentage of the type O blood will be sent directly to Korea as whole blood to be used for treatment of the wounded on the war front.

• • •

Survey Shows Repair Need on County Roads

Charlevoix county roads will get worse before they get better.

This is true of nearly every county in Michigan. The reason is easy to find . . the roads are facing a losing fight against inflationery costs while appropriations remain at the 1939 level when the dollar value was twice as much as it is today.

The Michigan Good Roads Federation which has developed a persistent campaign to obtain better roads reminds the public that a raise in the state gas tax is the most logical step to alleviate the worsening road conditions in the state.

The group points to the fact that the national average for gas tax is five cents and Michigan charges only three cents. Yet, the group points out, that the retail price of gasoline is as much here as it is in states where gas taxes are much heavier.

The Good Roads Federation recently completed a survey in Charlevoix county showing that the highway deficiency in this county $5,471,660. This means that it would take that much to rectify state trunklines, county and township roads in this county.

State trunklines in this county need $2,067,232 worth of repairing and improving. A total of 31.6 miles of state trunklines in this county are deficient.

Turning to county roads in Charlevoix county, the Good Roads survey shows that 483.8 miles are deficient and in need of repair. This would require $2,563,300 to do this job.

City and village streets in this county need $841,128 worth of repair work.

This is a lot of money. There are a lot of roads in this county. There is no cheap way to improve the roads. The county road commission is having the same difficulty that so many wage-earners are faced with today . . . a shrinking dollar and more places on which to spend them.

The legislature will consider a proposal to raise the gas tax so that our roads can be improved. A letter to Rep. Louis Anderson or Sen. Frank Andrews, both of whom represent Charlevoix county will guide them when the proposed gas tax increase comes up for consideration.

Flouride in Drinking Water

Much has been written in recent years about the value of flouride in drinking water to prevent tooth decay.

Only recently has the American Water Works Association officially backed the program. And enthusiastic pushing by the Michigan Department of Health is now underway. Cities throughout the state are being urged to get on the band wagon to reduce dental decay.

Grand Rapids, Midland, Algonac and Ludington have used the flouride treatment for some time. Hastings, Saginaw, Wyandotte and Grosse Pointe Farms have recently been granted state health department permission to go ahead. Between one and two hundred cities in the United States are now using the process.

Comparisons have been made between Colorado Springs, Colo., and Madison, Wis. The natural flouride content of the Colorado Springs water supply is 2.6 parts per million whereas Madison has only five-hundredths of a part per million flouride.

The average number of extracted teeth in Colorado Springs is less than one-half a tooth per person, considering all age groups. In Madison, it ranged from .448 up to 11.875 per person.

(Average number of extracted teeth per person):

Age Group	Colorado Springs	Madison
10-14	.067	.448
15-19	.065	1.442
20-24	.089	3.222
25-29	.246	5.367
30-34	.391	5.817
35-39	.298	6.788
40 and over	.375	11.857

In other words, the addition of flouride to drinking water is of proved benefit in combatting tooth decay.

The cost is negligible and averages around three cents per person per year in Midland.

It is expected that the flouride treatment of water reduces dental decay in children by about 60 to 66 per cent and permits adults to retain their teeth for much longer periods.

As time goes on, this is a matter that should be given some consideration by Charlevoix county and the city of Charlevoix.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

The Ed Boss family returned recently from six weeks in the South . . . part of the time was spent in Florida with a brief visit at Waco, Tex., enroute home . . . While there they attended a big rodeo at Dallas . . . and that seemed to be what impressed not only the kids but Eddie . . . Les didn't mention anything else about the trip but Hopalong Cassidy . . . but, boy, was he wonderful? . . .

And from Orlando, Fla., a note from Miss F. L. Edson who had made a visit to Bok Tower and with her sister as her companion is more than enjoying the south . . . But she'll be back in her little shop the Charlecote before too long and it will be good to see her . . . And news of Capt and Mrs. Harry McRae also came last week . . . in a letter written by their daughter, Mrs. James Delaney of Winoso . . . Mrs. McRae has been ill most of the winter . . but Capt. as usual has been out and around . . . They'll be back in the Petoskey ave. house come spring . . . and if Mrs. McRae's health improves . . . We hope it won't be too long before we'll be seeing them . . .

HAVE YOU noticed that Charlevoix's annual March illness . . . tournament fever, has set in? Are you going to the tournament? How do you think we'll do? What are our chances? are among the questions heard at every turn . . We won't attempt to answer these questions but we'd like to say a little something about the tournaments and the teams . . .

We're sure of one thing . . . those kids are going to be in there doing their best . . . and Coach Terrill's right with them doing his best . . . no one in all this world wants to win more than those kids do . . . so they'll be pitchin' every second of the game . . . But let's not forget this they're only kids . . . the oldest 18 and the youngest 16 . . in everyday life grown-ups don't figure they know what the score is too much of the time . . . but let them go on that basketball floor and those same kids are expected by those same adults to make major decisions in less than seconds . . . So why not go to the tournament with the idea in mind that the Rayders are a pretty good bunch of kids and that we want them to win but not half as much as they want to . . .

If it's in the cards, they'll win . . . and if they should lose . . . and it's possible . . . let's try to accept it graciously . . . And how's about being just a spectator . . . and not the coach and team rolled into one . . . To the Rayders and Coach Terrill . . . all the luck in the world . . . we're with you . . . all the way . . .

Weather continues to be the main topic of conversation around the village . . . what with the rains arriving Sunday night and remaining with us . . . what a mess . . . but everyone says it's another sign of spring so who are we to quibble . . .

John Frith of the Veterans Institute came up with another sure sign the other day . . . icicles of maple sap hanging from the trees along the road . . And we hear some farmer at Horton's Bay has started his sugar bush . . . the earliest in years around here . . . Could be that spring's arriving ahead of schedule . . . but don't bet any money on it . . . there's still March ahead of us . .

• • •

A NOTE from Archie LaFreniere on Beaver Island tells us that the young Art Pratt who defeated Greg Bryan in the Golden Gloves at Grand Rapids recently is, as Archie puts it, a by-product of the island . . seems he's the son of Alfred Pratt, a former island resident who now lives in Kalamazoo and the nephew of Forest Pratt who still lives on the island . . . Since he's practically from northern Michigan we won't feel so badly about Greg losing to him . . .

Post cards have been arriving regularly from Florida . . . giving us the latest dope on our friends who are wintering in the south . . . the other day one arrived telling us the temperature was 80 degrees on the 18th when the Charlevoix colony in the Daytona area enjoyed a picnic at DeLeon Springs . . . signing the card were Mrs. Laura Courier, The E. J. Smiths, P. R. and Phoebe Ross, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Jurgens, the George Emreys, Jerry and Virginia Conley, Walt and Marge Wells and Mrs. Linda Campbell . . . can you imagine so many people having the courage to write and tell us things like that while all their friends back here are still wrapped in winter togs and slaving in the cold . . .

'A well done' to the high school band and their director, C. A. Odmark, for the 1-rating received at the qualifying festival Saturday . . . That will mean a trip to the state festival . . . where last year Charlevoix carried off one of the six first place ratings in the state . . . Let's get down to work kids . . you've got quite a record to live up to . . . At the festival Saturday a participant was heard to say . . . How does that Charlevoix band get to play in Class C? . . .

IN A DOWN-STATE paper one day last week, there was a picture and story of a woman who received a 1951 license plate with the same numbers but with one letter changed from the one she'd had the year before . . . County clerk Pete Bulow tells of one even better than that . . . Charles Hamlin came in one day last week and had to wait for a couple people to get their plates before he asked for his . . . When he showed the necessary papers, it was Mr. Bulow who noticed the 1951 plates had the identical letters and numbers as his last year's . . . And all quite by accident . . .

IRONTON

Mrs. Robert King

Has anyone ever seen so many robins before at this time of year? I saw two real fat ones Sunday, they didn't look as though they had been through a long hard winter.

Evidently Mr. and Mrs. Ed Beene think we'll have an early spring They will be leaving Florida March 11 taking lots of time to reach Ironton of coorse.

The Ladies Aid met this past week with Mrs. Ralph Price, eight ladies were there to spend the afternoon, hemming towels. Mrs. Price had the traditional cherry pies, ice cream and tea. They will meet next time, Thursday, March 1 with Mrs. Melvin Jones. The Ladies Aid rummage is now at Pete Mitchell's.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Miller of Dixon, Illinois are proud new grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kennedy have a new baby son, Mrs. Kennedy is the former Louise Miller. The Millers are summer residents of Ironton. Congratulations and much happiness.

Mrs. Lewis Brown had a rather pleasant surprise last Wednesday, Mrs. Eva Peterson of East Jordan came to spend the afternoon with her. Also Mrs. Ada Brown and Mrs. Alice McClanaghan.

Mrs. Evelyn Van Der Wall is home again. Came home Tuesday night, she says she is feeling fine.

Grant Hammond is doing nicely, however, he is still in Charlevoix hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Foster are vacationing in Arkansas. They will be there a month.

Well, well, excitement etc; early Saturday morning a car broke through the ice, just off Reedy point in Ironton. Luckily the three men from Belding escaped by crawling from the windows, the car from Belding was a 1950 Buick. The men were Roy Raymer, Harold Updike and William Saganek.

Mr. Williams tells me they worked most of Saturday night to dry out the car and get it in order. The party drove back to Belding in it Sunday morning.

Mrs. James Driggett and Ed Hammond visited over the weekend in Charlevoix and Ironton. Visiting for a while with Mrs. G. Colwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Vincent, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Neilsen and family spent Saturday evening with the Orlin Cunningham's

Mrs. Oakley Saunders, Mrs. Vern Mathews and Mrs. Tom Nielsen spent Saturday in Petoskey attending the band qualifying festival. They tell me it was really a marvelous thing to see. We would like to offer our congratulations to Dorie Nielsen who finished with a number 1 rating, nice going, Dorie!

The Ladies Aid held a bake sale at the store of Berle Walker Saturday for the benefit of the Polio fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Kanoff have a guest from Berkeley this weekend, Mrs. Shirley Patchin.

Why don't you attend Sunday school next Sunday?

Don't forget all those service men overseas they need those letters. See you next week.

New York and San Francisco Fairs commemorated the 150th anniversary of George Washington's inauguration.

IT HAPPENED ON .... BEAVER ISLAND

By Mrs. J. C. Hanley

The mercury climbed to thawing temperature on the island last week. The wall of snow on either side of the road began trickling down to puddle formation, but there's plenty of snow still standing, the mushy variety.

Thaws are easy on the wood pile, which could stand a little easing up, but it's a big head ache to mothers. The youngsters inveritably come in soaked up to their knees, they don't miss a puddle.

The island had it's share of cold wether, but nothing like the dip in temperature farther south. It was 20 below down in Indiana when we landed there. It never did get down that far on the island, so the folks say.

Weather didn't matter so much to Peter Greene during the cold spell, he was fixed for it. Anthony, his brother, designed and built a neat little cabin to fit on top of the platform on the jumper and the daily trip in from Greentown wasn't bad at all.

THE ANNUAL hunting expedition to Sand Bay was a memorable one this season, the fellows actually brought back something to show for their efforts. It's a brush wolf measuring 5 ft. 14 inches long and the critter is on display in the Shamrock Tavern.

The story goes that Archie LaFreniere was planted in a clump of bushes while Bruce McDonough and Donald Cole on horse back circled the area for tracks. In the wide open field, Archie spotted what he thought was a coyote and as the animal was headed toward the clump of bushes, Archie froze his finger to the trigger until the wolf was about 10 feet away, then he let'er go and the wolf was dropped with one shot.

Others in the party of hunters were Father Giles, Lawrence McDonough, Eugene Kinney, Bob McDonough and Karl Keubler. They camped out in one of Lloyd McDonough's cabins for four days, except Keubler who commuted back and forth each day. The chief cooks were Father Giles, Kinney, Cole and LaFreniere, the bottle washers are an unknown quantity. The fellows are still talking about the wonderful time, the good eats and the triumph of dropping the big, bad wolf.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nackerman have received word that their son, Rodney, who is in Uncle Sam's air force has been promoted to Pfc.

Visiting the Nackermans are their two grandsons, Jimmy and Michael Huston from Ypsilanti. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Huston.

• • •

KARL Keubler spent a few days on the mainland last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McDonough left Monday for Grand Rapids to visit Mr. and Mrs. Lee Cuddington and to attend the capping excereising at Mercy Central School of Nursing where their daughter, Joy, is a student. Joy and Lillian Connaghan were among those receiving caps Sunday, February 18.

Tuesday, Joe McPhillips landed on Lake Genesaerth to pick up Joe McNamee, who is managing a lumber camp down at the south end of the island. The two Joes cruised around the surrounding islands spotting lumber and landed in the harbor in order for McNamee to shop for provisions. On the return trip to the south end, McNamee took along Franklin Cornstalk and Perry Palmer to work at the camp.

MRS JAMES ELMS was in Charlevoix for several days visiting the dentist.

Word was received Wednesday that Mr. and Mrs. Teddy Wojan are the proud parents of another boy. Mother and baby are patients in Little Traverse Hospital and are getting along fine. Mrs. Irene LaFreniere, Mrs. Wojan's mother, is in Charlevoix for an indefinite period.

Thursday evening, members of the Third Order of St. Francis met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wojan. After the business meeting, Father Giles introduced Mr. Howard Ennis, managing editor of the Western Michigan Catholic, who gave a talk in the interest of the Catholic Press.

The Ladies of Holy Cross Altar Society have elected officers for the coming year. They are president, Mrs. George Ricksgers; vice-president, Mrs. Lawrence McDonough; secretary, Miss Loyola Malloy; treasurer, Mrs. Joseph Sendenburg.

It's another boy for Mr. and Mrs. Jack "Turner" Boyle in Chicago. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James O'Donald and Mr and Mrs. Dan "Turner" Boyle.

And it's a boy for Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Welke (Catherine Marie Schmidt) in Pontiac. The baby is getting along fine, but Catherine Marie has been very ill. Friday morning, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Schmidt, were called to Pontiac on account of her serious condition.

Friday's thaw made a sheet of ice over the snow after sundown and it was treacherous for walking. Mrs. James H. Gallagher ventured out to a small gathering of friends at the home of her sister, Mrs. Gus Mielke, and returning home, she fell. No broken bones but a mighty lame back is the result.

MR. AND MRS. Forrest Pratt returned Sunday afternoon to their island home.

In my absence, Mrs. James H. Gallagher took over the column and kept the news going. Mrs. Gallagher wrote the island news for years, so she very ably "pinch-hitted" while your reporter had a short visit with the Allen family in Ann Arbor, a few days in Detroit, visiting relatives and attended a meeting of the Third Order of St. Francis in Terre Haute and was the guest of Doctor and Mrs. Gerald Gibbons in Charlevoix.

Clinch Northern Michigan Class C Title in Last League Game, Second Place Goes to East Jordan

The Charlevoix Rayders became undisputed champions of the northern Michigan Class C league Friday night after defeating Pellston 62-39 on the Hornets floor to regain the conference title they lost last year to East Jordan.

The Jordanites ended the season in second place.

Charlevoix got off to a good start at Pellston and were ahead 11-2 at the quarter after Fairbanks and Wojan had scored four points apiece with an assist from Donaldson with two and Wallace with one. Pellston's only tally was a field goal by Emerson.

In the second period Emerson broke loose and dropped four field goals with Andrews coming through with four points and Keiser two for 16 points as the half ended. Charlevoix had four field goals and two gift shots for 21 points. Fairbanks and Wallace had one each, Donaldson two buckets and one free shot and Wojan added one with a gift shot.

PELLSTON'S hopes were short-lived however as the Rayders started the third period with a bang and scored 27 points in the next eight minutes. Wallace accounted for 14 via field goals and one free throw and Fairbanks, Wojan and Hardy had four points each to push Charlevoix ahead 48-24 at the third period. Emerson, Keiser and Andrews had two points each and Drier and Coulter one each to make up Pellston's eight for the period.

The Rayders wrapped up the game for keeps as they scored another 14 points in the last quarter while the Hornets cut loose to make 15 but it was not enough as the game ended 62-39.

Scoring for the Rayders were: Wallace, 21 points; Fairbanks, 14; Wojan, 11; Donaldson, 7; Hardy, 4; Ketchman, 3; Boss, 2; Cunningham was also in the game for Charlevoix.

For Pellston Emerson had 19; Keiser, 8; Andrews, 5; Drier, 5; Coulter, 1. Cain was also in the line-up after Coulter left the game on fouls in the last period.

Second Team Wins

The Charlevoix Reserves concluded a successful season for a 12 win and 2 loss average after defeating Pellston Reserves 39-31 on the latter's floor, Friday night.

The Little Rayders went into the game with a vengeance and were ahead 18-5 at the quarter. They slowed down however in the second period and tallied only 7 points while the Hornets made 13 for 25-18 score at the half.

Pellston outscored the Charlevoix five in the next period by tallying 10 points to the Rayders 6 to make the third period score 31-28.

The Rayders played consistant ball in the last quarter to take the game by a comfortable score of 39-31.

Doing the scoring for Charlevoix were Davenport, 12; Bennett, 11; Lewis and White, 5 each; Mosier, 4; Boss, 2. Also in for the Rayders were Mol, Foster, Whitley and Smith.

Hoig led the scoring for Pellston with 11 points while Cronn had 8; Specely, 7; Ball, 3 and D. Wilson, 2.

Plan for Big Attendance at March 8 Farm Day Event

Prominent Speakers to Discuss Agricultural Problems at Meet Here

The second annual Farmers Day program will be held next week Thursday at the High school auditorium at Charlevoix. A very exceptional and outstanding program has been planned by the Veterans Institute and the Charlevoix County Extension service.

The program will start in the morning at 10:00 a.m. with the showing of the movie "Waves of Green". at 12 a.m. the group will adjourn for lunch. At 1:00 p.m. music will be furnished by the Charlevoix High School students and the program is to close promptly at 4:00 p.m. Floyd Ayres is to be chairman for the day.

Several outstanding speakers have been secured for this program. First on the program will be Jim Hayes, extension dairyman from Michigan State College. Mr. Hayes has been connected with the dairy department for a long time and has many friends in this area. Next on the program will be Milo B. Tesar from the farm crops department at Michigan State College. Also on the program will be Art Mauch, extension specialist in agricultural economics who will discuss the question "How much does freedom cost".

Jim Hayes, "Dairy mistakes the neighbor makes".

You like to laugh at the neighbors? Who doesn't! Then come to the Farmers' Day Program at the Charlevoix High School auditorium on Thursday, March 8. Extension dairyman Jim Hayes from Michigan State College has agreed to help lead the guffawing. He thinks we all can even learn a little from the mistakes that the neighbor makes! Just take the kind of cows the guy keeps that lives a couple miles from you. That's a safe laughing distance.

There are ways that he ought to wise up to, ways to cull his herd, get more milk per bossy. Have 'em easier to look at. Can you imagine a neighbor in the next county that's tight, with water and air for cows, that is? Maybe we can help the fellow. It won't be a laughing matter, not all of it, when the story is unfolded. There may be a grain or two of sense in the chaff.

"Tain't funny McGee", says Molley to Fibber. But we laugh just the same. Jim Hayes has observed many dairy mistakes made by folks. Says he has made plenty himself. He's billed to tell us about some of the most common blobs that our dairy neighbors find it easy to perpetrate. Everytime a cowman starts down the feed alley he's apt to be tripped up by a mistake.

Or when he hearkens to a glib-tongued purveyer of "something special" for the bossies' welfare, which she probably is better without! It doesn't pay to be a smart-aleck anytime — doesn't pay to be out-wrestled by mistakes, either, if you are a dairyman.

Milo B. Tesser, Grassland Farming.

Everyone will have an opportunity to hear a talk on alfalfa brome, ladino pastures by Milo B. Tesar, who is research assistant in farm crops, at the Farmers', Day program Thursday, March 8 at the Charlevoix High School auditorium. "Mike" Tesar has been doing considerable amount of research in regards to getting stands of alfalfa brome and other legumes on the different soils in Michigan. You will also find an article on the suggestion of grassland farming in the special edition that will be printed.

"How Much Does Freedom Cost?" That is the subject that Art Mauch will discuss at the Farmer's Day Program at the Charlevoix High School on Thursday, March 8.

Here in the United States we enjoy the highest standards of living in the world. With one-fifteenth of the world's population we produce and consume one-third of the world's goods. We drive 75 percent of the world's automobiles over 30 percent of the world's highways. We have half of the radios, 35 percent of the railroad mileage, and 60 percent of the telephone and telegraph facilities. Three-fourths of our homes have electricity, nearly half have mechanical refrigerators and washing machines.

Many Americans think this "just happened", says Professor Mauch. They don't realize that freedom, the most important part of our level of living, never is free. Nor are they fully aware that we are in danger of losing that freedom, or that we could lose it from within as well as by agression from without, or that runaway inflation could bring our downfall.

Professor Mauch will discuss why America is great, wherein she is not perfect, and the price we will have to pay to preserve our system and make it better.

Beef Bull Added To Breeding Service

Artificial breeding service from a beef sire for Michigan cattle raisers is now being offered by the Michigan Artificial Breeders' Cooperative. Addition of an Aberdeen Angus bull makes this service possible.

President Frank Heim, Jackson, said, "Another service became necessary after numerous and repeated requests from our members. It is a good thing to supply beef sire semen to farmers milking cows with no intention of raising the resulting stock. Many of them sell calves as deacons or slaughter the animals for meat."

A. C. Baltzer, extension dairyman at Michigan State college pointed to the needs of the nation for all out milk and meat production. This move is designed to aid dairy and livestock men, he advises.

ORCHARD NOTES

By Claude Fairman

Get all apples, cherries and plums trimmed by March 1 in order to get peaches and raspberries trimmed during March. Grapes need trimming before sap starts to run, as they bleed too easily.

Early planting of all froits is recommended as there is more moisture then and the roots get settled before growth starts, and the trees will take a dry spell much easier in May or June.

Plant your raspberries fairly deep. Examine raspberry plant roots for crown gall, which is found on the roots or next to the ground level. It looks like kernels or little brown balls, some as large as marbles, or larger. Burn all affected plants.

Crown gall sometimes kills small plants and retards the flow of sap on older canes. Be sure not to plant raspberries with crown gall. Have your plants inspected for Mosaic in June and again in August. It can be detected by a pattern on the leaves. Dig out the entire plant and burn.

If any cane bore is noticed break off the tip of the cane. Carry in a basket and burn.

If saw flies or green slugs appear, spray with Arsenate of Lead solution, two pounds per 100 gallons of water, as soon as they appear, and at least a month before harvest.

Watch your strawberry plants that may be shipped from the south for Nemitodes or plant lice on the roots. They may be dipped in Nicotine solution according to manufacturers directions.

Need for Lime Grows Greater

Michigan is falling behind in its liming program, cautions E. D. Longnecker, soils specialist at Michigan State college. He believes that farmers are not using half the agricultural lime they should.

During the last 15 years, Michigan farmers have used about seven and one-half million tons of lime an average of ½ million tons each year.

Longnecker cites that about eight million of our 11 million acres of tillable land need occasional liming for the best growth of such valuable feed and soil building crops as alfalfa and clover.

During the past 15 years, there has been applied to our low lime soils slightly less than one ton of lime to the average acre.

It is believed that with a climate such as Michigan's, 200 lbs. of lime is lost from the average acre of top soil each year by cropping and leaching.

Legumes feed more heavily on lime than do other crops. A three ton crop of alfalfa contains the equivalent of 300 pounds of lime, though part of the lime removed by feed crops is returned in the manure.

Area Farmers Cited For Keeping Records

The agricultural economics department at Michigan State College has given recognition to 375 Michigan farmers for having completed ten or more years of farm accounts in co-operation with the department.

The records kept by the public spirited farmers have been the main resource material for scores of studies of the economics side of Michigan agriculture.

Included in the list showing years of completion were; Claude Fairman, 21; John Weiland, 16; Maurice L. Hartung, 11; Merion Best, 12; Edgar Fox, 11, of Antrim county.

George Klooster, 15; Alfred and Fred Larsen, 11.

Approximately 150 yards of strong, fine thread are used in every baseball! The cotton thread is so fine that it takes 1 mile of it to weigh a pound!

Manhattan's Steel

There are about 30 million tons of steel on the Island of Manhattan, New York, 90 percent of which are in skyscrapers and other buildings.

"Look—no horns"

Complete satisfaction is just what you can expect when you dehorn calves with PŌL, the new Dr. Hess product.

PŌL is easy to use. You brush it on horn buttons and it dries quickly to form a tough, waterproof film. PŌL is much less irritating than old style caustic sticks and pastes.

There are no runny sores. Horns dry up and peel off. You never saw anything like it.

Better use PŌL and be satisfied.

Triplets Born to Beaver Island Goat

Beaver Island—Friday was a red letter day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tim Lenard. Two of their pedigree goats presented them with sets of triplets within an hour, six of the cutest little kids, all white and very wobbly. If you have never seen a newly-born kid, they resemble a toy lamb and are three-fourths legs.

Mr. Leonard has been interested in raising goats for some time. The mothers of the two sets of triplets are of the upper crust as far as goats are concerned. Leonard brought his herd of goats to the island five years ago when he moved from Chicago.

With all these kids, now, Leonard is wondering if Uncle Sam will consider a slice off his income tax, after all, kids are kids.

Farmers from Three Counties Expected for Big Program Today

More than 750 farmers from Emmet, Charlevoix and Antrim counties are expected to attend the tri-county Farmers Day program today at the Charlevoix high school gymnasium.

J. G. HAYS

ARTHUR MAUCH

The program will start at 10 a.m. and conclude about 4 p.m. The Farmers Day event, started last year, is being sponsored by the Veterans Institute here and the county agent's office in Boyne City in co-operation with Michigan State college.

Floyd Ayres is chairman for the day.

The program will start with the showing of the feature-length movie "Waves of Green", produced by a major studio in Hollywood. It has been called one of the best pictures about farm activities.

The Charlevoix high school music department directed by C. A. Odmark, will provide music at 1 p.m., after lunch.

First speaker of the afternoon program will be James G. Hays, extension dairyman at Michigan State. He will speak on "Dairy Mistakes the Farmers Make". An authority on dairy problems for many years, Mr. Hays is well-known throughout the state and middle west.

Milo B. Tesar of the farm crops department will discuss grassland farming, a topic which has been given increased attention in recent years. He has been doing research work regarding alfalfa brome and other legumes on the different soils

Rounding out the program will be the talk of Arthur Mauch, MSC farm economist. He will speak on "How Much Does Freedom Cost." This is a talk that farmers and other are urged not to miss.

The program was made an annual affair after its success last year. County Agent Ed Rebman urged all farmers in this district to attend the event.

Jordan Valley Co-Op Installs New Machinery

East Jordan — An expansion program for Jordan Valley Co-operative Creamery Co. at East Jordan which will enable the co-operative to accept either whole milk for manufacturing purposes in addition to farm-separated cream for buttermaking, was announced this week by the board of directors.

Manager Percy Penfold said new equipment is being installed in the firm's modern plant, which was opened just two years ago. It will be the newest and most modern dairy processing plant in the northern counties of Michigan's lower peninsula.

The whole milk will be processed into dried milk products and other items for sale to commercial dairy products users, Mr. Penfold explained. Jordan Valley markets its products through Mid-West Producers' Creameries, Inc., with headquarters in South Bend, Ind.

Mr. Penfold said processing of whole milk had been under consideration for sometime, but he emphasized that it would be supplementary to the present churning of farm-separated cream into Valley Lea butter, which the co-operative has produced exclusively since it was organized 20 years ago. The whole milk will be obtained from dairy farmers throughout its present cream-procurement area in Charlevoix, Antrim, Otsego, Emmet and Cheboygan counties.

Red Cross Drive Starts In County

Charlevoix county residents began responding to the Red Cross's annual call for funds to carry on the mercy program.

County workers, directed by Drive Chairman Walter Bergeon, are endeavoring to raise $3,500 during March to finance the organization's operations in the county and for international mercy work.

The city of Charlevoix will go all-out to raise about $1,000, with Boyne City and East Jordan having similar goals. Last year the Red Cross went over the top in its campaign.

Learn to Play Soon after Walking

Every Thursday since Christmas, when the Rayders leave the gym, the tempo of the footsteps change and if one listens closely he can hear the patter of little feet on the hardwoods as 75 youngsters from the kindergarten through the fifth grade learn the fundamentals of basketball from S. E. "Irish" Coleman who not only has a great knowledge of the game but the patience of a saint.

With the little ones he does everything from teach them to handle the ball to holding up their trunks. On occasion, when the going gets rough, he even has to wipe away a tear or two.

* * *

WITH THE older ones it's a matter of letting everyone get into the games and blowing the whistle at the proper time to keep them in line.

Now that the Rayders who got their early basketball know-how while training with the Cats, are playing in the regional tournament, the Cats along with the older group coached by Leonard 'Pete' Burns and known as Pete's Pups will be taking over the gym for their annual class tournaments.

And do they take their tournaments seriously. Each class has its own cheerleaders and following from the grown-ups who wouldn't miss a Cats practice session the class and from among sion.

And the man who spends so much time with these youngsters. He's completing his twenty-fourth year in the Charlevoix school system where primarily he teaches senior english. But his first love is sports . . . basketball and track, a sport he re-introduced into the school system in the early 1930's. As the result of his efforts Charlevoix

Following Mr. White's death she returned to Charlevoix about 20 years ago and had resided here since then.

She was a member of the W. C. T. U.

Surviving are four sisters, Mrs. Guy Stutzman of Charlevoix, Mrs. George Miller of Boyne City, Mrs. Joseph Gauthier of Detroit and Mrs. Ethel Hauser of York, Pa., a brother, Richard Coleman of Charlevoix and an uncle, James Graham also of this city.

Local Girl Scouts Mark Birthday

Girl Scouts in Charlevoix and other parts of the nation will observe the thirty-ninth anniversary of the organization's start by Juliette Gordon Low, March 12, 1912.

While the national organization is observing its anniversary, local Girl Scouts and their leaders can look back with pride on the progress of the movement in Charlevoix in the 15 years since it was started here.

From a small beginning of a single troop with about 15 girls, the local organization has grown to more than 10 troops with some 114 girls enjoying the wholesome and character-building activities of the Girl Scouts.

Volunteer leaders and workers are training the future citizens to lead an extremely useful and practical life dedicated to the pledge: "On my honor, I will try to do my duty to God and my country, to help other people at all times and to obey Girl Scout laws."

The achievements of Girl Scouting during the 39 years have expanded through two major wars and a major economic de- have received scouting's splendid pression. Generations of girls training in citizenship and democracy. Generations of grown-ups, too, have been the all-important volunteers who made Girl Scouting possible for so many youngsters.

Both Teams Likely To Advance Tonight Barring Upset Jinx

Charlevoix's Red Rayders and the Boyne City Ramblers are heavy favorites in their opening games of the regional cage tournament tonight at Petoskey.

Both teams have not played since winning district titles last week-end.

The Rayders will oppose Gaylord, a team it has defeated twice in regular season play at 7 p.m. and Boyne City will tangle with Benzonia, winner over Northport in the Class C regional game Tuesday night at 9 p.m.

The Rayders disposed of Pellston and Harbor Springs in the district tourney and will face another conference opponent tonight.

Boyne City will be a heavy favorite over Benzonia which advanced with a victory over Northport 50-33. A big third period when it scored 18 points enabled Benzonia to keep going in the regional.

* * *

ON THE BASIS of past performances, it seems likely that Charlevoix and Boyne City will battle it out for the regional title on Saturday night in what should be a thriller.

Of course, there is always the possibility of Gaylord or Benzonia pulling an upset. Gaylord has sharpened its play in recent weeks and the team looked good in winning the district title last week at Gaylord.

The last time Charlevoix played Gaylord, the Rayders won by 13 points and earlier they won by 23 points.

Fans who saw Gaylord win the district title say that Coach Sherman Martin has brought his boys along fast in recent weeks and may give the Rayders trouble if they don't watch their step.

* * *

BOYNE CITY, too, has showed big improvement in recent weeks. Always a late finisher, Boyne stands on an even keel with Charlevoix, NMCC champion this year. Their defeat of East Jordan in the district tourney stamped them as a real threat to Charlevoix's chances for a regional title.

Boyne fell victim to Charlevoix twice during the season, both games being decided by

Universal Day of Prayer

The fate of mankind . . . perhaps for the next century . . . depends on the events immediately ahead.

The free world is looking to the United States for leadership in this critical period. The future of civilization depends largely on the thoughts of, the words and the works of America and Americans today and tomorrow.

For many years we have worshipped at false altars . . . seeking material pleasures, amassing material wealth, boasting of material power. Now our national energies are pointed toward building a preponderance of such power for defense against the menace of aggressive communism.

Let us ponder this thought: As long as we rely solely on material might we are placing ourselves on the same level with the Godless forces of the Kremlin, whose philosphy sneers at religion as the "opiate of the people."

Now, if ever, is the time to get down to bedrock, to face fundamentals. Now, if ever, is the time to rise to a higher concept of life and its significance.

As a nation and individually, our greatest need today is actively to seek divine guidance in our daily affairs; to recognize that the kingdom is the Lord's: and He is the governor among the nations."

Nothing is more important than that we lay all other duties and tasks aside and turn humbly, in audible prayer and silent meditation, to the one Creator and Giver of all good, seeking his direction asking that His will will be done.

We therefore respectfully urge the president of this nation to set aside by official proclamation a national Day of Prayer . . .

The tremendous spectacle of the world's mightiest nation humbly turning to God as the source of all true power would inspire our allies and friends throughout the world, multiplying their faith and endowing them as well as us with a new, indomitable and enduring strength.

Let us remember that this nation was founded on faith in God.

As our forefathers turned to God in the critical hours of the birth of this nation, let us now turn to Him in this, the most fateful period of its history.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Mertin

Weather . . . we hope you aren't as tired of it as we are . . . a snow-storm, rain, sleet, ice, cold weather and sunshine . . . the weather man ran the gamut for our money . . . and are we tired of it . . . but we keep hoping it won't be for long and that springs just around the corner . . . and all that . . . Can't blame us for hupin', can you?

And more about the weather, Wes Wells and Bob Miller saw a big old skunk on the south side and Mrs. George Bergmann reports a big one on the north side . . . and the crows were doing a bit of cawing Sunday and the old timers say they've got to freeze up three times before spring . . . so could be we'll have spring yet . . .

If you heard a gentleman about town last week visiting the stores and speaking with an English accent, he was Herbert Morrell, who with his wife were visiting at the home of their nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pearl . . . Mrs. Morrell is a twin sister of Mrs. Pearl's father . . the Morrells were in this country for a fortnight's excursion and came west to visit Mrs. Pearl . . . for two days . . . and loved it here. Most of all they were amazed at the amount and variety of foods, the electric appliances which we consider necessities were another thing they liked so much . . . and they'd never seen a snow-storm like the one we had Wednesday night and were thilled by that . . while everyone was apoligizing for the weather Mr. Morrell was out enjoying every bit of it . . . And like so many visitors from foreign shores they feel the Americans have so much and should be more grateful for their blessing . . . After a few days in New York they'll be returning via plane to their home in Sheringham, Norfolk, England . . . And we hope they'll be taking with them many happy memories of our country . . .

In the excitement of every day living, it seems that the war in Korea has pushed into the back of most people's minds . . . or does it just seem that way? . . . but just in case you've become complacent about the whole thing . . . how's about the recent report that the UN finally has more troops there than the enemy . . . That means more American boys . . . one of the things those boys want more than anything else is letters from home . . . so take time out to write the one you know a letter . . . who ever he might be we're sure his folks will be happy to give you his address . . . Just tell him the simple things you're doing and he'll love it . . . And if you don't get to the letter remember him in your prayers . . . And you might say an extra one for the Olachs and for the safety of Hubert who is missing in action in Korea . . .

Another week . . . another tournament . . . And by the looks of pairings the Rayders will be meeting Boyne City for the third time this season . . and then . . . but let's get out of the regional first . . . To the Rayders we'd like to say . . . We think you've got what it takes . . Now how's about going out and proving it to us . . . But regardless of what the next few days bring, we'll love ya just as much and think you're just as wonderful as we always have . . . So lots of luck and may your dreams come true . . .

And following the Rayders with more interest than anyone else are a couple of guys who have a good many years wrapped up in this present team . . One had them when they were little and the other when they got a little older and a little more difficult to handle . . . Even tho' they're not mentioned regularly in connection with the team everyone knows their hearts are with the Rayders . . . And to these two men we'd like to say . . . we think you can be justly proud of your part in the success of this team . . it's been a big role you've played over the years . . and everyone remembers it . . . Of course you know we mean Ray Kipke and S. E. "Irish" Coleman . . .

Teachers Hear Talk by Boys' School Director

If teachers today are to answer the needs of the boys and girls in their classes, they must teach not only with educated mind but with an educated heart was the message Major Arthur S. Huey, headmaster, Leelanau school for Boys, brought to the members of the Charlevoix county M.E.A. at their tri-annual meeting last Tuesday.

He said that the teachers of today must recognize the need of emotional and moral values as well as intellectual value and in this troubled and neurotic world, those two things and the ability to live with people are of major importance.

Major Huey also enlarged upon the subject and told the group how he felt it was best to apply these things in the classroom and how they were being utilized in his own school.

At the business meeting which followed, John Downing president of the county M.E.A., spoke on the wage-freeze and how it applied to the teaching profession. Mrs. Catherina C. Bergeon, county superintendent of schools, discussed the financial status of the schools and the fourth payment of State Aid due late this spring.

A 6:30 dinner preceded the program. Max Novak was chairman of the committee which arranged the program and dinner and was assisted by Donna Valley, Grayde Patterson, Mrs. Dorothy McRae and Mrs. Jeanette Abfalter.

Mrs. Robert King

March really came in like a lion a few days ago, here's hoping it goes out like a meek little lamb and spring will be a little early this year.

A couple who has seen many springs, is Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Brown, who celebrated their 52nd wedding anniversary Mar. 1. They had quite a pleasant surprise Thursday evening, when nine friends dropped in to help them remember. Those who took part in the lovely anniversary cake, coffee and sandwiches were, Mr. and Mrs. Mac McClanaghan and son, Billy, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Brown, Louie and Tommy. Congratulations to you both and may you enjoy many more happy years together.

Among those who helped Mrs. Frank Brock celebrate her 74th birthday recently, were; Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Brock. The party was given by her daughter, Mrs. Jim McClanaghan. Thirty-five guests were present. Mrs. Brock's cake held 74 candles. Congratulations to you Mrs. Brock.

Quite a few people are either remodeling or building, the Mark Saunders, the Aaron Brocks and Tom Nielsons.

Nip Carlson made a trip to Elkhart, Ind. last week to see his daughter, Martha, at school there.

The Helping Hand club held a surprise party for Mrs. Katie Walker. Mrs. Saunders tells me the main event was a hankie shower. Mrs. Walker told the ladies she didn't even realize that anyone knew her birthday. Fourteen attended. She received many lovely hankerchiefs. They enjoyed a birthday cake and ice cream and coffee.

That's all for now. Please try to get to Sunday School next Sunday. We really would like to see lots of new faces and since the weather isn't nearly so bad, please do try — Thanks to Mr. Jay Miller for his nice letter. Till later—with more news I hope—watch those icy streets—be careful.

Jordan Valley Cooperative Creamery

Soon Will Be Processing Whole Milk In Addition To Farm Seperated Cream . . .

Yes — the big, fine modern plant of Jordan Valley Cooperative Creamery at East Jordan soon will be accepting whole milk from dairy farmers in Michigan's northern counties of the lower peninsula . . . a new and added operation to our processing of farm-separated cream into fine Valley Lea Butter.

New equipment is being installed and we expect to be in operation with our new milk processing plant the latter part of April, when we will start accepting whole milk from producers . . . dairy farmers should make plans — now — to market either whole milk or farm-separated cream through their own organization, receiving in return the highest price possible to pay, consistent with market selling levels of finished products. Besides — the entire savings of the business come back to every member-producer in direct proportion to the amount of milk or cream shipped.

After our new milk plant starts, the choice will be up to you, the dairy producer — either whole milk for manufacturing purposes, or farm-separated cream for buttermaking.

Sparked First Farm Day

Anderson Lauds Tri-County Event

The following is a letter from S. R. Anderson, who was an instructor in the Charlevoix Veterans Institute last year. He is on the staff at Iowa State College now.

Farm folk seldom have the opportunity to enjoy and share experiences with the fine speakers that will appear on the program in the High School Gymnasium March 8 which marks the combined efforts of Charlevoix High school officials, the staff of Veterans Institute, your County Agent, and Michigan State College.

I deeply regret in many ways that I can't meet with you, in this experience of witnessing the 2nd annual Tri-County Farmers Day Program. It, to me is really the fulfillment of a great desire, when I read in the February 22 issue of the Courier to see this program continued.

You as farmers and farm friends can be justly proud that the above named officials have made the effort to once again bring this valuable program to you.

They too are greatful for the past interest you have displayed in this, making possible the added cooperation from the Michigan State College Extension Service, headed by Ed Rebman in your county.

In Dr. Milo B. Tesar, you will have an opportunity to hear the latest in the new developments in pasture and forage research. You will find "Mike" as we know him, very well informed on how to best utilize your farms for better pastures and hay crops.

Dr. Arthur Mauch is nationally known for his research efforts in farm economics and is well versed to answer your many questions on the present Farm Outlook and policies.

Many of you know Prof. James Hayes. When Ed Rebman, Ellsworth Besemer, Floyd Ayres and myself discussed the man best suited to handle and discuss your dairy problems on Farmers Day, we unanimously agreed that "Jimmy" fitted well here.

I just wanted to take this opportunity to encourage everyone of you to attend this splendid program and you should be evermindful of the fact, that farming today is big business and much is to gain in programs of this nature. You will be glad you attended.

I will be looking forward to receive the Courier saying that this years attendance will be doubled over last year. Our sincere wishes from Iowa.

Better Farming Basic To the Country's Prosperity

Increased farm production appears to be the keynote for agriculture as it faces the uncertain days ahead. More crops will be needed as the nation gears for a wartime economy.

To obtain this added production, farmers must work harder with scientific tools which they have. They will need more fertilizer, more farm equipment and more power to operate machines on the farm to lighten the manpower load.

Farm Meetings Are Vital

As a means of spreading scientific knowledge among the farmers of Charlevoix, Antrim and Emmet counties, Michigan State college sends out its farm experts who have years of experience in experimenting with various problems.

And so the Consumers Power company, which is increasing its stake in Northwestern Michigan greatly each year, adds its commendation and congratulations to the Veterans Institute and the County Extension Service in sponsoring this second annual Tri-Couty Farmers Day program. The program is dedicated to helping farmers do a better job.

Farm Service Adviser

As a practical aid in helping farmers do a bigger job with less effort, the Consumers Power Company has inaugurated a program providing a farm service advisor.

This farm service advisor will work directly with county agents, 4-H club agents and other farm organizations as well as with farmers to do a better job on the farm.

Welcome to Farmers Day

Electricity on the farm has been a great factor in enabling farmers to carry out a much larger program. Among the jobs it does for the farmer is power for the workshop, powers the milking machines, removes the moisture from the barn, dries his hay, pumps water, lights the house, barn and the yard to name only a few.

Welcome to the Farmers Day event and may all of you utilize the knowledge gained to help you improve your farming, a basic factor in a healthy America.

IT HAPPENED ON . . . .
BEAVER ISLAND

By Mrs. J. C. Hanley

Beaver Island's harbor has been closed more solid with ice this winter than in the past four years. The ice extended quite a distance out from the harbor too, but folks, there's water showing now and it looks wonderful! The winds of March did the trick.

As a prelude to the entrance of the windy month, the island experienced a first class blizzard. High winds accompanied by snow continued throughout the night and next day. Elston Pischner and Gene Connaghan, pilots of the snow plow, had a real work out. Saturday's east wind shifting to northwest later in the day broke up and took away the ice jamming the entrance in the harbor. And so, as in many other spots, March entered like a roaring lion on Beaver Island.

• • •

MRS. GRACE COLE returned Tuesday from Charlevoix and in Joe McPhillip's new Stinson station wagon. This time, Joe picked out a blue colored plane — his old one is red.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McDonough returned Tuesday from Grand Rapids. Mrs. McDonough brought back a big bowl of gold fish from her daughter, Joy, to all the little neices, nephews and cousins. It wasn't an easy job to balance a bowl of fish from Grand Rapids to Charlevoix in a car and over to the island in the plane, but it was worth all the trouble. The thrill in the children's eyes repaid all the inconvenience.

Lawrence Malloy made a business trip to Charlevoix last week.

• • •

JOHN DUBIEL returned from a trip to the mainland Wednesday.

Joe Ricksgers left Wednesday for Cleveland. Mrs. Eugene Kinney went across on the same plane and Joe drove her as far as Detroit. She will visit there for several weeks.

Mrs. Willie O'Donnell remains in a critical condition at Little Traverse Hospital. Mr. O'Donnell and son, Francis, are in Petoskey to be with Mrs. O'Donnell.

Sometimes the big bird with the long legs fills the order as requested and this happened to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Huston last week. They have a sweet baby daughter to go along with their two lads, Jimmie and Michael. Grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nackerman are very happy over this news from Ypsilanti.

Bob and Charlotte McDonough had an order in for a boy. They have a trio of lovely daughters, so they planned and hoped for a boy this time. 'Twas another girl and the young lady made her appearance Feb. 28th. Charlotte picked the name, Christie Lynn, and isn't it a pretty one? Mother and baby are fine.

LARRY DAVISON spent a day on the mainland last week and he covered a lot of ground. Besides being in Charlevoix, he was in East Jordan and Petoskey.

Coastguardsman and Mrs. Floyd Stormer returned to the island after a vacation on the mainland.

Mrs. Jewell Gillespie and little son spent a few days in Charlevoix last week.

• • •

THE CULL family could hardly wait for Friday to roll around Larry was coming home from Camp Polk, La. Larry arrived and there was a delegation to meet him at the plane. But on the way to the island, Larry picked up a cold and he was a very sick boy when he arrived home.

Earl Gallagher, Chicago, spent a few days visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Gallagher.

Mrs. Edward Burke flew to Charlevoix during the week to a regular family reunion. Her sons, Gene and Jack, were there and daughter, Florence, with her sweet little daughter.

Sunday, Bruce McDonough, Douglas Burke and Emmett Schmidt flew across. Bruce will visit in Detroit.

As you can gather from an earlier paragraph, there was plenty of snow on the road for the sleigh ride Sunday night. The crowd gathered near the four corners to board the sleighs which were supplied by James W. Gallagher, Walter Wojan, Lawrence McDonough, Ed Burke and Walter McCauley. James and Ed had their cabin sleighs which made it nice for those afflicted with cold feet (including your B.I. reporter).

There were about 60 in the party. The wind had died down to almost a whisper, the night was clear and the caravan of sleighs winding down King's Highway was something to behold. Out at Greene's one room was cleared for dancing and the other two set up for cards. Music was furnished by Jewell Gillespie, Walter McCauley, Josie Ann Lewis, Mrs. Larry Davison and Joe Sendenburg.

During the evening, hot chili made by Mrs. Lloyd McDonough and Mrs. Vernon LaFreniere, was served. It was a big success and another triumph for Gene Kinney who engineered the affair for the Beaver Island Association of Commerce.

• • •

Ed Burke's cabin on the sleigh began filling up with smoke. "Turn the damper on the stove" suggested Burke, but still more smoke. Finally, it was discovered that a catalogue had been pushed against the stove, which sits low, and the "Dream Book" was smoldering. As it was thrown out the door, it burst into flames, and of course, those behind in the caravan wonder just who the flame thrower was in the bunch.

It wasn't taking the "bull by the horns" Sunday night, it was taking the horse by the tail. That's what Archie LaFreniere and John Ricksgers did when the team Archie was driving could not be managed. Archie would draw on the reins but the pull had no effect on the horse's speed. To remedy the situation, Archie grabbed the tail of one horse and John the other and this is the manner they drove the team to the party. Upon arrival at Greene town, Archie's hands were almost paralyzed trying to hold the reins with one hand and a tail with the other, they discovered Walter Wojan had neglected to put the bit in the horse's mouth. It was Walter's team and he rigged up the horses. Now, Walt, after all these years . . .

Barn Ventilation Becomes Serious Problem at Times

"How can I prevent condensation of moisture in my dairy barn?' That's a question that's come to Ed Rehman, county agricultural agent, from many farmers in recent weeks.

The farm adviser thinks farmers should consider the cause before they look for a quick cure. He points out that every cow gives off more than seven quarts of water in her breath alone every 24 hours. A 20-cow herd will give off a total of more then 37 gallons of water in a day. "If someone sneaked in your barn every night and poured that much water on the floor you would start doing something about it quick," the agent asserted.

He explained that cold air entering the building is heavy and drops to the floor. As it picks up heat and moisture it rises until it reaches the ceiling. Then it moves to outside toward the walls, which are cold, and this squeezes out the moisture and it simply clings to the walls and sometimes to the ceilings.

Rehman says the first cure is to insulate the walls, especially the upper four feet. The second is to put in a ventilator, an exhaust fan, and several intakes. The agent has plans for barn ventilation that have been prepared by agricultural engineers at Michigan State college in his office located at Boyne City.

Good Pastures Just Don't Happen

Milo B. Tesar
Farm Crops Dapt., M. S. C.

Good pastures don't just happen. They are well planned. They are the result of using superior forage species like alfalfa, bromegrass, and ladino clover as the backbone in crop rotations. When managed like crops rather than wasteland, rotation pastures increase the yield of succeeding cash crops and insures a permanent, profitable grassland agriculture.

Moisture becomes a limiting factor in northern areas in Michigan during the months of July and August. That is principally the reason why alfalfa is selected as the basis of the drouth-resistant pasture mixtures—it is very drouth resistant. Furthermore, it remains palatable during midsummer even though mature while unimproved Junegrass becomes dry and unpalatable.

Forages in the northern part of Michigan must be winterhardy for a period of years. Alfalfa is is winterhardy as any of the common legumes which are valuable for forage.

Pastures on Good Land

Many farmers hesitate to use good land for pasture, reserving it for cropland. However, tests conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture show that good pasture produces the cheapest form of total digestible nutrients available. One hundred pounds of T. D. N. from a pasture costs 64 cents; from alfalfa, 83 cents; from corn, $1.38; and from oats, $2.02. You should notice here that even when alfalfa was harvested for hay it produced food material more economically than corn; when harvested by animals in a pasture, alfalfa produced the cheapest form of food available to the farmer.

Alfalfa-Brome Mixtures Best

The carefully planned pasture program in northern Michigan allows about 1½ acres per cow. The basis of providing such pastures rests on a mixture of about 4 pounds of hardy alfalfa and 2 pounds of bromegrass per acre. One-half pound of ladino clover added to the mixture per acre on moist, fertile land will increase the production of milk during the summer months. Ladino may not increase the forage yield but increases palatability and has a high milk producing value.

The above mixture is the best for this area since it provides pasture from May through August when Junegrass pastures dry up and do not meet the pasture requirements for a dairy cow. It is the alfalfa primarily which makes this mixture productive when other mixtures are unproductive.

Tests conducted at the Kellogg station a branch station of Michigan State college in Kalamazoo county show that alfalfa alone produced an average acre return of 790 sheep days pasturage compared to only 412 sheep days obtained from fertilized Junegrass. Furthermore, the pasturage was continous during the summer on the alfalfa but mostly in the early part of the season with the Junegrass. In another case lambs gained 392 pounds an acre on the alfalfa pasture compared with 179 pounds on the Junegrass. As a summary of the pasture trials alfalfa produced livestock returns which were nearly twice as great as well-managed fertilized Junegrass on the same soil. Another test showed that alfalfa-brome produced more milk than alfalfa alone—3933 pounds as compared to 3606 pounds of milk per acre for the average of 3 years. The addition of bromegrass not only helps in increasing production but helps in keeping the stand productive longer since it lives longer than alfalfa. In another case; one group of Hereford steers, with a grain ration provided in self feeders gained 267 pounds per head while on pasture whereas another group gained 229 pounds per head while on full feed in dry lot. The cost per 100 ponds of gain for the steers on pasture was $2.60 less than for drylot steers.

These experiments and the experience of farmers indicate that the use of alfalfa-brome as the basis of a strong pasture program is sound. The alfalfa-brome may be left in the regular crop rotation for 2 to 4 years and then followed by a crop such as corn or potatoes. The yield of corn or potatoes is usually increased following the use of sod crop such as alfalfa-bromegrass. The legume (alfalfa) adds nitrogen to the soil and both the grass and legume improve soil structure.

Plans Needed to Insure Pastures

Will you have enough high quality pasture next summer? This question is offered by Michigan State College agricultural specialists for consideration these days when farm plans are being made.

A good dairy pasture has been described as a place where a cow can eat her fill and then lie down in the shade to chew her cud. It takes good land and good pasture to provide such a place. A 1,200-pound dairy cow producing 40 pounds of 3.5 butterfat milk on good pasture and eating eight pounds of grain a day would require 100-120 pounds of green pasture grass per day to meet her nutrient requirements.

Milk in Bread

The original use of milk in bread was in domestic or home baking, and probably dates back to ancient times.

Rayders Advance to Regional by Scoring Easy Victories Over Harbor Springs and Pellston

Charlevoix Shows Improved Form In Pellston Game; Oppose Gaylord In First Test of Regional Tourney

The Rayders of Charlevoix today were primed for their game of the regional tournament against Gaylord, after eliminating two conference opponents from the district tourney last week-end.

The Charlevoix team, champion of the Northern Michigan Class C team, lived up to advance predictions by trouncing Harbor Springs Friday night 65-42 and then vanquishing Pellston 75-47 on Saturday night.

* * *

THE GAME against Pellston, beaten twice by the Rayders in regular season play, started out as though it had the markings of an upset. Pellston fought tooth and nail for the first period and part of the second. Then the Rayders scoring punch asserted itself and Pellston was outmatched.

Three times in the early stages of the game Pellston took the lead and made Charlevoix get up steam to go ahead. There were some anxious moments during the inital stages of the contest.

Charley Fairbanks and Bill Wallace collaborated to dump in 45 points between them against Pellston and that was the ball game. Fairbanks had 23 points for high point honors, sinking 13 of them in the second quarter when Pellston threatened to end Charlevoix's chances for advancement.

Charlevoix looked a lot sharper against Pellston but even at times appeared ragged. A second quarter rally when the Rayders collected 20 points put them ahead of Pellston and they were never headed again.

Pellston shifted tactics around their league scoring ace, Keith Emerson, who was kept under control by Fairbanks for the most part. He managed to score 15 points but his teammates Keiser and Andrews cashed in for a total of 28 points between them as he fed them the ball when he was closely guarded.

* * *

PELLSTON trailed 11-14 at the end of the first quarter and 24-34 at intermission. The Rayders came back strong in the final half to score 18 points in the third period and 23 in the last stanza while Pellston could get only 10 in the third and 14 in the last quarter.

Against Harbor Springs, the Rayders had things their own way pulling away to a 19-13 lead at the quarter mark and 37-27 at a halftime. Harbor fared badly in the last half dropping in only seven in the third period and eight in the final quarter. Meanwhile Charlevoix tallied 10 in the third and 18 in the last period.

The passing and ball-handling of the Rayders appeared much improved against Pellston than in the Harbor game. Dwight Smith who saw considerable action sank 11 points, mostly on long toms, and the Rayders seemed to have better control of the ball off the boards when he was in the game.

Farmers Day Event Gets State Recognition

County Agent Works Around Clock on Job

The Cooperative Extension work was created by the Smith-Lever of 1914. The purpose is "to aid in difusing among the people of the United States useful and practical information on subjects relating to agriculture and home economics and to increase the application of the same." Today every county in Michigan has the services of a county agricultural agent. The office for Charlevoix county is located on the second floor of the federal building in Boyne City.

Many demands are made on the county agents time. Probably a review of the annual report of 1950 will give some information on how this time is spent. During 1950 the county agent made 703 visits in the county which include both rural and urban folks. A total of 043 people called at the county agents office and there were 1,660 phone calls received or made in connection with cooperative extension work. In addition 187 news stories were written and 5 radio talks given over station WMBN. A considerable amount of time was spent holding meetings. Among these were 15 meetings for training local leaders, 8 meetings for method demonstrations, 7 tours, achievement days and 151 other meetings. Roughly 60 percent of the county agents time last year was spent out of the office making visits or holding meetings.

One source of information that is available at the county agents office, that a majority of the people use to a good advantage, is the bulletin service. There is a total of 472 different bulletins available at the office in Boyne City. Last year there were 7128 bulletins distributed to the residents of Charlevoix county. In addition to bulletins other information is prepared or given verbally to those who ask for assistance along any line in agriculture or relating subjects.

The county agent's time was spent on many different projects. There was a total of 299 days of work, not including evenings, put in by the county agricultural agent last year. Of this total about 15 days were spent on organization and planning, 70 days on crops, 90 days on livestock, 58 days

Farmers Decide Now on Forage Crop for Year

The problems of what forage crop to plant, red clover or alfalfa, is confronting many farmers. They must make their plans for spring seeding, says C. M. Harrison of the Michigan State College farm crops department.

Supply enters into the situation, he reports. Red clover seed is abundant in supply and relatively low in price. However, adapted alfalfa seed for northern growers is in shorter supply and relatively expensive.

Harrison points out that alfalfa is still the most productive legume in terms of tonnage of high quality roughage for hay and pasture. A seeding, once established, generally lasts from two to three years, allowing costs of seed and seeding to be spread over a longer period than is true for red clover.

Of red clover, he advises that it is a short rotation forage legume, its productive life of high quality forage is only one year, the year after seeding. It is far less productive as pasture during dry summer periods.

When choosing which they may plant, farmers should consider that where short rotations are the rule and where the largest bulk of forage is cut once for hay and then plowed under for succeeding crops, red clover has much in its favor.

On farms where livestock are the number one enterprise, Harrison believes that a productive field of alfalfa is much more important than red clover.

He cautions farmers that the price alone should not be the determining factor in choosing However, if no alfalfa seed grown in northern or central areas can be purchased, red clover should be a better choice than unadapted alfalfa. Such alfalfa tends to thin out badly if it does not completely winterkill the first winter after seeding.

43 Enrolled in 'Busy Beavers'

Craft and food preparation projects are keeping the "Busy Beavers 4-H club" of Charlevoix plenty busy according to Mrs. Earl Johnson of 118 Belvedere ave. There are 22 members enrolled in crafts and 21 members in food preparation work. Assisting Mrs. Johnson are Jean Swanson and Doris Pierce. Meetings are held regularly at the Johnson residence.

Crafts members are making articles of nearly every available craft material.

They plan to work with yarn, cork, wood, metal, paper and cloth.

Food preparation members are studying the breakfast, luncheon, dinner, and baking. Last year this club had a champion cereal bread baker. This was Martin Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Johnson.

Officers in the club are as follows: president, Harlan Smith; vice-president, Martin Johnson; secretary, Roberta Swanson; Treasurer, Carolyn Stoel.

Farm Wives Play Vital Role in Hitting Inflation

Does the homemaker have an important part to play in the battle of rising prices? Indeed she does, says Dr. Calla Van Syckle, of the Michigan State College school of home economics.

Forty million homemakers, representing as many households, determine a large part of the waste that goes on in this country or the saving of both durable goods, food, clothing, fuel, and other supplies, she advises. Through their buying practices, they can stimulate or prevent scare buying. They can create artificial shortages through hoarding, or by not hoarding they can contribute to the fair distribution of goods.

First, she says, do not be a "scare" buyer. Rumors are rife about shortages of this and that and unless you watch yourself you may find that you are rushing to "get yours" without any need.

Second, no hoarding! That means don't stock up with more of any item than is usual because of fear of shortage. You will need to be on guard to resist sales appeals in merchandising just because it is claimed that "prices may rise" or "this is going to be hard to get".

Remember, things have to be stored and cared for and some items go out of style, spoil, or become less satisfactory if held too long.

Third check yourself and your household on waste. The more you conserve what you have, the less need to buy new or more.

Inflation Will Hurt All Farmers If It Continues, Ag Expert Says

Does the farmer really want inflation?

It's generally agreed, he says, that a tittle inflation is good for the farmer. Prices of the things he sells go up faster than prices of things he buys.

But some farmers gain a lot, others much less. It all depends on what the farmer has to sell and what he must buy. Cotton prices, for example, are now four times as high as they were in the pre-war years 1935-1939, while truck and vegetable crop prices haven't even doubled. During the same period wool prices tripled, feed prices doubled.

On the outgo side, motor supplies, machinery, seed, fertilizer and home furnishings prices have gone up much less than farm wage rates, livestock, and building supplies prices.

Everybody looses, Boger warns, if inflation goes too far. Runaway inflation would destroy our whole monetary structure--the dollar would become worthless.

DEBTS--It's always easier to pay debts with "cheap" dollars, so being in debt during a period of inflation is sound business. It now takes far less farm products to make payments on investments such as land bought in pre-war years.

Professor Holden Reporting

Farm Ownership Is Basis for a Prospering U. S.

By Prof. Perry G. Holden

My father was a pioneer farmer and also the county surveyor, so became acquainted with the good farmers and the poor farmers of Benzie County and most of Leelanau and Grand Traverse Counties. In the summer when the hay was cut and in stacks or in the barn, he would load us boys into the wagon and take us out for four or five days to see how other folks lived and farmed.

We always looked forward to this trip with tremendous interest. We visited good farmers and poor ones as well. We learned so many new ideas that we could hardly wait to get home to put them into practice. I can hardly tell you how interested and happy we were, for we loved our work.

We always looked forward to the Monday morning meetings when father and mother planned the week's work with us boys. Of course there was hard work, plenty of it. "Drudgery" you say? I never heard that word used in our family.

We were interested in growing potatoes and at one of our Monday morning meetings, mother told us about Michigan Agricultoral College (now called Michigan State College) where we could study agriculture. The result was that all three of us boys went to M.A.C. and graduated. I taught there nearly four years before going back to the farm west of Traverse City, Michigan.

TURNING BACK to that word "Drudgery": Hundreds of times I have heard mothers and fathers say, "I want my boys and girls to get an education so they won't have to work and slave like we have had to all our lives". It is their conception of the word that is wrong . . . work is drudgery only when it is done without thought or interest and love for it.

There is another expression that I regret to hear: "I am only a farmer". This reflects an inferiority feeling. "Only a farmer?" What could be more useful, more noble and more sacred than producing the food for humanity. Every morning the world wakes up hungry. I have spent my whole life in trying to dignify and glorify the business of farming in the minds of the farmer himself and in the minds of the people of every other business.

Pause with me here, for I challenge you to name any other business that is more important to the world, than agriculture. It is the parent of all other business. It is the one vocation that makes business for every other business. It must be apparent to everyone that the prosperity and progress of every industry can be no greater than the prosperity of agriculture, for from it comes our food, clothing, shelter, and life itself.

TO RETURN to the subject of "The Future Farmer" . . . When the great northwest territory was organized, Congress passed a wise and far-reaching law known as the "Homestead Act" which enabled claims to be made for not more than 160 acres of land by each person. The "homesteader" had to live on it for five years before he could "prove up" on it and secure a warranty deed from the Government. During this five years he could not sell it, mortgage it, or give it away. This act made the northwest territory a land of millions of home owners and homemakers instead of a few great landed estates.

Again I must say what a wonderful act of vision and statesmanship. Everyone had an even start and had to prove his pur-

Small Fruit Growing Gains In District

Growing conditions in Charlevoix county are adapted to several kinds of fruit. Probably apples, pears, cherries and small fruits are the ones that growers should consider if their conditions are ideal. Peaches and blueberries for the most part are not recommended for this area. A prospective grower should study carefully the available sites on his farm and determine the suitability for the different kinds of fruits before deciding what he should grow. Only those kinds and varieties that are adapted to his conditions should be planted.

The first thing to look at is the site. The site should provide good air drainage and have an elevation somewhat higher than is general for the region and locality. This is to prevent, as much as possible, frost damage. The site should be more or less rolling with sloops gradual enough to avoid destructive erosion. Prospective growers should avoid low flat lands, steep sloops, tops of high hills, pockets or depressions and badly eroded sites.

The next item to consider is the soil. The soil should have a deep, fertile, loamy surface layer with good water drainage. It should be a good texture and easy to work. The soil should have enough moisture and plant food to produce fruit. A well drained retentive subsoil that will permit deep roots penetration is very desirable. Prospective growers should avoid hard clay soils, those with hard pan subsoil and those that are frequently dry and those that are too wet.

It is easier and more economical to build up the organic content of the soil before planting than it is to do it after planting. Green manure crops and barn yard manure applied and turned under one or two seasons before planting will help. Fall plowing is an advantage if the trees are to be planted in the spring unless the soil will wash too badly.

Medic Shortage May Hit Rural Areas in State

Two hundred rural Michigan communities have only one physician for 2,124 persons, though on the average, Michigan has one doctor for each 919 persons. Farmers' Week visitors at Michigan State College heard these facts pointed out in a discussion of state health facilities.

J. F. Thaden, MSC sociologist, in discussing "Where Do Michigan Doctors Practice?", reported that from 1910 to 1950, there was a 69 percent increase in physicians in Michigan compared to a 126 percent increase in population.

Thaden said it is generally assumed that one physician practicing for each 1,499 or less persons is a desirable ratio. If so, one fourth of the communities are adequately supplied with physicians.

In general, he said, the shortage of physicians occurs less often in the 6 small rural communities with less than 3,000 persons than in the communities with 3,000 to 10,000 persons.

The sociologist reported that Michigan's two medical schools, the University of Michigan and Wayne, graduated a combined total of 1,900 doctors from 1940 to 1949. In that period the Michigan State Board of Registration in Medicine approved a total of 3,815 applicants to practice medicine in Michigan.

If the 2,663 physicians in the 297 communities outside of Wayne county, 45 percent are graduates of medical schools located in states other than Michigan.

County 4-H Leaders To Meet on March 8

Charlevoix County 4-H leaders will hold the next regular meeting at the Star school house in Star community Thursday evening, March 8 at 8:30 p.m.

With Achievement days officially set for April 25-26, the group will make plans for that event, according to K. C. Festerling, district 4-H club agent. The balance of the evening will be social. Hosts for the evening will be Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hayden and members of the Star community club.

Tri-County Affair Seems Certain to Grow In Value to Farmers

The annual Farmers Day program, started last year by the Veterans Institute and the county agent's office, promises to become bigger and better each year.

The all-day program received state-wide recognition from Michigan State college, Veterans Administration and the Department of Public Instruction. The Veterans Institute under the guidance of Max Novak has been cited for its outstanding program with veterans.

With a membership of 75 in the Institute, it permits the veterans to obtain an educational program under the GI bill of rights and permits him to earn money while he is learning.

This year's program, sponsored by the Institute and County Agent Ed Rebman and his staff with the assistance of Michigan State college, brings to this county three outstanding experts in varied fields of agriculture.

• • •

THE INSTITUTE in this county has veterans from all parts of the county. It has witnessed a steady growth in capital investment on the part of veteran farmers. Their capital investment in Charlevoix county (holdings of property and farm equipment) amount to more than $950,000.

Directed by Mr. Novak, the Veterans staff here is composed of Ellsworth I. Besemer, Floyd Ayres and John Frith, the GI farmers are given oppirtunity to apply to their daily farm chores, the approved methods of farming, designed to improve general farm practice, thereby enabling the farmer to increase his yields and his return from his investment.

The Charlevoix Veteran's Institute began its Institutional on the Farm Training Program May 1, 1948. Two classes of 25 each were started and there was a waiting list of over 25. A third class was started the following March.

From the start the aim of the instruction, both in class and on the farm has been to help the veteran to become established on the farm and to follow those practices that will be best suited to his farming situation.

• • •

THE MAJORITY of the veterans are interested in dairy and general farming. However, there are those who have small fruit, vegetables, poultry, beef and bees, as their main farm enterprise.

A better dairy herd has been emphasized and as a direct result many cows have been culled out and replaced with others.

County Women Proud of Work In Extension

Emma J. Fero
Home Demonstration Agent

The women of Charlevoix county are proud of their hard working home demonstration groups. There are 14 groups in the county that average 12 to 15 members in each club. These local organizations work in cooperation with the county extension office and under the guidance of the home demonstration agent who works in Charlevoix, Emmet and Cheboygan counties.

The most recent work studied by the extension women is "Repair and Care of Small Electrical Equipment." In this lesson the homemakers repaired their lamp and iron cords, were reminded of numerous safety precautions in operating electrical household appliances, and pointers in buying electrical equipment.

In March the extension women will make footstools. The footstools will be cut and tied in a kit and the ladies will assemble them, finish the wood and cane the top.

Mrs. Rose Adair, East Jordan, is the county chairman and is very active and ambitious homemaker who finds time to do a heap of good for the extension program.

The home agent teaches special interest lessons to the different groups. The most recent being a slip cover school in Charlevoix where Mrs. Leroy Allers and Mrs. Albert Edwards each slip covered a chair. This same group plans a tailoring school in the spring.

The extension office wants everyone to feel she is welcome to call upon this service and any group of ladies who want to organize an extension group will receive full cooperation from extensions workers.

Use High Grade Fertilizers to Achieve All-out Crop Production

Acreage restrictions in Charlevoix County have been removed and all out production is sought.

However, farmers would do well not to indulge in indiscriminate plowing of fields just to get more acres of crops. To do so would destroy too much that has been gained by soil conservation methods.

A better course would be to concentrate on crops adapted to the soil capabilities and to use fertilizers according to the soil tests.

Generally, the soils in Charlevoix and Antrim counties are low in phosphates and the lighter soils respond to potash. The high analysis fertilizers will give more value per unit of plant food than the old low analysis.

• • •

FERTILIZERS probably will be in short supply, especially nitrogen and super phosphate. Farmers are urged to order their fertilizer early and take early delivery.

The use of nitrogen on wheat this spring will likely pay in increased yield and plumper kernels.

The soils department at Michigan State College have figures to show that 50 lbs. of ammonium nitrate applied on wheat on sandy soils gave yield increases of 6.5 to 7 bushels per acre.

• • •

THE USE OF nitrogen as a side dressing on corn has given good yield increases. According to the Soils Department figures 200 lbs sulphate of ammonia applied July 12, 1948 on a no legume, no sod rotation gave 20 bushels of corn increase. In 1949 a sidedressing on July 8, as above gave 27 bushels of corn increase.

Members of the Veteran's Institue have followed recommendations to fertilize their hay and pastures with 0-20-0 or 0-20-20. There has been improved growth and yield in each instance.

W. A. Albrecht, of the University of Missouri Soils Department writes in "Whats New in Crops and Soils" about experiments conducted in Missouri show that phosphorus applied to grass gives rapid and repeated recovery when young grass is cut frequently.

Dr. Albrecht writes — "Phosphorus for grass and as a help for quick recovery after each cutting and grazing needs to be the idea even tho it is still too new. But we can not afford to launch a big campaign for a grass agriculture without taking stock of the soil fertility requirements for it. "

We are well aware that phosphorus does not move downward in ready solution therefore surface applications will have little effect until the phosphate content of the soil has been built down into the soil.

• • •

"SUMMER DROUGHTS" and "pasture shortages" are really incorrect terms for what should usually be called summer starvation of the grass crop. It often can be starvation for phosphorus, the fertility element that is generally not appreciated for its help in keeping young grasses active in their vegetative reproduction; on soil management and forestry, 26 days on buildings and machinery, 19 days on farm management and 13 days on miscellaneous work. The enterprise that received the most time was that of dairy. Since two-thirds of the gross income of the Charlevoix county farmers is derived from the dairy enterprise a majority of the time should be spent along this line. To assist in the organization and planning of the cooperative extension an agricultural extension committee has been set up. This includes Norval Korthase, Boyne City; Hi Brock, Julius Roberts and Curtis Nicloy of East Jordan; Joe Stutzman and Howard Stephens of Charlevoix.

County Agent Works Around Clock on Job

In addition to regular agricultural extension work, time is also spent working with various organizations in the county. The county agricultural agent acts as secretary of the Charlevoix Soil conservation district, Charlevoix County fair and assists the other organizations such as artificial breeding groups, dairy herd improvement association, cooperatives and others. The extension office also cooperatives very closely with the other federal agencies such as Soil Conservation Service, Farmers Home Administration, Production and Marketing Administration and others.

Some criticisms in the past has been made that the county agent works only with the larger farmers. It should be remembered that there are almost 1,000 farms in Charlevoix county and that is impossible for the county agent to visit each one individually every year. In order to receive assistance the farmers must either call the county agent, come to his office or drop him a card. It has always been a policy that who ever has asked for assistance will receive it, if possible, no matter what size of farm he has or whether he lives in town or the country. Cooperative Extension work has done much for the people in Charlevoix county. In the past major emphasis has been on more efficient operation and greater production but during the last year more emphasis has also been placed on marketing. Even though Cooperative Extension work has done much for people it is what extension has helped people to do for themselves that has had the greatest results.

Small Fruit Growing Gains in District

Spring plowing, if necessary, should be done as early as possible. Soils that are subject to erosion should be laid out on a contour so that the minimum amount of soil will be lost.

There is little difference between early spring planting and fall planting. You do run the chance of possible winter damage with fall planting of trees however. But if the winter is mild, as is usually the case, fall planting of trees will do exceptionally well. Proper spacing of trees is important and will depend on such items as soil fertility, moisture, kind of fruit and method of soil management.

Probably the best planting distances are as follows: standard apples, 35 to 45 feet; dwarf apples, 12 to 20 feet; standard pears, 20 to 25 feet; dwarf pears, 12 to 15 feet; sweet cherries, 25 to 30 feet; sour cherries, 18 to 24 feet.

Varieties that are adapted to this area include the following for apples; Yellow Transparent, Duchess, Wealthy, McIntosh, Wolf River and Northwestern Greening; for pears, Bantam, Parker and Flemish Beauty; for sour cherries, Montmorency; for raspberries, Latham, Taylor; and for strawberries, Robinson, Premier, Dunlap, Fairfax and Gem.

Two more varieties, each of apples, pears and sweet cherries should be planted together in an orchard to insure cross-pollination and fruit setting. The varieties may be arranged so that two to four rows of one variety alternate with an equal number of rows of another variety or every third tree in every third row maybe the pollenizing variety. Rhode Island Greening is a poor pollenizer for other varieties of apples. Montmorency sour cherries are self-fruitful and maybe set in solid blocks.

Trees should be purchased from reliable nurserymen. Trees of medium to large size are the best. Great care should be taken in the care of the nursery stock so that the roots will not dry out. When planting, dig the hole large enough to accomodate all the roots and set the tree 2 or 3 inches deeper than it stood in the nursery. Tramp the soil firmly so that no air pockets are left.

Tri-County Affair Certain to Grow

A truck load of Holstein heifers was bought in Wisconsin by several of the class members.

Many of the class members are making further improvements in their dairy program, by joining the Artificial Breeder's Association and the Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

As a part of an improved dairy program the veteran is improving his hay and pasture by proper fertilization and care. Wherever suitable conditions exist Reed's Canary pasture is being established. The average investment in dairy has increased over 37% since 1948.

• • •

THE VETERAN has had to purchase a large amount of machinery and this has increased his yearly expenses greatly. This has been necessary because in most cases he had been farming only a short time before entering class. As a result of the expansion of this part of his farming program the veterans average investment in machinery has increased over 21% since 1948.

Considering all parts of the veteran's farming program his average total investment has increased over 16% since 1948. The average income has increased since 1948 about 33% and expenses about 32%.

Comparing the average income of the veteran in 1950 with the average income of this area in 1935-39, as determined by the Farm Management Dept. from Farm Accounts Book records, it is 2.13 times larger.

The veteran's expenses in 1950, on the other hand, were slightly more than 4 times the average expense for the area in 1935-39.

Here, however, is another good illustration of the unfairness of inflation. The debt paying ability has not increased equally for all commodities because prices have not changed in the same proportion. For example, one beef cow in December 1950 would pay off three times as much debt as it would in 1935-39 — a can of milk twice as much -- a dozen eggs only 1½ times as much.

INVESTMENTS -- Inflation decreases real income from investments with fixed doller values such as life insurance, bonds and outstanding loans. For example, a defense bond bought for $18.75 in 1940 returned $25 when redeemed in 1950. But that $25 would only buy as much in December 1950 as $11.50 would buy in 1940.

Saving in the form of fixed investments like interest yielding bonds is still better, however, than hoarding or keeping the money in a low interest savings account. If that $18.75 had been buried in a tin can in 1940 and dug up today its real value would be only $8.60 instead of $11.50.

LEASES -- Inflation affects landlords and tenants differently. In general, during periods of inflation a cash rent basis is best for a tenant, while a crop share arrangement favors the landlord. In any case the landlord stands to gain from increasing land prices.

Picking Loss Can Run High in Corn

Some recent reports of corn picking losses in Illinois are cited by A. J. Bell, Michigan State college agricultural engineer, as examples of how much of a crop can be sacrificed by improper picking.

At a mechanical corn picking contest in Illinois, it was said that 13 bushels was the average loss per acre in corn shelled off and ears dropped. Nebraska losses have been cited as high as 10 percent at times.

Such losses are possible in Michigan, Bell says. "No farmer wants such losses," he states, "and it can be reduced by proper adjustment, slower speed, better coordination of picker and wagon, and other methods."

The most valuable dust in the world is pollen. Without pollen there would be no plant life and, therefore, no animal life.

pose and determination by actually living on the claim for five years (without taxes). There were no schools except where someone would volunteer to teach. Others would volunteer to care for the sick and needy.

When I was a kid our family went for three years without milk or butter. If you have not lived the pioneer life, no words of mine can picture the trials and sufferings endured. If you have lived it, you won't have to be told . . . you will know! Hundreds of miles from relatives, and in constant fear of hostile Indians and prairie or timber fires. You exclaim, "What a price to pay for a 160 acre home!" . . . but I reply. "What a country they made!"

* * *

ALL OF THIS I have seen come to pass in my lifetime. You ask what is the great underlying principle or force that has made this miracle or miracles possible? I answer "OWNERSHIP". With what pride you hear a person say. "This is mine; I own it." We have millions of home owned farms.

The farmer not only owns his farm but he is also the manager, and with the members of his family performs most of the work on his farm. Fortunately, a majority of the farmers of the U.S.A. are home owners, but it will not remain so long unless farming is made attractive and as profitable as other lines of work. Whenever we make possible unequal returns for a given amount of investment and labor, we are certain to have unequal ability.

The man who has brains and energy and initiative is not going to wear himself out on a farm if the same amount of effort and energy will bring him greater returns with less hours of work in some other business.

Farmers comprise about 20% of the population of the U.S. but receive only 12% of the nation's income. Let me give another illustration. These following figures are taken from "Michigan Farm Economics Commission" published by Michigan State College, Sept., 1950. The title of the article is "How Will Farmers Fare?" by Dr. Dale E. Hathaway: "In 1947 the average net income per farm worker was $2031, while the average wage income per industrial worker was $2500" . . a difference of $469.

"In 1948, the farm worker averaged $1963, while the industrial worker averaged $2707" . . . or a difference of $744. The city workers' net income of $2707 was materially added to by cash received for outside work done by the wife or children. On the other hand, the farmers' wives and children had plenty to do at home but got no extra pay.

* * *

UNLESS WE change these conditions, our young men will leave the farms for city jobs where they can double their net cash income while working only eight or nine hours a day instead of twelve to fourteen, no sick calves or pigs to care for, no cows to milk or eggs to gather, no worry about taxes or interest on a $20,000 plant to keep him awake nights, no droughts or floods or frosts to reduce his income. The results is dad is left to run the old farm as best he can, often without help. Pay this young man double what he can get in a factory job and we will put life, energy and brains into this greatest of all businesses . . . agriculture.

These millions of farmers are really the managers of the most complex, the most scientific job of producing food, clothing and shelter for the world. The managers of our great industrial organizations are greatly concerned regarding the fact that agriculture should be losing our young farmers just at the prime of life. They deplore the idea that any one can farm, and the tragic thing about it is that we do permit just anyone to farm.

Why don't we adopt the plan that is followed by every profession . . . for farming is also a profession. To succeed he must be a business man, an economist, and a scientist. Here is a man who is allowed to direct the education of our children but before we permit him to do so, we require that he pass an examination and secure a license as a teacher.

Here is another man who comes to our homes to look after the health of our wives and children, but he must pass an examination and be licensed as a doctor. Here is man who looks after our interests in legal matters. We license him as a lawyer. Here is a man who is called upon to treat our sick horses, our sick cows, even our sick dogs. We license him as a veterinarian.

* * *

BUT THERE is a man upon whom we depend to provide us with the essential things of life, the fundamental things of our business, and we don't require him to know anything about the profession. We are willing to trust this important occupation to just anybody that comes along. We do not inquire about any special degree of efficiency, any special amount of training or education. Men who would make a failure of any other business, will make a failure of farming, are permitted, even encouraged to compete with well trained men who provide us with the essentials of life and industry.

Suppose I open a store. I am not a good manager or something else is wrong and I fail in business. I become a bankrupt and must get out of the business. I am not allowed to compete with other merchants by keeping all the money I take in and not paying my bills. But suppose I go to farming and am a poor manager, a poor farmer. I make a failure of farming. I can't make my expenses. I am as much a bankrupt as the bankrupt merchant. Do I quit farming, quit competing with other farmers who are making a success of farming? Not on your life. I am living off the capital stock of the nation . . . the fertility of the soil. I am converting it into money to keep me going. I am a liability to the country, using up that which should be the heritage of the future generations.

* * *

WHAT IS THE agriculture of the future to be? It will be exactly what we make it. If we permit it to be conducted by the ignorant, the don't care fellow, the hired man of some millionaire who is running a farm for the fun of it; if we permit it to be conducted by the incompetent, the inefficient, unambitious, untrained plodder . . . the man with the hoe . . . the agricultural bankrupt who lives off the fertility which belongs to the nation . . . then we cannot expect men of training, men of brains, men of energy, men of ability, men of vision to remain on the farm.

Potato Growers in County Meet March 14

Both certified and tablestock potato growers will meet Wednesday evening, March 14 in the basement of the Boyne City Library starting promptly at 8:30 p.m. according to announcement by Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. D. L. Clanahan, farm crops specialist from Michigan State college will be present to discuss some of the problems that potato growers faced during last year and to offer recommendations and suggestions for raising potatoes during 1951.

Tri-County Farmers' Day

Better farm practices mean prosperity to the farmers. The Farmer Veterans are endeavoring to put to practical use the teachings of farm experts to improve soils, dairy herds and general farm know-how.

The Veterans' Institute at Charlevoix, a county-wide program, is designed to help the Farmer Veterans learn as they earn in following favorable farm practices.

These men enrolled at the Institute show future promise of becoming outstanding farmers. They are given opportunity to apply their learning to immediate problems on the farms.

Their Farm Projects Are Not Small
By Any Means of Comparison

Their combined capital investment is more than $950,000.00 in Charlevoix County. They have a stake in the community. Their investment will grow as they become better farmers.

Farm Wives Can Save by Meal Planning

Emma J. Fero
Home Demonstration Agent

The cost of food is probably the most popular topic of discussion. Even though you are a very intelligent buyer and menu planner you still feel there are not many pennies to be saved on the foods you buy today.

I wonder if you can save by making a few more foods. Let me give you my two favorite salad dressing recipes that I make and store in the refrigerator. According to my figures these can be made for about one-half of the cost of those you buy.

Sure you probably have your favorite mayonnaise recipe I will give you a French dressing that will compliment any vegetable salad.

French Dressing

Combine:
⅓ cup vinegar with
1 tablespoon paprika
1½ teaspoon salt
Dash red pepper or cayanne
Small clove of garlic (slivered fine) cup sugar
1 egg (whole)

Mix well. Slowly add 1 cup salad oil (start 1 teaspoon at time) beating rapidly. (If in electric mixer, use high speed.)

Fruit Salad Dressing

When you serve fruit salads, they should feature fruit salad dressings. If this is new to you, I'm sure you won't be without it after you make your first batch. Since apples are plentiful now, this dressing on diced apples can make a delicious and inexpensive salad.

Mix: 2 tablespoons melted butter, 2 tablespoons sifted bread flour. Mix and add to top: ½ cup sugar, 2 egg yolks combined with ½ cup pineapple juice and 1/8 teaspoon salt. Two egg whites beaten medium to which add 2 tablespoons of sugar and beat only until blended.

1¼ cup lukewarm pineapple juice. Mix top two groups and add egg whites - fold in and blend gently. Lastly, add very slowly the pineapple juice. Cook in saucepan (on low) until thick and creamy. If it curdles, beat it.

Loeb 4-H Group Is Formed Recently

Three leaders and sixteen club members make up the newly organized 4-H club in the Loeb community. The group met on Monday evening, Feb. 12 at the Addison Chew residence. Officers will not be chosen until the next meeting.

Under the leadership of Lee Heckman the following are working the handicraft project: Gordon Giar, Keith Mort, Billy Pardee, Melvin Gennett, Tracy Curtis, Gary Curtis, James Mort, Kenneth Case, Allen Towsley, David Clark, and Steve Gennett.

Mrs. Addison Chew and Mrs. Russell Curtis are leading the clothing and knitting projects. Their members are Merrie Case, Gael Curtis, Roberta Case, Vera Towsley, and Barbara Gennett. These girls will meet in the homes of the leaders for the project instruction.

The handicraft group is trying to arrange to hold their work meetings in Mr. Mort's work shop in the Loeb school.

The next community meeting of this new 4-H club is scheduled for Monday, March 12 at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Russell Curtis.

The Loeb Community Farm bureau is the sponsor of this new 4-H club.

Ladino Clover Grows in Favor For Pastures

Ladino clover is a "natural" for Michigan dairy farmers because of its palatability, quick recovery after grazing, and high milk producing ability. This statement was made this week by M. B. Tesar, Michigan State college farm crops specialist, who will speak at the tri-county Farmers Day program in Charlevoix March 8.

He recommends the addition of one-half pound of ladino clover per acre to a mixture of alfalfa and bromegrass on fertile, moist soils. Such a mixture of alfalfa-ladino-brome is especially suited to rolling land since alfalfa will produce most on the well-drained areas and ladino will be best on the lower areas.

Ladino clover also shows its value in a ladino-brome mixture on low areas too poorly drained for alfalfa, Tesar advises. Being rooted, alfalfa does not survive winter injury on wet soils, where ladino comes through better because of its shallow, fibrous root system.

"Though it has been in use in Michigan for less than ten years, ladino is well established as a hay, pasture, and silage legume," Tesar stated.

"Michigan farmers have stamped their approval on this clover by using it in about 100,000 acres of seedings each year," he concluded. "Its popularity will continue to increase as the years go by."

PINT-SIZED SHADOW

Here's to Better Farming!

John Deere farm machinery will help you
Do A Better Farming Job . . .

Many a farmer has a pint-sized shadow that tags him all over the farm . . . shrilly repeats his pet words . . . dresses like a tiny twin. Like most little boys, he can't wait to grow up. The thing he wants most in the world is to be a farmer just like his dad.

Old-fashioned farming, with its never ending toil, often shattered this childhood dream—sent the boy off to the city to seek his fortune. Today, it's easier to keep him on the farm. Better crops and improved farming practices have boosted yields and profits. Modern John Deere equipment has taken over much of the muscle work, and chopped hours from the old dawn-to-dusk work day.

No wonder more and more farm boys are staying with the land—realizing a childhood ambition to follow in their fathers' footsteps. This is a good sign. These young farmers will hasten the fuller mechanization of our agriculture, pioneer new farming practices, and holster vital food production.

Yes, labor-saving farm equipment is helping to raise our most valuable crop—young Americans who love the land. In such hands the future of our agriculture, and of America, will be secure.

Operation of Soil District Explained By Group Planner

A soil conservation district is one of the most democratic action programs. The control of district affairs is entirely in the hands of land occupiers within the district. Proposing and carrying out a soil conservation and land use program rests entirely with these land occupiers through their board of directors.

The Charlevoix Soil Conservation district board of directors consist of Clayton Healey, chairman; Norval Korthase, vice-chairman; Carlton Smith, treasurer; Ed Rebman, secretary. Two new directors Harold Goebel and Bob Straw are taking over offices formerly held by George Klooster and Peter Winnick.

The Charlevoix Soil Conservation districts benefits offered to each individual farmer are many. Some of which are:

1. Aid in developing a complete soil and water conservation plan.

2. Assistance of men experienced in erosion control, drainage, water control and increasing soil fertility.

3. Assistance in form of materials, equipment and services, i.e., trees, tree planter, drainage equipment marsh plow, terracers, etc. if made available through the district program.

4. Community betterment, through widespread conservation education programs with both youths and adults.

The Soil Conservation practices accomplished on the land in 1950 are as follows: Cover Crops, 31.0 acres; strip cropping, 237.0 acres; pasture improvement, 8.0; tree planting, 40.0 acres; terraces, 0.4 mile; waterways and outlets, 800.0 feet; field rearrangement, 224.0 acre; plans developed 13; applications received, 20.

There is no direct cost for planning and technical assistance. The cooperating organizations and agencies furnish this service to the district. The public supports these agencies through taxation.

By making application to directors and if application is approved, the farmer is given the task of organizing a neighborhood group. Directors feel more can be accomplished in groups rather than individually. If a farmer is among a group already started he is put in that group to which he belongs.

Check All Factors Before Irrigating

Farmers who plan to use a pond for supplying irrigation water to their crops have many things to consider before work can begin. These problems were pointed out to audiences at Farmers' Week, held recently at Michigan State College.

Paul E. Schleusener, MSC agricultural engineer, reported that selection of site, the soil and subsoil conditions, and watershed characteristics are of primary importance.

Excessively large water sheds are needed to supply water for anything except a small irrigated area, the irrigation specialist pointed out, because of evaporation and loss through seepage.

Continuously flowing springs, with assured supply during dry periods, may be used to fill an irrigation pond. Schleusener advises farmers to make a careful check of their water needs for a normal cropping season.

As an example, a vegetable farmer with ten acres to be supplied with water will need about 1,800,000 gallons for the season. This amount would allow six applications of one inch of water each.

Dairy Groups Perform Vital Function in County Herd Improvement

There are several dairy organizations in Charlevoix and Antrim counties that are doing their utmost in helping the dairy farmer in this locality, not only to improve his dairy by better sires and thereby increase his dairy production, but also they help the dairy producer do a better job of culling his herd. Four organizations exist in this area. They are the Boyne City Artificial Breeders association, The Antrim Charlevoix Artificial Breeders association, the Antrim-Charlevoix Red Dane association and the Charlevoix-Antrim Dairy Herd Improvement association.

The Boyne City Artificial Breeders association has about 100 members located in the vicinity of Boyne City. Joe Schantz is their inseminator-manager. The association is operated by a board of directors composed of the following men: Cadet Denise, Boyne Falls; Carl Stevens, Walloon Lake; Bob Shepard, East Jordan; Harry Smith and Peter Winnick of Charlevoix; Boh Reidel and Curtis Nicloy of Boyne City. Curtis Nicloy is president of the association, Carl Stevens, vice-president and Harry Smith, secretary-treasurer.

The Antrim-Charlevoix Artificial Breeders association is located in the northern part of Antrim county and the southern part of Charlevoix county. Their headquarters are at Ellsworth. Bernard Best and Dick Wieland are the inseminators - managers.. The board of directors include; Burr Blanchard, Charlevoix; Clyde Warner, Charlevoix, Nathan Carpenter, Charlevoix; Bob Arnold, Central Lake; Victor Crandall, Bellaire; Douglas Knudson, East Jordan; and Myron Postmas, Ellsworth.

The Charlevoix-Antrim Dairy Herd Improvement association is a testing association composed of 32 herd owners. Don Graham of East Jordan is the tester. The board of directors who operate this association are: Elias Sommerville, Central Lake; Burr Blanchard, Franklin Cellner, Charlevoix; Curtis Nicloy and Harold Goebel, East Jordan. The officers of this association are Curtis Nicloy, president; Franklin Cellner, vice-president and Harold Goebel, secretary-treasurer.

The Antrim-Charlevoix Red Dane Breeders association have about 30 members who receive service from the Antrim-Charlevoix Artificial Breeders association. This organization has the following for its board of directors: Harold Thomas, Joe Pienta, Harold Goebel and Arnold Smith of East Jordan and Joe Peebles of Charlevoix. The officers are Harold Thomas, president; Joe Pienta, vice-president and Harold Goebel, secretary-treasurer.

The inseminator-manager of the two artificial breeders associations receive semen from the central association three times weekly. This comes up in refrigerator packages and special delivery. When the inseminator-manager receives the package he takes the semen and checks it for temperature which must be close to 40 degrees and puts it in the refrigerator. The Antrim-Charlevoix association receives semen of Holstein, Guernsey, Jersey and Red Dane breeds. The Boyne City association receives semen of only Holstein and Guernsey breeds. Whenever a member calls for service asking for a particular breed the inseminator then takes the material and examines it under the microscope to make sure that it is still alive and of good quality. He then proceeds to the farm to inseminate the cow. The central association is thinking about adding some beef bulls of the Angus and Shorthorn breeds. This would be available to members for two or three months during the summer with the present membership. However, if they wish to use the beef semen the year around there must be another 150 cows signed up in each association. The members who do use this beef semen must agree to castrate their bull calves and remove their heifer calves from their herd. The Boyne City association also furnishes a pair of livestock clippers and an electric dehorner that members may use at a nominal charge.

The supervisor of the Dairy Herd Improvement association has to spend about a day at each herd to get a milk test. Don Graham will arrive sometime in the early afternoon and be present to weigh the feed that will be fed at night. He will also be present to collect milk samples during the night milking. Don stays at each cooperators house and is present at the morning milking to collect samples and again also weigh the feed that is fed to the cows. The rest of the morning until after dinner is spent in testing the milk and figuring up the rocords. Last year 27 herds completed the year.

We Like Horses, Too, Sonny . . .

But We Have to Use Machines to Keep You Eating

THERE's nothing quite like riding and working with horses. You'd think a farmer would do a lot of both. But times have changed, and farmers have changed with them. You see, at one time, we used a lot of horses to grow your food and the fiber for your clothes. But there weren't so many of you then. Now we have to use machines to keep up our farm production . . . so we can clothe and feed you. Tractors have replaced the horse in many of our operations.

Likewise, we've had to develop farmer cooperative associations to purchase and manufacture the supplies we need in producing your food and fiber. Also, we have our farmer cooperative marketing associations to help us get better food and fiber to you at lower cost. That makes you a better customer of ours and it makes us a better customer of those who make the things we buy for our farms.

Yes, Sonny, it takes a lot of farm machinery these days to keep folks eating and clothed, and our farmer cooperative organization is one of those machines.

The Ellsworth Farmers Exchange is ready at all times to serve the farmers in this community. Here you will find the very best and the most economical feeds for your every particular feeding program. how much meat? do you WASTE?

You will agree that frozen foods are delicious, economical and convenient to have when they are properly prepared. But too often improper processing results in less appetizing food and considerable waste.

This is especially true with meats. Unless the home processor has adequate facilities for proper cooling and is an experienced meat cutter the results may be loss of meat and a poor quality product.

That is where our service can be of real value to you. Whether you are keeping your meat in our lockers or in your own deep freeze you will find it profitable to have our experienced meat cutters do the processing.

Good Management Practices Mean Better Prices for Steers

The price your feeder cattle will bring next fall are determined to a large extent by the practices followed throughout the whole year with your beef herd. The appearance, quality, and weight of the calves at sale day will depend on what is done this spring and summer. It is with this in mind that the following information is called to your attention:

• • •

DEHORNING: "We would pay $1 per hundred more for those cattle if the horns were off!" This remark was made any number of times by cattle feeders attending the two northern sales last fall. Cattle feeders do not like cattle in their feed lots that have horns, and dehorning them in the feed lot means a delay in the fattening process.

Now is the time to remove horns. Caustic potash is very effective on calves up to two weeks old but the younger the better. Simply clip the hair oway around the horn button. Apply vaseline oround area, but not on horn itself.

Wrap a portion of the caustic stick in dry, heavy paper before grasping with fingers. Moisten unwrapped end and rub on horn until entire horn button is peeled. Avoid touching horn orea with hand to prevent burns. Some prefer dehorning paste. Follow directions on jar. Calves dehorned with caustic or paste should be kept from cows and out of rain for half day.

Many ranch men prefer a dehorning "spoon" which can be used on calves from four to ten weeks old. Dehorning is a bother hut it will pay big dividends. Older cattle can be dehorned with clippers or saw until flies become a problem.

• • •

CASTRATING with a knife is most effective. Disinfection of hands, tools, and scortum is very essential. An emasculator (not a burdizzo) to sever the cord reduces bleeding on older animals. If "clamps" (burdizzo type) are used, be sure they ore good ones and that a careful job is done. Check calves about one month later for "skips". Don't wait until a day or week before sale to castrate. Buyers don't like "stoggy" calves or any that there is some question as to whether or not they have been castrated.

Grubs: Next winter's grubs must be controled now if ot all. Spray with 400 lbs. pressure or scrub the backs of cattle that have grubs or "bumps" with a solution of 1 pound of derris or cube to 14 gals. of water. Add several handfuls of soap powder. Several treatments are necessary. A few head can be treated with "Warble Powder" rubbed in hard with finger tips or brush. Druggists should have it. Yearling cattle often have most grubs. Some counties in Western States are already announcing "grub free cattle". Michigan should work toward this.

• • •

SALT AND MINERALS. Loose salt is preferable to the hard block salt. Remarkable results are being obtained from the use of cobalt in the salt at the rate of 1 ounce to 100 lbs. of loose salt. Chewing sticks, stones, and bark of trees, licking walls and mangers, and "poor feeders" are symptoms associated with a lack of this element. For serious cases, dissolve 1 ounce of cobalt sulphate in 1 gol water and feed 1 tablespoonful daily on the feed for two weeks. Bonemeal is also beneficial in some coses.

Some report goiter in calves. Use iodized salt or add ⅛ to 1 ounce of potassium iodide to 100 lbs. of loose salt. Feed during at least the last half of pregnancy.

• • •

QUALITY of the calves you sell in 1951 will be determined at breeding time this summer. A good type purebred beef bull with a short neck and head, a wide straight back and a deep side and rear quarters, will add dollars to your 1951 calf crop. You can't afford to use a "cheap" bull.

Plan for as early calves as your housing conditions will permit. Mark cows that consistently produce poor calves and cull them next fall.

Buying Baby Chicks Early Hikes Profits

Poultrymen who have bought their baby chicks early will cash in on the higher egg prices that prevail in September, October and November.

The poultryman that gets 50 or more eggs per bird in these three months is in position to make almost twice as much profit per bird as those whose birds lay 30 or 40 eggs.

Farmers should buy chicks from hatcheries known to be carrying on improved breeding programs and are practicing a good disease control program.

At all times get good chicks. The so called cheap chicks can cause a lot of trouble from disease, poor growth and poor laying ability.

Before the baby chicks arrive be sure the brooder house is thoroughly cleaned and disenfected. The litter should he in place and the hover operated for about 3 days so the temperature is under control.

The chicks require watchful care to make sure they are not chilled, overheated and that they are eating properly.

It may be necessary to feed them on heavy paper laid over the litter for 2 or 3 days so they will learn what the feed is like.

Watch for disease symptoms and if any occur get competent help at once.

Embezzlers have been found to have the highest intelligence of anp class of criminals.

Dairy Groups Work Vital in Area

The average production per cow in the testing association was 331 pounds of butterfat per cow as compared to a state overage of about 230 pounds. The average feed cost per cow was about $118 and this feed cost represents roughly one-half of the total cost of producing milk. The high cow in the association for last year was a mature Holstein cow owned by Peter Winnick that produced 555 pounds of butterfat during the year. The high herd of cows wos a herd of Holstein's owned by Elias Sommerville of Central Lake and they averaged 433 pounds of butterfat per cow. The cost of belonging to a testing association is small when you compare it to the fact that taking out one low producer will make you more than the years testing will cost.

The boys who belong to the Antrim-Charlevoix Red Dane Breeders association have organized in order that they may get into the registered class of animals. Heifers must be 4th cross before they can be registered and testing records must be kept from the original or cross. This testing record is indicated on the registration certificate so that any farmer purchasing a red dane animal will know the background and be better able to judge whether or not to purchase the animal. In addition to testing records the boys all agreed to castrate all male calves and to keep oll heifers until they are registered. They must also have ear tags and an ear notching system to mark these animals.

In addition to the above associations, the Purebred Breeders association is also doing a considerable amount of good in improving the breed. The county agents of Antrim and Charlevoix counties have acted in an advisory capacity whenever possible ot all board meetings of these associations.

Community Mourns Loss Of Glenn See

A kindly man who has comforted many a parent or loved one upon the death of a dearly departed one was being mourned by a saddened community this week.

Kindness and sympathy marked the life of this man who was well-known to most residents of Charlevoix county.

The community and the host of friends were shocked last Friday when they were told of the death of Glenn See.

While Mr. See had been ailing for sometime, his death left his friends and acquaintances startled at its suddenness. He was stricken Friday noon and the end came a few hours later.

* * *

MR. SEE was a cheerful man . . . his ready smile and affability always singled him out even in crowds. Legion are the people he had befriended in many ways. A lover of the out-doors, he spent much of his spare time fishing and hunting.

Many has been the time the touch of his hand on the arm ol a grieving parent or loved one, has been reassuring and comforting.

Charlevoix will miss Mr. See and numerous acts of true Christian charity which marked his daily life.

"One day Paul rushed home all excited and when my mother asked him what the matter was, he said, "I have just had the experience today that I will never forget. I had the chance of repairing the sink in the home of a godly man. My mother said, "why Paul who was that to cause you to become so excited and happy". He said it was Perry G. Holden. My mother asked, then the reason of the admiration for you.

"He replied that in Russia the agricultural students looked in reverence on George Washington Abraham Lincoln and Perry G. Holden. My mother asked him why and he said that the students had great respect for you because of the information and publications that you had furnished their country for improving farm conditions."

Possible extension of new sewer lines on south Bridge street and the establishment of a new sewer district along with the contemplated construction of a cheese factory on a site opposite the intersection of State and Bridge streets attracted a sizable representation of south side residents to the regular meeting of the city council Monday evening.

The council lacked a quorum and the meeting was adjourned to Thursday evening but the mayor and aldermen present discussed the pros and cons of the proposals with the citizens interested. Two questions apparently foremost in the minds of the residents of the area involved were property assesment cost for the sewer district and the nuisance which might be created by disagreeable odors from a cheese foctory.

Tentative plans for sewer construction call for 1040 feet of line with six manholes. Any approximate costs could only be based on similar projects and would mean little at this stage of planning. The council assured the citizens that the spreading of a special property assessment would have to be worked out on an equitable basis.

City accountant, Don Swinton, was instructed by the mayor to assemble cost figures and prepare an assessment schedule to be presented to interested residents at a future meeting of the council.

There was divided opinion as to the undersirable odors that might be caused by a cheese factory. The question was left for further consideration with the city clerk being requested to communicate with dairy manufacturing experts at Michigan State college for an opinion.

Your War on Inflation

So far the United States Government is losing the battle with inflation. The freeze hasn't frozen; stabilization is not expected to stabilize for months. But American citizens are everywhere valiantly carrying on their private wars with inflation. How they are battling as individuals, families, and groups to defeat the mounting cost of living makes a fascinating story.

This front-line report is composed of bits and pieces: How housewives are struggling to hold the line on the vital food sector by finding meat substitutes or cheaper cuts and by buying fewer out-of-season fruits and vegetables; how husbands are carrying their lunches and buying milk or soft drinks from vending machines; how instruction books on home repairs have become popular; how young people—and some elders—are curtailing thoughless use of cars and telephones.

We hear suburbanites talking of reviving their Victory gardens. We see business and professional men painting their own honses—and even helping to build them. We hear that while some women are "buying ahead" of expected price rises, others, refusing to pay the prices, are getting out the old sewing machine for a bit of plain and fancy remodeling. We see men wearing odd pairs of slacks to make that suit "go another year."

But this story of the fight against inflation by individuals and families is hard to gather. The details are diffuse, and some of the most thrilling encounters are not reported. Facing this situation, we have been thinking that many of our readers would be glad to help fill in the picture. By reporting their own successes—or failures—in halting old HCL they can aid and encourage others in their private wars with inflation and promote the general effort. We will welcome letters—preferably under 400 words—and will print a selection of them on this page.

Let's Do Our Own Thinking

A recent editorial in the St. John's Republican-News serves to focus attention on a growing tendency in the nation today. The editorial follows:

Too many Americans are content to have their thinking done for them.

Too many of us have fallen for the bait that only Drew Pearson, Walter Lippman or Winchell or some other syndicated thinker is entitled to have thoughts and to express them. Too many of us are content with the entries in John Knight's notebook.

Pearson, Lippman, Winchell, Knight and all other commentators hat no higher than ordinary citizens in calling the turns on the national and international scenes. They are as apt to be wrong as any of the rest of us.

In a republic, and this is still a republic despite the misnomer of democracy that is continually tossed about, citizens have not only the right but the duty to think things out for themselves. Only by consent of the governed do those who govern possess their powers.

The same centralization of thinking that has led us into such national and international messes shows up in other undertakings. We are permitting one man or group of men to say what the Chamber of Commerce or the National Association of Manufacturers think. We rely on Walter Reuther to say when automobile workers will report for duty. We leave it up to John L. Lewis to speak for the coal miners and to Philip Murray to speak for the steel workers. All the people can and should think and speak for themselves.

There are Democrats who are willing to accept the will of President Truman as their own, and Republicans who rely on Senators Vanderberg or Taft or Morse to say what Republicans should think.

Too often the individuals who do the thinking and the speaking for organizations are thinking and speaking only for themselves or for the small groups which put and keep them in power.

This argument that only a few experts are qualified to think and to speak on international and national problems doesn't stand up. Many of these problems which now confront Americans would never have existed had more of us done our own thinking and speaking.

Americans have the right to think and to speak for themselves; not only the right but the duty.

Appreciation

To the Editor:

Just a note to tell you how much we enjoy having "Ironton" news in the Courier again.

We had almost decided not to renew our subscription because there was no news from Ironton for so many months, when you obtained a new correspondent. Here is our $3.50, need we say more?

Ironton was our home until about 15 years ago and we spend vacations and week-ends there in the summer now. While we are not personally acquainted with Mrs. R. King, please tell her we think she is doing a wonderful job. It takes us back there awhile each week we read her well written items.

Mrs. Carrie L. Bird & family

A Thank You

Dear Editor:

I have not had the opportunity to thank you personally for the splendid work you did for the March of Dunes campaign, but I know you were aware of the dire necessity for having the 1951 March of Dimes the most successful in the history of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

It is not necessary to go to any great length to discusss our cause and program for you are aware of this. But, Mrs. Walter Davis, Charlevoix County Campaign Director, and myself want to express our verbal thanks to you for your part in enabling the contributions to surpass last year's record. Cooperation such as yours gives encouragement to all those doctors, nurses, and research men, working toward victory over polio, and assures the victims of polio that the best medical care available will continue to be provided.

My thanks to you for a grand job well done.

Sincerely, Blake E. Ferris

Defends Street Workers

Mr. Vic Spaniolo, Editor of the Courier.
Mr. Leo Allard, Street Comm. of Charlevoix.
Mr. E. T. Staeger, of Mancelona

Gentlemen:

For the benefit of those mentioned, and the public. I had expected an editorial in the Courier last week in answer to the letter of E. T. Staeger, with regard to the condition of the streets of Charlevoix. No answer, so here is what I think

"The exception prnves the rule" at least in this case. As Mr. Staeger mentioned, the streets in Charlevoix are kept the best in any city in the north. The night in question is an exception, for the street crew had already put in a full day's work and the rain and ice did not start forming until after their day's work was done.

Another item which Mr. Staeger probably overlooked, was the fact that Charlevoix covers a considerable area, and it is humanly impossible for a crew of men to cover such an area within an hour or even eight hours. The main street and business sections come first.

It was very unfortunate some people fell and were put to the trouble of watching their step from the gym door to their cars, but as to placing the blame on any person or group of persons. I feel Mr. Staeger has spoken out of turn. Charlevoix did not ask for the ice. It was an act of God, as they say, and it might be well to seek His forgiveness, for trying to place the blame on some person.

Now the reason I feel I am able to make these comments is, that I am No. 1 Postman of Charlevoix and I cover a considerable part of this City, on foot, every day and in all kinds of weather. I am not immune to falling and I have fallen three times this year, but is was not on account of the terrible condition of the streets. It is absolutely impossible for sand to be spread on every inch of ice, and when it is covered by light snow you must constantly be on your guard yourself. I am sure Mr. Staeger will agree to most of what I have said. We all hope he will visit us again and that he will find us ready to help him up, if he hits the ice again.

Yours in all sincerity,
Walker A. Miles,

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

Charlevoix friends of Freeman McClintock of Lansing who has a cottage near Ironton will be interested in hearing of his recent trip to Havana, Cuba., where he was invited to fish for Marlin by author, Ernest Hemingway, with whom he served in the ambulance during World War I.

Hemingway's boat was placed at McClintock's disposal during his visit The Cuban tourist commission planed a welcome and other resort places opened their doors honoring him. One restaurant, Havana's swank spot, has instructed its string orchestra to memorize the Michigan Victory song which will be played at McClintock hauls in a marlin.

ARE THE KIDS in school here ever getting a break this year . . we're sure that's what they'll say anyway . . . school closes next Wednesday at the usual hour and they'll have six whole days to themselves with classes starting the following Wednesday a.m. . . . We'll bet they've got scads of plans . . . let's hope it warms up a little between now and then . . .

This week-end will see the long trek to Lansing . . . sports fans will be going down to see the finals . . . We're told this Class C team from the U.P., Loretto of the Soo, has a one man team . . . the one man being Frank Fazj . . . it's going to be interesting to see . . . they were the surprise team of the upper peninsula . . . we're going to be anxious to see what they'll do . . And is Moe Plumn ever excited . . . he's following that Class D team, Brimley . . . he played for Brimley when he was a senior and it rates second place in his heart . . . and with Charlevoix out of the running it's taking over first place . . . It would be good to see them take the state Championship for the second year . . .

You'll be hearing lots of Irish songs this week and no wonder . . . it's St. Patrick's Day for one thing and added to that we've decided there must be a lot of Irishmen in the state of Michigan . . . Why? Take a look at a map of Ireland and then of Michigan and you'll find four counties in both places with the same names . . . Antrim, Roscommon, Clare and Wexford . . . And Although there's no county named for it, there's all the Irish on Beaver Island from Donegal plus a few from County Mayo, so we're told . . . So to all of you, the top o' the mornin' to you this March 17.

ANOTHER basketball season has ended for Charlevoix . . . and all in all, it's been a good season . . . If you feel as we da you're glad it's over and the pressure is off . . . Maybe now we'll settle down and be normal citizens again . . . But one last word . . . So we didn't win the regional championship . . . it's unfortunate . . . it would have been grand and no one wanted it more than those kids . . . but, as we said before, it just wasn't in the cards . . . so let's look ahead to another year and another opportunity . . . not back on this one and the reasons why it was or wasn't . . . The Rayders gave you a good winter of basketball . . . just say 'thank you' graciously . . . And we'll still say, as we have since we've followed the team so closely for the past few years, basketball tournaments prove nothing . . . And when you have one of the best sixteen teams in the state, what more can you want . . . And we'll take the Rayders any day in the week . . . this year or next year or the year after . . . And that goes double for Coach Del Terrill.

The Kind of Religion I Want

By Rev. W. D. Wood

We live in adday of variety, it makes no difference wether you are painting your living room or buying a new car there is a great variety of color to choose from. This is also true in religion, there is no reason for any person not going to church, because anything you want is available in religion, however there are some things I want in my religion.

First I want a relgion that gives me a real and deep knowledge of forgiveness, as the writer of Ephesians has said in the first chapter and the seventh verse, "In whom we have redemption thru His blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of His grace."

Second, I want a religion that brings me into a vital contact with God, as Paul has said in Romans 8:16, "The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirits that we are the children of God."

Third, I want a religion that fits my life and into my everyday living with people as well fitting the Bible. No doubt you have had the experience of putting on by mistake someone else's coat only to find that it was much too large or small. I want a religion that fits me in a practical way.

Fourth, I want a religion that gives me the power to live right. If there ever was a time when we need to get religion out of our heads and into our hearts it is now. In other words I feel that we need more religion in shoe leather and less in the church pew, as it is expressed by the writer of Titus in 3:8, "This is a faithful saying and these things I will that thou affirm constantly, that they which have believed in God might be careful to maintain good works."

The four points mentioned give you briefly the kind of religion I want.

Knute Rockne was born in Norway.

Girl Scout News

This is Girl Scout Week and it is being appropriately observed by all of the Girl Scout troops in Charlevoix. The week was started with group attendance at services Sunday morning at the Lutheran church

National Girl Scout Week officially started March 12. In recognition of the week the troops decorated windows in three local business places thus bringing public attention to some of the activities of the organization. The senior girls decorated the window at Wood Bros. intermediate girls used the window at Dell's Dairy Bar and the Brownies had the window at the Polly-Kay Shop.

The Brownie Girl Scout Troop No. 9 held their regular meeting. It was decided Marilyn won first prize in collecting Christmas cards. The ones who got 1000 cards won a prize also. We decided we would have a picnic when it gets warm.

The Girl Scout Cookies are being delivered this week. Due to new tax regulations there is 1 cent additional tax charge on each box. There are more cookies available so if there is anyone wishing additional boxes they can be had by contacting Mrs. Howard North at 696, or any Girl Scout.

The Girl Scouts and the Girl Scout Council sincerely appreciate and thank the community for their wonderful support in the cookie sale, which will help their summer camping.

Brownie troup 6 met Thursday at the kindergarten room. We are making oil cloth bags to be used at day camp. They are made with a lung strap to be worn over the shoulder. The bags will be used to carry extra sweaters or dishes.

Children's Nerves

Fatigue may be one of the beginning causes of neurotic traits in children! Alert mothers and teachers have often noticed that tiredness will affect children's nerves, coordination, temper and emotions generally. Constant and continued fatigue in childhood may well lay the foundation for a neurotic, unhappy childhood and adulthood, too.

Broilers Offer Varied Advantages

Raising broilers makes possible year around use of buildings, equipment, and labor, D. H. Ballard, Onondaga farmer, said recently at Michigan State College.

By timing his production to meet the seasons when the demand and prices are best, Ballard manages to make fullest use of his facilities.

Broiler production, he states, permits employment of even younger members of the family. He adds that it gives him the chance to make full use of his capital invested and to return fertility to the farm through the use of the fertilizer.

Wildlife tracks are best observed after rains, as in mud along stream banks, or following light falls of wet snow.

Red Rayders Fall Victims to Hot, Inspired Boyne City Team to Lose Regional Final, 59-45

Ramblers Hold Early Lead to Gain Revenge For Two Earlier Losses

The sting of the defeat to Boyne City was sharp last Saturday as Charlevoix fell victim to an aroused band of Ramblers in the regional finals, 59-45 at Petoskey.

Fans who were worked up to a fever pitch over the chances of Charlevoix failed to consider that the game found Boyne playing inspired ball to get sweet revenge on the Rayders who had tipped the Ramblers twice in regular season play.

Charlevoix figured in this ball game but a short time as the Ramblers jumped off to an early lead and retained it all the way to advance to the quarter finals of the state tourney.

Boyne City showed good team balance and even scoring spread with all of the five starters getting at least nine points. Millbrant led Boyne with 13 points.

* * *

MEANWHILE, Charlevoix could not manage to get a sustained scoring threat underway as their shots time and time again rolled in and out of the hoop. Bill Wallace led both teams with 20 points.

This was not Charlevoix's night and it was quite apparent shortly after the opening whistle blew. Wallace chipped in five points, Ron Wojan and Tom Donaldson dumped in a goal each and Don Hardy sank a gift toss for Charlevoix's 10 points but Boyne got 14 and led at the end of the first quarter.

Boyne added to its lead in the second period by scoring 17 while the Rayders could get only 13 on Dwight Smith's two goals, Wallace's two buckets, Fairbanks' three points and Hardy's goal. The score at half time was 31-23.

A big third quarter when it rammed home 17 points again while holding the Rayders to nine points widened Boyne's gap over Charlevoix.

The characteristic second half rally which was so much a part of Charlevoix during the regular season when it took league honors was missing. The boys played their hearts out but could not cope with a much faster Boyne team.

* * *

FOR AN INSTANT or two, it appeared in the last quarter as though Charlevoix was going to close the gap. The losers outscored Boyne 13-11 in this period, the only time during the game when they did outscore the Boyne players.

Wallace dumped in three buckets and two fouls for eight points while Charles Krahnke got a goal and Chuck Fairbanks got two free throws.

Boyne naturally slowed up the game by its protection tactics in the final period and Charlevoix could not muster the scoring strength to match the Boyne team.

Mason who usually is Boyne's high point man was low scorer of the starters as Buck Kujawski and Erickson each with 12, Millbrant with 13 and Saffran with 11 really hit the meshes with true shots.

* * *

THE RAYDERS looked far different from the team which won the NMCC title and losing a single game over the season's play.

As one observer said after the game in commenting on the unexpected defeat: Boyne was hot and Charlevoix was hardly lukewarm.

Charlevoix County Farm News

Farmers Day Throng Treated To Outstanding, Varied Program

Farmers Day last week was a huge success according to reports received from farmers by Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

The new film "Science of Agriculture" showing experiments being performed by the Michigan State Experiment Station started the program. Harry Bingham, principal of the Charlevoix high school and Ed Shanahan, director of the Charlevoix Board of Commerce, welcomed the farmers to Charlevoix. Floyd Ayres, veterans instructor, was chairman.

Jim Hayes, extension dairyman, really put on a show. His topic was dairy mistakes the neighbor makes and he stated that probably the biggest mistake the neighhor made was in not coming to this Farmers Day meeting.

Some of the mistakes that the neighbor makes that Jim mentioned were as follows: turning cows out too soon in the spring, not having enough alfalfa-brome pasture, planting all ladino, lack of summer pasture for July and August, feeding no grain in the summer, leaving cows outside in fall, being tight with water, poor ventilation in barns, too much brome in alfalfa-brome mixture, alfalfa hay stands left too long, feeding no minerals or bone meal, using poor bull, being very unsanitary and using no butter.

Hayes mentioned that not all these mistakes could be necessary serious but enough of them put together will make a farmer loso money at dairy. The problem of how to inform the neighbor of some of these mistakes is a tough one. You can't tell him or he will cram it hack down your throat. Probably tho best way to show him these mistakes is to invite him over for a visit to your dairy barn.

The afternoon program started off with some selections by the Charlevoix high school band. The first speaker in the afternoon was Mike Tesar from the farm crops department. Mike spoke on the use of grass in agriculture and the reason we are interested in this program is because it reduces soil erosion, maintains fertility, increases yield of following crops, and means more money in the end to the farmer.

* * *

MIKE stressed the point that good alfalfa seed supply is short this year. Lets use a mixture of about 4 pounds of alfalfa and 2 pounds of brome and maybe a little red clover if you wish. Buy good seed and then plant it right It was estimated that about 15 to 20 percent of all the seedings made in the State of Michigan are failures which is too costly at the price of alfalfa seed today.

Tesar mentioned some of the following points in regards to getting a good stand of alfalfa-brome field. Have the right pH, add proper fertilizer, test your soil, innoculate the seed, plant very shallow; a good rule is to plant seed four to five times its greatest length, firm the seed bed before and after planting, use very little nurse crop on light soils, early oats best, summer seeding and seed with wheat could also be used, graze the stand the first year very light the last of August and September. Remove grain straw from field after combining to protect the seeding, manure and fertilize old stands, cut early at about one-quarter in bloom.

* * *

THE LAST SPEAKER on the program was Arthur Mauch, extension specialist in agricultural economics who spoke on the topic "How much does Freedom Cost". Art added that in this country we have freedom of speech, of press, of religion, of property, of free enterprise, and of choice. But this freedom does not come free.

Too many of us have taken for granted that this freedom does come free, that we don't have to fight for it, that we don't have to pay for it; but these people are wrong. In United States, we enjoy the highest standard of living, we have a good climate, a large supply of resources, good navigation and two political parties. In our country the State is the servant of the people. We produce more than we consume and we also have education for all.

Mauch, however, pointed out that there are some weaknesses to our system of government. We have booms and depression, we have a public debt that is increasing tremendously, we put shackles on efficiency, sometimes government is by pressure groups, we have combersom machinery to change gears in a national emergency and we take for granted that freedom is free. Today we are fighting Russian imperilism.

* * *

WE ARE ALSO FIGHTING socialism and economic collapse from within. In 1902 the government owned 7 percent of the property in the United States, in 1929 the government owned 9 percent of the property but in 1949 the government owned 20 percent of all the property in the United States. Art gave several suggestions in regards to controlling inflation. Some of these were cutting nonessential government expenditures, increase production and prices and wage control.

THE SPECIAL edition of the Charlevoix Courier put out last week contains many fine articles on the various fields of agriculture written by various men who have had experience in these fields. Those who did not get a copy of this special edition can do so by either calling at the county agents office or the Charlevoix Courier. There is no charge as part of the Courier's farm service program.

Ed. Shanahan takes pride in these Herford cows which ho recently purchased as foundation stock for a good herd of "white-faced" beef cattle.

ORCHARD NOTES

By Claude Fairman

Considerable more new plantings of cherry trees are going in around the Hortons Bay area as well as farther inland. More new plantings are planned for around Bay Shore.

Large bearing orchards on the upland on the south side of Lake Charlevoix are planting more each year.

Some 3000 Montmorency cherry trees will be planted within a short distance of our farm. There will be an increasing demand for pickers and other workers as well as machinery and other supplies.

There are 80 or more acres of Montmorency cherry trees just nicely coming into bearing at the Smith orchards at Cheboygan..

The trees are doing nicely although they do not have the quality of land that we have. Our trees grow larger and live longer. Smith's have a 500 acre orchard, apples and all.

Sometimes their trees ripen up with a dry spell in August or September and then start to grow again in October, which is bad. Too much cannot be said for our soil and climate.

When no dew follows a hot day, rain may be expected.

How Much Will Your Cow Earn?

What will a cow averaging 2 gallons of 4% milk per day make you?

Less than nothing according to the USDA. She is only a 200 pound butterfat cow. And the 1949 USDA figures show that these low producers don't pay their way.

This 200 pound cow ate $131 worth of feed, but the feed cost is only a part of the cost. Last year it cost about $75 in addition to feed and labor to keep a cow. And at last years average of 65 cents per pound for butterfat, she produced $130 worth of butterfat.

A $131 feed cost plus $75 other cost equal $206 total cost. That is $76 more than the value of the butterfat she produced.

But lets look at our own area.

The MSC farm business analysis for this area shows that with 7.3 cows per farm, we average $224 per cow in dairy products sold. And the Charlevoix-Antrim DHIA average for last year was: 8408 pounds of milk, 331 pounds of BF, valued at $293.29 with a feed cost of $118.07.

Iowa show that in terms of profit for the year a 200 pound cow is a loss, a 300 pound cow makes $65, a 400 pound cow is worth two 300 pound, a 500 pound three 300 pound, and a 600 pound cow is worth 4½ 300 pound cows.

So what can we do to improve this picture for ourselves?

1. We can cull out the poor producers by testing and replace them with good cows. For example, Jason Van Zant sold two poor cows and bought one grade Jersey of known production from Mr. Luckenbill who was changing over to purebred Jerseys. This cow produced 10,180 pounds of milk, and 626.5 pounds of butterfat last year, and more than paid for herself.

2. Or, if we don't want to sell and buy, we can raise our own replacements from our better cows by testing and using good bulls, especially such bulls as are used in the Artificial Breeding Association. According to Mr. A. C. Baltzer, MSC extension dairyman, with low producing herds, under good care and management, milk production can be doubled in one or two generations.

You ask how. Lets see how?

Spot produces 200 pounds of butterfat per year and is bred to an ABA bull with a 102 pound plus index based on a comparison of at least five mother-daughter records with the mothers averaging 415 pounds of butterfat per year. The daughter from this mating is apt to produce more than 300 pounds of butterfat per year. This heifer is bred to another ABA bull equally as good. The offspring, if a heifer, might be a 400 pound cow.

Does It Pay to Feed
A Balanced Ration?

Ask the farmer who makes a profit on his livestock and poultry and the answer is sure to be yes.

You can buy cheap feeds but in doing so you will lose more in production than the saving you get on the feed bill.

Farm Bureau M.V.P. Concentrate is the only poultry feed in its class that carries more pounds per ton of animal protein than does soy bean or oil meal. It make's music in your hen house and eggs in the nests.

Bureau Lass, a comparatively new 30% dairy concentrate, has a strong following among dairymen who watch their feed costs and are out to get production. It's equally popular among beef cattle men.

Milkmaker 34% is an old favorite. Milkmaker at present prices is a lot cheaper than single protein concentrates when health and production are taken into consideration.

IT HAPPENED ON .... BEAVER ISLAND

By Mrs. J. C. Hanley

Sure, and it will take a special blessing from St. Patrick for the Irish on Beaver Island to properly celebrate the occassion of his feast day this year. At this writing, the flu germ is running rampant and the sick list is long. However, if an Irishman has a leg to stand on, he'll be out attending Mass on Patrick's Day a-wearin' the green.

For the past three weeks, a picked cast from the high school students have been rehearsing a three act Irish play to be presented on the eve of St. Patrick's Day in the Parish Hall. The play is under the direction of Sister Leanora, principal of St. James schools.

At present, Sister Leanora is a flu victim. She has been ill since Friday evening. Several members of the cast are also ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnson, Ludington, made a one day business trip to the island Monday.

Joe Sendenburg flew to Charlevoix Monday to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law, George La Blance.

John Ricksgers left Wednesday for jury duty in Charlevoix.

Gus Mielke and his crew are building a 44 ft. long and 24 ft. wide boat house for Roger Carlisle, facing the harbor in front of the King Strang Hotel. A good looking cruiser will occupy the boat house after navigation season opens.

The Shamrock Tavern is getting it's face lifted and the new look is dazzling. Archie LaFreniere assisted by Joe Dillingham are doing the work. The walls are being tinted a pale shade of green. Knotty pine panels in natural color complete the trim.

Max Sonderegger, better known as "Captain Perch" went hunting last week, but not with a gun. Max had a shovel. The "Captain" explored the area around Paul Heltin's place, cleared about two feet of snow in a chosen area and unearthed all the wiggle worms his coffee can could hold.

Mrs. John Martin left Wednesday for Charlevoix to meet her son, Sheldon. They will drive to Flint to visit Mrs. Martin's daughter, Mary Helen.

Mrs. Herman Pischner returned to the island Wednesday after a stay in the hospital and a few weeks spent with her sister in Charlevoix, Mrs. Erwin Belfy.

Ed Burke was taken to Little Traverse Hospital Thursday.

Ray Cull left Friday to report for the sailing season.

Billy O'Donnell returned to Chicago Friday. Accompaning him was Mr. and Mrs. James "the boy" O' Donnell. The O'Donnell's plan to remain in Chicago until after Easter visiting their sons and daughters.

Mrs. James R. Gallagher left Saturday to visit her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burhans in Owosso.

All Beaver Islanders were saddened by the sudden death of Glenn See. Only two weeks ago, Mr. See spent several days on the island visiting among his many friends. To his family—our deepest sympathy.

Archie and Vernon LaFreniere left Saturday to attend the funeral of Mr. See.

Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Willie Schmidt and daughter, Mrs. Charles Welke, returned to the island.

Mrs. Irene LaFreniere returned to her home Saturday. Her daughter and children, Mrs. Teddy Wojan, returned Sunday.

Mrs. Bob McDonough and infant daughter, returned to the island Sunday afternoon.

Larry Cull left the island Sunday to return to his army base, Camp Polk, La. Larry looks fine in his uniform.

Beaver Isle Woman Joins Coyote Hunt

Beaver Island—Mrs. Lawrence Davison has the distinction of being the first woman on Beaver Island and probably the first woman in northern Michigan to kill a coyote.

With her husband and a party of hunters Mrs Davison made the kill near Sand Bay where she took her stand. The hunters were placed at intervals in a dozen acre area determined by fresh tracks while the hounds went around. The coyote was rushed out into the open and with the aim of a veteran hunter Mrs Davison dropped the animal.

A lover of outdoor sports, Mrs. Davison has hunted on many occasions. During the past deer season, she was out with her gun until the last day of the season trying to drop a buck, but with no luck. Getting the coyote somewhat compensates for the lack of luck during deer season and definitely establishes her as a "first lady" on the Beavers.

Highway Lighting

Better highway lighting is needed to reduce night accidents. Not only would it increase visibility, but it would reduce headlight glare caused by bright lights on dark highways.

Returned to Island For Last Rites

Mrs Willie O'Donnell, who died early Tuesday morning at Little Traverse Hospital, was brought to the island Tuesday afternoon by Joe McPhillips. Funeral services were held Thursday morning at Holy Cross, Father Giles officiating.

Besides her husband, Mrs. O'Donnell is survived by two brothers, Robert and James Burns, Ecorse, Michigan, four sons Billy, Chicago; Francis, Jack and Bobby, St. James; two daughters, Mrs Elton Pischner, Mrs. Jewel Gillespie, eleven grandchildren.

Mrs. Frank Hall and Mrs. Frank Near, Detroit, sisters of Mrs. O'Donnell, arrived Wednesday to attend the funeral.

Cpl. George T. James

Cpl. George T. James, 20, son of Mrs. Grace Sheldon of Boyne City, is now listed as killed in action in Korea. His family was notified earlier that he was missing in action with the Second Infantry Division.

King Richard

The modern butcher would have loved King Richard the Lion-Hearted for a steady customer. Richard, who ruled England about 1190 A. D., would take a whole leg of lamb in his fist and eat it at a sitting.

Watch Out For The "Blind-Spots"

Stopped by Squint Miller's farm the other day and saw a vinegar bottle in his kitchen with an oversized cucumber inside it. The cucumber filled the whole bottle.

"What's a cucumber doing in there?" I asked him. "That's my 'blind-spot' reminder," says Squint. "My grandmother kept one in her kitchen to remind her to take stock of herself now and then.

"I slipped that bottle over the cucumber when it was just starting to grow on the vine," he went on. "And like certain viewpoints, not noticed, it just grew and grew—now it's there to stay."

From where I sit, we could take a cue from Squint and watch for our own "blind-spots" and prejudices before they grow too big to get rid of. We've got to respect our neighbor's right to his preferences ... preferences for a certain make of car, a favorite movie star, or a temperate glass of beer after work. We won't be tripped by any blind spots if we keep our eyes—and minds—open!

Two Rayders Place On All-conference Team

The Charlevoix Rayders, conference and district basketball champions, placed two players on the northern Michigan Class C All-Conference team announced this week by the coaches of the league. A third Charlevoix player was given honorable mention.

They are Charles Fairbanks who is making his third appearance on the All-Conference selection and Bill Wallace who was named to the team for the second year. Tom Donaldson was given honorable mention.

All other teams in the loop placed at least one player among the first ten.

Because of the wealth of available material coaches for the first time voted to name the best ten players rather than a first and second team. Players were selected for their all-round ability regardless of the position played.

Others named to the first ten were: Bryan Boring and Don Whiteford of East Jordan; Keith Emerson of Pellston; Warren Haven of Harbor Springs; Bernie Kuras of Gaylord; Ted Mason and Bill Saffran of Boyne City and Ernie Wilcox of Mancelona.

All are seniors but Whiteford, Emerson and Wilcox who are juniors.

Boring is making his second appearance on the all-star team. Emerson, Mason and Saffran received honorable mention last season.

Others receiving honorable mention this year are: Larry Erickson of Boyne City, Jim Schreur of Gaylord; Jim Snively of Harbor Springs and Max Sommerville of East Jordan. All are seniors but Schreur who is a junior.

John Hilderley of Mancelona was named president of the N.M.C.C. coaches association at the meeting which was held in Boyne City. Gayle Saxton of East Jordan was elected vice president and Ray L. Kipke of Charlevoix secretary-treasurer.

The date for the 1051 conference track and field meet at Charlevoix was set for May 12 with Boyne City, Harbor Springs, Mancelona and Charlevoix participating. Gaylord and East Jordan may participate.

The 1951-52 basketball schedule was OK'd with the conference season opening Nov. 30. All but one game will be played on Friday next season, it was announced.

Schools having baseball teams will include East Jordan, Boyne City, Pellston, Gaylord and Mancelona. Each team will play once for the conference championship.

Golden Wedding for Mr. & Mrs. C. E. Scott

Mr. and Mrs. C. Edward Scott will observe their golden wedding anniversary at an open house Monday at their home at 110 West Upright ave.

Friends and relatives will call during the afternoon and evening to offer their congratulatios.

The couple was married in Charlevoix March 26, 1901 by tha late Rev. Mr. McCartney. They have resided in the Norwood and Charlevoix communities since then.

It is difficult to realize Mr. and Mrs. Scott are old enough to celebrate a golden wedding anniversary for both are very active.

Mrs. Scott not only does all her own housework but knits and crochets in all her spare time. There are few people in the community who do not have something she has knit or crocheted.

• • •

Mr. Scott is equally as active. Since retiring as maintenance man at the Charlevoix public schools in 1948 he has devoted his time to gardening and furnishes his entire family with garden prnduce.

Mr. Scott was born in Mayville Tuscola county, Aug. 17, 1876, and came to northern Michigan from Battle Creek 54 years ago to work in the lumber woods. Following his marriage he operated a farm in the Norwood area until moving to Charlevoix in 1919. He was employed in the lumber mill for several years before becoming maintenance man at the school in 1930. The family has lived in their present home since 1922.

Mrs. Scott is the former Anna G. Oosterbaan. She was born in the Netherlands, June 4, 1880, and came to Michigan with her parents at the age of one year. A few years later they came to Ellsworth where she was reared.

The couple has five children, Mrs. Stanley Preston of Kalamazoo, Mrs. William Supernaw and Mrs. Clifford Gregory of this city, Peter of Escanaba and Charles of Honolulu. They also have six grandchildren.

Play Concert to Send Band to State Festival

The Charlevoix Band Parents association will sponsor the annual concert by the Charlevoix high school band and the Charlevoix city band, Mrs. Joseph Smith, president of the organization has announced, following a meeting held Friday evening.

The concert featuring the two musical groups will be presented at the high school auditorium at 8 p.m. Thursday, March 29, under the direction of C. A. Odmark.

Primary purposo of the ticket driva is to provide funds to finance tho high school band's trip to Ann Arbor in April to participate in the State Band and Orchestra festival. The Charlevoix band was tha only Class C band in tho area to qualify for tha state meet which will be held April 21.

The concert will present the high school band playing popular band numbers, marches, novelties, ect., in addition to numbers to be played at Ann Arbor. Also included will be a demonstration of the sight-reading portion of the festival at which the band plays at sight a march and an overture. The music for this will be presented to the band by Max Smith of Petoskey and former local band director.

The City band will present the last half of the program. This band, which rehearses weekly throughout the year, is a volunteer group which combine their talents to present a series of summer concerts in East Park.

In addition to this the City band provides a valuable laboratory for the selected members of the high school band who are also members of the City band. It is here that much of the valuable reading experience the high school members receive is obtained, for in these rehearsals music is read that the average high school musician would never experience.

Complete details of the concert will appear next week. Tickets can be obtained from the Band parents.

Easter Assurance

Rev. Harold F. Krach
Bethany Lutheran Church

"The Son of Man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again." Saint Luke 24·7

What a glorious assurance Christ's resurrection gives! It proves, first of all, that He is indeed the Son of God, the Almighty Himself, for no mere man has ever been able to come forth from the grave. Only the Lord of Lords could truely say of His own life, "I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again," and only He could give Himself into death for the sins of men and on the third doy return to rodiant life. You see, then, how all-important it is that the Church today kneel before the victoriously risen Redeemer, and call Him, as Thomas did, "My Lord and my God." A merely human Christ can never be a resurrected Redeemer, nor help you in death's hour.

The Easter evangle is the seal of assurance on oll of Christ's teaching, for it shows that He spoke the truth and kept His word. What man can give us unfailing assurance for the heavy problems before us? We must pay for our unbelief, our ingratitude, our forgetfulness of God. Only divine mercy can save us from facing money shortages, political disaster and the woes of atomic war. Only a repentant, reverent, God fearing nation can enjoy the promise of divine blessing. If Jesus kept His word in rising from the grave, He will olso keep His word in rising up to rebuke and destroy those who oppose Him.

Christ's resurrection testifies that His self-sacrifice for the sins of the world has been fully accepted. Had He remained in the tomb, had His body moldered in a Palestinian grave, His death on the cross would havo meant no more for us than tho murder of 10,000 martyrs in any age of persecution. No man can save you from your sins, even by his death. All the grave stones in the world, were they merged together into a mighty monument of many million parts, would not induce the Almighty to forgive a single sin which has stained your life. Only God could fully atone for your transgressions, and only God could break the bonds of death to prove Himself your Lord. If Good Friday with, the voice of final victory from the cross, "It is finished," assures you that everything required for your release from sin has been completed forever, then Easter gives you tho divine guarantee: death is defeated, sin is vanquished, hell is overcome, Christ has conquered. God has accepted the sacrifice of His own Son for the sins of the world: Hallelujah.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

We like the slogon for the ticket sale for the annual band concert . . . held to send the band to Ann Arbor . . . Everyone is so proud when the band brings home a one rating . . . the best there is . . . from the qualifying contest so how about showing that pride by purchasing a ticket . . .

And speaking of the band, Mr. Odmark has started a fourth group in music . . . in the sixth grade . . . we wondered where the band instruments come from and were we surprised when we hear . . . one youngster came in with a trombone his uncle in Grand Rapids had used . . . another with a flute an aunt had once played . . . ond a third with a sax that hasn't been manufactured in 30 yeors . . . but they're still good and they're getting a work-out like they've never had before . . . so if you've been worried about our future bands, you can stop right now . . . and you'll see what we mean when they appear in a concert in May . . .

• • •

AND DON'T forget to get tho Easter bonnet out for harring a snowstorm (which is possible), rain and other northern Michigan hazards, you'll hove an opportunity to woar it this Sunday . . . And did you know that Easter won't come this early again until the next century . . . So thot's a long time? . . . not so long, just 40 years . . .

I hope you kids have ali been good . . . We've seen a lot of nice things the bunny rabbit could bring you if you are deserving and we'd hate to see you miss ali of them . . . in fact we'd hate to miss 'em . . . We don't know if you agree or not but we think the young fry todoy are awful lucky . . . What with all the clever things for Easter and what have you . . . Gee, to be a kid ogain . . . a perfect excuse to get some of those candy Easter eggs that look so good . . . and the cute Easter bunnies and chickens.

• • •

Another one of those cards arrived in the mail the other day . . . this one from Juniper Springs Fla., where the temperature wns 75 degrees and the Charlevoix gang was having a picnic in honor of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. P. R. Ross and Mrs. Jerry Conley . . . And who was there? . . Linda Campbell, Laura Courier, Mrs. Sadie Oldham, the E. J. Smiths, the George Emreys, Walt and Marge Wells, the Rosses, Lynn and Helen Bristol, the Conleys and the A. Sydney Edwards . . . Can't you just picture that crew soaking up the sunshine and tan while we slave in the snow up here . . . just so they can get their Courier each week . . .

And who says our little ole Courier doesn't get around . . . in the mail Monday came a letter from Martha Logan who presented the cooking school here last month . . . She had received a clipping about the school which had been sent to her by Mrs. Albert A. Schaerer of Stuart, Fla. who has a summer home on the Boyne City road . . . And she's (Martha Logan) is sending a packet of various recipe books which will make us droll, she's assured us . . . She also mentioned coming north in June for more cooking schools . . . and, as she puts it, we are looking forward to returning to the land of gracious people! . . . Let's hope, too that the weather will be better than it was in February . . .

• • •

MRS. PAUL Schantz out Norwood-way called the other day to tell us there were 19 deer in their orchard . . . she thought at first the neighbors cows were out but after a second look she discovered what it was . . . And it wasn't even hunting season, she added . . . Seems this is the time of year the deer travel in herds . . or at least when one sees them . . Jim Martin reported seeing about 70 near Camp Charlevoix and several others have told us of similar herds . . . Why can't they do that when we're around . . . we who've never seen one little old deer in the open . . .

And just when we get to saying the J. B. John when speaking of the Petoskey Portland Cement Co. boat, they changed the name of it to John L. A. Galster . . . A nicer fellow we can't imagine to name a boat for . . . but it's such a long name . . .

IT HAPPENED ON . . . .
BEAVER ISLAND

By Mrs. J. C. Henley

The directors of the Beaver Island Transit Company have announced the schedule of the North Shore for the coming season. After navigation opens until June 20, the ferry will leave the island at 8 a.m. leave Charlevoix at 1:30 p.m. After June 20 until Labor Day, the ferry will leave Charlevoix at 9 a.m. and leave the island at 2:30 p.m. The fall schedule will be the same as the spring.

Holy Week services have been announced by Father Giles. Holy Thursday, Mass at 8 a.m. with procession of the Blessed Sacrament; evening devotions, 7 p.m. Good Friday, Mass of the Presontified at 8 a.m.; Way of tho Cross, 2:30 p.m. Services Saturday morning beginning at 7 a.m. Easter Sunday, Masses, 9 ond 11 a.m.

About half the population of Beaver Island wos down with tho flu last week. Wednesday morning, only twenty-five pupils were in attendance at school. It was decided to dismiss school for the remainder of the week.

Lenten devotions were canceled Wednesdoy evening. Father Giles waa a victim of the flu.

Jack Johnson, Ludington, came to the Island last week in the interest of the Beaver Lodge. Work on the Lodge is going right along. A third floor has heen added to the building.

Thomas Schmidt left the Island Tuesday to answer the call of Uncle Sam. The best of luck, Tom!

St. James Township caucus was held Tuesday afternoon in the Parish hall. Those nominated were: Lawrence Malloy, supervisor; Elston Pischner, clerk; Mrs. Walter Wojan and Charles Kleinhenz, treasurer.

Quite a bit of activity centered around the harbor last week. Gus Mielke and his crew resumed on the new dock near the mill and Vernon LaFreniere began making repairs on the NorthShore's dock.

The ice is still solid in the harbor. The fish shanties remain, but fishing has been very poor for the most part this winter. Max Sonderegger, however, managed to hook same beautiful twelve inch perch with his can of wiggle worms.

Bruce McDonough and Emmet Schmidt returned to the Island Wednesday after visiting in Detroit and Grand Rapids.

Dominic Gallagher, who has not been feeling well since having the flu, left Wednesday for Chicago to enter the Marine Hospital. He was accompanied by Coast Guardsman Wesley Koran, BM 1 (L) whose destination is Racine, Wis. to visit his family.

Ed Burke returned from Little Traverse hospital Thursday. Ed is back in the "pink" and behind the wheel of taxi once more.

Jack Burke is climbing the navigation ladder after spending the winter months studying for a better rating. Jack got there alright. He now has a third mates rating.

Clarence Sikorski, BMC (L) who has been stationed at the Coast Guord station for the past three years has been transfered to Loraine, Ohio. Somera C. Wright, BMC (L) has arrived to take over Sikorski's duties as chief of the stotion.

Bob Stalnecker has been transfered from the Beaver Island Coast Guard station to Racine, Wis.

Sylvester Howard performed some fancy tricks in his plane Saturday over the harbor and then took off for his home in Jackson for a visit.

The big question for the past several months hos heen, what is "The Thing"? Well, tho problem has been solved. It's right here on Beaver Island. The monstrocity arrived last Thursday and the Irish are yelling "Get it out of here!" As you know, the sight of orange on or near St. Patrick's Day makes a true son of Erin see red. This "thing" a large shamrock cut out of plywood with the inscription "The Top of the Mornin' to Ed" was painted a bright oronge and came exposed by mail from some mysterious person down Ypsilanti. It was addressed to Ed Greene. Evidently Ed has not recouperated from the shock as this was one St. Pat's Day he was not seen in the village doing a little celebrating.

The Irish play "The Raso of Kildare" was postponed until a later date due to so much sickness.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kennedy and children came to the village to celebrate their first St. Patrick's Day on the Island. Patrick and Teresa are getting along fine and making many friends among the Islanders.

Mrs. Gus Mielke was taken to Little Traverse hospital Sunday morning. Mrs. Mielke, who has been in ill health for some time, contracted the flu and she was very sick.

It's Monday morning and it's snowing thick and fost. And we were just beginning to walk around on the good earth once more. It looks like an all day affair with the sky gray and heavy, a regular winter day.

Haile Selassie claimed descent from Solomon and the Queen of Sheba.

Our Congressmam COMMENTS

By Charles Potter

This is your Congressman Charles E. Potter reporting again to you from our Nation's Capital. I am most appreciative of my colleague, Congressman Clare Hoffman, for pinch-hitting for me last week, when during the House recess I fulfilled speaking engagements in the states of Iowa and Washington.

A few weeks ago I reported to you on the shipment of natural rubber by Great Britain to Russia while we were curtailing the use of natural rubber here in the United States. Even a member of the British Parliament protested his government's shipping to Red China as of February 10th two shipments of natural rubber valued at $9,8000,000 enrout to Singapore and Canton via Hongkong.

Our so-called allies are still trading critical materials to communist countries. The Administration through its Defense Mobilization Office has barred the use of copper and aluminum in hundreds of American-made appliances, particularly home appliances used in American kitchens several times a day. The Mobilization Office in announcing the restrictions on the use of copper and aluminum said that these metals were scarce. They did not say, however, that one of the reasons they were scarce was because more than $28,000,000 in copper and aluminum had been given to European nations by the Economic Cooperation Agency.'

In confirming such large amounts of scarce materials had been sent overseas, ECA officials disclosed that there are no restrictions on how the copper is to be used in Europe, whether for bullets or ashtrays or whether the aluminum goes into airplanes or candy wrappers. A further inquiry revealed that a large shipment of this copper which was originally consigned to one of the Netherland countries went from there to communist-controlled Czechoslovakia. It was also disclosed that a shipment of copper was made from the United Kingdom to communist China three months after the port of Hongkong had ceased such shipments and seven weeks after the British government announced it was bringing the shipment of critical materials to Red China.

How much longer is the United States Government going to allow our so-called foreign friends and allies to continue trading with the enemy?

The American people will not condone the United States Government being on both sides of the communist issue. We are at the present time drafting men from American homes and sending them to Korea to fight the communists of North Korea and China, and, at the very same time aiding other nations not only with money but goods, while these nations continue to trade with the enemy.

It is time for the United States to assume some two-fisted leadership — the type of leadership that Teddy Roosevelt would have provided in dealing with our International affairs.

Poll Reveals 380 Deer Bagged in Area

LANSING—Special western Michigan deer season held in December produced a kill of only about 2,130 animals, nearly 50 percent fewer than in 1949, according to a preliminary tabluation by the conservation department.

Poll cards were sent to about 11,000 of the 21,800 hunting permit holders and over half of them have been returned so far.

Preliminary breakdown of hunters and their kill indicates 2,574 area A hunters bagged 380 deer—Charlevoix, Antrim and northern Grand Traverse counties.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

Michigan is getting closer to a fair employment practices law. Although Democratic efforts failed in the last regular session, Rep. Louis Cramton (R-Lapeer) now has submitted an F.E.P.C. bill which apparently transcends partisan politics.

The state-national civil defense program has not bogged down but there is dissention between Lansing and Washington. Millard Caldwell, federal CD administrator, urges the state legislature to create a "basic civil defense structure."

Brig. Gen. Lester J. Maitland, head of the state's program, says' federal efforts are wallowing in bureaucracy. Caldwell hopes to get $250,000,000 in federal funds to match state appropriations.

THE AMERICAN Meat Institute of Food Distribution says, "aggressive retailers are advertising more special prices than 30 days ago," and that this competition will be more effective in keeping food prices down than the legal controls ordered by Washington.

In the larger cities buyer resistance to meat prices has packing houses in a tizzy. Officials have been meeting to decide what to do about their bulging cold rooms. They could drop prices.

Michigan's automobile industry is making no predictions. Word around Detroit is "we should be able to do very well until June or July. Nobody knows after that."

POLITICS ALREADY. Will Fred M. Alger, Jr., run for governor in 1952. He hints as much. He probably would have opposed Williams in the last election but he waited too long to get into the primary waiting for higher G.O.P. word.

And concerning the presidency? Only one thing seems to be certain. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower is popular today with the voters. He is liked in Michigan as in the remainder of the Midwest.

Leap year is more than a joke to the government. Due in 1952 again, the 366-day year will cost taxpayers an extra $167,000 for the additional day's pay to federal employees, according to Michigan's Senator Furguson.

Tin stockpiling has stopped officially for the time being, while the government tries to beat down the price. But the federal government now is the sole importer of the metal unless special permission is granted private firms.

THE STATE PAID $27,190 in bounties during January. Payments were made on 5,240 foxes, 52 coyotes, 17 bobcats and one wolf. Except for six coyotes, all animals bountied were taken in the upper peninsula.

Following the escape of 11 more inmates at the Boys Vocational school in Lansing, city officials waxed wrathful. Says one Lansing councilman: "The legislature should take action to confine the youngsters at the institution or get the darned thing out of here."

The "little Hoover commission" still is kicking up dust in Michigan. Latest recommendations ask creation of a stronger and more centralized state treausry department. This department would absorb the present revenue department, state board of escheats, gasoline tax division of the secretary of state's office, municipal finance commission and part of the auditor general's office.

But state officials aren't too alarmed. Says one worker: "It sounds good in theory . . . but could they set up the new department and would it work?"

ANOTHER bugaboo of the legislature has breathed its last for another year or two. The possibility of a four year term for Michigan governors has been swamped by a bi-partisan vote in the house of representatives. Long sought by governors . . . and others . . . the question will rise again, be assured.

Did you know that the legislature, due to constitutional earmarking of funds, has control of only 36 per cent of the state's general fund, that more than 78 per cent of the sales tax revenue is permanently diverted to schools, cities, villages and townships? That's why the legislature is having such a tough time trying to find a new source of revenue as inflation mounts the cost of public services and as remaining state funds are more and more restricted.

Commercial Fishing Dropping Off In Some Species

Lansing — Commercial fishermen working the Michigan waters of the Great Lakes hauled in nearly 11 percent fewer fish last year.

The total catch was about 22,778,000 pounds as compared to the 1949 harvest of 25,534,000 pounds, according to a conservation department near-final report.

Production was up slightly for yellow pike, smelt and carp but down for all other major species.

Lake herring again accounted for the largest catch, 6,594,000 pounds, or about 1,877,000 pounds less than the 8,471,000 pounds recorded in 1949. Lake Michigan produced about half the total. The Lake Superior haul of about 1,623,000 pounds, a decline of nearlp 00 percent, was mainly due to poor late December fishing weather.

Repeating in 1950 as second best in production was the whitefish. Crop was 2,701,000 pounds as compared to 4,041,000 pounds before. Lake Michigan was responsible for all except 007,000 pounds. This lake produced 3,007,000 pounds in 1949.

Chubs showed a slight drop from 2,576,000 pounds to 2,432,000 pounds last year. Lake Michigan fishermen pulled in all except 104,000 pounds.

Lake trout harvest in Lake Superior was up some, 2,365,000 pounds as against 2,181,000 pounds before, but the total Michigan Great Lakes catch was down a little. The 1950 total was 2,390,000 pounds as compared to 2,405,000 pounds before. Lamprey-scarred lake trout are appearing more often in Lake Superior nets. The other lakes have produced practically nothing in lake trout the last two years.

Church Group To Show Movie

"Again-Pioneers!" a motion picture blending spiritual and human insight, has been secured for showing at the Church of God, at 8 p.m. Tuesday evening, March 27, according to Rev. W. D. Wood.

Rev. Wood describes the picture as a heart-probing story of how Ken Keeler found the solution to his problems when he was selected to rid the community of the menace of a "shack-town" of migrants on the outskirts of the city. His experience brings him a new outlook on life.

Deer Losses May Be Larger Than in '50

Lansing — Unless the winter breaks early this year, the Michigan deer herd will have larger losses than last season, judging from latest conservation department field reports.

Upper peninsula deer, although restricted to the yards, are getting along fairly well. But lower peninsula whitetails, especially younger ones, appear to be feeling the adverse effects of the more severe winter. Reports of starved deer are increasing in the Mio district and losses are expected in the Traverse City district. Game men in the Baldwin and Gladwin areas file similar reports.

Above the Straits snow depth ranged from 1.2 to as high as 3.4 feet in the Baraga district. In the northern lower peninsula the range was from .6 of a foot to over two feet in the Traverse City district.

Bath Towels

Changes Expected in 1951 Fishing Laws

Lansing — The conservation commission will recommend to the state legislature several changes in Michigan fishing laws which can mean good news to anglers.

Proposed changes are the results of studies and the experimental lake program carried out by the conservation department's institute for fisheries research.

If the legislature approves, fishermen will be able to fish throughout the year below highway M-48 for those species on which the season is not closed. This regulation currently is in effect in the upper and northern lower peninsulas.

Anglers also would have a simultaneous season opening on trout, bluegills, sunfish, northern pike, walleyes and muskellunge on the second Saturday in May; a bass season opening the third Saturday in June instead of June 25; an opening of the Great Lakes and tributary portions (normally open to fall rainbow fishing) to fishing rainbow trout commencing the second Saturday in April; and a reduction in the daily creel limit on trout to 10 on treams and five on lakes.
